THE foreign papers are filled with "wars and rumors of wars," but there appears to be nothing of a definite character.

The opening of the British Parliament was expected to throw some light upon the subject, but the allusions of the Queen's speech to difficulties which are menacing and serious, are delicate to the last degree referring simply to her solicitude to maintain treaties inviolate and preserve the public peace.

In the debate which followed the speech there was a more positive tone. Lord Derby, as Premier, denied emphatically the existence of any understanding, on the part of England, with any foreign power whatever, which might fetter her free action in the case of hostilities. Neither did he know of any difficulties existing between the European governments which might not be settled without resort to the dreadful alternative of war. At the same time he spoke of the state of Northern Italy as that of a slumbering volcano, and he so far betrayed his proclivities as to assert that the hold of Austria on Italy was of a kind with which neither England nor any nation, on what pretext whatever, had a right to interfere. He stated, also, that the government had received assurances from the Emperor of the French that he would not countenance or assist Sardinia in an aggressive or unjustifiable war.

THE DEATH WARRANT OF PETER CORRIE.—Sheriff Creamer on Monday morning received from Gov. Hicks the death warrant of Peter Corrie assigning the 18th day of March for his execution. He is the fourth appointed to die on the gallows on that day.

During the reading of the fatal instrument Corrie stood firm and exhibited no sign of emotion, other than his face blanched. After the sheriff had concluded the prisoner remarked—"Well, I know my doom. The Governor has given us a very short day; he ought to have given us longer time. He ought to know that men brought up like we were would require a long time to get into the right way. It was like taking up young mules, which require a long time to break."

ESCAPE OF TWENTY ONE PRISONERS FROM NEW CASTLE JAIL.—On Friday night, the 21st instant, says the Marlborough Gazette, twenty-one prisoners confined in jail at that place for various crimes, effected their escape. Among them were the two O'Neills and Dougherty, who were serving out a term of imprisonment for murder; Robinson, sentenced to death for committing a rape on Jane Norris; and Samuel Turner, his accomplice, who was awaiting his trial on the same charge. The sheriff summoned a large posse, and after scouring the country around, succeeded in capturing six of them—Robinson and Turner, being among the number.

WE have in our possession a letter from C. M. Jacobs of Worcester county, to the editor of the State Rights' Advocate, on the slavery question. To publish it will somewhat be deviating from our general custom, owing to its length, but as it is a question which all are more or less interested in upon the Shore, and we have been requested by several gentlemen to publish it, we will give it a place in our columns next week.

STUTTTERING AND STAMMERING.—We would advise all who are troubled with this infirmity to see advertisement of Dr. Wykoff, in another column. He professes to cure cases of the most inveterate kind, and challenges the world to produce any other perfect cure, than his. He furnishes a number of references as proof of his success in curing the above diseases.

IMPROVEMENTS IN GAS-FIXTURES.—We understand the Gas company of Easton intend to use different kind of retorts in their gas apparatus, manufacturing gas out of rosin instead of rosin oil. By this change they expect to furnish as brilliant light as heretofore and at less expense.

THE DOG LAW.—The ordidance passed by the Town Commissioners some weeks ago, making it obligatory upon the Bailiff to shoot all dogs running at large in the streets without muzzles, has been repealed or withheld until further notice.

DAVID PAUL BROWN, Esq., delievered a lecture before the Christian Association, of Easton last evening, on "The Ruling Passion." We shall say more of it next week.

SNOW.—The appearance of out-door objects have undergone considerable change within a few hours. The dark, muddy appearance of everything that was within spattering distance of the horses' feet, have been changed to that of beauty, being carpeted by Heaven's purest gift to earth.—Bashful youths and blushing maids may now have an opportunity to enjoy a social chat, as they glide over the silvery surface of mother earth, their steeds keeping time with the jingling bells.

RALPH HOYT here gives a beautiful description of country sceneries on such occasions:

The drifts are hanging by the sill,
The eaves, the door,
The hay-stack has become a hill;
All cover'd o'er
The wagon, loaded for the mill
The eve before.

