negative of the Governor was constantly made use of to extort money. No good law whatever could be passed without a private bargain with him. * * If the executive was to have a council, such a power would be less objectionable. It was true the king of Great Britain had not as was said, exerted his negative since the revolution; but that matter was easily explained. The bribes and emoluments now given to the members of Parliament rendered it unnecessary, every thing being done according to the will of the ministers. He was afraid, if a negative should be given as proposed, the more power and money would be demanded, till at last enough would be got to influence and bribe the legislature into a complete subjection to the will of the executive."

He next took up Gen. Taylor, and among other hard things he said that the Ingersoll letter was "the greatest jumble ever placed before the American people," and that his letters showed him "to be more of an ultra fool than an ultra Whig." He said Gen. Taylor was not fit to be President, for he had doubted his own capacity! As the speaker did not prove the competency of Mr. Cass, we suppose that he (Cass) must somewhere have said that Gen. Lewis Cass was the only proper man to rule this great nation.

The speaker denounced Mr. Fillmore, calling him as "rank an abolitionist as there was in New England or Ohio," and classed him with Severance, Giddings and Slade. He was not probably aware that Mr. Fillmore's letters and life had ever been seen on this Shore, or he would not have been so foolish as to have uttered the sentence. The letter to Gov. Gayle, published two or three weeks since, negatives the assertion that Mr. F. is in favor of the abolition of slavery any where, in the District of Columbia, States or Territories, and the following extract from another letter written by Mr. F. shows how true was the speakers assertion that he was in favor of prohibiting the transportation of slaves from one state to another!

"I am not aware that this question has ever been discussed in congress, or was ever presented for the consideration of the Supreme Court of the United States before 1841. In that year the celebrated case from Mississippi was decided, and Mr. Justice McLean gave an elaborate opinion on this point, in which the Chief Justice concurred. He came to the conclusion that the constitutional power over this matter was vested in the several States, and not in Congress. So far as my knowledge extends, this opinion carried conviction to every unprejudiced mind; and the question was considered settled. At any rate this was my own opinion then, and I have seen no cause to change it since. Should I do so, I should not hesitate to declare it."

It will be seen, he thinks that an owner has a right to move his slaves with him to any other slave State. "Fallen and degraded Van Buren" came in for his share of the hard knocks as a matter of course. He is just as good as he ever was in our opinion,—we have always thought him a cunning and selfish politician unworthy of confidence. The speaker then came to Gen. Cass; said he was a very fine man, and they went for him, because he was pledged to carry out the Baltimore platform. Gen. Cass, he said, had been much vilified, but he did not tell us on what particular points, nor did he tell us his qualifications. Every public man except Cass and Butler received a large share of his attention, with them he had nothing to do. Mr. H. had learnt a "thing or two," and thought the "least said the soonest mended." During the speech there was no enthusiasm prevailing, and a large portion of the Baltimore "Democracy" were every where but near the meeting.

T. Parkin Scott commenced to address the meeting and had spoken about three minutes, when a "bit of a row" taking place among some of the "harmonious," nearly every one left the meeting to see the sport." Mr. Scott cast one "long, lingering look" after his audience, and pulling out his watch said "he was reminded that the boat was about starting, and he must close his remarks," and at half past four o'clock the meeting broke up without a cheer or anything to denote that it was a political gathering.

Rumors had been put in circulation that Henry A. Wise, Albert Constable and other distinguished speakers would be present, but the number in attendance from the county was no larger than a county meeting attracts, and the lack of enthusiasm and the inattention of those present made the meeting altogether very unsatisfactory to the thinking portion of the "Democracy."

GENERAL TAYLOR'S LETTER to the Independent party of Maryland, which will be found on our first page, does not please the Locofocos any better than his preceding ones. The organ of the party in this county publishes an extract from two of the General's letters, and charges him with violating pledges, inconsistency, &c. Some weeks since we offered to leave the question of our candidate's consistency upon all his published letters, (as garbled extracts can be so arranged as to have the appearance of inconsistency, while all his letters taken in connection with each other clear him from any such charge,) but our neighbor would not assent to that, and we have nothing to say upon the subject until he does so. In finding fault with Gen. Taylor on that ground, however, our neighbor is "straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel." Will he tell us something about Gen. Cass' tergiversations? he was opposed to the annexation of Texas and then its strongest advocate—in favor of "54 40 or fight" and very quietly took 49 without a war—in favor of the Wilmot Proviso in 1846, "noncommittal" in 1847, and opposed to it in 1848.—Until our neighbor tells us something about those changes we think he might as well say nothing about inconsistency in any one else, especially in so straightforward and honest a man as ZACHARY TAYLOR.

