Methodist Society numerically too strong, and the general piety of its membership too unquestionable, to suppose that either could be injured by the defection of an individual or even a number of individuals. It would be hard indeed if public bodies were thus responsible for the sentiments of every individual composing them, or should hold their tenure by such uncertain deportment. We desire to excite no prejudice against any religious sect—we are, we trust, incapable of such procedure. The same broad right,

"Et sentire quæ velit, et quæ sentiat dicere"

we claim for ourselves we extend most cheerfully to others. Thank God! we live in a land of religious toleration. The issue therefore attempted to be made between us and a class of the religious community for whom we entertain high respect, and in the bosom of whose organization are to be found some of our nearest relations and friends, falls at once to the ground. Every enlightened Methodist will sustain us in the positions we assume and maintain in this paper.

In conducting a public press we recognize no distinction either of individuals or communities. Neither station nor rank nor any other influence can ever cause us to swerve from the plain path of duty we have marked out for ourselves. Be Prof. McClintock a Methodist or a Baptist, a Churchman or an Infidel,—be he a scholar or a dolt—of high or low condition, it matters nothing to us in the investigation of his public demeanor. If it shall be proven that he is an innocent and injured man, which we would fain believe, we shall be the first to proclaim that innocence and to cover his accusers with reproach; but if these charges are founded in truth—if, as asserted, he did aid the rioters to procure the escape of the slaves and assault a respectable citizen in the peaceful duty of recovering his own property so that he died of his wounds shortly after, then will we deal out the unmeasured vengeance of the press upon his crime and hold him up to the scorn and execration which he justly merits. To the dead no future investigation will ever reach—no remuneration can ever be rendered; but between an outraged community and those who mingled prominently in the disgraceful scenes at Carlisle, a heavy account is yet to be settled. Justice calls aloud for retribution. Society, the violated law, demand of the Court and the press to make a public example of such as shared in instigating and abetting that riotous proceeding.

With this subject we are now done. In regard to what the correspondent of the "Star" says of the "tone" of the Gazette, &c., we heed it not. We are neither to be coaxed nor brow-beaten from our duty. For the truth of every statement copied from other papers, it would be folly that we should vouch, but for all that appears in our editorial columns we hold ourselves responsible. To calm and reasonable discussion we do not object but shall not turn aside to notice every self-styled censor of the press who may choose to mistake vulgarity for wit, or abuse for criticism. In regard to all such we say—"Let every dog bark that will bark"—"so cry, havock, let slip the pack—Tray, Blanche, Sweet heart, little dogs and all!"

FOURTH OF JULY.—Monday (5th inst.) having been generally observed in place of the Fourth, which came on Sunday, our village was enlivened by a fine display of the various military companies in the morning, and almost vacated in the afternoon by a pleasure-seeking party of all ages and conditions who thronged the decks of the old "Maryland," for an excursion to Cambridge and Cook's Point. The steamer returned with her freight early in the evening, having afforded an orderly and pleasant recreation to those on board.

THE UNITED STATES GAZETTE.—The well known and excellent Editor of this paper, Mr. Chandler, has sold out for the sum of $15,000, thus retiring entirely from the business. The purchasers are Messrs. Graham & McMichael. The Gazette will be henceforth united with the "North American," and conducted editorially by Hon. R. T. Conrad, Dr. Bird, J S. Wallace and G. C. Foster. Under such auspices it must maintain its distinguished character, and continue to be a highly popular journal.

HAIL STORM.—An awfully terrific hail storm passed over Peoria, Ill., on Saturday, 12th ult.

☞ The paragraph from the Patriot which appears to have bewildered our friend of the "Star," will be rendered into "plain English" on the day of the election in October next, and made as clear as a sunbeam to his comprehension.

LATER FROM THE ARMY OF GEN. TAYLOR.

Gen. Taylor Still at Monterey—Capture of an Express Rider—Death of Lieut. Mahan—Guerillas—Murders, &c.

The steamship Jas. L. Day, Capt. Wood, arrived at New Orleans on the 30th, from Brazos Santiago, whence she sailed on the 28th ult. The dates from Monterey are to the 16th. Nothing has occured to change the disposition of Gen. Taylor's forces in any material point, and there is no hope of an advance upon San Luis. The Picayune says.

Capt. Bankhead commanding a company in the Virginia regiment, arrived at Monterey on the 14th ult, from China. He reported that after the departure of the main body of the battallion for Monterey, he despatched a Mexican for Camargo, with a communication for Col. Belknap. A few days after, he learned that messenger had been captured by a body of armed Mexicans near Paso Zacata and sentenced to be shot.

News had reached Monterey from China of the death of Lieut. Mahan, who was shot in the recent duel with Lieut. Mumford—both of the Virginia regiment.

Three companies of Texan Rangers had recently come in to Monterey after having been out scouring the road in the direction of Camargo.

The Mexicans are said to be organizing small guerrilla parties, and the roads are somewhat beset with robbers; but we do not learn of any harm done by them.

The health of the troops at Monterey was improving, and only one man had recently died. He was attached to the Virginia Regiment.

A man named James Mays, a Virginian by birth but long a resident of Texas, was shot recently at Monterey by the guard, while attempting to escape from the guard house. A Texan ranger had also been shot on the plaza by a fellow soldier and died.

The Massachussetts Regiment had not reached Monterey at last accounts, but a rumor had been received that it was ordered to Vera Cruz. The rumor was probably unfounded, but it would excite no surprise were it true.

STEAMBOAT EXPLOSION—LOSS OF LIFE.—As the steamboat Simmon Kenton was leaving St. Louis on the 28th ult., with a large number of passengers on board, the stand which connects the boilers gave way and a large quantity of steam issued from it, scalding several persons severely. The S. Louis Republican says—

Two of the deck passengers, and one of the hands were within its range, and the former were dreadfully scalded. It is hardly possible that either of them can survive. The person of one of the sufferers, a boy, presented a most melancholy spectacle. Both the persons were Germans. The third person had his hands seriously hurt.

In the consternation of the moment, one man, and some persons say two, jumped overboard and were drowned.