Maria brings the water pail,
But where's the well!
Like magic of a fairy tale,
Most strange to tell,
All vanish'd curb, and crank, and rail;
How deep it fell!

The wood-pile, too, is playing hide;
The axe, the log,
The kennel of that friend so tried,
The old watch dog,
The grindstone standing by its side,
All now incog.

Old chanticleer looks out aghast
From his high shed;
No spot to scratch him a repast;
Up curves his head,
Starts the dull hamlet with a blast,
And back to bed.

Good Ruth has call'd the younker folk
To dress below;
Full welcome was the word she spoke;
Down, down they go;
The cottage quietude is broke,
The snow! the snow!"

WE have, in the report of the President of the Christian Association a catalogue of the magazines, newspapers, &c., which the society takes for the accommodation of the members, and among them we note the Denton Journal, Cambridge Eagle, and Democrat, Kent News, and several other mammoth sheets, but our town papers are no whar to be found in the list. What have we done.

MAGAZINES.—"The Ladys' American Magazine," for March, is at hand. The Literary Department is under the able superintendence of Mr. Charles G. Leland, and will be found highly interesting. The colored steel Fashion Engraving is hard to beat, which, for artistical skill and accuracy of design is hard to beat. Address Henry White, New York.

OUR FIRST PAGE.—On our first page this morning will be found the report of Dr C. C. Cox, the President of the Easton Christian Association. Also a report of the lecture of Rev. J. N. McJilton, of Baltimore, on the "Elements of True Greatness," before the same society, which, on examination, will be found able articles and full of interest.

"THE NATIVE."—This is the title of a spirited and well gotten up weekly, published at Newville, Cumberland county, Pa., by Williams & Herron. It is American in politics and perfectly national and conservative in its views. It has our best wishes of success.

IT will be seen by advertisement in another column that the steamer Kent, has resumed her routes—making a trip up the Choptank, to-day. She has been thoroughly repaired, and passengers will be made more comfortable, if possible, by her accommodating commanders than heretofore.

WE are glad to once more welcome the articles of our fair contributor, "Violet," to our columns. We didn't know but she had cut our acquaintance, it has been such a long time since we had anything from her pen. Her poem shall appear next week.

HON. JAMES A. STEWART will please accept our thanks for a copy of the report of the Secretary of the Treasury, showing the manner wherein the contingent expenses funds of that department have been expended.

The following eloquent, earnest and effective address was delivered at a recent democratic caucus in the town of Sandford, Broome county, New York, by a man who had been an inmate of the county jail on an indictment for murder. The speech is too good to be lost. Here it is:

"GENTLEMEN:—We are going to beat the Black Republicans. I am going to work this year. Last year we were licked because I was in jail and could not vote. I was persecuted and kept in jail because I was a Democrat. Gentlemen, the Democratic party is a persecuted party.—Go to all the Jails and State Prisons in the country, and you will find nine out of every ten of the criminals Democrats. Now, mark what I tell you. I am not in prison this year, and you will see what I can do."

SAD HISTORY OF A FAMILY.—Two years ago, the wife of a man named Rain, a then respectable mechanic of Cincinnati, died, and he took to drink to relieve his sorrow. Three daughters thus left to contend with poverty, and without the good advice and example of father, became the prey to vicious men and vicious thoughts. An improper intimacy sprang up between a man named Mitchell and the eldest daughter: and the father, in a moment of sensitive appreciation of the wrong done her slew the paramour, and for this was tried and sent to the penitentiary. The downward course of the daughters was then rapid.—Two have just been convicted of grand larceny, and will be sent to the State prison. The remaining one—the youngest—is now in the house of refuge.

SLAVERY ABOLISHED IN KANSAS.—We find under date of the 8th, in the Lawrence correspondence of the Leavenworth Times, that slavery has been abolished and forever prohibited in the territory of Kansas."

DARING FEAT AT NIAGARA—CROSSING ON STILTS ABOVE THE FALLS.

