ance is the centre and southwestern section of the State. Several townships lie immediately on the Missouri and Platte rivers, and all of it is well watered, commanding ready access to Markets. The soil in Missouri, it is well known, is as fine as any in the world, yielding in great abundance, tobacco, corn, wheat, oats, and all the small grains; besides which, rich lead and iron ores are frequently found in great quantities.

Upwards of three and a half millions of acres in Arkansas are proclaimed, lying in detached bodies in almost every part of the State. Part of this land is on the Mississippi, St. Francis, White, Ouchita and Sabine rivers, and all of it is well watered by those streams and their tributaries, those flowing into their tributaries, and those flowing into the Arkansas and Red rivers. The soil is exceedingly fertile, the timber of the very best quality, and so interspersed with prairies, that a valuable farm may be put in cultivation at a trifling expense. In the Northern section of the State wheat is cultivated with great advantage, while cotton is found to grow to perfection in the South. Vast crops of Indian corn can be raised in any part of the State, and, the whole country is well calculated for raising cattle. The products of the farms, of whatever character, can easily be transported to the Mississippi by means of its numerous tributaries, where a market can at all times be found. The medicinal virtues of the hot springs of Arkansas, near which some of these lands lie, are becoming extensively known and every year invalids from all parts of the country resort thither to avail themselves of their sanative properties.

In Mississippi near 300,000 acres are offered, lying near the boundary between that State and Alabama, contiguous also to gulf coast, the Bay of Biloxi, and on Pearl river. These lands are well adapted to the cultivation of sugar, cotton, corn, and fruits of every character, being rich alluvion; & being near the Gulf of Mexico, the prevalence of the sea breezes tempers the heat of summer, and produces a most genial, delighful and healthy climate.

Upwards of a million and a quarter of acres in Florida are also embraced by these proclamations, part lying between Tampa Bay and the Gulf coast, part on and near the Withlacoochie river and its branches, and by far the greater portion on the St. John's, Kissimie, St. Lucie, and Indian rivers, Key Biscayne Bay, Jupiter and Hillsboro' inlets—embracing, in fact, most of the Atlantic border South of the Musquito lagoon. These are among the fines lands in the world, yielding abundantly al the necessaries and luxuries of life. Cotton and sugar of the finest quality are produced, and are not subject to damage from frost. The tobacco raised is said to be equal to the finest Cuba; oranges of the most delicious flavor and extraordinary size are also grown, far surpassing those of the West Indies; whilst corn and all the Topical fruits and plants flourish in great perfection. This is, in fact, the ancient El Dorado, where it was supposed a river could be found the waters of which would impart continual youth and beauty, if not the spot where the cavaliers of Spain sought for the fountains of perpetual health; & when the fertility of the soil and salubrity of the climate are considered, this idea will not be considered entirely preposterous.

It may be proper to state, further, that the lands embraced in these proclamations, including every variety of soil and climate from the Northern part of Wisconsin to the Southern extreme of Florida—abounding, also in game and wild fowl of every description, which can be had for the mere trouble of taking—present natural advantages in every point of view which render them a most valuable investment not only to the hardy settlers, who may now secure their homes under the pre-emption privilege secured to them by a just and beneficent legislation, but to all who may desire hereafter to make their homes in the fruitful valleys of the West.

POWER OF IMAGINATION.—An amusing incident recently occurred at William's College, which is thus related by a correspondent of the Springfield (Mass.) Gazette.

The professor of chemistry, while administering in the course of his lectures the protoxide of nitrogen, or, as it is commonly called, laughing gas, in order to ascertain how great an influence the imagination had in producing the effects consequent on respiring it, secretly filled the India-rubber gas bag with common air, instead of gas. It was taken without suspicion, and the effects, if anything, were more powerful than upon those who had readily breathed the pure gas. One complained that it produced nausea and dizziness, another immediately manifested pugilistic propensities, and before he could be restrained, tore in pieces the coat of one of the bystanders, while a third exclaimed, "this is life; I never enjoyed it before." The laughter that followed the exposure of this gaseous trick may be imagined.

Sir Humphrey Davy, being once about administering this gas to a person afflicted with paralysis, applied the bulb of a thermometer to his mouth, in order to ascertain the temperature of his system. The patient, being ignorant of the manner of taking the gas, felt instant relief, and, by holding the thermometer a short time longer in his mouth, a complete and permanent cure was effected.—Springfield Gazette.

