taken for a candidate, for I am not one. I do not want to be. I would a good deal rather be a President-maker. That is what I want, and we will try and get a proper man to be our President. If they will just put the people fairly at that question, we will get a proper man and a proper administration, and these being secured, the Government will be restored to its first great and grand principles, and will go on harmoniously to the attainment of that grandeur and glory and happiness which are finally to result to us. [Loud applause.]

The gentlemen present were then introduced individually to Mr. Crittenden, to whom, in conclusion, some very complimentary remarks were addressed by Mr. Jennings. The deputations then withdrew.

GOVERNMENT EXPENDITURES.

We have heretofore given considerable attention to this subject. Our facts were obtained from a thoroughly reliable source. They exhibited a fearful condition of extravagance upon the part of the present administration, showing that more than one hundred millions of dollars were squandered in the past fiscal year.

The Washington Union, Mr. Buchanan's impartial organ, subjected as it is to miserable todyism, has recently been endeavoring to controvert the statements heretofore made and charged home upon the present administration, of profligacy and recklessness in expenditures of the public funds.

The National Intelligencer, a journal which is good authority upon government affairs, always reliable and scrupulously honest, as well as careful, in presenting facts, has given the subject considerable attention, and not only differs from, but shows an entirely adverse condition of affairs to that set forth by the partial editor of the Union Our venerable contempory says:—"The greater portion of the Union's defence seems to be directed to the vindication of the Administration of Mr. Pierce, since much the larger part of its article is devoted to a discussion of the appropriations made by the 34th Congress, which, it remarks was "partly in the hands of the Opposition, who in a great measure controlled the appropriations" of that period

"The fact that a majority of the House of Representatives during the Thirty-Fourth Congress was adverse to the Administration, cannot, we believe, be disputed, but that this majority controlled the amount and nature of the appropriations against the will and consent of the Democratic Senate and Executive is a statement which, we imagine, imputes to the Opposition more of influence than should be awarded to them in just respect for the other co-ordinate branches of the Government. It is well known that in the conflict which arose between the Opposition House and the Democratic Senate in regard to an appropriation bill which the latter refused to accept with a proviso deemed indispensable by the former, it was clearly shown that the Senate had not only the will, but the ability to defeat any appropriation bill from which it chose to withhold its sanction."

The Intelligencer, after further showing conclusively the fallacy and weakness of the Union's arguments, appends, in concise form, a resume of the actual receipts and expenditures of the government for the last fiscal year, beginning, in the natural order, with a statement of the receipts:

From Customs,	$41,789,620
" Lands,	3,513,715
" Miscellaneous,	1,254,232
Total year's revenue,	$46,557,569

It appears from the official statement that $23,715,300 of Treasury notes were issued between January and July, under the act authorizing $20,000,000, thus showing that the Secretary re-issued $3,716,300, which, however, have since been nearly all paid in for public dues, leaving the whole amount originally granted still outstanding.

The actual expenditures of the year were as follows:

Civil,	$26,387,822
Interior,	6,051,923
War,	25,485,383
Navy,	13,976,000
Texas Creditors, Bounty Land Stock, and old Debt,	30,018
Redemption of public debt,	3,963,520
Premium on the same,	574,443
Interest on the public debt,	1,567,055
Payment treasury notes,	3,689,300
	$81,485,467
Add deficiency provided at last session	10,744,994
Real expenditures for fiscal year,	92,230,461
Deduct year's real revenue,	46,557,569
Deficit of year,	45,772,892

The same rate of excess in the government's expenditures over its receipts, the Intelligencer thinks, will "be sufficiently striking to call for the attention of Congress at its next session, and demands some other remedy than the palliatives found in the emission of Treasury notes or in the negotiation of Government loans."

The above estimate, though large enough to exhibit a remarkable degree of extravagance, is by no means so great—not by several millions of dollars—as facts warrant. We are not told by what means the TWENTY MILLION surplus on hand when Mr. Buchanan went into office, the FORTY MILLIONS subsequently borrowed, together with the immense government revenue, were squandered—nor this alone, but how it is we are again largely in debt and likely to require additional loans to prevent bankruptcy in the coming year?

