tween the points at present occupied, in which nothing living is to be found, and no water except such as may have been supplied in tanks, for travelling. These tanks have all been destroyed; and if preserved, would not supply more than one regiment of infantry.

7. The immense number of defiles between Vera Cruz and Mexico, in which ten men would prove more than a match for one hundred.

This interesting communication, which occupies a column and a half of the Intelligencer, concludes as follows:

"We have had three battles, and in each a victory not surpassed in modern war.—We can afford to be generous. It would be magnanimous to forbear. If we prosecute the war of invasion, all that we can possibly gain by it is mere territory. Is this desirable? Have we not already more vacant lands than we know what to do with, and land infinitely better than the conterminous provinces of Mexico; more fertile, and, what is of more consequence, with facilities of transportation. The portion of Mexico which we propose to conquer and retain has no navigable rivers, and its great elevation will always prevent the construction of railroads. We shall get no public domain; for nearly all the land is already granted; we shall not get the land alone, but the population, and nine out of every ten of them are Indians. Will they be received as Indians and placed on the same footing as our own Indian tribes, or as citizens, and allowed to vote and send Indian representatives to our Congress? Shall the same privileges be extended to some or all of our Indian tribes, who are more enlightened and virtuous? If not, why not? But, behind all this, there hovers a black and portentous cloud which no patriot can look upon without dismay. If this country is annexed, upon what terms and conditions will it be annexed? Will the North consent that slavery shall exist in the new States thus acquired? Will the South consent to a restriction on that point? I forbear to do more than allude to this question; all must see the difficulty which it will present. It is premature to discuss it here.—It must be very many years before Mexico will cede the country, if she ever does, and still many more before a State can be organized. But the question must come, sooner or later. Is this miserable country worth the sacrifice of blood and treasure which it will cost, and the putting our Union itself in peril? It may be asked whether Mexico will make peace even if our troops are thus withdrawn beyond the Rio Grande? I do not believe that she will do so now. But the war will cease at least as to active operations, and peace will be restored sooner than by continuing to prosecute the war of invasion.

PREMATURE.—The administration organ at Washington, which has been lashing itself into foam, since the abortion of the Tea and Coffee movement, and threatening hard things upon that portion of the party who had the independence to vote in the negative, since the passage of the Loan bill has suddenly settled down into the most quiet good humor imaginable. Whence the cause of immediate congratulation we are really at a loss to determine. The action of Congress authorizing the loan is but a small part of the proceeding necessary to meet the demands of the war. The security which shall form the basis of this loan is the important question at this crisis. While the expenses of government have been multiplying its resources have been seriously diminishing under the action of the Tariff of '46, and the wretched Sub-Treasury. The mere credit of the country will not therefore suffice, or if so, only by the payment of extravagant rates of interest for the loaned amount, to which Congress would never consent.

Among the various plans proposed for the increase of revenue are the following:

1. To lay a duty on all articles admitted free of duty by the Tariff of 1846, including tea and coffee.

2. To increase the rate of ad valorem duties on all dutiable articles, and also to tax the free list.

3. To restore the Tariff of 1842, and add to it taxes on the free list.

4. To suspend payment due on account of the Smithson fund during the war.

5. To impose a tax of twenty per cent. on Jewelry, watches, gold and silver plate, and pleasure carriages.

6. To lay an excise on fermented and distilled spirits, and to tax all venders of the same.

7. To reduce salaries and emoluments of all public officers, whose salaries may be legally reduced, during the term of the incumbent.

Our army is encamped upon the plains of Mexico—the session has nearly expired—and it is time some plan had been adopted to arrest the National Bankruptcy and disgrace which is staring us in the face.—Meantime we have no objection that Father Ritchie should shake his editorial sides with paroxysms of merriment; and hope that he may have some influence over the chafed Lieutenant General whose fury has become really formidable, even to imperturbable Senators. While the Editor of the Union is so well contented with the little crumbs of favor which the Congress of both parties have been pleased to allow him, we hope that he will not be unmindful of the Senator from Missouri who appears so chagrined at the loss of them.

