VALEDICTORY—TO THE PATRONS OF THE EASTON GAZETTE.—With this issue does my connection with the Gazette close. I have determined upon this course in order to prosecute exclusively my profession—the law. During my connection with the paper I have endeavored to the best of my ability to discharge faithfully the responsible duties thus imposed upon me, and hope I have not been unsuccessful. It is however for you to judge. My aim has been to render the paper acceptable, and a welcome visiter at the fireside of every reader.

I now retire from it for the exclusive purpose of attending more strictly to the practice of the law, which I shall hereafter make my study, but which I have recently neglected by reason of the aforesaid cause. It may be that by my uncompromising course as a political writer I have engendered unfriendly feelings in the hearts of some of the opposite party, if so, I hope such differences and unkind feelings may now be buried in the past. My successor, William H. Councell, Esq., is a young man of ability, a practical man, having been reared in the office from mere youth up.—He will therefore be found, I am sure, amply competent to the task. He will continue to advocate the principles of the American party. As regards the patronge of the Gazette, it is now better than it has been at any previous period, and may I ask you to continue, yea doubly increase your patronage to him. Nothing tends so much towards the encouragement of one as the manner in which his labors are rewarded by the public, to whom he looks for that liberality of support for which the paper has been hitherto distinguished. Then in view of these things let me bespeak for my successor that liberal share of patronage heretofore lavished upon the paper.

With the above remarks I now bid you an affectionate editorial farewell.

June 27, 1857. ALFRED P. HUMP.

MD. AND DEL. RAIL ROAD.—In consequence of the deep interest felt by our community in this important enterprise and the frequent inquiries made of us in regard to the progress of the work, which has been confined principally to the upper part of the line, we have taken some pains to obtain correct information on the subject, and are happy to be able to state that the last section of the road between Hillsborough and the State line, will be finished in a few weeks.

Since the passage of the charter in Delaware the route in that State has been located, and such portions of it as the company could not obtain by private arrangements with the land holders have been valued by commissioners on terms which we understand are generally doing justice to the interests of all parties. A few of the landholders have taken appeals which will be decided by a jury in about two weeks, when the company will proceed with the construction of the road, commencing at the junction with the Delaware Rail Road.

We understand it is the intention of the company to expend on the line in Delaware all the stock that has been or may be raised in that State, reserving the stock raised in Maryland as far as possible for the completion of this portion of the road. We also learn that the work has been prosecuted that far with the expenditure of only a limited portion of the stock, and without the use of any bonds whatever. And we congratulate the company on the continuance of the same healthy condition of its affairs which has existed from the commencement of its operations, and which we have no doubt will continue to the completion of the road if the community will furnish the officers with the means which are necessary for its prosecution.

LITTLE DORRIT.—We have received, from T. B. Peterson, No. 306 Chesnut street, Philadelphia, a copy of "Little Dorrit," by Charles Dickens—printed from the advance sheet received from the author per last steamer, from England. The Dollar Philadelphia newspaper says of Little Dorrit:

"We need not say that Little Dorrit is a work which will interest the public—every body knows the merits of Dickens' writings, and this last is equal, in graphic power and skillful delineations of character, to any of his previous works. The plot is of absorbing interest, upon which is strung pearls and diamonds of descriptive writing. All readers sympathize heartily with little Dorrit, her patient endurance and unfaltering love for all who leaned upon her for aid, and they must heartily rejoice, when at the altar of St. George's Church, she writes her name as the happy bride of Arthur.—Mr. Peterson has now ready eighteen different editions of "Little Dorrit," all of which have been published simultaneously with the completion of the story, in England, at an expense of Two Thousand Dollars for the privilege of having the sheets, as they appeared in England, sent to him in advance of all others in this country.—Price of the complete work, Fifty cents only

THE HAIL STORM IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.—Further Particulars.—The hail and thunder storm which passed over the city of Washington and its vicinity on Sunday afternoon created sad havoc to window glass, and also did much other damage.—From the Star we gather the following additional particulars:

The Smithsonian Institution lost 2,000 panes of glass; Hughes, flowers and rear plants ruined. The beautiful field of oats in the public square west of the Smithsonian Institution is cut down as if with a scythe. In nearly all the private gardens the grape vines, peach trees, strawberry vines and vegtables are entirely ruined. The government green house at the foot of the capitol is a complete wreck; the United States Hotel has lost 400 panes of glass and sustained a damage of some $300; the new government armory has lost every pane of glass on its northwesterly front; the skylights at the capitol, three-eights of an inch thick, were cracked and broken; the American House (Mrs. Beveridge's) was struck twice by lightning, by which the top of a chimney was demolished, the plastering torn off the ceiling of the private entrance and the carpet ripped up in one of the parlors.

