POETRY.

THE ILLUMINATED CITY.

BY MRS. HEMANS.

THE hills all glow'd with a festive light,
For the royal city rejoic'd by night:
There were lamps hung forth upon tower and tree,
Banners were lifted and streaming free;
Every tall pillar was wreath'd with fire,
Like a shooting meteor was every spir ,
And the outline of many a dome on high
Was traced, as in stars, on the clear dark sky.

I pass'd thro' the streets; there were throngs on throngs—
Like sounds of the deep were their mingled songs;
There was music forth from each palace borne—
A peal of the cymbal, the harp, and horn;
The forests heard it, the mountains rang,
The hamlets woke to its haughty clang;
Rich and victorious was every tone,
Telling the land of her foes o'erthrown.

Didst thou meet not a mourner for all the slain?
Thousands lie dead on their battle-plain!
Gallant and true were the hearts that fell—
Grief in the homes they have left must dwell;
Grief o'er the aspect of childhood spread,
And bowing the beauty of woman's head:
Didst thou hear, midst the songs, not one tender moan,
For the many brave to their slumbers gone?

I saw not the face of a weeper there—
Too strong, perchance, was the bright lamp's glare!
I hea d not a wail midst the jovous crowd—
The music of victory was all too loud!
Mighty it roll'd on the winds afar,
Shaking the streets like a conqueror's car;
Thro' torches and streamers its flood swept by—
How could I listen for moan or sigh?

Turn then away from life's pageants, turn,
If its deep story thy heart would learn!
Ever too bright is that outward show,
Dazzling the eyes till they see not wo.
But lift the proud mantle which hides from thy view
The things thou shouldst gaze on, the sad and true;
Nor fear to survey what its folds conceal—
So must thy spirit be taught to feel!

PARLIAMENTARY PLEDGES AND THE WOMEN OF ENGLAND.

A meeting of delegates from the married women of England took place yesterday, in the drawing-room of a distinguished authoress; the lady herself occupying the chair. The object of the assembly was to determine upon the pledges which the ladies should exact from candidates at the forthcoming election.

The lady of the house, upon being voted into the chair remarked that now, for the first time in her life, she was acting in the capacity of chair-woman. As such, she would prove the advocate of sweeping reform. It was time that the voice of females should be heard in the house—in another sense than on washing days. Women could not catechize candidates at the hustings; no, but they could at the domestic hearth—before the fender—when gentlemen came canvassing, and voters were not at home. It was said that they had no political influence. Had they not? They formed the better half of the constituency, and she trusted that fact would appear at the next election.

A lady had heard of a measure of great importance to females, particularly the married. It was the Smoke Prevention Bill. The evil of smoking existed to a disgusting extent. She proposed that all the candidates should be required to pledge themselves to the abolition of that odious practice, and accordingly to support a prohibitory duty on cigars.

Another lady suggested that snuff should be included in the prohibition. The smoke-nuisance was bad enough, but the snuff-nuisance was beyond everything.

A third lady observed that unfortunately the law makers were the snuff takers, and also the smokers of cigars. She had heard that parliamentary discussions—like many others amongst gentlemen—often ended in smoke, and she quite believed it. It was shameful.

A fourth lady had heard something of a Ten Hour's Bill. She had been told that this bill had been carried already, but she did not believe it. She could mention somebody—who ought to have known better—who came from his club at three o'clock that very morning. When she told him he was liable to be fined, he laughed in her face. One of the pledges, she proposed, should be to vote for a law that all husbands should be obliged to be in by ten o'clock.

This proposal led to a little discussion, in the course of which it was objected that the husband might possibly be out on business.

The lady said a husband could have no business to be out later than ten. It was further objected that parties and the opera were sometimes not over till past midnight.

The lady thought that the difficulty would be met by putting in the words, "out by the ouselves," before the word "husband." She thought the Ten Hour's Bill should also contain a clause against latch-keys.

Pledges for the entire abolition of all duties on eau de Cologne, French gloves and shoes, foreign silks, lace, and feathers; and generally, for the removal of all restrictions upon feminine taste, were then proposed; and it was agreed that, together with the foregoing, they should be demanded directly or indirectly, of all candidates for seats in the next Parliament.