A correspondent of the Chicago Press and Tribune gives the following particulars of the recent insane hazard at Niagra Falls of Signor Gaspa Morelli alias Andrew Greenleaf, a dare devil Yankee boy, who for a wager of $1,000, on Monday week, actually crossed Niagra river, walking upon stilts, between Goat Island and the Falls. This writer says:

Punctually at 7 o'clock, Morelli appeared, in fine spirits and condition. He had with him a pair of stilts about twelve feet long, made of wrought iron, flat sharp-edged and pointed—shaped, in fact, almost precisely like a double edged dagger.—These were firmly lashed to his legs, and he walked towards the terrible river with a confident smile. The morning was clear and cold, but he was attired very lightly, in a dress not unlike that usually worn by professional gymnasts. At ten minutes past seven he stepped into the water, which in another moment was boiling, surging and rushing beneath his feet. The boldest of the lookers on held his breath in suspense as the daring man receded from shore. He alone seemed unmoved, and passed on, slowly and carefully, avoiding the larger rocks which were made apparent by the eddying current. His steps at first were very short and carefully made, but afterwards became bolder and longer.

The stilts, of course, were so placed that the current struck only against their sharp edges, and produced but little effect: but the danger from the sunken rocks, and the conviction that a single false step would send him to death, produced a feeling that was horribly painful. Once or twice he seemed to lose his balance, and a sickening shudder ran through each one of the beholders. Recovering himself he still kept on—still receded, until to our straining eyes he could scarcely be distinguished from the foaming waters. The middle of the river was attained at last; hours seem to have fled, but it was barely seventeen minutes since he left the shore. As he approached the deepest and most dangerous part of his route, the suspense became more fearfully intense. No word was spoken, except that one man offered another five dollars for a moments use of his lorgnette, which offer passed unheeded. Just as Morelli reached the swiftest and deepest portion of the current, he seemed to totter—sink—he threw up his arms! I closed my eyes.—Opening them a moment after, I saw that he was still standing. A few moments more and he had reached the Canadian bank—and fell exhausted into the arms of two men who were waiting for him.

At this hour (3 P. M.) he has nearly recovered, and though still in bed, receives the congratulations of dozens of visitors who came pouring in. He left the American shore 960 feet above the fall, and came out about 1,000 feet above the Canadian. The money has already been handed over to him and all will agree that it was fairly won.

THE GREAT FRESHETS AT THE WEST.

Overflow of the Ohio River and its Tributaries—Towns, Villages and Lowlands Inundated by the Water—Damages to Property by the Flood, &c.

The Cincinati papers of Monday are filled with accounts of the freshets in the Western rivers. From the Gazette, of Monday morning, we select the following:

The present overflow in the Ohio river and tributaries is a novel feature for this time of the year. In the middle of February, generally, the coldest days of winter prevail, yet this season it now presents an atmosphere of almost spring warmth, accompanied by vivid lightning, heavy thunder and tremendous incessant rains. Saturday was just such a day, and yesterday the weather was clear, with high and powerful March winds. The water was within four feet of the second floor of the buildings below Main street, and six and a half feet of the second floor of the buildings above Broadway. The enroachments of the water upon the buildings commenced on Saturday, so that by evening, the occupants with their miscellaneous "traps" had moved to more congenial quarters. This freshet is within three feet 11 inches of the rise of 1853, when the water was up to the curb stones on the southeast corner of Front and Broadway. The rapidity of the rise this time, however, is much greater than it was then.

So great was the anxiety of our citizens to witness the mighty water as it went rolling down, that the ferry boats were thronged to their utmost capacity to and fro the entire day, while on the levee there could not have been less than 50,000 persons, patroling the wharf during the day. The weather turning off quite cold last evening will have a beneficial influence in causing a rapid receding river.

