EASTON GAZETTE.

EASTON, Md.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 27.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

"L." is too long, ungrammatical and illegible for our columns. Besides the subject treated has been long since exhausted, and we greatly mistake the powers of our correspondent, if he is competent to enhance its interest, in any respect whatever.

"Eva" furnishes a faultless chirography. She is yet to learn, however, that the most difficult species of poetical composition is blank verse. Such lines as the following are inadmissible:

"And softly breating zephyrs toyed around the leafy bowers, and—"

Besides the superfluous number of feet, it is wretched taste to end a line in blank poetry with a particle. A careful study of the elements of composition will render our fair friend a desirable correspondent.

"Glycus," marked for insertion—with many thanks.

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.—We return our thanks to Hon. Reverdy Johnson, of the United States Senate for a copy of his speech on the Three Million Bill; to Hon. Mr. Corwin, for a copy of his speech on the Mexican War; and to Hon. J. G. Chapman, of the House, for his speech on the Tobacco Trade.

THE WAR.

At no period of the war has a larger share of public anxiety been felt for the safety of our troops. Hitherto fortune has favored our arms. We have advanced into a hostile country, victory perching upon our banners at every step of the march; but now, if the reports which are daily reaching us be true, the military koroscope is changed—we are hedged in, front and rear, by a force vastly superior in number to our own—our supplies cut off, and the handful of brave men left to defend the river country, in danger of being put to the sword. Whether Gen. Scott is censurable for withdrawing so large a body of the army, for the attack on Vera Cruz, remains to be proved. Certain it is, by the reduction of the division on the Rio Grande to so meagre a force, he has compelled Gen. Taylor, in violence to his own judgment, to abandon Victoria, the point of chief importance, & thus allow the passage of the Mexican army through the only practicable military route to the valley. What may be the fate of this policy—what its effects upon Gen. Taylor and his gallant little band time only will determine. If disastrous, the cause will rest most heavily where it properly belong. For ourselves, we cannot but feel the liveliest solicitude for the result of the war. Nor does this feeling spring from any want of confidence in the discipline and valor of our soldiers, or any fear of the superior force and strength of the enemy, but from a solemn conviction of the unrighteous spirit in which this war has been conceived, and the unholy ends for which it has been prosecuted. There is a God who rules the destinies of nations, and the right hand of Omnipotence which triumphantly cleared our way in the glorious struggle for independance, may be converted into an instrument of vengeance, when unlawful aggression takes the place of defence and the love of liberty becomes changed into a love of conquest and agrandisement. The nation may yet have to learn, that to stand upon native soil and protect native rights is one thing—to invade an enemy's country for the purpose of bringing it under subjection and control a vastly different operation.

Thus far the intelligence received, as will be seen by reference to the news columns of our paper, has been exceedingly contradictory; and while there is just ground we fear for serious apprehension, let us not derive conclusions too rapidly, at a period of universal panic, when every shred of rumor is magnified into importance, and every breath of suspense wafted in the form of a terrible engagement, from one end of the country to the other.

EASTON ACADEMY.—The annual examination of this venerable institution of leaning took place at the academy buildings, on Wednesday, 24th instant, in the presence of the trustees and other citizens. The examination was thorough and critical in the various studies of the course; and the result such as to reflect the highest credit both upon the pupils of the seminary, and the faithful and competent Principal. We have heard no dissent whatever to the universal expression of satisfaction and pleasure with which the closing exercise of the school has been received. If any one festure, developed in the progress of the examination, has been more apparent than another, it is the admirable manner by which Mr. Neely conveys instruction, both in English and the classics, to the mind of the scholar; and the commendable enthusiasm and fidelity with which he devotes himself to the various duties of his vocation. We congratulate the trustees of the academy upon so valuable an acquisition to the cause of education, and trust that his efforts to advance the mental improvement of our young community may not be unappreciated.

On the evening succeeding the examination the exhibition of the scholars in declamation took place, in the presence of a crowded audience of ladies and gentlemen. The various selections and original essays were delive.ed with remarkable self-possession and precision, by the several speakers; and not a few in manner and enunciation gave promise of considerable future oratorical proficiency. The young gentlemen are entitled to all praise, and we cheerfully render it through our columns.

After prayer by Rev. Henry M. Mason, D. D., the following order of exercises with the names of the respective speakers and subjects, was announced by the President of the board, Theodore R. Loockerman, Esq.

MILITARY.—The respective troops of the Trappe, Bay-side and Easton districts, paraded our streets on Thursday, in full force and equipped in complete uniform; presenting an array of martial men and fine horses unsurpassed in the State. The two first mentioned companies assembled, by virtue of an invitation extended them from the Easton Light Dragoons, to a public entertainment at Tarr's. The dinner came off, we understand, swimmingly, the excellent taste of "mine host" in the arrangement and supply of the board, having been only surpassed by the superior taste and zeal of the guests in attendance.