Tea, coffee, and sweet-biscuits, were then introduced, and the drawing-room doors thrown open to the sterner sex; after which there was a carpet-waltz, and the meeting separated.

VALUABLE LAND AND STEAM SAW MILL,

on Tilghman's Island FOR SALE.

THE subscriber finding it inconvenient to attend to the cutting and sawing of timber, will now sell on advantageous terms his track of Wood Land, on Tilghman's Island, containing 126 acres of Land, fifty acres of which is very heavily timbered WHITE OAK. The Steam SAW MILL circular and perpendicular saws, new boilers and in complete order, will be sold with the tract of land. There are four or five small Houses on the land for the accomodation of workmen. The timber when sawed can be put on board vessels and shipped at little expense. The subscriber has always had a full market for timber cut by him, and now has many orders on hand. He wishes to sell only on account of his desire to enjoy retirement.

To a purchaser giving ample security full and ample credit will be given, in order that the purchaser may realize the money for the timber.

DR. MARTIN'S UNIVERSAL
PURGATIVE PILLS.

THESE PILLS have been used by Dr Martin in an extensive practice for many years, and with the greatest success especially in BILLOUS and LIVER DISEASES—They are also particularly recommended in Chronic diseases, such as Dyspepsia, Nervous diseases, habitual costiveness. They may be taken in all cases when a purgative is needed with perfect safety. But of many certificates in our possession we shall only publish one from a highly respectable Physician.

Upper Hunting Creek, Caroline co., Md. October 17, 1846.

Dr. George T. Martin.—Sir, having been made acquainted with the composition of your valuable Pill, by yourself some two or three years ago, I have used them freely in my private practice with entire success, and shall continue to do so as long as I may practice medicine, and I now take great pleasure in recommending such a Pill as yours to the public as a safe and effectual purgative in all cases where a purgative is necessary.

Your's with respect

JOHN F BOON, M D.

We offer also MARTIN and WHITELEY'S NATIONAL TONIC a certain cure for the AGUE & FEVER. This valuable medicine is perhaps the best of the kind ever offered to the public. It is truly a scientific compound. In this remedy will be found all those qualities which must make it a general favorite in all Billious, or Malarious districts. With each bottle there will be a short treatise on fevers which is made comprehensible to every capacity. This Tonic will be found perfectly harmless as regards its effects on the constitution. By its action it restores the digestive functions to health, and speedily removes disease and even the most inveterate cases of, Ague and Fever. DR. MARTIN'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

This compound is one of the best remedies ever offered to the public in Cough, whether arising from Colds, or the Hooping Cough or that dreadful malady Consumption. Few remedies in the short time it has been before the Public, have effected so many cures The proprietors are every day receiving orders for it in this City, and at a distance, in which they have been highly gratified to learn its good effects. We have the permission of the Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church of Maryland (the Right Rev. W, R. Whittingham) to say he has used the remedy in his own person with decided benefit. Our medical friends do not scruple to recommend it as one of the best remedies in Consumption Asthma &c which they have ever met with the following is from a highly respectable Physician on Kent Island to whom we made known the ingredients of the preparation.

Kent Island, June 22d, 1847.

Dr. G. T. Martin,

Dear Sir,—Since my return home I have prescribed your SYRUP of WILD CHERRY in several cases, one in particular a case of Asthma of long standing (about 12 years) a neighbor and patient of mine. Her disease has never been benefited by any medicine which she has taken, and for the last year or two she has been confined entirely to the house. I do not know that she has had a good nights rest for a long time, but since she commenced taking your medicine (and she has only taken one bottle) she is enabled to go to bed and sleep well all night. I think the medicine will make a perfect cure of her and she is determined to give it a fair trial Her husband Mr. R Erickson is a merhant here, and says if you will send him some of it, he will act as your agent. I think you might send him some of your other preparations which will meet with ready sale. I send a small bill for medicines which you will please send me and

Oblige your's respectfully