GOVERNOR THARP.—Wm. Tharp, Esq., the recently elected Governor of Delaware, was inaugurated on Tuesday, 19th inst., at Dover. His address was brief, but manly, properly eschewing the discussion of general political topics. Among other recommendations of the Executive, is that of a convention to remodel the constitution of the State.

IMPORTANT TO POTATO GROWERS.—So important is the potato as an esculent every where, that any thing affecting its history and diseases cannot but be interesting to the general reader. An admirable work has just issued from the press of Wiley & Putnam, entitled "The Potato Plant, its uses and properties, together with the causes of the present malady, by Alfred Smee, F. R. S., Surgeon to the Bank of England, &c." This treatise is richly illustrated, and replete with the most valuable information relative to this useful plant. In the course of the work the author touches upon the extension of disease to other plants, and the best means of its prevention and cure. The entire book constitutes a valuable addition to the stock of useful knowledge, and should be in the possession of every man interested in the culture of the potato and other analagous roots.

STEAM MILL.—We invite public attention to the advertisement of Messrs. Hughlett & Tharp. It will be perceived that the excellent mill at Easton Point has been revived, and is now in full operation. Under the enterprising management of the gentlemen who have it in charge, it must prove a source of profit to themselves, and of great convenience and utility to the adjacent country. We wish them success.

☞ We refer the reader's attention to the sale of valuable wood lots advertised by Gen. Tilghman, in another part of this paper.

EXTENSIVE CONFLAGRATION AT BOSTON.

One of the most destructive fires with which Boston has been visited for many years occurred in that city on Thursday night last, the particulars of which are thus given in the Boston Journal of Friday evening:

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—About ten o'clock last evening a fire broke out in a carpenter shop adjoining a Bowling Saloon in Haverhill street, kept by Messrs. Leonard & Allen.

The fire immediately communicated to the woodwork of the Saloon, and the whole building was soon in flames. The flames then attacked the adjoining wooden buildings, and spread upon each side with great rapidity. A strong North-West wind prevailed at the time, which, added to a scarcity of water, (it being low tide) baffled all the exertions of the fireman to extinguish the flames. The fire extended back, and upon each side until nearly all the buildings between Haverhill and Medford streets, on the one hand, and between Causeway and Traverse streets, on the other, were a mass of ruins. It was not extinguished until about three o'clock this morning. Nearly all the buildings destroyed were of wood, mostly work-shops and stables, though some tenements were burned, and about seventy families were rendered houseless. On most of the buildings and stock there was but little insurance.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—We learn from the Cumberland Civilian, that John Barrett, assistant engineer of the Iron Works at Lonaconing, was assistantly Killed on Thursday by the engine being started while he was on the inside of the cylinder cleaning out the flues. John Gibson, the chief engineer, is charged with carelessness in starting the engine.

A regular Physician has kindly volunteered the following certificate in favor of Wistar's Balsam, having used it successfully in many severe cases, and always with good results.

Exeter, Me., Sept. 30, 1845.

This certifies that I have recommended the use of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry for diseases of the Lungs, for two years past, and many bottles to my knowledge have been used by my patients, all with beneficial results. In two cases where it was thought confirmed consumption had taken place, the Wild Cherry effected a cure.

SELLERS LIVER PILLS have done her more good than any medicine she ever used.

Preble's Mills, Wood Co., Va. Oct. 5, '46

Mr. R. E. Sellers. I am so much gratified with the good effects following the use of your Liver Pills in the case of my wife that I think the afflicted would be induced to make more general use of them if their value was more generally known. Mrs. Roach has been complaining for the last two years; she has taken a great deal of medicine, recommended at different times by physicians and others, but derived but little benefit from them.—Last Spring I bought some of your Liver Pill's and prevailed on her to make use of them, and I am bold to say that they have done her more good than any medicine she has ever taken. This triumph of your Liver Pills has endered them very popular in this section of the country, and they are in greater demand than any other kind of pill.