The overflow of the Licking river has surrounded many of the houses in Newport and Covington, with water, forcing the occupants to move into the second stories.—At Ripley, the water was up into the second story of the tobacco warehouse, and all the tobacco removed. The water was up into the streets, and at Neville, the sluice dividing the town from the landing, was bank full cutting off all intercourse with the river, except by skiffs. Muskingum, Kanawha, Scioto, Big Sandy, Little Miami and all the side streams are reported bank full.

The Jacob Strader, from Louisvill, brings discouraging accounts of the river hence to and at Louisville. Big Miami and Kentucky rivers are unusually high, and rising rapidly. At Lawrenceburg the water was up into the town, and in the lower part skiffs were brought into requisition to go from house to house. Vevey was in a similar predicament. Warsaw is almost entirely surrounded by water, and below the town a sea of water for miles can be seen. The entire country is represented to be under water, and fences and trees swept off in large quantities.

At Louisville, the water is up into the houses along Water street, and up to the Third street, bridge. Falls pilots are a dispensable institution, for boats can go down and up with ordinary pilots quite easily.—The lower Ohio is bank full, and fears of an overflow are entertained at Evansville and Cario. Captain James T. Fisher, who arrived from New Orleans yesterday noon via rail from Cairo, informs us that the rains on the prairies and along the Wabash valley have been very great, and that almost the entire country is under water. Wabash Green and White rivers were at flood height and at Vincinnes reports were made of heavy damages to farms along the Wabash valley. All the prarie roads were overflowed especially along the Illinois, Alton, Terre Haute and Indianapolis routes. The railroad tracks could not be seen, and trains appeared to be plowing or sailing through a sea of waters.

THE PARAGUAY EXPEDITION.

MONTEVIDEO, Uraguay, Dec. 15, 1858.

The Paraguay Expedition—The United States Vessels—Sympathisers with Lopez, &c.

The United States steamers Fulton and Water Witch arrived here on the morning of the 6th, from the United States, via Barbadoes, Maranham and Pernambuco; both ships although having a perfectly healthy crew, have been quarantined for twelve days. The Harriet Lane is hourly expected.

There are also now at anchor off the city of Montevideo, the United States frigate St. Lawrence, sloop Falmouth, brigs Bainbridge and Perry, and store-ship Supply

A brush with the Paraguayans is confidently expected, and President Lopez expresses himself as being prepared for us.—Nearly all the surrounding States, Buenos Ayres excepted, sympathize with him (Lopez,) and their dislike to the Americans is strongly manifested through the medium of the newspapers, describing the Americans as "the vandals, the blood-thirsty barbarians of the North." They say that our difficulty with Paraguay is merely an excuse to get a footing in South America. The squadron will proceed up the river immediately on the arrival of the Commodore.

One of the seamen attached to the Falmouth was killed during a drunken row in the city on the night of the 9th inst. The murderers are under arrest in the city, and report says are to be shot. The flag-ship of the Paraguay fleet, the Sabine, is hourly expected. The Southern Star and the remainder of the transports must also arrive shortly. The opinion entertained here by the greater portion of the inhabitants, of our fleet and of its object is not of an elevated character by any means.

Four Brazilian steamers arrived in port day before yesterday, which, with the British, French and Spanish frigates, swell the number of war vessels now in port to thirteen. This vessel, with the Water Witch, is now in quarantine, though we have not a case of sickness of any kind on board. It is, however, according to regulation, and we have to stick it out twelve days. It has been said ashore that the cause of our quarantine originated in the report that the cholera had broken out in our last port, (Pernambuco,) although the place was never more healthy than it was when we left.

The health of the officers and crew of the different vessels of our fleet continues excellent.

Yours, &c. WALTER.

THE MURDER OF A MISSIONARY.—In a report from the War Department sent to the Senate on Tuesday, we select what purports to be an authentic account of the murder of the Methodist Missionary, Dr Kittman, who crossed the plains in the year 1838, and settled in the plains of the Walla-Walla, where he soon had around him all the comforts of rural life, and where, with his interesting family, he commenced to instruct and enlighten the savages of that region. The small-pox having broken out among the Indians, spread with great rapidity, hundreds of their number falling victims to the disease. The family of the missionary did all in their power to mitigate and assuage the sufferings of these savages by nursing and distributing medicines.

