Below I give the answers made by me to the interrogatories of Dr. Cox taken from an exact copy retained by me of my answers. R. F.

Dear Sir—Your letter by Mr. Benny I have received, and hasten to answer the questions asked.

1st. I went down to the late Convention unpledged, but knowing the sentiments of the Whigs in the election district, I felt it my duty to support Mr. Loockerman.

2d. There was an understanding between us that I was to nominate you for Congress. In conversation with a personal friend of mine the day before the Convention I determined not do so, and enquired for you in Easton to let you know my determination, and was told you were in Dorset.

3d. I was called on by Mr. Hooper at Barren Creek after the Convention was organized, saying you did not wish your name placed before the Convention. I told him I did not intend to do so, as I had some conversation with a gentleman on the subject.

I remain yours respectfully,
RICH'D FEDDEMAN.

August 21st, 1847.

WILLIAM T. GOLDSBOROUGH.

During the late visit of this gentleman to our city, he received the visits of a great number of his Whig friends and others who were introduced to him, and we are happy to add that his courteous bearing made a deep and very favorable impression upon many who had not previously known him. The ease, and unaffected sincerity with which he received all who approached him, together with the frankness of his conversation, had the happiest effect, and made him many warm friends. To us, who have known him long and well, and appreciate him so highly, his flattering reception was truly gratifying, as we look upon it as the earnest of that popularity which cannot fail to bear him into the Executive chair. The election of Mr. Goldsborough we look to with profound solicitude on his own account, but more on account of the credit of the State, which we fell assured would be again jeoparded should the choice fall on Mr. Thomas, whose known acts and predilections are identified with those who would violate the faith of Maryland and defraud her creditors.—Rough and Ready.

NAVAL ACADEMY.—The annual examination of the midshipmen at the Naval School was closed at Annapolis on the 7th instant., and the following says the Union, is a list of those who have been successfully passed by the board of examiners:—John. L. Davis, W. K. Bridge, W. R. Thomas, J. S. Thorton, W. H Willcox, W. H. Reily, W. T. Truxton, W. Gibson, R. L. Law, John T. Walker, N T. West, A. C. Jackson, J. Van McCollan, Thomas Rodney, J M. Brooke, A. F. Monroe, W. H. Fauntleroy, W. W. Brodhead, John Wilkies, jr., W. P. Buckner, R. J. D. Price, Thos. C. Harris; W. H. Murdaugh, M. P. Jones, O. C. Badger, James Armstrong, Wm. Sharp, Robert Selden, Thos C. Eaton, The. L. Waller, H. C Hunter, S. S. Bassett, J. H. Somerville, L H. Lyne, Joseph Fry, E. D. Denny, John T. Barraud.

These names are given in order of appointment; and not in the order of merit. The class of 1841 is so large, that a great part of it will remain to be examined during the coming year, and the numbers of relative rank cannot of course be finally assigned until after that examination shall have been completed.

CORN CROP IN KENT.—The Kent News of Saturday last says that in nearly two thirds of that county, there has scarcely any rain fallen for three weeks—the corn crop in those sections needs rain—the nights have become cool, and the the crop must be considerable injured.—A good portion of the corn is late and cannot well mature with out rains and warm weather.

A GOOD OLD WHIG.—A correspondent of the Knoxville (Tenn.) Register, writing from Sullivan County, says:—"On Thursday last, John Van Hoozer, of this county, who is one hundred and fourteen years old, went one and a half miles to the place of holding the election, and voted the full Whig ticket. He has voted at every Presidential election that has been held in the United States. He was a Whig in the Revolution, and is a Whig now."

LOSS OF A BOSTON EAST INDIAMAN.

Letters received by the Cambria dated Singapore, June 2, state that the brig Guess at that port from Ceylon, reports having picked up on the 16th May, Pulo Way, N. E, 25 miles, a boat with five men in it, belonging to the American ship Talma, (of Boston,) Capt. Collins, 120 days from Antwerp for Analaboo, West Coast of Sumatra. From the statement of these persons, it appears that the vessel had been abandoned a month or five weeks previously, in consequence of her having become very leaky, having six feet of water in her hold, and both pumps being choked with sand ballast. The master, mate, and the rest of the crew were in a long boat After keeping company with her ten days, the five men in the above separated and started in an opposite direction. The captain took one box of dollars with him from the ship.

Since the above was in type we find the following additional particulars relating to this ship, in the Boston papers: She was of 295 tons, built at Medford, 20 years old, and valued $8,000, half of which sum was insured at the Neptune office in Boston; she had on board $23,949 in specie and some merchandise, amounting in all to $32,000, which was insured at Amsterdam; one of the men picked up in the boat was the first mate, who states that the Captain had with him a box containing about $2,000, which was all that was saved from the wreck.

HON. HENRY CLAY—Departure from Cape May.—The Hon. Henry Clay, with about 250 individuals, left Cape May, on board the steamer Ohio, on Monday morning, for New Castle, Del. The correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer, who was on board, writes as follows:

After dinner, and just previous to arriving at New Castle, Mr. McMichael, at the request of the committee, addressed Mr. Clay on behalf of those on board the boat, portraying, briefly, but eloquently, the circumstances attending his visit to this section of the country; of his friends having gathered around him, and, leaving business and every occupation behind, following him for the purpose of holding unrestrained social intercourse with him, hearing his voice, and manifesting their attachment to him. He alluded to the universal desire that had been manifested on the part of the people to see and welcome him, and to the enthusiasm with which he had been greeted. Mr. McM. also alluded touchingly to the domestic afflictions, with which an all-wise and inscrutable Providence had chastened him, and assured him that his friends every where sympathised and wept with him. Wherever he went, Mr. McM. said, he would carry with him to the latest hour of his life the deep and ardent love and respect of his friends, whose prayers would be most fervently poured out that he might be blessed with health and long life.

