POETRY.

TRUE LOVE.

There are furrows on thy brow, wife,
Thy hair is thin and grey,
And the light that once was in thine eye
Hath sorrow stolen away.
Thou art no longer fair, wife,
The rose hath left thy cheek,
And thy once firm and graceful form
Is wasted now and weak.

But thy heart is just as warm, wife,
As when we first were wed;
As when thy merry eye was bright,
And thy smooth cheek was red.
Ah! that is long ago, wife,
We thought not then of care;
We then were spendthrifts of our joy—
We now have none to spare!

Well, well dost thou remember, wife,
The little child we laid.
The three years' darling, fair, and pure,
Beneath the yew tree's shade;
The worth from life was gone; wife,
We said with foolish tongue,—
But we've blessed since the Chastener
Who took that child so young!

—There was John, thy boast and pride, wife.
Who lived to manhood's prime—
Would God I could have died for him,
Who died before his time!
—There is Jane, thy second self, wife,
A thing of sin and shame,—
Our poorest neighbors pity us,
When they but hear her name.

Yet she's thy child and mine, wife,
I nursed her on my knee,
And the evil, woeful ways she took,
Were never taught by thee.
We were proud of her fair face, wife!
—And I have tamely stood,
And not avenged her downfall
In her betrayer's blood!

I had such evil thoughts, wife,
I cursed him to his face!
But he was rich and I was poor,
—The rich know no disgrace!
The gallows would have had me, wife,
—For that I did not care!
The only thing that saved his life
Were thoughts of thy despair.

There's something in thy face, wife,
That calms my maddened brain;
Thy furrowed brow, thy hollow eye,
Thy look of patient pain;
Thy lips that never smile, wife,
Thy bloodless cheeks and wan;
Thy form which once was beautiful,
Whose beauty now is gone;

Oh, these they tell such tales, wife,
They fill my eyes with tears,
We have born so much together
Through these long thirty years,
That I will meekly bear, wife,
What God appointeth here;
Nor add to thy o'erflowing cup
Another bitter tear!

Let the betrayer live wife;
Be this our only prayer,
That grief may send our prodigal
Back to the Father's care!
—Give me thy faithful hand wife—
Oh God who reign'st above,
We bless thee in our misery,
For one sure solace—love!

THE ANGEL-WATCH, OF THE SISTERS.

BY CHARLES SWAIN.

A daughter watched at midnight,
Her dying mother's bed,
For five long nights she had not sleep,
And many tears were shed:—
A vision like an angel came,
Which none but her might see,
"Sleep duteous child," the angel said,
"And I will watch for thee!"

Sweet slumber like a blessing fell
Upon the daughter's face;
The angel smiled, and touched her not,
But gently took her place;
And oh, so full of human love
Those pitying eyes did shine,
The angel guest half mortal seemed—
The slumberer half divine.

Like rays of light the sleeper's locks
In warm loose curls were thrown;
Like rays of light the angel's hair
Seemed like the sleeper's own;
A rose like shadow on the cheek,
Dissolving into pearl;
A something in that angel's face
Seemed sister to the girl!

The mortal and immortal each
Reflecting each were seen;
The earthly and the spiritual,
With death's pale face between.
Oh, human love, what strength like thine?
From thee those prayers arise
Which, entering into paradise,
Draw angels from the skies,

The dawn looked thro' the casement cold—
A wintry dawn of gloom,
And sadder showed the curtained bed,
The still and sickly room;
"My daughter—art thou here, my child?
Oh, haste thee, love, come nigh,
That I may see once more thy face,
And bless thee, ere I die!

"If ever I were harsh to thee,
Forgive it now," she cried;
"God knows my heart—I loved thee most!
When most I seemed to chide;
Now bend and kiss thy mother's lips,
And for her spirit pray!"
The angel kissed her—and her soul
Passed blissfully away!

A sudden start!—what dream, what sound,
The slumbering girl alarms?
She wakes—she sees her mother dead
Within the angel's arms!

