POETRY.

THE WOUNDED VULTURE.

BY MISS ANNE C. LYNCH, OF NEW YORK.

A kingly vulture sat alone
Lord of the ruin around,
Where Egypt's ancient monuments,
Upon the desert frowned.

A hunters's eager eye had marked
The form of that proud bird,
And through the voiceless solitude,
His ringing shot was heard.

It rent that vulture's plumed breast,
Aimed with unerring hand,
And his life blood gushed warm and red
Upon the yellow sand

No struggle marked the deadly wound,
He gave no piercing cry,
But calmly spread his giant wings;
And sought the upper sky.

In vain with swift pursuing shot
The hunter reeks his prey,
Circling and circling upward still,
On his majestic way.

Up to the blue Empyrean
He wings his steady flight,
Till his receding form is lost,
In the full flood of light.

Oh! wounded heart! oh, suffering soul!
Sit not with folded wing,
Where broken dreams, and ruined hopes,
Their mournful shadows fling.

Outspread thy pinions like that bird,
Take thou the path sublime,
Beyond the flying shafts of Fate,
Beyond the wounds of Time.

Mount upward! brave the clouds and storms
Above life's desert plain,
There is a calmer, purer air,
A Heaven thou, too, may'st gain.

And as that dim, ascending form,
Was lost in day's broad light,
So shall thine earthly sorrows fade,
Lost in the Infinite.

A STORY FOR OUR TIMES.

A venerable old Dutchman, after having occupied all the offices of one of the principal cities of the republic, with great honor, and having amassed a great fortune in the most unexceptionable manner, finally formed the resolution of going to terminate, his days tranquilly at his country seat. But before retiring he wished to take a leave of his friends and connections and accordingly invited them all to a feast, at his house. The guests, who expected a most sumptuous repast, were much surprised on going into the eating room to see there a long oaken table covered with a coarse blue cloth. On being seated they were served on wooden plates, with salted herring, rye bread and butter, with some cheese and curdled milk. Wooden vases, filled with small beer, were passed round for each of the guest to serve themselves. This extreme oddity, of the old gentleman, caused secret murmuring among the company; but, out of respect to his age and wealth, instead of showing discontent, they pretended to relish their frugal fare; and some of them even complimented him for the cordiality of those good old times which he had brought to remembrance. The old man—who was not duped by this feigned satisfaction—did not wish to carry the joke any farther—but at a signal which he gave, some servants, habited as country women, entered bringing the second service. A white cloth succeeded the blue one, and some pewter plates replaced the wooden ones.—Instead of rye bread, dried herrings, and cheese, they were served with good brown bread, fresh beef, boiled fish, and strong beer. At this unexpected change, the secret murmurs ceased; the polite invitations on the part of the old man became more pressing, and the guests ate with a better appetite. Hardly had they time to taste the second service, when they saw a butler enter, followed by half a dozen servants, in brilliant livery, bringing the third.

A superb table of mahogony, covered with a beautiful flowered cloth, replaced the oaken one. A side board was immediately covered with the richest plate and most curious china; and the guests charmed at the sight of a profusion of rare and exquisite meats. The most delicious wines were freely passed around, while a melodious concert was heard in an adjoining room. Toasts were drank; all were merry. But the good old man, perceiving that his presence hindered the guests from giving themselves to their full joy, rose and addressed them thus: "I give you thanks, ladies and gentlemen, for the favor which you have granted me. It is time that I should retire, myself, and leave you to your liberty. But before the ball commences, which I have ordered to be prepared for those who love the dance, permit me to acquaint you with the design that I proposed to myself in inviting you to a repast which has appeared so odd.—I have wished thereby to give you an idea of our Republic. Our ancestors rose to their high state, and acquired liberty, riches, and power, by living in the frugal manner which you saw in the first service. Our fathers preserved those great blessings only by living in the simple manner of which the second service has refracted an image. It is permitted to an old man who is about to leave you, and who tenderly loves you, to speak, I must say, I fear that the extravagant profusion which you may have remarked in the last service, and which is the present style of living, will deprive us of more than our ancestors have acquired by the sweat of their brow, and our fathers have transmitted to us by their industry and wise calculation."

A NEW VOLUME.

The Home Journal for 1848.
EDITED BY MORRIS & WILLIS.

The immense edition of the January numbers of this universally popular FAMILY NEWSPAPER are disappearing rapidly. New Subscribers, who wish to preserve all the chapters of the new and beautiful

AMERICAN NOVEL.

(now in the course of publication) and FILES OF THE WORK FOR 1848, can be supplied with complete sets, if immediate application be made. The Home Journal is precisely what its title implies: a Journal for Home. It contains an endless variety of choice, instructive, refined and sterling literature—the amusing News and Gossip of England, France and America, and a chronicle of news for Ladies. It is not only a weekly review of the world's progress, but a highly ornamental parlor newspaper of piquant and peculiar interest. It is, in short, the best and cheapest paper every issued by its editors, and by far the most entertaing and elegant. The terms are only $2,00 a year, (or 3 copies for $5.) Address Morris & Willis, No. 107 Fulton-street, New York.