The Union attempts to reply to the Intelligencer's article, but fails entirely to fortify itself with reliable datta. No one can be convinced by such sophistry, not even the editor himself. The subject is a sore one, made so by the force of facts which exhibit a system of extravagance upon the part of the administration, that must continue to render it more and more unpopular, despite all efforts of the Union and other affiliating organs to smother truth. Light has broken in upon these once hidden mysteries. The eyes of the people are being opened—they now see and understand for themselves, and are declaring in tones which cannot be understood, that they will no longer submit to such wholesale imposition.

A DIFFERENT TUNE.—Two years ago the democracy lauded the old line whigs to the skies, and gave them great praise for anything they might do. How is it now? They think all are safe that went with them at the breaking up of the old whig party and nothing they can say or do will drive them off, therefore they are not at all particular in withholding their denunciations. With an eagle's eye, they watch their every action, and whenever the least opportunity affords they pour out their anathemas upon them. As an instance, we point to the Convention which lately met in Cambridge. Because the President happened to be an old line whig and a majority of the committee which he appointed happened to be of that faith, they have been held up to public gaze, (though by a very small portion, we are happy to say) by the democratic press, as making that Convention a means by which to revive the old whig party. As dear as that party is to the democracy—when occasion suits—they dislike to hear of anything being done to its advantage. What think you, old line whigs, to be thus humbugged by those who once thought the vilest things that they could say, were too good for you?

SPEECH OF HON. JOHN J. CRITTENDEN.—On our first page this morning, will be found the speech of Hon. J. J. Crittenden, in New York, a few days since. Mr. Crittenden, is, undoubtedly one of the purest patriots of the day, and desires ever to be the servant of his country, but regrets to see his name mentioned in connection with the Presidency. To his "mind, there is something in the great responsibilities of that situation more to be feared than to be loved, by a man who would hold it, if he held it at all, for the good of others." He does not want to be a candidate for that high station, and begged the committees who awaited on him, to gain his consent to become the leader of their party, not to think of mentioning him for the Presidency, as he had far rather "be a President maker." His speech throughout, though making the meerest glance at the affairs of the country, is full of patriotism and evinces the greatest zeal for the sustenance of the institutions of his country, and the restoring of our governmental affairs back to their original purity.

XLII.—With this number of the Gazette closes its Forty-Second year. Few country papers, will we find, that has reached to this good old age. This, we consider is one of its best recommendations, as it could not have stood through so many changes incident to human life, had it not been liberally encouraged. We should not have referred to this subject at all, but it appears to be customary with newspapers generally—especially those in their youth—when a year passes, to tell of their success over difficulties and troubles. But do it not for this purpose—as we feel that the Gazette has passed through "its first summer," and every year now but adds another silver lock to its head, whereby the traveler can tell that it has far passed man's meridian of life. If we are favored in the future as we have been in the past, we shall not grumble—but it will ever be our aim to make the Gazette of still more, and more interest.

MUCH dissatisfaction appears to prevail among the press, generally, in the large cities, in regard to the way in which the President's Message was received. The New York Herald appeared to be favored above all others in the prompt reception of this document. Baltimore, which was once before outrageously neglected, had it withheld from it until a very late hour. Boston and Philadelphia papers also make bitter complaints against the manner in which they have been treated. It was not forwarded to the former city at all. While hundreds, and we may say, thousands of publishers and printers were kept in suspense, as there are a great number of printers employed on such occasions, and even the day before the message was read in Congress, the New York Herald, Mr. Buchanan's pet, had it in type, and long before publishers could obtain government copies, the Herald was striking off copies—thereby reaping thousands of dollars.

That friend of ours, who intends making us a present of a Christmas Turkey or Goose, will please not make it too fat. But if you have no other kind, we will try and put up with such as it may be.

THE POWER OF STEAM ENGINES.—At a fire in Baltimore, a few day days ago, the Vigilant's steam engine was stationed at the corner of Exeter and Fawn streets, over two squares from the fire, and forced a stream of water through eleven hundred feet of hose.