But the missionary family not being afflicted with the pestilence, created a suspicion in the minds of the Indians that the pestilence had been brought for the purpose of destroying the red face and obtaining their lands. With a view to test practically the truth, two Indians were sent over to the mission farm that had not been afflicted with the malady, in order that the missionary might prescribe for them, which was kindly done, and the red patients returned to their friends to await the issue. By some strange fatality both of these Indians died, which confirmed in the minds of these savages the truth of the suspicion, and the next step was revenge.

A stalwart savage was selected for the bloody deed, who stole into the chamber of the sleeping family and buried his tomahawk in the brain of the missionary and that of his wife, and then other Indians rushed in, and helpless children, male and female employees, were butchered, the house razed to the ground, fences destroyed, and every vestige of a once happy home disappeared."

A MELANCHOLY CASE—Religious Monomania.—We heard, a day or two since, the particulars of a melancholy case of monomania, in the person of a lady in this city, respectably connected, but, for obvious reasons, we refrained from making the fact public, until we could learn the result of a rash act, committed under an insane impulse. It appears that the lady in question had recently been much concerned in regard to her future state, although for a long time she has been a consistent member of a church, and seldom failed to attend its devotional exercises.

Her anxiety in matters of religion had lately so worked upon her mind as to make her life seem miserable, and peculiarities of character were each day unfolded in such a manner as to lead her friends to suspect that she contemplated self-destruction. Fearing this, she was carefully watched, but in an unguarded moment she availed herself of a mode they least suspected, and well adapted to bring about her death in the most horrible manner—none other than by drinking boiling water from a tea kettle, which was at this time standing upon the stove. Immediately after the occurrence medical aid was summoned to her relief, when it was found that her injuries internally were of such a character as to leave little hope of her ultimate recovery. At last accounts she was getting better, though she still lies in a precarious condition. Strange to say she has since entirely recovered from her mental delusions.—St. Paul Times.

☞ A Texas paper states that every newspaper in the State, except the Neuces Valley, published at Corpus Christi, has expressed itself in strong terms against the decision of Congress that there were no grounds for the impeachment of Judge Watrous.

The Albany Evening Journal has in a few words shown up the absurdity of Mr. Buchanan's thirty million scheme more effectually than it could be disposed of in a whole column of arguments. The case is stated concisely and pointed thus: "It is a tissue of absurdities; it proposes the absurdity of spending money we have not got—the absurdity of buying what is not for sale—and the crowning absurdity of offering an insult as a preliminary to making a bargain! It proposes to give the President all manner of powers that do not belong to him. He is to have a Congressman's power of introducing bills, the Senate's power of ratifying treaties, the House's power of authorizing loans, and Congress's power of declaring war! Like Bottom, the weaver, he wants to play all the parts in the play himself, and to play them all at once. His dream will probably share the fate of his prototype's—"It shall be called Bottom's dream, because it hath no bottom."

SCENE IN THE WISCONSIN LEGISLATURE. The Madison correspondent of the Milwaukie News thus writes:

"This afternoon after the Assembly had adjourned an old Indian came into the hall and looked around, nodded to the members, shook hands with the reporters and clerks, and wandered up to the Speaker's stand.—Taking up the gavel he looked at it carefully, struck a blow with it on the Speaker's stand. The echo evidently pleased him, for he struck two or three more blows, then commenced a regular war dance, keeping time to his step with the new 'war club.' The members cheered, and for ten minutes the old fellow kept up his aboriginal exercise, and only stopped when too tired to keep up his youthful pastime."

IMPROVEMNTS AT THE STATE HOUSE.—The Annapolis Gazette says: "The main Hall, the Hall of the House of Delegates, and the Court of Appeals room have been finished, and present a very handsome appearance. The Library will be finished in a few weeks. The Record Building for the heating apparatus, the committee rooms, and other contemplated improvements have been commenced, but cannot be finished until another appropriation be made—the money appropriated in 1858 being nearly all expended. This is much to be regretted, inasmuch as the present condition of the building renders it unfit for a meeting of the Legislature in winter.