DR. THOMPSON'S
MEDICATED SYRUP OF CASTOR OIL.

THE Subscriber would most respectfully inform the Citizens of Cambridge and the Public generally, that he has succeeded in making Castor Oil perfectly agreeable and while it is rendered agreeable to the taste, the Cathartic properties are very little if any diminished; and by the medication all that acrid quality of which oil is generally possessed which rendered it inadmissable with some persons, especially with infants, is entirely destroyed.

It is well known that Castor Oil is almost an universal medicine—entering into the use of every family, and administered in the treatment of almost every disease—and would be much more frequently prescribed by physicians, was it not for the great aversion to its use. But in this preparation, the subscriber can assure physicians and patients, they will find it so perfectly agreeable to the taste, that infants and ladies of the most delicate stomachs can take it without the least inconvenience. Indeed it is so perfectly palitable that should it be found necessary to take a little more in a dose it will not be found objectionable to the patient.

The Medicated Syrup of Castor Oil may be had at the store of E. M. DAWSON & BROTHER, in Easton. Wholesale and Retail orders from a distance promptly attended to.

THE UNION MAGAZINE
of Literature & Art.

EDITED BY
Mrs. C. M. KIRKLAND,
Author of a "New Home," "Forest Life," etc.
AND FILLED WITH
Contributions from the most eminent writers of the country.

The Second Volume commences with the January Number, 1848.

AT the conclusion of the first half year of the "Union Magazine," the Publisher feels impelled to make some acknowledgment of his sense of the favorable reception accorded to it by the public. Its success has certainly been unprecedented; and while it may be pardonable to ascribe this in part to the merits of the work it must not be denied that public good will and kindness have been abundantly demonstrated. The press, in all parts of the country, have given its voice liberally and heartily in favor of the new aspirant.

To flag after this would be dishonorable indeed. It is the hope of the publisher, that the courage and enterprise which belong to success will be found rather to have stimulated than slackened his exertions. If there be talent of a suitable kind in the country he is determined to make it available to the Union Magazine in the various departments. He will continue to give superior engravings in Mezzotint, Line and Wood, by H. S. Sadd Thomas Doney, M Osborne, Hinshelwood, W. S Barnard, B. F. Childs, P. Loomis, &c, from original designs by T. H. Matteson, who has the sole direction of all the designs for the Engravings.

The Literary matter will continue to be under the exclusive control of the Editor. Mrs. C. M. Kirkland assisted by a corps of contributors who are either established favorites of the reading public or worthy to become so. Such as

S. Consul to Shang Hai, China which to the Curious and intelligent will be worth at least a years subscription to the Magazine. And every exertion will be made which literary ability, ingenuity of Artists, and adequate capital can do, to make the Union Magazine worthy of the place already so generously granted it in the public esteem.

The Union Magazine will be published regularly on the first of each month.

Dyspepsia Cured.

MARTIN & WHITLEY'S NATIONAL TONIC is the best remedy ever offered to the public in all cases of Dyspepsia and Ague and Fever. A healthy condition and a natural action of the functions of the Stomach and Liver are necessary to healthy Digestion. The Stomach has been called the centre of Sympathies. It may therefore be truly said there is no disorder of the humane body, which does not, more or less, affect the functions of the Stomach. "Indigestion is rarely, if ever the sole cause of organic disease of the Stomach." It is however a very fruitful source of it in other parts of the system. It is, then, evident whatever will restore the tone or healthy action of the Stomach, when impaired by disease, is the only proper Medicine as a curative. Such, we feel assured is the national Tonic.

We give below a certificate of a highly respectable gentleman, a merchant in Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, who last summer came to consult a distinguished Physician in this City. He had also sought the aid of several, who rank high in their profession in Philadelphia, and in the State of Pennsylvania. But hearing of this Tonic, determined to use it as directed, and the result has been, as he says a perfect cure.

Church Town, Cumberland Co., Pa., Nov 3d 1847.

Messrs. Martin & Whiteley,

Gentlemen—I have used your preparation called Fever and Ague Tonic, for the cure of Dyspepsia, and am happy to inform you that it has cured me of the most obstinate and inveterate case of Dyspepsia. I therefore recommend it to all similarly afflicted.

Yours, CARY W. AHL.

N. B.—I consider myself perfectly cured of Dyspepsia.

Price $1 per bottle. Around each bottle there is a short treatise on those diseases.—Prepared and sold by Martin and Whiteley at their wholesale Drug Store, 320 Baltimore street.
