THE WORKING MAN'S SONG. "Ath-"A Little More Cider, do."

We hate the war "Old Buck" does talk, And so do all the rest, Who carn their bread by daily toil, And feel equal to the best; We well remember, Jimmy, Your glorious "ten cent" speech, How wages were to be reduced, How our pockets you tried to reach.

CHORUS--Your low wages will never do. Low wages will never do, Your low wages will never do Jeems. Low wages will never do. From Pauperdom, the idea came, And in your head did centre.

That working men were paid too high,

And service you must render;

We trust you'll learn a lesson,

The moneyed man must be your pet, His cause you did espouse, But when you did it, you never thought, What indignation you'd arouse. Your low wages will never do, &c. Now, in November next, Jeemes,

And ever after make amends By going to confession. The "ten cent" speech, and slandered Clay, Both show your cruel passion, And in November next, you'll get, A sound and glorious "threshing."

Your low wages will never do, &c.
