There must have been some small payment besides bringing the sum dye me down to the balance ascertained to be due as aforesaid and the admitted items mentioned in the mortgage every paper voucher and document in my possession was exhibited to said Johnson and McCulloh, and were seen or open to the inspection of said Randall and he was then before the adjustment was made credited with every sum received by me, besides these I also received a note of George R Warfield for $286..27 which was sued upon and the amount is credited in exhibit B. herewith filed also several notes of James L. Henshaw for about $5000 which I placed in the hands of Theodore A. Schley Esquire for collection but said Henshaw became an insolvent debtor in account A is a credit for money received of T. A Schley Esq whether that was a dividend on Henshaws estate or not I cannot remember.

A note of Richard W. Batsons for $340 or thereabouts which was sued upon in Anne Arundel County but hitherto he has been utterly unable to pay I have been informed recently however that by the death of his father he has acquired some property in consequence of which I have ordered the judgment against him to be revived — Also a claim against John W. Jones who became an insolvent debtor so far as lies in my power to give it this is a reply to the second Interrogatory.

To the third answer that so far as I know the interest of Col Randall in the firm of A. G. Cole and Company consisted of three fourteenths (3/15) of that business and property that partnership was dissolved and Thomas R. Hand appointed agent for winding it up, said Hand was a partner of said Randall and account marked Exhibit B. shews every dollar of payment in money of property made to be from said assignment as well as from every other source I believe that the assets of said partnership have been faithfully and diligently collected by said Hand. The property was I believe divided among the parties interested and the value of such division coming to me is credited in the account marked B. I believe A. G. Cole sold out his interest in the concerns to the other persons interested for $7000 to the best of my recollection a price much above its value as per results have proved. The Concerns did owe the bank of Maryland a large sum of money the precise amount I do not now remember but the books of that institution which are open to the counsel of said Randall as well as my self will shew the exact amount. I do not know whether the said firms made any or how much money by paying said debt I never having kept or seen their accounts, I never interfered in any manner with the business of said concerns, my only object in taking the assignment from Col Randall was to obtain security for my debt and not to become a partner in said concern. The Bank suspended on the 22d or 24th March 1834 deponents belief is that said firms in order to pay their debt properly to the bank sold their lumber for the notes of said banks at par Col Randall continued in said business for some time after the failure of the Bank and ought to know what was paid and how paid before he left it.

To the fourth I answer that I never took any measures to collect a debt of A. L. Cook and never did receive any portion of it

Dr Sir. I am greatly harassed by Wm C. Doughty of this place (formerly of Baltimore) had to order him out of my room last Monday. He goes all over town stating that all he is worth in the world was entrusted to Delaplaine that he has nothing to show for it but that Delaplanes Books will show it, and that I am not willing to do him justice thereby raising a sympathy in his own favor and hostile feelings towards me among the citizens which has easily done on account of my being a stranger he is assisted in this course by Lawyer McHarry I think the books show the balance against him he claims sometimes $3 and sometimes $4000, I have agreed to submit the matter to Mr Forsyth of the firm of Forsyth & Atterbery you gave me a letter to this House but letters of introduction are considered as mere matters of custom and are not much attended to, therefore you will please to see Mr Atterbery in Baltimore on his return home and try to interest him in my favour, If I cannot have a true friend in this matter in justice may be done, Mr Atterbery is expected home next week, If you do not see him in Baltimore on his return, Please to write him a strong letter on the subject,

Very respectfully yours

B. Randall.

Dr Sir. Yours of 16th instant has been received I assure you that my wishes is to be released from all liabilities for Mr Simpson in the best and most expeditious way and look to your skill and management with the greatest confidence.

If Mr Simpson has understood any thing said in my letters to him as consenting to continue my liabilities for him any longer than you may think it necessary he has entirely misconceived my meaning, He has empowered me to settle up his and Delaplaines concern here, This I is my desire to do in the best possible manner. The debts due to the concern amount to 14 or $15000, It is supposed that the stock