"The love of money is the root of all evil"; and a close observer of passing events will see illustrations of the truth of the above extract from the Holy Writ every day of his life. The grovelling passion of avarice, the engrossing desire to be rich, is hostile to every feeling of philanthropy, and threatens the immolation of social virtue. It is a vortex which threatens to swallow every remnant and vestige of innocence and virtue. It sours the disposition, corrodes the moral feelings, and depresses the spirits; it corrupts intercourse and destroys confidence. The votaries of avarice, to gratify their longings, will betray their friends, their conscience, their country, and their God. An old fashioned writer thus speaks of the effects witnessed in this goodly city, many years ago, of this eager longing for wealth, this "love of money."—Boston Journal."

"Look round this city, and show me where breathes the human being in it whose hopes and fears, wishes and thoughts, are not almost wholly occupied with wealth. The merchant flies after it through all the mazes of the day, and dreams of nothing else even in his night of sleep. Our old men whose heads blossom white with the silvery chaplets of age, are constantly plotting schemes of gain. Our youth pant after it as manna from heaven. Our magistrates and legislators lend it their profound homage, and woman, 'Heaven's last best gift to man,' spurns at those who have it not. And though all say it is villianous to prefer money to virtue, all grasp at money to let virtue take care of itself.

"It has been said that the Americans will sell any thing for money; that rather than miss a good trade, some of them would sell their wives: And as for the women, it is agreed on all hands that they go for the money in the first instance; so that no one is surprised to hear that they would sell their husbands, it it were in their power to do so. It is not for the want of inclination that this has not been already done, but rather for the want of power. The love of money rages with such violence, now a days it has been said by one of the first men of our country that, 'we would sell brimstone to the devil to make money,' and perhaps a more keen just and biting satire never fell from the lips of man."

Domenichino the painter was accustomed to act the characters of all the figures he would represent on his canvass, and to speak aloud whatever the passion he meant to describe could prompt. While he was engaged in painting the martyrdom of St. Andrew, Carracci one day found him in a violent passion, speaking in a terrible & menacing tone. He was at that moment employed on a soldier who was threatening the saint. When the fit of enthusiastic abstraction had passed away, Carracci ran and embraced him, acknowledging that Domenichino had been that day his master.

A Curiosity.—We were shown the other day, an ear of corn, raised at the country residenoe of Mr. Wm. Stevens, merchant of this place, which, to us, was the greatest vegetable curiosity we ever saw. From the main ear there were twelve shoots or adcitional ears, the most of the being perfect.—Centreville Md. Sentinel.

Sudden Death of Col. Fanning. The Cincinnati papers announce the sudden death, from apoplexy, of Brevet Col. A. C. W. Fanning, 2d Regiment U. S. Artillery, aged 58 years.

☞The rumor about the telegraph marriage is pronounced a hoax. Girls don't get married so fast as that these times, although some would say YES as quick as lightning. Wouldn't they?

ANAGRAM.

My first is in Heaven, and also in earth:
My whole though in Heaven, yet here had its birth.
My second is found in the sea and air.
My third is in nature, and seen everywhere.
The last of creation, seek for my fourth,
And far in cold regions yet lives in the north.
With wonder, my fifth, and my sixth you oft hear,
Exclaimed with a sigh, with regret or a tear!
'Tis a word that I know of, a dearly loved name,
Spell it backward or forward, 'tis always the same;
Between the first and last letter, a word you will see,
Read the same, back and forward, far dearer to me.

Is your liver Diseased.

You may find relief if you will but try in time. Our agent has just received the following:

N. J. Bordentown, Oct. 25, 1845.

Mr. Seth W. Fowle,

Dear Sir: I am well aware that persons of every age, sex, and condition in life; in every part of the country, have used and been benefitted, by Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. My own life has been saved with it. My father, mother and a sister, died with that fatal disease. For some years I have been predisposed to it myself. About one year ago I was sick for a number of weeks, confined to my bed when the pain in my side would allow me to lay. My physician pronounced my disease Liver Complaint; my liver was very much enlarged, I raised blood several times; the pain in my side was so severe that the cars passing in the street by the door affected me. I was cupped, bled, and had various other remedies applied, but all to no purpose; I got no relief; at last my physician said he could not cure me. I expected to die soon, but providentially I heard of, and obtained a bottle of your Balsam, which relieved me at once. I was encouraged to persevere in using it, until I took four or five bottles which saved my life and cured me. My health is now good. For Liver Complaints I believe it is a most certain cure.

A DESIRABLE FARM FOR SALE.