☞ Who is Joseph Brown? He is defending Gen. Cass in a letter, in the first sentence of which he pronounces the charge of Land Speculation "false, and got up by a party whose very aliment is falsehood!" The agent of the Association, B. B. Kercheval, in his defence of Gen. Cass says he (Cass) did pay in $20,000 for the purpose of speculating in public lands while Secretary of War, but it was all right, he said, because no law prohibited him doing so. Mr. Brown came so far from the truth in the first paragraphs, that we do not think much confidence can be placed in his assertions.

☞ We learn that at a meeting of the Trustees of the Union Academy at Snow Hill, Worcester co., held on the 4th inst., for the appointment of a Principal for that Institution, ROBERT F. NEELY, A. B., graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, was unanimously elected to the vacancy.

MILITARY CRITICISM.—One of the curiosities of literature at this epoch is to be found in the last number of the Democratic Review. The military critic of that periodical condemns the battle of Buena Vista as one fought without generalship and gained by the bravery of the troops in spite of the blunders of the commander.—The Review does not state that Gen. Taylor fled from the field—but there is time for two numbers more to appear before the election in November.

History has preserved the name of the rhetorician who proposed to give lectures to Hannibal on the art of war—intimating that the hero had much to learn. It was a happy instance of self-complacency which Hannibal thought too good to be lost, and he accordingly listened to the recital of his mistakes from a critic who had never seen a battle. If the critic of the Review will send his lecture to Gen. Taylor, we have no doubt at all that "the old man" will enjoy the perusal of it very much. The General is said to be fond of a joke in a quiet, good-natured way.—Balt Amer.

OPERATIONS OF THE TARIFF OF '47.

A large lot of Iron, received from New York, passed through this city, a few days ago, for Cincinnati. This iron was bought in New York at the rate of 5-12ths less than the same description of iron is sold by our manufacturers, and cost the purchaser, delivered in Cincinnati, one fourth less than he could have purchased the same description of iron in the Western market. Foreign iron is thus under the operation of our Locofoco Revenue Tariff, passing right under the noses of our manufactures, and driving them out of their own market.—What will be consequence? The American manufacturer must either quit making iron, or he must reduce the price of his labour to enable him to compete with foreign iron. Thus American labour is made to suffer by locofoco legislation.—Pittsburg Gaz.

A FALSE CONCLUSION.—It is blindly argued by the locos that the Pennsylvania elections of 1846, where no indication of public sentiment, because in 1847 the Locos secured a majority in the lower branch of the Legislature, and elected their Governor. They keep out of view an important element which tended to that success Gen. TAYLOR was then the "democratic nominee for President," under the sanction of one of the strongest State central Committeees ever organized by that party in our State, and many of the most violent of their papers were openly espousing his cause. Bedford and Berks were conspicuous in this movement, and it was almost as common to hear the cry of "Taylor, Shunk and Longstreth" then, as it was to hear of "Polk, Dallas and the Tariff of '42," on a former election. The name of TAYLOR was a "tower of strength" which "they upon the adverse faction lack" now. Those of the Loco party who supported him when they thought he might be a tool of party, have deserted him since his determination to be the President of the entire people. His stand upon the Constitution was too circumscribed for the supporters of the Baltimore Platform. We therefore go into the election for Governernor in a fortnight with Gen. TAYLOR as the Whig nominee for the Presidency, and all those who sculked behind his reputation a year ago, are now only in the field as his avowed opponents. This will leave us an assured and easy victory.—Phila. Amer.

THE INDEPENDENT ORDER OF ODD FELLOWS.—At the recent session of the Grand Lodge of the United States, held in Baltimore, the affairs of the Order were found to be in a highly prosperous condition. The New York Mirror says:

The annual return of the Grand Secretary shows a great increase of the order in the United States. The revenue has increased ten per cent, Membership twenty-three per cent, and Relief fifteen per cent. Connecticut, New York, Iowa, and a part of Florida have made no report.—We take the returns of last year from these States, and add the increase as above.

HON. ALEX. H. STEVEES.—We learn from the Journal and Messenger, that after proceeding as far as Griffin, on his way to attended his appointments in Wilkinson co. Mr. Stevens was obliged to desist, and return home. His hand had grown extremely painful, and the general debility of his system increased to such an extent, that it was thought advisable by his physicians that he should abandon all idea of engaging in the excitement and fatigues of the campaign.