INFORMATION WANTED.—We have received a communication of enquiry in reference to James Jackson, artist, of New York, who came to this Shore sometime during the last summer or fall, and stopped for a day or two in this town.—Should any of our exchanges know aught of this gentlemen, they will confer a kindness upon his anxious family and friends, by dropping a line immediately either to the "Editor of the Easton Gazette," or to Rev. J. N. McJilton, Rector of St. Stephen's, Baltimore.

HOME JOURNAL.—This is the organ through which our old friend Willis is pouring the raciest editorials of the age.—It is, of its own necessity, the best, the very best weekly in the country. In the last issue is the following, presenting strong inducements to subscribers, which we take pleasure in commending to public attention:

"Next week we shall commence the publication of "The Drama of Life," an original tale of great and peculiar interest.—Those who wish to commence taking the paper with this new production will have an opportunity of doing so, as we intend to increase the edition for the accommodation of new subscribers. The publication of 'Dombey and Son,' will be continued as heretofore, without any abridgment of the usual contents of the paper. Each part will be issued in an extra as soon as it reaches this country, and distributed gratuitously to the subscribers of the Home Journal. By this arrangement our readers will receive this popular story at the earliest possible date; and sooner than it can be issued by any of the booksellers or publishing houses in the country. To new subscribers beginning with the next number, and remitting a year's subscription ($2 in advance, we will send the five parts already out gratis."

GUN COTTON ECLIPSED!—An agent more powerful than this far famed commodity has come to light within the past few months. Its power is irresistible, illimitable, it baffles the vigilance of fleets, and sets at nought the watchfulness, skill and valor of armies. Unlike gun cotton, it is no longer an experiment, it has been tested, and fully equals the most sanguine expectation of its projector. Possessed of this "infernal machine," a single individual can pass unscathed, through besetting navies and thread with impunity the bristling gauntlet of bayonets and levelled muskets, as though the fortunate possessor of a charmed existence. But in speaking of its properties, we had well nigh forgotten says the Niagara Courier, to name the article—a pass from President Polk.

LIEUT. JAMES H. SMYTHE.—We mentioned in our last, the promotion of this gentleman to the 2d Lieutenancy of Capt. John E. Howard's company. Lieutenant Smythe is a native of this city, and is descended of a wealthy and highly respectable family. He has been liberally educated, and has a passion for the profession of arms, in which an opportunity only is wanting to make himself distinguished.—We understand that the citizens of Easton, where Lieut. Smythe has resided for some years past, are about to present him with a handsome sword, as a token of the respect and confidence they cherish towards him. It will be committed to gallant hands, and should an opportunity offer for him to wield it against his country's foes, Lieut. Smythe will prove himself a worthy representative of the heroes of the old Maryland Line.—Statesman.

ANCIENT MANUSCRIPT SERMONS.—We have been shown a curious volume of Manuscript Sermons, entitle "Communion Sermons abroad, 1710—1723," composed and written out by A. Woodworth, a Scottish minister of the early part of the last century, known as the author of the "History of the Reformation in the Scottish Church." It is a volume of the ordinary duodecimo from, consisting of some what more than four hundred pages, and contains a hundred sermons; written so compactly that most of them occupy no more than four pages each The hand writing is neatly executed, the characters small, of course, and in some respects of an antiquated form, but exceedingly distinct. The volume appears to be the seventh of a series, and we are told that it is one of twelve volumes.—It belongs to a descendant of the Woodrow family, living at Honesdale, in Pennsylvania The memory of the author is held in such respect in Scotland that a "Woodrow Association" has been recently formed in Edinburgh, the object of which is the republication of Scottish theological works. N. Y. Eve Post.

REMARKABLE CASE OF FORGERY.—Thos. Turner, an Englishman, who has been living here with his family some four years, has been arrested, and is now in custody, on the charge of forgery. He is a conveyancer by profession, and having become somewhat familiar in the course of business with the records of titles to real estate at the county clerk's office, is charged with having made out spurious deeds to himself for several small pieces of land in this city and vicinity, including forged certificates of their execution. A clerk in the office where he left them to be recorded is said to have detected a discrepancy in the date of one certificate, purporting to have been made by the late David D. Crane Esq, but being dated on a day subsequent to his death. Another deed—a printed blank filled up—bearing the stamp of the stationer of whom the blank was bought, is dated a long time before the seller entered into business. In one case a comparatively poor man purchased a small lot of Turner under one of these spurious titles, paid him $50 on account, and has laid out about as much more in making preparation for building. In default of bail he is confined to await the course of law.—Newark Daily Advertiser.