WARM AND RAINY WEATHER.—Farmers had better keep an eye to their pork tubs.—Rain and mud has been the order of the day for several weeks past. The rain and mud, with the close and sultry state of the atmosphere, may give persons cause to be cautious in more than one particular. We believe that there are more fatal diseases engendered in both the human and animal system, during such weather, at this season of the year, than at any other time. Besides taking care of the person, their property should not escape their atttention. Live stock should be well cared for, and the pork lately slaughtered, ought not to be lost sight of.

CONGRESS.—Thursday, the 9th.—SENATE—Mr. Iverson, of Georgia, gave notice of a bill abolishing the franking privilege, and substituting commutation therefor.—The Senate then proceeded to the election of an assistant doorkeeper, which resulted in the choice of Charles S. Jones, the democratic nominee, he receiving 31 votes.

HOUSE.—After the vacancies in the several committees were filled, Mr. Morris, of Ill., gave notice that he would on to-morrow introduce a bill authorizing the Territories to elect their own Governors and other officers. He also gave notice that he would on Tuesday next introduce a bill to amend the naturalization laws. The next business in order was the report of the committee on the judiciary upon the case of Judge John C. Watrous, of Texas, charged with misconduct in office. A lengthy discussion was had upon the subject, and the House adjourned before getting through.

Monday.—SENATE.—Mr. Rice introduced bills for the construction of a wagon road from fort Abercrombie to Puget's Sound, and for the establishment of a northern Pacific mail route. The first appropriates $300,000 for the building of the wagon road, and the second authorises the Postmaster to contract for carrying the mail for six years from St. Paul, Minnesota, to Puget's Sound, via Forts Benton and Union in Nebraska, and through Washington Territory.

HOUSE.—The House consumed all of its time to-day in discussing the case of Judge Watrous.

Saturday.—SENATE.—The Senate was not in session to day.

HOUSE.—On motion of Mr. Smith, of Tenn., 20,000 extra copies of the President's message and 16,000 of the Secretary of the Treasury's report were ordered to be printed. Mr. Seales, of N. C., introduced a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury to furnish a statement of the expenses of the government during the last eighteen years under the heads of ordinary, extraordinary and public debt.

Monday.—SENATE.—Mr Clingman, introduced resolutions calling on the President for the correspondence under the Clayton Bulwer treaty. He made a few remarks in favor of abrogating that treaty, and said our interests would never be protected until that treaty was annulled.—He alluded to the recent searching of our vessels going to Central America by British cruisers, which he pronounced a great outrage.

HOUSE.—The Watrous case was taken up. Mr. Cochrane said he thought the evidence clearly showed gross misconduct on the part of the Judge, and that his impeachment was demanded.

Tuesday.—SENATE.—The construction of the Pacific Railroad was resumed. Mr. Davis, of Miss., offered an amendment, which he intended to propose as a substitute for the bill reported by the majority of the special committee. After a long discussion the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—In the House notice was given of several bills, after which the Watrous case occupied the balance of the day, without being settled.

Wednesday.—SENATE.—Mr. Cameron, of Pa., presented a petition from citizens of Pennsylvania, praying an increased duty on foreign iron. He accompanied it with a few remarks in favor of specific and in opposition to ad valorem duties on iron.