She wakes—she springs with wild embrace—
But nothing there appears
Except her mother's sweet dead face—
Her own convulsive tears.

LETTERS OF PAUL LOUIS COURIER TO A FEMALE COUSIN.

A PREDICAMENT.

I was one day travelling in Calabria; it is a country of wicked people, who, I believe have no great liking to any body—and are particularly indisposed towards the French. To tell you why would be a long affair. It is enough that they hate us to death, and that the unhappy being who should fall into their hands would not pass his time in the most agreeable manner.

I had for my companion a fine young fellow. I do not say this to interest you—but because it is the truth. In these mountains the roads are precipices, and our horses got on with the greatest difficulty. My comrade going first a track which appeared more practicable and shorter than the regular path led us astray.

It was my fault. Ought I to have trusted to a head of seven years? We sought our way out of the wood while it was yet light, but the more we looked for the path the farther we were off from it. It was a very black night, and we came close upon a very black house.

We went in, and not without suspicion. But what was to be done. There we found a whole family of charcoal burners at table. At the first word they invited us to join them My young man did not wait for much ceremony. In a minute or two we were eating and drinking in right earnest—he at least. For my own part, I could not help glancing about at the place and the people. Our hosts, indeed, looked like charcoal burners; but the house, you would have taken it for an arsenal. There was nothing to be seen but muskets, pistols, sabres, knives and cutlasses.

Every thing displeased me, and I saw that I was in no favor myself. My comrade, on the contrary, was soon one of the family. He laughed, he chatted with them; and with an imprudence which ought to have been prevented, he at once said where we came from, where we were going—that we were Frenchmen.

Think of our situation. Here we were among our mortal enemies, alone, benighted, far from human aid. That nothing might be omitted that could tend to destroy us, he must play the rich man forsooth, promising these folks to pay them well for their hospitality; and then he must prate about his portmanteau, earnestly beseeching them to take care of it and put it at the head of his bed, for he wanted no other pillow.

Ah, youth, youth, how you are to be pitied. Cousin, they might have thought we carried the diamonds of the crown—the treasures of his portmanteau, which gave him such anxiety, consisted of the letters of his mistress.

Supper ended, they left us. Our hosts slept below, we on the story where we had been eating. In a sort of platform, raised seven or eight feet, where we were to mount by a ladder, was the bed that awaited us—a nest into which we had to introduce ourselves by jumping over barrels filled with provisions for all the year.

My comrade seized upon the bed above, and was soon fast asleep, with his head upon the precious portmanteau. I was determined to keep awake, so I made a good fire, and sat myself down. The night was almost passed tranquilly enough, and I was just beginning to feel comfortably enough, when just at the time when it appeared to me that day was about to break, I heard our host and his wife talking and disputing below me, and putting my ear into the chimney, which communicated to the room below, I perfectly distinguished these exact words of the husband:

"Well, well, let us see; must we kill them both?"

To which the wife replied—

"Yes"—and I heard no more.

How shall I tell you the rest? I could scarcely breathe; my whole body was as maple; to have seen me you could not have told whether I was dead or alive.—Heavens! when I think upon it! we two were almost without arms; against us were twelve or fifteen who had plenty of weapons. And then, my comrade dead of sleep and fatigue. To call him up, to make a noise was more than I dared; to escape was an impossibility.

The window was not very high, but under it were two great dogs, howling like wolves. Imagine, if you can, the distress I was in.

At the end of a quarter of an hour—which seemed an age—I heard some one on the stair case, and through the chink of the doors I saw the old man, with a lamp in one hand, and one of his great knives in the other. He mounted, his wife after him; I was behind the door—he opened it; but before he came in he put down the lamp, which his wife took up; and coming in, with his foot naked, she being behind him, said in a smothered voice, hiding the light partially with her fingers—

"Gently, go gently."

When he reached the ladder he mounted, with his knife between his teeth; and going to the head of the bed, where the young man lay with his throat uncovered, with one hand he took his knife and with the other—oh, my cousin, he seized a ham which hung from the roof, cut a slice, and retired as he came in. The door is re-shut, the light vanishes, and I am left alone to my reflections.