MOVEMENTS IN ITALY.—Some important movements are taking place at this moment in Italy, if we may judge by the extract of a letter dated Milan, January 24th, and published in the Franco-American. It says that the people of Lombardy are about to make an attempt to redeem their country from its oppressions. "Death to the Austrians" is uttered by every one During the week previous an outbreak had taken place at Milan, in consequence of an attempt on the part of the police to prevent the introduction of a Piedmontese Journal called Il Messaggero.

The young men of Pavia resisted this conduct, and were joined by the students in the university. A conflict ensued, in which ten students were killed, and on the part of the Austrians thirty-five were killed, and more than a hundred wounded. In consequence, the university has been closed and the police are in pursuit of the students. Many have fled to Piedmont and have been well received.

THE MAID OF ATHENS.—The Maid of Athens, so poetically made famous by Lord Byron, is thus described in plain prose, by the Athens correspondent of the Boston Atlas:

"There I met Mr. Black, who married the Maid of Athens. He is a professor of English at the Gymnasium, and occasionally corresponds with the London papers, furnishing a sensible, well written letter. ——abused him, and rather conveyed the idea that Theresa was an unhappy wife, but from what I have seen of him I can but feel disposed to take up the opposite side of the question. Though not handsome, he is as good looking a specimen of manhood as one commonly meets with, converses with ease, and is well informed, particularly on all home subjects. She is ugly, ignorant, and had not Byron drawn inspiration from the wells of her heart, would have never attracted notice any where. Really I pity Mr. Black, or any other intelligent man with such a wife, but understand that he is the kindest of husbands, and that their life is most unpoetically happy."

The Centreville Sentinel mentions the following gentlemen as having been named as democratic candidates for Governor:—"Dr. Cathel Humphreys, of Somerset county; James A. Stewart, Esq., of Dorchester; Col. P. F. Thomas and Col. Edward Lloyd, of Talbot; William A. Spencer, Esq., of Queen Annes; and Hon. Albert Constable, of Cecil."

Among the Whigs spoken of in connection with the office of Governor are: Dr. William Williams, of Somerset county; Dr. Francis P. Phelps, and William T. Goldsborough, Esq., of Dorchester; Samuel Hambleton, and Theodore R. Loockerman, Esqrs., of Talbot; Henry E. Wright, Esq., of Queen Annes; and Mr. Groom, of Cecil.

SELLERS' VERMEFUGE! It Never Fails!
Union Township, Washing county, } February 20th, 1847.

Mr. R. E. Sellers: I hereby inform you that I gave three doses of your excellent Vermefuge to a child of mine, (aged 4 years) and she passed 96 worms of a large size. To another (aged 2 years) I gave two teaspoonsful, which discharged 38 large worms. I have tried various kinds of worm medicines, but I could get none to do the work until I used SELLERS VERMIFUGE. ANDREW M'CLURE.

☞As Sellers' Vermifuge is both safe and effectual, parents should use it in preference to all others. feb. 22.

Planting Buggy.

THE subscriber having recently received Letters Patent from the Government of the United States for his improvements in SEED PLANTERS, is now prepared to sell rights for States, Counties or Towns, to those who may wish to purchase for the purpose of building, or vending said machines in any portion of the United States.

It is believed that the great saving of labor and time of those intending to put in a crop of five acres and upwards, either of Corn, Broom Corn, Beans or Peas or even a less quantity of Roots, will induce a very general demand for this machine. The advantage of being able to plant from eight to twelve acres in a single day when the ground and weather is favorable, is of itself sufficient to warrant the outlay of a machine, aside from the ease and accuracy in performing the labor. Said machine is and may be managed by a boy fourteen years old, who may ride upon the machine Certificates in any quantity as to the working of the Planter as above described, might be offered to the public, but I choose rather that the purchaser should examine and try the machine himself, No preparation by furrowing or marking is necessary, the Planter doing the whole and rolling in the bargain Those who wish to purchase by States or a number of counties to vend again will have strong inducements offered. The above described machine is a first rate Cultivator when the wheels and dropping apparatus is detached therefrom, which may be done in five minutes.

JAMES PUTNAM.

NOTICE.—The subscriber having purchased the patent right of the above Machine for this county, respectfully invites the attention of Farmers thereto. This machine will plant corn with accuracy each way, either on flushed or listed ground; it can be regulated to plant any distance, and is remarkable for its simplicity as well as accuracy. A trial will be made of its capacity on Tuesday the 30th inst., on the farm occupied by T. C. Nichols, Esq., a short distance from town—The agricultural community particularly are invited to witness the performance
