The Easton Gazette.

SATURDAY MORNING . . . . JULY 2, 1859.

FARMER'S COLUMN.

THICK AND THIN SEEDING.—Mr. Mechi and some others in England, have taken the ground that thin seeding is the best for rich and highly cultivated land.—This may be true of winter wheat if sown early, but it does not apply well to all spring-sown grains. Oats, for instance, should be sown most thickly on the richest and best cultivated land, as when sown thinly they are more liable to fall before the wind or heavy rains, in which case they produce little or no grain.

BLACK WALNUTS AND BUTTERNUTS.—An Illinois farmer has grown these trees successfully, and gives some hints on planting. The first requires a deep alluvial soil, where it grows very rapidly. The nuts may be planted in the fall when first gathered, or thrown in some safe corner and lightly covered with leaves and dirt until spring.—They should be planted where they are to stand, for owing to their long tap-root they are troublesome to transplant, besides not doing as well after the tap-root is cut off.—The butternut may be grown in the same way; it has no tap-root, but lacks rootlets, and therefore had better be planted where it is to remain.

ALOES TO DESTROY BUGS.—A correspondent of the London Cottage Gardener, recommends bitter aloes to destroy the aphis and other insects. The receipt is, to mix half an ounce of aloes with a gallon of warm water, and apply it to the infected plants by means of a syringe or watering can, and he says, "before half an hour you will have clean plants." The correspondent states that he gave this application to his rose trees and cucumber plants last season, and it not only cleansed the plants at the time, but there was not one in all the season after; and it does not injure foliage in the least. It is also well known that a solution of aloes is fatal to the common bed-bug. As it is a cheap drug, we recommend its trial by our readers.

THE ELDER BUSH A PROTECTION FROM INSECTS.—We have seen it stated that an eminent English botanist made experiments in the year 1794, which led to the conviction that elder bushes would prove a protection from many of the insects which are so troublesome in gardens. If any one will notice, it will be found that worms, flies, bugs, or insects, never touch the elder.—This simple fact led to experiments, and it was found that leaves of the elder scattered over cabbages, cucumbers, squashes, and other plants, subject to the ravages of insects, effectually shields them. And it is said that the plum and other fruit may be saved from the ravages of the insects, by placing upon the branches and through the tree, branches of elder leavas. It is very little trouble to try the experiment, and we hope some of our readers will test this remedy and report upon it.—Country Gentleman.

SETTING FENCE-POSTS.—In setting fence-posts in ground liable to heave, we put a 1½ inch pin through the bottom of the post with its ends projecting. The wind effects it less, and the frost cannot raise it.

HOW TO GROW LARGE POTATOES.—To improve the size of potatoes, whether planted with small or large, whole, or even cut potatoes, when the plants are only a few inches high, let the shoots be reduced by pulling them up to one, two or three of the strongest. The tubers will consequently be fewer and very much larger, also in measure nearly all fit for market and the table. Every grower will do well to try a few rows by way of experiment, if he disbelieves the truth of this statement.—Correspondent of the London Agricultural Gazette.

SALT FOR HORSES FEET.—Common salt absorbs moisture from the atmosphere, hence it has been in some instances applied with great success for keeping the bound hoofs of horses moist. The hoof of some horses become dry and oftentimes crack, thereby rendering them lame, if the animals are driven on hard roads. By bathing the hoof and fetlock joint with salt or brine three times a day, lameness from the above cause will be avoided. It is a common practice with some blacksmiths to rasp cracked hoofs in order to render them more tough but salt brine is far superior to rasping for effecting this object.

SALT AND ASHES FOR COWS.—On turning my cows to pasture, in the spring, I provide several small tubs, and having fixed them firmly in the soil to prevent them being overturned, put into each tub one quart of salt and three quarts of sifted wood ashes, previously well mixed by stirring.—The cows partake freely of the mixture.—It prevents injury from the sudden change from dry to green food, and has, besides, a most invigorating effect upon the general system. Some assert that salt should be given only as often as once a week, as its more frequent use would be injurious.—But when supplied in this way, no apprehension need be entertained.

A fellow, whose countenance was ugly enough to scare the old one, was giving some extra flourishes in a public house, when he was observed by a Yankee, who, walking up, asked him if he didn't fall into a brook, when he was young.

"What do you mean, you impertinent scoundrel?"

"Why, I didn't mean nothing, only you've got such a crooked mouth. I thought as how you might have fallen in the brook, when you was a boy and your mother hung you up by the mouth to dry!

SOIREE.—Look yah Jim, what de debbil's dat?

Why Cæsar, dat's an inwitation.

Golly Jim, I'm knows its an inwitation, but what de debbil's dat pincooliar little word just for all de world like a dam crookem stick you don't make, no how you can fix him.

Well, look yah, I'll read him all—De pleasure of Mister Cæsar Augustus Mark Anthony Swipes, Esqr., is requestem to a sore eye, in orange street, on—

A Sore Eye, I'm blest if I go.

'I wonder what makes my eyes so weak,' said a fop to a gentleman. 'You needn't wonder—they are in a weak place,' replied the gentleman.

CAMPBELL'S PURE ESSENCE OF JAMAICA GINGER—Ginger is a grateful stimulant and carminative, and is often given in Gout, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Cramp, Cholera Morbus, Cholic, Cholera, &c., &c.

In Nervous and Sick Headache, Sea Sickness, Nausea, Imperfect Digestion, or from Nausea induced by riding in a carriage, &c., it will be found most agreeable to the stomach and palatable to the taste, and affording at the same time almost in all cases immediate relief.

To the Inebriate it is particularly serviceable; a very small quantity used instead of the usual stimulant, will give tone and vigor to the digestive organs, and impart strength to resist the temptation, and may therefore be considered a valuable agent in reclaiming the drunkard.

The traveling public will also find it very efficacious in correcting the bad results arising from a change of water and diet, a few drops of which will give a glow and vigor to the stomach, equal to a wine glass of brandy or other stimulant, without producing any of the injurious and overrating effects which are sure to result from the use of stimuli of any kind. It is also a superior article for Flavoring Jellies, Preserves, Cakes, and for other Culinary uses, besides making a good beverage in hot weather.

DOSE.—An adult may take one spoonful; a child from 8 to 14 years old, half that quantity; and for a child 2 to 5 years old, 10 to 20 drops To be given in syrup or in sugar and water. Prepared and for sale by LEVIN H. CAMPBELL,