This farm is situated on Corsica Creek a branch of Chester river; the creek is navigable for vessels drawing 8 or 9 feet water, affording Fish, Oysters and Wild Fowl in their season. Two Steamboats stop within a mile of the farm weekly and three Packets sail out of the creek to Baltimore every week.

It is distant from Baltimore 50 miles and from Centreville the county town of Queen Ann's county 4 miles. The farm is believed to contain 230 Acres, full one half of which is in TIMBER AND WOOD.

A considerable amount of wood might be disposed of to advantage—there is also an inexhaustible supply of shell marl upon this farm by the use of which the land may be brought to a state of productiveness unsurpassed by any in that section

The Dwelling and out buildings are all in tolerable good order, a further description of the property is deemed unnecessary as any one disposed to buy will doubtless visit it.—The terms of sale are Cash $130 the residue in three equal instalments to be secured by endorsed notes payable in 1, 2 and 3 years after date with interest to be paid semi annually. Proposals will be received until the 20th day of September next and if not sold before that time it will be offered at Public sale on the 24th at which time a sale of all the House hold and kitchen furniture together with the stock and farming utensils of said farm will take place. If a sale of the corn crop can be effected at the same time possession may be had about the 1st of October. Address

POSTPONED SALE.

VERY VALUABLE

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

THE subscriber having determined to dispose of a very valuable portion of his real estate, has caused the same to be divided into some fifteen or eighteen farms, coutaining respectively from sixty to one hundred and seventy acres of advantageously and handsomely situated on the waters of Wye and St Michaels rivers in Talbot county. To each of these farms a sufficiency of

will be added to suit purchasers—These lands generally are in a high state of cultivation, and possess considerable resources for improvement; and the facility of communication by water with the Baltimore market, renders them very desirable.

The terms of sale will be a cash payment of one fourth of the purchase money; the residue to be paid in equal instalments, at the end of six, twelve, eighteen and twenty-four months, with interest from the day of sale, payable semi annually, and the whole of the credit portion of the purchase money to be secured by Bond with approved Security. Upon the payment of the purchase money and interest, good and sufficient Deeds will be executed, conveying a fee simple title, clear of all liens and incumbrances.

Should those lands not be sold at private sale, on or before TUESDAY the 25th day of AUGUST next, they will on that day be offered at Public Sale, at the front door of the Court House in Easton between the hours of 10 A. M. and 5 o'clock P. M. Persons desiring to purchase are invited to view the premises which together with accurate Platts will be shown by the subscriber.

Hemsley's Worm Destroying

SYRUP is performing wonders in the East read the following letter from a respectable old Lady, who resides in Connecticut. "Having used a bottle of your Worm Destroying Syrup I hereby send you a statement of my cure. (which I consider a very remarkable one) in order that any who are afflicted with worms, may be induced to try your invaluable medicine. For the last thirteen years I have been very much afflicted, and thought the cause of my affliction was worms, but I had repeatedly taken the usual medicine prescribed by Physicians, without receiving any benefit therefrom My case gradually grew worse and for the last two years I have suffered so severely that I had no hopes of ever getting better—My mind became affected and my reason a good deal shattered, in consequence of my bodily sufferings, and for three months of the time I dare not suffer myself to go to sleep while lying down, on account of being frequently choked while in that position. A short time since, I tried a bottle of your Worm Destroying Syrup which brought away an astonishing quantity of worms of every sort and size. Of the whole quantity there could not have been less than three quarts. Since that I have been intirely relieved, and enjoy good health which I have not done before for thirteen years.

Etrurian Wheat.

A SMALL quantity of the above wheat may be had for seeds, by any one wishing to sow it this fall, by application to Mr. Graham if immediately made.

It is highly recommended to the Farmers of the United States by the Editor of "American Farmer" (in volume 1. No. 12) who has become the agent for the sale of it at $2 per bushel. It is an early white wheat, with a smooth head, very strong vigorous growth, though not fly proof—where the grower of it in this neighborhood had supposed it almost destroyed last fall, it recovered and produced over eight bushels to one. A sample may be seen at the Gazette Office.

GOLD PEN.

WARRENTED.

THIS Pen received the highest premium at the last Fair of the American Institute, and has been pronounced by the first teachers of Penmanship in the country, to be infinitely superior to any Gold Pen ever before introduced to the American public. These Pens are indistructible except by actual violence—no ink will injure them—retain their elasticity, and the peculiar shape of the nibs, (which was first introduced by Bagley) makes it more pleasant to use, renders it less liable to damage, more easy to repair, and prevents the necessity of the great care that other articles of the kind require.