Mr. Clay was much affected by this rather unlooked for compliment, and replied, as only Henry Clay could respond to such sentiments, in tones that thrilled, and in words that melted the hearts of all present. The ardent and devoted affection which had been manifested towards him, both at Philadelphia and at Cape May, had surpassed every thing he could have dreamed of; certainly he had never anticipated being the object of such demonstrations of regard as he had been, and he could not be but deeply affected by them. They were such as any monarch might be justly proud to receive. They were the more extraordinary, as they were given to one who was but a private citizen, who had neither power nor patronage, nor offices nor honors to bestow, and who had no aspiration for office, public station or power, nor anticipated ever being in possession of them. These circumstances, he said, while they rendered the display of affection and attachment to him the more extraordinary, greatly, immensely enhanced their value, as he was sure they were prompted by no interested or selfish motives.

Mr. C spoke in this strain for about fifteen minutes, and closed by invoking blessings upon those present, and upon the country, and bidding all an affectionate farewell. He then shook hands with the ladies present, and proceeded to the bow of the boat, which now was near the New Castle wharf, between two files of gentlemen taking each by the hand, as he went, and bidding them farewell.

A committee was ready to meet him as he landed, and on his departure, was cheered with nine hearty rounds by those on board. He is the guest of Chancellor Johns this evening and night; and will proceed, accompanied by his friend and travelling companion, Dr. Mercer, to the Hon. J. M. Clayton's to-morrow, where he will dine, and from whence he will resume his journey homeward, by the way of the Virginia Springs to-morrow evening.

TROUBLE ABOUT A SLAVE.—We learn from the Boston Courier that a crowd of persons, black and white assembled in front of the Tremont House on Wednesday, in consequence of the arrival of a family from N. Orleans, who are accompanied by a female servant who is a slave. The woman wishes to remain, with her master and mistress, and is not in any way restrained of her liberty, nor will she leave them if she is allowed to have her own way. We understand that she has been with them at Newport and New Bedford where similar demonstrations have been exhibited. A runaway horse with an empty wagon behind him, dispersed the crowd just before two o'clock, much more effectualy than any process of law or police that could have been put in operation.

THE REMAINS OF MR. O'CONNELL.—A letter dated at Dublin, on the 1st instant, to the New York Herald says:

"Yesterday, at 4 o'clock, P. M. the steamer bearing the remains of Daniel O'Connell, was seen entering the Dublin harbor; as she came up the river, the quays on both sides, as well as every steamer and boat, large and small, were filled with dense crowds, drawn together by a variety of feelings, and all anxious to catch a glimpse of the temporary reposing place of the departed chief. A temporary chapel had been erected on the deck of Duchess of Kent steamer, hung with draperies of mourning and lighted up with tapers—within lay the coffin, covered with crimson cloth and escucheoned. It bore in Latin the following inscription: "Daniel O'Connell, Ireland's Liberator, while on his journey to the seat of the Apostles, slept in the Lord at Genoa, on the 15th May, in the year 1847. He lived seventy-one years, nine months and nine days. May he rest in peace." On arriving at the appointed place, the coffin was removed and placed on a hearse drawn by six horses, and attended by the members of his family, and followed by persons bearing wands adorned by white and black ribands. The hearse proceeded to Marlborough street chapel, where the coffin was finally deposited on a catafalque prepared for the purpose, where the remains lie in state until Thursday, the day appointed for the interment."

LARGE FIRE IN NEW YORK.—At about ten o'clock last night a fire broke out in Front street, between Scammel and Walnut streets. The origin of the fire is by some said to have been in a stable at the rear of No. 317 Front street, but by others in a cooper's shop No. 321.

The flames, wherever originating, spread with alarming rapidity, and it was soon apparent that the fire would extend over a large area, principally covered with wooden tenements, each of which was occupied by two or more families. The firemen and a large body of police were there as speedily as possible, and the former made great efforts, but in vain.

A friend who was on the spot tells us that some poor families, occupants of rooms or houses destroyed, were absent from home, and returned only to find their dwellings and small stocks of household furniture enveloped in the flames. The distress was very great.—N. Y. Commercial.

DR. MARTIN'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

This compound is one of the best remedies ever offered to the public in Cough, whether arising from Colds, or the Hooping Cough, or that dreadful malady Consumption. Few remedies in the short time it has been before the Public, have effected so many cures The proprietors are every day receiving orders for it in this City, and at a distance, in which they have been highly gratified to learn its good effects We have the permission of the Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church of Maryland (the Right Rev. W. R. Whittingham) to say he has used the remedy in his own person with decided benefit. Our medical friends do not scruple to recommend it as one of the best remedies in Consumption Asthma &c. which they have ever met with the following is from a highly respectable Physician on Kent Island to whom we made known the ingredients of the preparation

Kent Island, June 22d, 1847.

Dr. G. T. Martin,

Dear Sir.—Since my return home I have prescribed your SYRUP of WILD CHERRY in several cases, one in particular a case of Asthma of long standing (about 18 years) a neighbor and patient of mine. Her disease has never been benefited by any medicine which she has taken, and for the last year or two she has been confined entirely to the house. I do not know that she has had a good nights rest for a long time, but since she commenced taking your medicine (and she has only taken one bottle) she is enabled to go to bed and sleep well all night. I think the medicine will make a perfect cure of her and she is determined to give it a fair trial. Her husband Mr. E Erickson is a merchant here, and says if you will send him some of it, he will act as your agent. I think you might send him some of your other preparations which will meet with ready sale. I send a small bill for medicines which you will please send me and

Oblige your's respectfully