J. C. ROACH.

As a purgative and antibillious Pill they are far superior to the common pills of the day, and should be used in their place.

Vol. 11. for 1847.

THIS popular monthly for young people commences the second year of its new series in January, 1847. It may now be regarded as permanently established; and both the editor and publisher, encouraged by their past success, will endeavor not only to deserve the flattering encomiums so generally bestowed upon their labors, but to make the Cabinet a greater favorite among its readers than ever. The 2d volume will be enriched with a variety of Beautiful Embellishments from Original Designs.

The steel vignette, engraved from a design by one of the first artists in the country; is of itself a gem, rarely surpassed in the most costly magazines. When completed the yearly volume embraces.

ONE HUNDRED ENGRAVINGS.

several pieces of the choicest music, and nearly four hundred octavo pages.

The contents of this magazine are for the most part original. It is the aim of the editor to afford amusement and instruction of the best kind and in the most pleasing manner—to oppose the strongest barriers against vice—to multiply incentives to virtue—and while every thing sectarian is carefully discarded, to impress upon the young mind and heart the supreme importance of the truths of revelation, and the necessity of spiritual religion.

FOR CHEAP GOODS, St Michaels, it is well known, can beat any town or village on the Eastern Shore of Maryland and having successfully established this important truth (without the aid of the 'St. Michaels' News" too) she now commences the agreeable task of outs-doing even herself,

JOHN L. SEARS, who has on hand a very large stock of Winter Goods, of every kind and quality, and suited to every age, sex and condition in this life, has determined to REDUCE the PRICES and sell them off at

A SACRIFICE!

Yes, a Sacrifice and no mistake!

The only cause of this apparently mad design is, that he does not want a yard of Cloth, Cassimere, Satinett or any other article of winter goods left on hand at the close of the season. To clear the shelves therefore, and make room for spring purchases, all the present stock of Winter Goods will be offered at prices 20 to 25 per cent less than heretofore. In consideration of this fact, (a very important one too in these hard times) every one who is in need of CHEAP GOODS, had better come early. An examination into the truth of this statement is respectfully solicited.

In Talbot County Court

November Term, 1846.

Upon the application of James B. Golt of Talbot County by petition in writing, setting forth that he heretofore applied to John Stevens Esquire, one of the Judges of the Orphans Court of Talbot County aforesaid, for the benefit of the Insolvent Laws of Maryland that on the tenth day of February in the year eighteen hundred and forty six, he received a personal discharge that the first Wednesday of the succeeding November Term of this Court was appointed for his personal appearance, to answer such allegations and interrogatories as his Creditors, or any of them, might exhibit against him, and that the usual order of notice thereof to his creditors was passed but that the said notice was not published as by law is required, and that although he attended the Court on the day aforesaid, and continued to attend from day to day, yet that his said appearance was not entered upon the record, and praying that as well the time for his appearance to answer the allegations and interrogatories of his creditors, as also for the publication of notice, might be extended, according to the provisions of the act of assembly in such case made and provided, and happearing to the Court that the reasons assigned in the said petition, for the failure to give the notice required by law, and also for the failure to cause his appearance to be entered upon the record, are sufficient, and that the prayer of the petitioner ought to be granted. It is thereupon ordered, that the time for the appearance of the said James B. Golt before this Court and for giving notice to his creditors, be and the same is hereby extended, and that said James B Golt be and appear before this Court, on the first Wednesday of May Term next, then and there to answer such allegations and interrogations as his creditors, or any of them, may file against him. And it is further ordered, that the said James B. Golt give notice to his creditors of the day hereinbefore appointed for his said appearance, by causing a copy of this order to be published in one or more newspapers, printed in the Town of Easton, in Talbot County, and to be therein continued for at least three successive weeks, three months before the said first Wednesday of May Term next.