The lightning-rod at the Rev. M. Teasdale's church undoubtedly saved that edifice from destruction, as a ball of fire was seen to pass down it, causing a vivid light. Rev. Mr. Carother's church, corner of Fifth and I streets, lost some 200 panes of glass; the tin roof of the church was also badly bruised. The Rev. Mr. Carothers himself, while in the neighborhood of the church, was so much stunned by the electric fluid as to be rendered unconscious for a time.—Grace church, Island, (Rev. Mr. Holmead's,) also suffered severely from the hail.

The skylights and windows at Brown's Hotel suffered not a little, as also did another exposed building, the Catholic Orphan Asylum, on Fast. It is estimated that the cost to the government and corporation of repairing breakages upon the street lamps will not be less than $2.000. The Burnet House lost 63 panes of glass; Mrs. King's, F. street, 30; Trinity church some $500 or $600 worth of stained glass. Capt. Birch lost 150 panes of glass from his residence near the steamboat wharf. Much injury was done to the fine plate glass of Mr. Geo. Parker's residence.

The storm, luckily, did not "cut a very wide swath" in its course, and was not even felt as near the city as the "half-way tree," between this place and Alexandria.

The last storm of this description is said to have occurred on the 25th of May, (also on Sunday,) 1854.

In Georgetown the storm was also severe. Much damage was done to gardens, window-lights, &c. The principal sufferers are Mrs. Capt. Boyce and Mr. C. W. Pairi. The west front of the Union Hotel, the Bridge street Presbyterian church, the college buildings, the public school house, besides several of the other churches, and many private buildings also suffered severely. In a portion of Fairfax county, Va. the wheat and corn were greatly injured.

A DAY OF EXECUTIONS.—Three Men Hung at St. Louis.—It is estimated that no less than twenty-seven executions were appointed to take place on Friday last in Missouri and Illinois. The St. Louis papers contain full accounts of the hanging of Jacob Neuslein, John La Point and Israel Shultz, in that city, on Friday. The Intelligencer of that city says:

"The first killed his wife by beating her over her head with a billet of wood, after a long course of inhuman treatment, such as would be expected only from an African savage. John La Point killed Robert Wheaton, at Carondelet, by beating him over the head with a shovel, as he lay upon a bed asleep; both of them were employed at the dock yard; La Point having just been pardoned out of the Illinois penitentiary.—Wheaton refused to work in the same place, and was murdered in revenge therefor. Shultz killed Henry Inkamp at Carondelet, by shooting him with a pistol, at a drinking saloon; he had a grudge against him, and after inveigling him into a quarrel, for the purpose of instigating an assault, deliberately shot him, with a pistol prepared for the purpose.

The three men met their fate with apparent resignation. Shultz and Neuslein made short addresses from the scaffold.

POISON OF A WHOLE FAMILY BY SLAVES.—The family of Edward Gill, of Chesterfield county, Va., have for a month past suffered from a mysterious sickness. The Petersburg Express states that about a month ago one of Mr. G.'s little children died, and that subsequently himself, wife and five children were taken sick, and another child died. A large number of physicians were summoned, and on instituting a search they found in the apartment of the cook and two other slaves a quantity of carbonate of lead and sugar of lead, both slow but deadly poison, which the wretches, no doubt, had been from day to day mixing with the food of the unsuspecting family, as it was not until Saturday last that they were supposed to be suffering from poison. Two of the children are still lying in a precarious condition. The slaves are in jail.

A COLPORTEUR AGENCY ENLARGED.—Some weeks since, the Maryland Tract Society, auxiliary to the American Tract Society, in view of the efficiency of the Colporteur Agency in Virginia and North Carolina, and the commercial advantages of the city of Baltimore, proposed that Colporteur Agency should be extended to embrace the state of Maryland, and that Mr. Cross, the efficient superintendent, be requested to transfer his residence to that city. This led to a gratifying interview of one of the corresponding secretaries and Mr. Cross with the officers of the Maryland Society, of which the Rev. Dr. H. V. D. Johns is president, and the arrangement has been cordially consummated with every prospect of success.