AN OLD DOCUMENT.—Col. W. W. Garner, of Columbus city, Iowa, has in his library the discipline of the Methodist Episcopal Church, adopted at a conference held at Baltimore, Md., on the 27th day of December, 1784, at which the Rev. Thomas Coke and Francis Asbury presided. The book was printed at Philadelphia, Pa., in 1790. The printing presents a remain of ancient times—of American work.—Muscaline Jour.

A St. Paul (Minn.) paper mentions the arrival of a dog train at Pembina. It says: "Three large wolfish-looking dogs, attached by thongs to a long sledge, about eleven feet in length, turned up at the end, and laden with furs, pemmican, &c., beside the three men on it, came driving through our streets at quite a brisk rate. After tarrying a day or two they started on their return. We believe they make about forty miles a day on their journey."

☞ An infirm old negro named Boyd was found at Cleveland on the 14th, roasting over a blazing lime kiln. Circumstances indicate that a party of negroes among whom he lived murdered him to get him out of the way. The Plaindealer says these people had become sick of him, as he had no money and was too infirm to steal, and so they took him while he was helplessly drunk, gave him a few knocks on the head and threw him on the kiln.

☞ A colored man named Cæsar died at Covington, La., on the 8th of February, at the great age of 138 years.

☞ The horses "Honest John" and "Princess have been matched in San Francisco for a ten mile race for $10,000.

Fire at Madison Ohio.

CINCINATI, Feb 21.—The Madison courthouse was partially destroyed by fire at midnight. The loss is estimated at $20,000. The records and papers were saved. The building is a new one, and cost $40,000.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—We hear that almost incredible results have followed the exhibition of this excellent medicine in cases of dropsy. Acting immediately upon the blood, it prevents the effusion of serum in greater quantities than the absorbents can take up, and by equalizing and regulating the flow of the secretions and the circulation of the vital fluid, effectually stops the progress of the distemper. Holloway's Ointment is also used with great effect as a means of discharging by evaporation and absorption the water already collected in the cellular tissue. Really there seems to be no disease which can resist the combined action of these two preparations.

Stuttering & Stammering Cured.

POSITIVELY THE LAST CALL.

UNTIL the very recent discovery of my wonderful Cure for Stuttering and Stammering and its successful application in the most inveterate cases, embracing many of the most inveterate kind, this complaint was considered incurable. And I am confidently assert that for this infirmity there is no other certain cure than mine, and I challenge and defy the whole world to produce any other.

This cure for Stuttering and Stammering is performed in less than ONE HOUR. There is no pain or surgical operation attending it. The beauty of all is, it will cure children of five and adults at the age of one hundred years. ☞ Persons cured by it can never again stutter even if they try.

I will be at the Easton Hotel, in Easton, Md. on Thursday and Friday, the 10th and 11th of March, and positively no longer

The following letter from Rev. Henry Wood, late Consul to Beyroot, Syria, and formerly editor of the Congregationalist, Concord, N. H. and now Chaplain U. S Navy, is of like tenor of thousands in our possession:—

CONCORD, N. H., March 2.

Messrs. Seth W. Fowle & Co.—Gentlemen—Two years ago, a sudden and violent attack upon my lungs confined me to my bed for several weeks, and when I recovered, I was so much oppressed by difficulty in breathing, that I was often unable to sleep or rest upon a bed by night. The suffering was extreme, and judging from the inefficiency of the remedies used, I supposed the disease incurable. Being persuaded to try a bottle of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, without the least confidence in its efficiency, I found the difficulty almost entirely removed before one bottle was used up. Having a mortal aversion to medicine, and seldom using it in any form, sympathy with my fellow sufferers induces me to make this public statement, and recommend the article to others similarly afflicted.
