EASTON GAZETTE.

EASTON, Md.

SATURDAY MORNING, DEC. 19.

☞Our next paper will be issued early on Friday (Christmas) morning. Persons having advertisements for insertion, will please hand them in prior to 4 o'clock, P. M. on Thursday.

THE MESSAGE.

This voluminous paper has ere this reached almost every part of the land, and the judgment of a people careful of their interests and jealous of their rights been passed unreservedly upon its character and bearings. The Democratic press is of course every where loud in its commendation, and it is pronounced by the official organ at Washington, another evidence of the wide-spread renown secured to the President by his former illustrious communications to Congress. For ourselves, anxious as we are that the dignity of the country should be maintained both at home and abroad, we are prepared to render the appropriate meed of praise to the Executive, for a portion of the principles, whenever the written recommendations of the officer are such as to demand it at our hands. In the present instance, after a most careful perusal, we find little to collect honor either upon the President or the country. The Message is throughout the meagre fleeting argument of a cause barren of resources, concealing facts, and resorting the most subtle and ingenious devices to disguise its own errors. The recollection of the war (occupying nearly two-thirds of the entire document), is made up of garbled statements, half-explained historical events, and repeated assumptions of data, admitting at least of a most considerable discussion. We have neither the time nor the inclination to follow this paper through all its details. To such as desire a review of its leading topics, we commend the able expositions of the National Intelligencer and Baltimore American, and the searching investigations of Chandler and Oliver Oldschool, as set forth in the staunch and well conducted columns of the United States Gazette.

We cannot, however avoid adverting the attention of the reader for a moment to the exculpatory clause, having referred to Santa Anna's free ingress into Mexico, as a model specimen of the most astute ratiocination and masterly diplomacy on record. It is the whining apology of a school-boy, conscious of some gross act of misdemeanor for which he deserves punishment; and as an explanation of a high-handed assumption of power, utterly destitute of the most delicate shade of reason or common sense. The premises and conclusion of this great argument are as follows:

Santa Anna could, if so disposed, in defiance of the vigilance of our squadron, have effected a landing upon some part of the extensive coast of the Gulf of Mexico. Ergo.—It was useless and unnecessary to attempt to prevent him!

Santa Anna was the rival of Paredes—publicly declared his opposition to the establishment of a monarchy—was convinced of the disastrous consequences which must flow to Mexico from a war with the United States. Ergo.—It was right to facilitate his return!

A strange precedent truly is established by the first position, by which our Navy is relieved of the duty of preventing the return of fifty hostile Generals who may be caught from home in a time of war, because forsooth they will get in any how, in despite of all our efforts to keep them out! The second ground is even more untenable and absurd. What if Santa Anna did proclaim himself opposed to monarchy? What if he even offer pledges to secure peace, by his return? Is he therefore to be credited? A Traitor whose whole public career has been marked by the basest perfidy and treachery, the most wily and dangerous General ever placed at the head of a Mexican army, to be allowed into his country by a free passport from the very government which had been the victim of his treason, and which at that time was in open and undisguised warfare! How has the result confirmed the deductions to which the President, in the plenitude of his sagacity, had arrived? The moment he touches the soil of his country, Santa Anna throws off his well-assumed disguise—all the untamed fierceness of the Spaniard blazes up within him, and proclamation is instantly set forth, breathing the most deadly hostility to the enemies of his country, and avowing his determination to drive them from her borders or perish in the attempt. And yet in the face of all this, in the face of the glaring fact that this very General is now at the head of several thousand troops at San Luis de Potosi, we are gravely entertained with the following highly plausible reflections!

"It remains to be seen whether his return may not prove to be favorable to a pacific adjustment of the existing difficulties, it being manifestly his interest not to persevere in the prosecution of a war commenced by Paredes, to accomplish a purpose so absurd as the reconquest of Texas to the Sabine."

This last paragraph crowns the absurdity of the Message, and should bring the blush of shame and indignation to the brow and cheek of the President's warmest adherent. The credit of the peace then is to belong alone to that Prince of peace-makers, Santa Anna! Whatever privations our gallant army may have endured, whatever feats of heroic valor performed, they are all to be obscured by the superior glory of this Mexican blood-hound! Though our illustrious General (who in the President has taken special care not to mention in the entire Message) should penetrate into the heart of the enemy's country, though he should plant the stars and stripes upon the towers of the regal city of Mexico itself, it must be thrown tauntingly in our teeth by jealous European rivals, that these were accomplished by bribery—that our arms owed the credit, which belongs to Santa Anna alone. And for the truth of this assertion they will triumphantly appeal to the message of our own President. A paper thus backed by principles so base and unpatriotic must receive the condemnation and scorn of every lover of his country, jealous of her honor, and proud of the noble valor of her sons.

We have not space for further remarks. The Message we are assured will be extensively perused and eagerly sifted—and the sober second thought of the people will pronounce such judgment upon it, and mete out such desserts to its authors as the nature of the case may require.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.—As the season of darkness and fun is at hand, to be marked by gifts and remembrances to the young, we invite the attention of our citizens to the rich display of fancy articles, books, confectionary, &c., set forth in the advertisement of our energetic and accommodating townsman, CHARLES ROBINSON, Esq. Those interested will find in his stock the most abundant variety of every thing which can please the palate, entertain the eye and instruct the mind.—The enterprise of our excellent friend deserves and will doubtless receive its full complement of public patronage. Go and examine for yourselves.

TWELFTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE UNION DORCAS SOCIETY.