LETTER FROM MR. CLAY TO THE VIRGINIANS.

The Richmond papers of Tuesday morning publish the following letter from Mr. Clay to the President of what is known as the "Slash Convention:"

ASHLAND, Sept. 12, 1848.

My Dear Sir:—I duly received your very kind official letter, transmitting the proceedings of a public meeting held at the Slash Church, in Hanover county, at which they did me the honor to propose my name as a candidate for the Presidency, in terms highly flattering and complimentary.

I recognise, among the persons assembled on that occasion, many names with which, in my youthful days, I was very familiar and extremely intimate—associates at school, playmates, neighbors, friends.—The Slash Church, too, where the assemblage took place, recalls many early and agreeable recollections, as being that at which I received a large part of my imperfect education.

Regarding those proceedings as the affectionate expression of the esteem, attachment and confidence of my old companions, or their descendants, I have never received any similar document with more gratification, or with sentiments of more profound gratitude; and I presume that it was in that sense that the proceedings occurred, and were transmitted by you to me.

Considered as a serious and formal presentation of my name to the people of the United States, as a candidate for the Presidential office, I am sure that you will not be surprised at my saying that it is impossible for me to accept the nomination.

My name, with my consent, was submitted to the consideration of the Philadelphia Convention, which asembled in June last. That body thought proper to nominate a distinguished citizen of the United States, and not me. In view of the relation in which I stood to the Convention, I do not think that I ought to pass any judgment upon its proceedings. It is sufficient for me to know that it did not deem it expedient to nominate me. In this decision I have entirely acquiesced. I have quietly submitted to it, and have given no encouragement or countenance to any further use or connection with my name for the Presidency. To this effect, I have uniformly written to all associations and individuals who have addressed me on the subject. I hope that my good friends of Hanover will approve of my adherence to this resolution, dictated by my honor, by a regard to my character, and by my desire of retirement. Tell them under what great obligations they have placed me, and that I shall cherish the proofs of their friendship and confidence, which you have sent me, among the most precious treasures of memory.

Nor can I conclude without tendering to you personally, my grateful acknowledgements for the kind and flattering terms in which you have addressed me, and especially for your touching allusion to the venerated memories of my lamented parents.

I am, with high respect, your friend and obedient servant, H. CLAY

Thomas G. Clarke, Esq

MAINE ELECTION.

The Augusta Age contains returns for Governor from 416 towns and plantations, with the following returns compared with 1847:

Dana, Loco.	39,175	Dana	32,736
Hamlin, Whig	29,933	Bronson	23,938
Fessenden, Soil.	11,965	Fessenden	7,520

Gains.—Locofocos, 6, 439; Whigs 5,-395; Free Soil, 4,445.

Eleven towns and seventeen plantations to be heard from, which last year gave Dana 693 votes; Bronson 278; others 109.

Legislature.—The Senate, when the vacancies are filled, will comprise 3 Whigs and 28 Locos. To the House are thus far elected 74 Locos; 66 Whigs; 15 Free Soilers; 1 Taylor Democrat.

Congress.—2 Whigs and 5 Locos—a Whig gain of one.

NORTH CAROLINA LEGISLATURE.—The Raleigh Register contains an official list of the members elect to the Legislature. The Senate stands 26 Whigs and 24 democrats of which number two have since died—one of each party. The House stands 60 whigs and 60 democrats, of whom one, a whig, has since died.

Important Political Change. Judge Myers, and twelve other prominent citizens of Clarion co., Pa., heretofore belonging to the democratic party, have published an address in the Clarion Register, urging the election of Gen. Taylor

INDEPENDENT CANDIDATES.—Jas. Saulsbury, dem., is running as an independent candidate for the State Senate in Caroline co.

Mr. John Chambers, whig, is an independent candidate for the Sheriffalty in Queen Anne's.

Mr. M. M. Dean is an independent candidate for sheriff in Dorchester county.

DUEL AND SUICIDE. A distressing affair occured at Havre-de-Grace on Wednesday night. It appears that a young man named Aldridge, and Mr. William Thomas, of Harford county, had a dispute at a gaming table, which resulted in an immediate duel, in which Aldridge was mortally wounded, receiving the ball of Thomas' pistol in the body, just below the heart. Thomas immediately escaped to Bel-Air, informed his friends of the difficulty, and retired to a room at Magraw's hotel, where in a short time he committed suicide by discharging a pistol, the contents of which entered his head behind the ear, and producing his death in a few hours. Mr. Thomas was a young Man highly respected, and served in Mexico as a Texan Ranger with great distinction. His brother, Herman S. Thomas, it will be remembered, was killed at the storming of Monterey.

