While Witness lived there, she was of a very economical disposition and spent very little though Witness thinks she had formerly spent more than that.

4th To the 4th of said Interrogatories that Witness is the sister of the said William Chase Barney he was an inmate of Mrs Chases family off and on just as he pleased Sometimes he would sometimes be there for months and then would go away and return he was the grandson of Mrs Chase.

5 To the 5th of said Interrogatories that Mrs Chase was always very fond of him she had educated him he would coax her and he would do as he pleased he used to say that he employed an Amanuensis with her, she was so angry sometimes that she would not speak to him and he would go up and speak soothingly to her and she would show then great kindness to him, he certainly used the influence he had over her, and Witness thinks it was an undue influence and she was too weak to resist him, if you call an undue influence when a person says they won't do a thing, and you coax them out of it, Witness has seen him coax her out of money in that manner and has heard of Notes being given which Witness presumes were got in the same way. Mrs Chase had a piece of property called Pennington which in her Will she had left to her two grandsons Samuel Chase Barney and the said William Chase Barney on the Marriage of Samuel Witness induced her said grandmother to give him a deed of his one half of Pennington" and asked her at the same time to give one also to William Chase Barney for his own half of it she resisted this until Witness told her that William Chase Barney would give her some Notes of hers that he held amounting to two or three thousand dollars she then consented to give him William Chase Barney) a deed of one half of Pennington The deeds were drawn by William Chase Barney himself and he read his own deed to his grandmother Witness holding the deed to Samuel Chase Barney and both deeds read alike except of course the names of the grantees and each deed conveyed one half of Pennington" the deeds were executed in presence of Witness Samuel Chase Barney's deed being executed first, and they were acknowledged, but when William Chase Barney's deed was to be recorded it was for the whole tract of Pennington" He obtained many promissory Notes from his grandmother but Witness cannot tell the amount, on one occasion he gave the Witness about twelve thousand dollars of such Notes to take care of them for him, Witness cannot say what amount he obtained from her altogether never having counted up, but she has heard him say that he had got forty or fifty thousand dollars from her besides spending her income.

6 To the 6th of said Interrogatories that Witness thinks that Mr Banks knew of the existence of that deed but she cannot fix the date of his first knowledge.

7 To the 7th of said interrogatories that at one time for a short time William Chase Barney was an engineer but even then he always got money from his grandmother, while in Baltimore, he had no money except what he got from his grandmother.

8 To the 8th of said Interrogatories that she does not recollect that he ever did give her any such consideration except that he once told Witness that he had given his said grandmother his own Notes for some money she had given him.

9 To the 9th of said Interrogatories the Witness never heard William Chase Barney say that he had given his grandmother his own Notes for money, as Witness has already stated she does not recollect that he ever told her that he had given his grandmother any thing.

The said Catharine Chase deposed being then cross examined in behalf of Complainants in the cross interrogatories to her specially propounded in that behalf and being sworn to answer the truth, deposeth and saith as follows to Wit.