The Board of Officers of the Union Dorcas Society respectfully present their Twelfth Annual Report—hoping that their efforts during the past twelve months have resulted in mitigating the sorrows of a few of their suffering fellow creatures.

Since the commencement of the official year our managers have visited and relieved all those within their knowledge, whom they thought required assistance. In the month of November eight persons were visited and assisted, two sick: in December eight, two sick: in January ten, several indisposed: in February twelve, three very sick: in March eight, several indisposed, one very sick: in April nine, one very sick: in May eight, several very sick: in June eight, several indisposed, one very ill: in July seven, several sick, one continuing ill: in August seven were relieved, two sick one ill. On the 14th of this month, after a lingering illness, our worthy and much esteemed pensioner, Mrs. Gregory died. In September six persons were visited and assisted—two sick in October.

TREASURY REPORT.

Balance in the Treasury Nov. 1845,	$24.17
Rec'd from annual subscribers,	32.50
Donations in cash,	50, 0 1 2
Fines,	37 1 2
Received,	$148 04
Expended,	148 04

Received sundry donations in wood, dry goods, groceries, medicines, and shoes—amount not known.

From the above report it will be seen that our Treasury is empty for the first time since the organization of our Society. During the present year the most of our customers have been sick—several of them so ill that we had to procure nurses for them.

So many appeals have been made to the funds of reason in behalf of this Society that we know not what we can say that has its object is to procure food, clothing, medicine and fuel for the destitute poor. The most of our Pensioners are Widows and Orphans, who are unable to dig, and to beg from door to door would be ashamed. To assist such as these ought to be considered a privilege rather than an irksome duty. Ye who have enough and to spare, go to the lowly dwellings of the poor—visit them in sickness—see them on the couch of pain, oftentimes alone, with no one even to administer the bitter draught which some benevolent physician or friend has prescribed to restore their health. Ye who have suffered bereavement and sorrow, would not your anguish be much greater if you thought the life of the loved one could have been prolonged if you had only had the means of procuring a few of those comforts so grateful to the invalid. Remember the Poor!

It is our duty to take care of the poor. Some may be unworthy, but many are the Disciples of Him, who for our sakes became poor and took upon himself the form of a servant that we through his poverty might be made rich." "Whatsoever ye do unto one of the least of these (my disciples) ye do unto me," are the words of the Saviour. How can we better show our gratitude to the Author of all our comforts than by giving a part of our subsistence to our suffering brother. "Blessed is he that considereth the poor—the Lord will deliver him in time of trouble."

Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.

There are so many "certain cures" for coughs, colds, and even consumptions, that we are sometimes disposed to question the efficacy of any of them. Dr. S. W. Fowle, a druggist of the highest reputation, at 138 Washing Street, has the agency of an article called balsam of Wild Cherry, which seems to have won for itself a good reputation where ever it has been introduced. We have seen letters from various parts of New England, from persons of the highest standing in the places where they reside, bearing testimony to the credit themselves or friends had received from a trial of its properties.

Extract from a letter dated

Petersburg, Va., Jan. 15, 1845.

A gentleman of unquestionable veracity informs us, that his brother had been confined to his bed for weeks with some species of cough, that baffled the skill of several eminent physicians, and by the use of two bottles of

Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry,

he has been restored to perfect health, and he is now "as fat and healthy man."

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF

WILD CHERRY,

THE great remedy for Consumption & the best medicine known to Man for Asthma of every stage, Liver Complaint, Bronchitis, Hooping Coughs, Croup, Chronic Bleedings of the Lungs, Shortness of Breath, pains and weakness in the side, breast, &c. and all other diseases of the PULMONARY ORGANS.

A very important discovery which this "Balsam" has been a very powerful influence, is that of a DISEASED LIVER. Let a complaint of this nature be properly treated more efficacious than any remedy hitherto employed, and in numerous instances where patients considered dying and sent home suffering from the disease, without receiving the least benefit from various remedies used, and when Medicine has been resorted to in vain, the use of this Balsam has caused the Liver to a healthy action and in many instances effected PERMANENT CURES, where every known remedy had failed to produce the desired effect.

Besides its astonishing efficacy in the diseases above mentioned, we also find it a very effectual remedy in ASTHMA, a complaint in which it has been very successful with persons even in cases of years standing.

It will be remembered from a former Physician, but has also been well tested in all the complaints for which it is recommended. It is not my intention therefore either to flourish or extravagantly praise the public by overrating its virtues on the contrary I shall simply endeavor to give a brief statement of its merits; and I feel sure that its surprising efficacy will enable me to furnish such proofs of its virtues as will satisfy the most incredulous that Consumption may and Can be Cured by this medicine be resorted to in time.

Opinions of a regular Physician.

Exeter, N. H., Sept. 30, 1845.

This certifies that I have recommended the use of WISTER'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY in diseases of the Lungs for two years past in many battles to my knowledge have been used by my patients all with beneficial results. In two cases where it was thought to be confirmed consumption it has taken place the Wild Cherry effected a cure. E BOYEN, Physician, 31 Exeter Corner.

NO QUACKERY! NO DECEPTION!

All published statements of cures performed by this medicine, are, to every respect TRUE.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS & IMITATIONS.

The unparalleled and astonishing efficacy of Dr Wister's Balsam of Wild Cherry in all the diseases for which it is recommended, curing many cases after the skill of the best physicians was unavailing, has effected a large & increasing demand for it. This fact has caused several unprincipled counterfeiters and imitators to palm off spurious articles of similar name and appearance, for the genuine Balsam.

Be careful and get the genuine DR WISTER'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. None genuine unless signed by I PETTIT. Address all orders to SETH W FOWLE Boston Mass.