Baltimore is a splendid city, with near a quarter of a million of inhabitants, rapidly increasing in population, with great railroad facilities, extensive commerce, wealth, and enterprise, and may exert an incalculable influence for spreading the gospel. Its citizens have already provided the Maryland Society with a neat and commodious Tract-house, where a depository of publications will still be continued for the supply of Baltimore and the country of which that city is the commercial centre, under the care of Rev. Mr. Guiteau, their secretary; and they gratuitously furnish Mr. Cross with such offices and accommodations as he needs. An advisory committee, jointly appointed by the parent and the Maryland societies, will also give him their co-operation and the benefit of their counsels. The whole arrangement seems promising of extensive permanent good.

Perhaps no part of the Society's colporteur work has been more evidently owned of God, than that in Virginia; and this is true of the same work as now extended over North Carolina. It is but a few years since all Western Virginia with its half a million souls, and a great part of North Carolina with a still larger population, were scarcely reached at all by the American Tract Society. Now perhaps no field in the Union is more faithfully cultivated, or with more signal manifestations of the divine blessing, in rescuing sinners from death, and rousing the attention of the people of Sabbath and other schools, the formation of churches, and the gospel ministry. Glorious fruits will be seen in the final day, the result of well-directed, self-denying, prayerful labors in the colporteur work in those states.

The example of these two states is not only felt in Maryland, over which we hope the same influence is to be speedily extended, but has encouraged the work in South Carolina and Georgia, in which two states about fifty colporteurs labored the whole or a part of the last year; and a similar influence has reached the south-western states. With New Orleans as the commercial centre, an accurate and efficient superintendent, a devoted general agent, and a band of colporteurs, the work is in successful progress, and is extending with encouragement and promise to Texas, whose population already approaches one million souls. In the far West, the agency centering at St. Louis, and in the great North-west, that centering at Chicago, are both efficiently manned.—The present arrangements for supplying the wide desolations of our rapidly growing country are more complete than ever before; and with the continued smiles of a gracious Providence, may happily fulfil the desires of those who give their funds, their labors, and their prayers, that the most dark, distant, and neglected parts of our country may be speedily illuminated by the light of life.

FREDERICK FEMALE SEMINARY.—As the time of the Twelfth Annual Commencement of this admirable institution of learning is drawing nigh, we wish to bespeak for it some share of the public's favorable consideration. The friends of the institution, whose early patronage have enabled it to acquire a standing, and the friends of education generally are invited to attend the Annual Examinations on the 7th and 8th proximo, and the Commencement exercises on the following day. The Graduating class is large, and the ceremonies, which will be more than usually interesting, will take place in the splendid new hall now being finished for the occasion. We avail of this opportunity to assure the reader, at home and abroad, that no female seminary in the land has earned, or deserves, a higher reputation than this. Whether we consider the energy, care and watchfulness of the worthy PRESIDENT over its several departments and interests, the talents and competency of its Professors and Teachers, the manifold accommodations and pervading assiduity for the happiness and comfort of its inmates, the ample table always found here, the marked neetness and precise order of the whole establishment, or the literary accomplishment and graceful manners of its graduates, its claims upon our commendation are equally strong. For six or seven years past, we have had an intimate knowledge of this excellent institution, and speak of it, as we have seen, not by report. Several of our relatives, and many young ladies of our acquaintance, whose refinement now charms and gladdens many a fireside were educated here, and we therefore say unhesitatingly, that we know of no school of the kind with superior claims to the confidence and support of a discerning public. From the opening of the school in 1845, to the present time, it has regularly progressed and continued to increase the number of its pupils and friends, until the past year, when the number of applicants exceeded the capacity of the former building, spacious as it was; and in consequence, the TRUSTEES, in August last, resolved to erect an additional edifice, the exact counterpart in dimensions and external appearance of the present structure, and sufficient for the probable demands of the next twenty years. The new building adds to the present accommodation, six spacious Professor's rooms, a large and well arranged Chemical and Philosophical Lecture rooms, twelve roomy and delightful chambers, a magnificent hall for general meeting of the school, exhibitions, &c., and a basement under the whole building, which is to be fitted up as a gymnastium for exersisé in inclement wheather, and together with the ample play-grounds in rear of both buildings, affords every facility for the physical training of the young ladies. The hall above spoken of, is one of the most beautiful in this city; its dimensions are 40 by 48 feet, and 17 high; it is tastefully decorated in fresco, and has a wide and radiant crown light of gas in the ceiling. Taking it as a whole, the Frederick Female Seminary is not surpassed, if equalled by any in the Southern States. The new edifice was built by George A. Cole, Esq., in his best style. We regret we have not a list of the skilful artizens, who are contributing to its embellishment and completion.—Frederick Examiner.