When the day appeared, all the family with a great noise came to arouse us as we had desired. They brought us plenty to eat—they served us a very proper breakfast, a capital breakfast I assure you. Two capons formed a part of it, "of which," said the hostess, "you must eat one and carry the other away."

When I saw the capons I at once comperhended the meaning of those terrible words, "Must we kill them both?"

"SUGAR COATED" PILLS.' BEWARE! CAUTION!!

The increasing popularity of Dr. G. BENJ SMITH'S IMPROVED INDIAN VEGETABLE SUGAR COATED PILLS, has induced a number of persons to make something they call PILLS, and coat them with sugar, in order to sell them for the genuine, while they do not possess a particle of the goodness, nor even assimilate in appearance to the original, Dr Smith's Pills. In short they are intended FRAUD upon the community. A minister who at first had an interes in an imitation Sugar Coated Pill, manufactured at Albany, N. Y., has given them up, as he says on account of the miserable dishonest parties concerned in manufacturing them. The same party are now industriously circulating reports calculated to injure Dr. Smith and to affect the reputation of his valuable pills; but rather than notice them in public. Dr Smith is about to institute legal proceedings against them for their slanders, as he has in another case against a similar party, in which he recovered a large amount of damages. These miserable imitators have to resort to the most abominable means to palm off their counterfeit pills as the public know that Dr. Smith's are the original and genuine. Several instances have come to public notice in which life has been endangered by the unfortunate use of the counterfeits. It is Dr Smith's Pills that are doing so much good in the country—as the following plainly show.

MORE MINISTERS.

Use and Recommend Dr. Smith's Pills than all others.

This is to certify that I have used the Sugar Coated Pills Manufactured by G. Benjamin Smith of New York, for some time, and believe them to be a good medicine; also from inquiry in that city, I am persuaded that he is the original inventor, and therefore is entitled to the benefit of the invention.

S. WILLIAMS.
Pastor 1st Baptist Church.

From the Blue Hens's Chicken. (Del.)

We call the attention of our readers to the certificate of Rev S Williams, Pastor of 1st Baptist Church, Pittsburgh, in relation to Dr. Smith's Pills. We can ourselves bear testimony to the excellence of these Pills, one of us having used them and experienced great relief from them.

[The above is the best paper in the State of Delaware.

The "improved indian vegetable Pills," (Sugar Coated,) are certainly doing much good in the whole country, and are highly esteemed, if one half is true that people write and say about them. They are so easy in their operation that all like them. The editor of the Northern State Journal, (one of the largest and best papers in the State of N. Y.,) writes as follows.

Watertown, May 31, 1846.

Dr. G Benj Smith—

Dear Sir I was laid up with a bad cold some time since my return from N. Y. and during my illness I made trial of your pills and I must say I found them excellent. They are the best medicine for the purposes they are intended, that I have yet seen I seldom take pills, but I found yours entirely free from the objections to which other pills are liable. I hope they will continue to be a source of profit to you, as I doubt not they will be a means of relief to the afflicted on a large scale. Yours truly,

J. GREEN.

Tonawanda, Pa., Sept. 18, 1846.

Dr. G. Benj Smith—

Dear Sir: Your agent left with me a lot of your Sugar coated Pills, and I have but a few boxes left. Every box I have sold has given entire satisfaction. I have taken them myself and I consider them the best pills I have ever used, and I am not afraid to recommend them to the public. I wish a further supply at once.

Yours respectfully,
JACOB KIBLER, P. M.

Huntington, Ind., June 21, 1846.

Dr. Smith –

Dear Sir. I am most out of your "Indian Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills," and find them selling so fast that I think you had better send me two gross immediately. They give such general satisfaction that people come at least twenty miles for them, and as it is generally known I am agent for them, I would be very sorry to get out.

Yours respectfully,
SAML. MORE & Co.

BEWARE!!!

If G. BENJ SMITH, be not written with a pen on the bottom of the box, all "Sugar Coated" Pills are counterfeit!