HOUSE.—The resolution proposing to impeach Judge Watrous of high crimes and misdemeanors, and the amendment declaring that there was not sufficient testimony to impeach the Judge, were now reported to the House. The vote was taken by yeas and nays on the amendment, and it was adopted by yeas 111, nays 91. So the House refused to find articles of impeachment against Judge Watrous. Mr. Boyce, of S. C., called up the Maryland contested election case, involving the right of the Hon. J. Morrison Harris to his seat as member from the third congressional district.—Mr. Boyce offered a resolution declaring the member from the third congressional district of Maryland vacant, on account of the riot, tumult and disorder which prevailed at the election held in that district on the 3d day of November, 1857, in contempt of law and in violation of the freedom of election. Mr. Boyce said he had urged this matter during the last session, and had felt at that time great interest in the matter. The term of the member had now, however, nearly expired, and he merely discharged his duty in offering his resolution and the accompanying report of the committee on elections. Mr. Smith hoped it was not designed to press a vote in this hasty manner. He hoped there would be a full discussion and that the contestant, Mr. White, would be heard. Mr. Harris, of Md., said he was but a passive party in this matter, but if Mr. Whyte desired to be heard, he hoped the privilege would be granted him. He desired for himself nothing but a fair hearing and the candid judgment of the House. Mr. Boyce offered a resolution that William Pinkney Whyte be admitted to the privilege of the floor and a seat in the House, while this case was under consideration, with permission to speak on the subject. Mr. Stanton, of Ohio, opposed the resolution on the ground that Mr. Whyte was not the contestant of Mr. Harris' seat, and had no rights to be affected by the resolution before the House. Without coming to a vote on any of the propositions, the House adjourned.

THE EASTON BAND.—The Brass Band which was started in Easton, a short time since, under the Professorship of Mr. Minnick, is making rapid progress. They have performed twice at the Lectures before the 'Y. M. C. A., L. & R. R.,' in the town Hall, and we have heard but one opinion, and that is, that they do great credit to themselves and the Professor, considering the short time they have been practicing.—Should they continue to persevere, they will reach to a high point in the science of music, and be a credit and an ornament to our little town. May they not "weary in well doing."

DEATH OF MAJOR SAMUEL BARNES.—It is our painful duty, says the Clipper, to announce the death of Major Samuel Barnes, for many years the editor of this paper. He died on Wednesday morning, at his residence, near the Relay House, on the Northern Central Railroad. For many years Major B. was well known to our citizens. A native of Kent county, in this State, he came to Baltimore, at an early age, and became a practical printer. He was the fellow-apprentice of the late Col. William Pechin, Thomas Murphy, Esq., Genl. Robinson, and Genl. Shepard C. Leakin. After the conclusion of his apprenticeship, he removed to Frederick and for several years successfully carried on the Frederick Examiner. During his residence in Frederick county, he participated in the defence of Baltimore, and held the rank of Major in the memorable battle of North Point.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Far below the eruptions, boils, wens, sores, and other excrescences that disfigure the surface of the body, lies the acrid and corrosive poison which sustains and aggravates them. This virus, which usually lurks in the large vessels springing from the great internal organs, can only be followed to its hidden recesses by a preparation like Holloway's Ointment, whose penetrating properties are irresistible. But this is merely, so to speak, the mechanical or motive characteristic of this famous salve. Having reached the poison, its chemical action immediately destroys or neutralizes it. Thus its cures are radical and perfect. The Pills, from their purifying effect upon the Blood, are a material help in such cases?

A Desirable Farm for Sale.

ANY one wishing a very desirable farm near the pleasant county Town of Talbot, are hereby informed that such an one can be had upon accommodating terms.

This farm is located just two miles from Easton, on the Trappe road, formerly known as the "Thomas Farm," and recently owned by W. H. Shepard, contains 163 Acres more or less.

The advantages of this farm in addition to its size, are numerous, a soil well adapted to the growth of all crops usually raised here, and is now in good heart, situated upon one of the most public roads leading from Easton, and commanding a view of the same as well as a number of very fine farms in its immediate vicinity. Churches, Schools and Mills are all convenient, and the excellent produce market which Easton affords is by no means one of its least attractions.

The Dwelling is a two story frame and Kitchen in tolerable good condition, with several Outhouses sufficient for the use of the farm—Manures from the town can be had at fifty cents per load and a Landing for Lime as well as for shipment of the grain is within three miles of the farm. It is now uncera rent of $350

Until Tuesday, the 1st day of March, 1859, the above Farm will be offered at private sale, and on that day will be offered at public auction in Easton, if not sold before. For further information apply to James H. McNeal, Thomas J. Clark, H. Austin or W. H. Thompson, Easton, Md., who will give all further particulars.