A CURIOUS WILL.—The Worcester (Mass) Transcript gives the substance of the will of the late Jesse W. Goodrich, of that city, well known as a strong advocate of temperance cause. The document itself covers 50 folio pages, and there is a codicil containing 63 double columned pages of printed matter. Among the bequests are a copy of the Holy Bible to each of his brothers, sisters, executors, &c., sixteen in all. Each sucessive owner of the volumes is to sign a "family teetotal pledge that they will neither make, buy, sell, give way or use any kind of alcoholic or intoxicating liquors, either for drinking, culinary, medicinal, surgical or sacramental purposes, nor any tobacco, for the purpose either of chewing, smoking or snuffing, and that by precept and example, and in all other suitable ways, at all times and places, to discountenance all such uses." Other provisions of this curious will are thus given:

"He then orders his executors to subscribe for one copy for each of themselves and his relatives, of some good temperance paper, advocating the disuse of tobacco, and legal and moral suasion combined,' for the suppression of liquor, thirty copies in all for twenty-one years.

"He then bequeaths $200 to each of his living sisters, provided they, each of them, within one year, sign the family and teetotal pledge.'

"He then divides his property, subject to all other bequests, among his relatives, payable every fifth, tenth, fifteenth an twentieth year provided that at the expiration of each period they shall make affidavit that they have kept the anti-liquor, anti-tobacco pledge in its full extent."

CAVING IN OF A WELL.—Heartrending Affair.—On the 16th inst. Mr. Casper Hibler, residence near Dallastown, York county, Pa., went to his well in the yard, for the purpose of drawing water, when the walls caved in, precipitating him down the well, a distance of seventeen feet, (the well is about forty feet deep,) where he was firmly held by earth and stone, unable to extricate himself. The Eagle says:

At the time the accident occurred Mr. Hibler was alone at home, his wife having gone to visit his mother, who was ill. She returned about five o'clock, and not finding her husband in the house, she called and received an answer, when on searching for him, she found that he was in the well.—The alarm was immediately given, and strenuous efforts made by the neighbors to rescue him from his perilous situation.—They worked faithfully, and at one time were within eighteen inches of him, the unfortunate man conversing with them all the time. Their exertions, however, seemed to avail but little, for as fast as they succeeded in removing the earth and stones, fresh quarters would fall in upon him.—Finding their exertions in his behalf of no avail, the doomed man, shortly after midnight, requested that his wife might be brought within hearing of his voice, that he might bid her a farewell. His request was complied with, and we leave the reader to imagine the scene—the anguish of mind of who, on the 14th of April last he led to the alter a bride. At one o'clock on Tuesday morning he ceased to exist, and his lifeless body was found about four o'clock much bruised, with one hand off.

CHANCE FOR A "SMART" WIFE.—The last Water Cure Journal has an advertisement for a husband. The young lady gives the following account of herself. We think it is a rare chance:

I am just twenty, but will not marry before I am two years older. I can do, and love to do, all manner of housework, from making pies and bread to washing shirts; I can do all kinds of sewing, from embroidery to linsey pantaloons, I can skate, ride, dance, sing, play on the piano or spinning wheel, or anything that may reasonably be expected of my sex. If required, I can act the part of a dunce in society of "the upper ten" or the part of a woman among women. As for rising, here let me make a banter: any man may bring two horses, give me choice and ten feet, and then if he overtakes me in one mile I am his; if not, then the horse is mine. Beware! By tops I am styled handsome; by those I frown upon, "the devil simp;" by the wise and sober I am called wild and foolish; by my female acquaintances "Molly," and by my uncle I am called "Tom."

MORE PEARLS.—The discovery of pearls in the streams of New Jersey has induced investigations elsewhere. A few days since, Mr. Stone, of Hannibal, Oswego county, New York, fished up 400 pearls in Nine Mile Creek, said to be worth several thousand dollars. The Oswego Times says:—

The pearls muscle in our fresh water streams, is nothing more or less than the 'fresh water clam,' which in our boyhood we have fished out of many little brooks in Oneida Co., and thrown away as of no value. Had we then known what we have since learned, we should have examined the mouth of the muscle, as the pearl forms there and may easily be detected. It resembles a small round pebble, and is situated just at the mouth of the muscle.—Doubtless, cert in localities produce pearls more abundantly than others, but there is no doubt that they may be obtained to some extent, at least, wherever the muscles grow.

A gentlemen in Niagara County, also recently found a pearl of great price.