Naval.—The U. S. steamship Allegheny has been ordered to proceed, on the 1st November, from Rio Janeiro to the Mediterranean.

STEAMBOAT EXPLOSION—Loss of Life—An Editor Killed.—A despatch from Cincinnati to the Patriot, states that the steamer Concordia, of Memphis, while running down the river burst her boiler at Plaquemine, on Monday last. Fifteen persons, hands and deck passengers, were killed, and many are missing whose fate is still unaccounted for. The cabin passengers all happily escaped without injury.

John Jenkins, Esq., editor of the Vicksburg Sentinel, was killed on the 15th inst. in a street fight. The cause of this lamentable affair was a political quarrel. This is, we believe, the third or fourth editor of this paper who has met a violent death.—Dr. Hagan, its former editor, was killed two years ago.

Mr. EDWARD GRIFFITH, who was appointed in New York at Vauxhall Garden, one of the "Committee of nine," has declined positively to serve in that capacity, disapproving entirely of the movement in favor of Mr. Clay. He will vote the "Taylor and Fillmore" electoral ticket, as will others whose names were used without authority at that meeting.

CURES! CURES! CURES! are constantly being performed by Dr. Jayne's Family Medicines. Mrs. Sabra, wife of Capt. John Dunham, No. 6. Galbraith's Court, Philadelphia, had a very bad cough, soreness of the breast and side, sore throat, costive habit, lowness of spirits, with weakness and pain in the small of the back. Spitting of blood and liver complaint has been entirely cured by using Dr. Jayne's Sanative Pills, Alterative and Expectorant.

☞ It is with pleasure that we give place to the following from Mr. Ira Huckins, of Tamworth, who was supposed to be past cure of a Consumption, but was restored to health by the use of "Dr. Jayne's Expectorant." We can speak with confidence of this medicine, as we know of many of our friends who have been greatly benefitted by it. EDITOR.

Tamworth, N. H., Dec. 10, 1845.

Dear Sir—I feel it my duty to make known to you, for the benefit of the public, the aid I received from the use of a bottle of Dr. Jayne's Expectorant, which I purchased of you. I had been sick between five and six months, caused by the lung fever, which left me in a very low state of health, with a very bad cough and for about three months I could only speak in a whisper. My friends all thought me to be in a decline. My physician said he had done all for me he could. About this time I fortunately saw advertised in the papers, "Dr. Jayne's Expectorant," for sale by you. I immediately sent to you for a bottle, and in two days after using I began to feel better,—in about ten days I recovered my voice and could speak tolerably well, and before using the whole bottle I was nearly as well as ever. My health is now good.

I attribute my cure wholly to Dr. Jayne's medicine. IRA HUCKINS.

VALUABLE BAY-SIDE LAND FOR SALE.

THE undersigned, as Agent for the heirs, will sell at private sale, "Sherwood Forest," the residence of the late William Freeland. This Farm is beautifully situated upon the waters of Broad Creek, in Talbot County, Md., within three miles of the Post Town of St. Michaels, and contains the quantity of 233 3-4 Acres of Land, of which eighty acres are Woodland.

The arable land is in a highly improved state, having been well limed. The soil is fertile.

The improvements are good. The DWELLING is large and commodius, and the out houses ample and in good repair. It is unnecessary to describe further this desirable property. To a person wishing a beautiful, improved and healthy residence, on navigable water, in an agreeable neighborhood, within six hours sail of Baltimore, this Farm commands itself. The property will be shown by Samuel Hambleton, Senior, residing near it. Inquiries may be made of Thomas H. Freeland, of the House of Freeland and Hall, in Baltimore, or the subscriber. One fourth of the purchase money only will be required in Cash; the balance in three equal, annual Instalments from the day of sale, with interest thereon, secured by bond and approved security.

The Wheat crop will be seeded in approved, husband-like manner in due season, and can be had by the purchaser upon liberal terms.—There is also fine stock of all kinds, now on the Farm, which can be procured by the purchaser of this Land upon accommodating terms.—If not sold at private sale on or before TUESDAY, the 31st of October, this property will on that day at half past 2 o'clock, P. M., be offered at public Auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House in Easton. Immediate possession of the Premises will be given to the Purchaser.
