AGRICULTURE.

From the Working Farmer.

LIMA BEANS.

The increasing demand for Lima Beans for the West Indies and elsewhere, renders them a desirable crop, and although we have frequently written on this theme before, its repetition cannot offend. The best plan for an early and large product, is as follows:—Place sods turned upside down in shallow boxes or trays, in the cellar; cut through these sods with a knife in two directions, so that they will be cut into squares of about two inches diameter; into the centre of each square force down a Lima Bean eye downward, and the small end rather the lowest. This is the position the bean always assumes as it rises from the soil, and if placed in any other position, it is forced to turn itself, and thus disfigure the plant as well as causing the pith at the turn to change color and become in degree diseased. These boxes or trays may be placed in the cellar windows until they are three or four inches high, and until all danger of frost is over; then place them about the poles out doors, in the manner suggested in our article on 'Kitchen Garden,' the squares being put out without disturbing the bean. Manure the surrounding soil with phosphates—the vines will then run around the poles or stalks, and when five feet high the terminal bud should be pinched off. With such treatment side shoots will put forth, bearing plentifully, and so early as to insure ripening before frost. Sometimes a second shortening-in is required. All the fruit will perfect itself instead of a large proportion being destroyed by frost late in the season.

This shortening-in causes the vines to double in size and strength, as well as giving larger results of better quality. The following may be true in degree, but in our experience we have found that the roughest or most ragged poles were the best, as the curling vine would escape from smoother surfaces.—[Ed.

How the Bean Climbs the Pole.—Professor Brewer, of Washington College Penn., communicates to The American Journal of Science and Arts, the results of some experiments made by him on climbing vines—the hop, the Lima bean, and the morning glory. He finds that they will climb around a transparent glass pipe just as well as anything else, and that they are most ardent in their embraces when the pole is warmer than the surrounding air.—During the day, the vine is attracted toward the light, but at night, and especially on cool nights, it turns to the pole. He learned, also, that the color of the pole makes no difference; the caressing instinct of the vine has no prejudice against any shade. The element of constancy is very largely developed, the vine, after it has reached its pole, showing a much stronger tendency to wind around it than it did before to reach it.

SALT FOR QUINCE TREES.

The following is from the California Culturist, and if true, embraces two new facts:—That the quince is an evergreen not salted in California, and takes on a new habit after being salted.—[Ed.

Editor Culturist:—Allow me to answer the inquiry of W. F. C., of Ione Valley, in your last number, in reference to salt to cause the quince to fruit.

I have about sixty trees, which are now five years old, and for the past three years have blossomed full and when the fruit became as large as a hazelnut would all fall off. In the autumn of 1857, I applied salt at the roots of one-half of them, and the result was that I had a good crop of fine fruit from the trees which were salted, whilst those without salt produced not one, although they all blossomed and set fruit alike, and were of the same variety, and on similar soil—a deep sandy loam.

Another remarkable feature connected there-with is, that before the application of salt, the trees were evergreen; the leaves out falling until new ones came out in the spring; and those that were not salted still maintain that feature, whilst those that received the salt, shed their leaves last fall at the time of other fruit trees. Will, or can you explain this phenomenon?

THE STRIPED BUG.

The striped bug, when it once makes an inroad into the garden, is the most destructive of the insect tribe. Not only cucumbers and melons are sometimes completely devoured, but squashes and pumpkins share the same fate. Numerous remedies have been suggested, some of them tedious and not altogether efficacious. Recently we came across the following, which looks as though it might be a preventive; at least it is not troublesome or expensive to try:—"Take a small piece of paper, put it on the ground in the centre of young hills, and lay a small stone on each corner to keep it fast; then put on it two or three pieces of gum camphor as large as a pea. Renew the camphor when it is gone." It is asserted to be a complete remedy.—Germantown Telegraph.

A Natural Climax.—In the hearing of an Irish case for assault and battery, a counsel, while cross-examining one of the witnesses, asked him what they had at the first place they stopped?

Four glasses of ale,' was the answer.
'What next?'
'Two glasses of whiskey.'
'What next?'
'One glass of brandy.'
'What next?'
'A fight!'

Not a Bit Surprising!—A Hibernian had come far to see Niagara and while he gazed upod it, a friend asked him if it was not the most wonderful thing he had ever seen. To which he replied, "Never a bit, man; never a bit! Sure it's no wonder it all that the wather should fall down there, for I'd like to know what could hinder at. Now if it was up it was falling, I'd say it was wonderful!

Never Failed Yet.—"Jim, I know of a new fashioned mackintosh to keep out the wet." "What is it Jack?" "Why, eat a red herring for breakfast, and you will be dry all day."

The Great Ambassador of Health

TO ALL MANKIND.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

A BOON TO THE SICK.

The want of a sterling medicinal to meet the ills and necessities of the suffering portion of humanity, and one entirely free from mineral and other deleterious particles, was severely felt till this all powerful medicine was ushered into the world; Holloway's invaluable Pills have become the household remedy of all nations. Their attribute is to prevent as well as to cure; they attack the radix of the complaint, and thus by removing the hidden cause of disease reinvigorate and restore the drooping energies of the system, assisting nature in her task of vital and functionary reformation.

DYSPEPSIA.

The great scourge of this continent yields quickly to a course of these antiseptic Pills, and the digestive organs are restored to their proper tone; no matter in what hideous shape this hydra of disease exhibits itself, this searching and unerring remedy disperses it from the patient's system.

GENERAL DEBILITY AND WEAKNESS.

From whatever cause, lowness of spirits, and all other signs of a diseased liver, and other disorganization of the system, vanish under the eradicating influence of this all powerful antiseptic and detergent remedy

BILIOUS DISORDERS.

The proper quantum and right condition of the bile is of momentous importance to the health of the human frame, this anti-bilious medicine expels the hidden seeds of the complaint, and renders all the fluids and secretions pure and fluent, cleasing and resuitating the vital functions of the body.

SICKLY FEMALES

Should lose no time in trying a few doses of this regulating and renovating remedy, whatever may be their complaint, it can be taken with safety in all periodical and other disorganizations its effect is all but miraculous.

UNREFUTED PROOF.

The testimony of Nations is unanimously borne to the health-giving virtues of his noble remedy, and certificates in every living language bear witness to the UNDENIABLENESS of their INTRINSIC WORTH.

Holloway's Pills are the best remedy known in the world for the following diseases:

Asthma,	Diarrhœa,	Indigestion,
Stone & Gravel,	Bowel Complaints,	Dropsy,
Influenza,	Secondary symptoms,	Coughs,
Debility,	Fever and Ague,	Inflamation,
Colds,	Chest Disease,	Inward Weakness,
Venereal Affections,	Female Complaints,	Liver Complaints,
Costiveness,	Lowness of Spirits,	Headaches,
Worms of all kinds,	Dyspepsia,
	Piles.

☞CAUTION!—None are genuine unless the words "Holloway, New York and London," are discernible as a Water-mark in every leaf of the book of directions around each pot or box; the same may be plainly seen by holding the leaf to the light. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicine or vending the same, knowing them to be spurious.

, Sold at the manufactories of Professor Holloway, 80 Maiden Lane, New York, and by all respectable Druggists and Dealers in Medicine throughout the United States and the civilized world, in boxes at 25 cents, 63 cents, and $1 each.

☞There is considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.

N. B.—Directions for the guidance of patients in every disorder are affixed to each box. [june-y