DEATH BY LIGHTNING.—Mrs. Ellen Harrison a resident of McConnelsville, Ohio, was killed by lightning on Saturday last. She was sitting near the middle of the room, engaged in reading the Bible. The electric fluid struck the roof immediately over her head, passed down through the centre of the room in the second story, and through a large chest filled with clothes, through the second floor of the building, and discharged itself through her person into the floor beneath. The shoe upon her right foot was considerably torn, and near the centre of her foot was a small round hole through the foot and the upper and sole of her shoe. Her clothes were set on fire, but she was not moved a particle from the position in which she was sitting.

WASHINGTON, June 23.

From Washington.—Gov. Cumming will take his family with him to Utah, intending to make the Territory his permanent home.

Brigham Young has never recognized the Unites surveys, but claims possession of all the soil in Utah. Not one the inhabitants holds land derived by a government title, and hence even Salt Lake city itself is open to pre-emption. This is one of the perplexities with which the federal courts in the territory will have to deal, together with establishing or confirming titles to land which may be derived in pursuance of the United States laws. It is expected that the troops and civil officers will leave for Utah about the middle of July or the first of August.

Contrary to public expectation, no definite action was had to-day by the administration on the California overland mail service contract. The various bidders or their friends continue to vigorously press their respective interests. In consequence of their wishing to be heard it is probable an official decision will not be made before the close of the week.

Col. Richardson having declined the Governorship of Nebraska, Gov. Izard will return to the Territory and resume his duties.

J. H. O'Neill has been removed as district attorney of the Southern District of Ohio, and probably Stanley Matthews will be appointed in his place.

A. Rencher, of North Carolina, has returned home with the assurance of his appointment to the Governorship of New Mexico, vice Gov. Meriwether, who has tendered his resignation, to take effect in October.

LOUISVILLE, June 22.

Chief Justice of Kentucky.—Incomplete returns indicate the election of Wheat, American, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the decease of the Chief Justice of Kentucky, by a small majority. The friends of Bullit, dem., however, also claim his election.

According to the St. Louis News the comet was plainly visible in that city last week.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS have wrought wonders in the unhealthy regions of the West and South-west. In September last, Hiram Seabury, aged 28, residing near Terre Haute, Ia., was cured in two weeks of bilious remittent fever (to which he had been subject every fall for nine years,) by the searching operation of this remedy. The disease had prostrated him season after season, at the busiest time of the year, catching him great pecuniary loss, as well as bodily suffering. The attack generally confined him to the house from the commencement of the Fall until the middle of December. Every remedy that the faculty could suggest was tried without avail; but that which had defied their prescriptions for nine successive years, was radically cured in a fortnight by Holloway's Pills. Mr Seabury, writing under date January 5d, says, "I am now in the enjoyment of perfect health."

WHITE TEETH, PERFUMED BREATH AND BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION—can be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath when by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice, would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate their friends will never mention it. Beware of counterfeits. Be sure each bottle is signed

Married,

On Sunday, June 21st inst., in Brooklyn, by the Rev. Mr. Cox, of St. Michaels' Church, THEODORE R. LOUCKERMAN, to Miss MAGDALENA, only daughter of Rev Isaac P. Labah Rector of St. Pauls' Church, South Brooklyn.

Died,

In this county, of consumption, on the 19th inst., JAMES E. PALMER, in the 25th year of his age.

Rarely has a more sudden death been chronicled than that of the subject of this notice. Ten days had scarcely elapsed since the deceased left town in company with the writer of this notice, in fine spirits and buoyant hopes, obeying the advice of his physicians, in the vain hope that country air might be of service to his disease. Truly it is verified, "in the midst of life we are in death." He took his seat as usual at the breakfast table on the day of his decease, but becoming exhausted, his appetite for the first time, failing him, was assisted by his friends to a bed. Whilst lying there almost within the embrace of death, his breakfast was handed to him by his request, but alas his frame so shattered and his form so emaciated by the most dangerous of all diseases, the consumption, which he had fallen prey to some twelve months previous, was unable to eat, and remarked, "it is useless to send for a physician, all is over," and calmly joins his hands and falls asleep in death without a struggle.

The deceased was for several years past a deputy Clerk of the Circuit Court for Talbot County, which post he filled with marked credit to himself and satisfaction to his employer. His gentlemanly bearing, obliging and agreeable disposition will long be remembered by all with whom he had any social intercourse, and the recollection of his good qualities and name will endear his memory to a large circle of surviving friends. Being an ardent member of Miller Lodge, I. O. O. F., was buried on Sunday last, in the M. E. Cemetery, in Easton, with the honors of the order. R.
