W. H. Cox, baker, living on North Washington street, Easton, Md., says. "When I had kidney complaint there was a soreness across my back which became sharp pain when I stooped over or exerted my back in any way. If I caught the least cold it always settled in my kidneys and made the trouble worse. I do not know why it is but I always suffered the worse attacks during the summer, and I was having a particularly acute one early this summer, when I read of Doan's Kidney Pills, and stepped into W. C. Hughes' drug store one day and got a box. I received so much benefit from the treatment that I would without hesitation recommend the remedy to anyone suffering from any of the various forms of this disease."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—DOAN'S—and take no other.

DEERING SPRING-TOOTH HARROW—REAR VIEW.

The rear view of the Deering spring-tooth harrow shows the one-piece steel angle bar frame, which will withstand any strain resulting from ordinary usage. The front bar of the frame is bent upward, which permits the harrow to slide over obstacles and debris, while the rear end of the frame is left open to prevent clogging.

One working with this saves many with scratching tools.

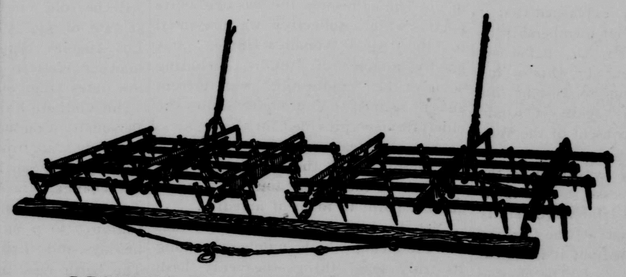

Think of your needs.
I am coming to see you.
Save me an order. If you cannot give a large one, thankful for the small one.

DEERING DISC HARROW.

A rear view of the Deering disc harrow is shown in the illustration presented herewith. This harrow is both strong and simple in construction, the main frame being made of one solid piece. The draft is directly from the center, the draft frame being attached to the gangs at the centre of the discs. The gangs can be set at any desired angle by means of the adjusting lever.

DEERING DIAMOND TOOTH HARROW.

The illustration presented herewith shows the Deering diamond tooth harrow with sixty teeth. The tooth bars have malleable clips, which complete the circle of the bar where they pass through the channel steel frame. The teeth have four cutting edges, and can be adjusted to cut any desired depth. Sure catch for grass seed where this is used.

OF INTEREST TO LADIES.

An Epitome of the Fads and Fancies of Fashion.

Tabs finish many a bodice bask.

Plush is much used in smart headgear.

Soft fabrics prevail for afternoon wear.

That Frenchy little velvet bow is being overworked.

A curious red on the crushed strawberry is favored.

Warm colors reign supreme in the complete wardrobe.

Hand embroidery on tucks is dainty for the debutante's frock.

The tiniest fans are of peacock feathers with tortoise shell sticks.

Skirt flounces caught down at the bottom in puff effect are new—old.

Every gown has its shoe or slipper to match and the stocking follows suit.

Exquisitely lovely are the pale green art nouveau combs with jeweled floral tops.

The blouse with strapped front and a long silk scarf pulled through is popular.

Hats of moss, with clusters of red berries tucked in the green, are a lovely novelty.

Velvet blouses, both simple and elaborate, are to be taken into consideration this year.

A blouse that is "different" is of black taffeta with a tucked chemisette of white muslin.

There are brown blouses so alluring that one wants to buy a brown suit just to match them.

Mass creamy white roses on the back of your evening toque, where they will rest against the hair.

Fascinating things are shown in warm room gowns of eiderdown, quilted satin and cashmeres.

To be chic the muff must be either big enough or little enough, between which extremes lies mediocrity.

Any Name Suited Him.

The average office boy who enters the employ of a daily newspaper is promptly christened with a name. The name is usually the first one that pops into the head of the first man who sees him.

A short time ago a scarlet haired youngster went to work in a local newspaper office. "Brick" was the first nickname that the little fellow received. Another employe of the paper thought just plain "Red" would be better. "Rusty" came into use later, and then "Scarlet." A new man on the force thought "Vermilion" would be a good name, but this fell into disuse on account of its length. "Pinkey" came into use later, and then the discovery was made that the youth carried a middle name, which was Michael. "Mike" and "Mickey" then came into use, as did "Speck," in deference to the boy's freckles. Finally the horse editor thought "Sorrell" a proper name for the boy, and later he was dubbed "Sandy." He now answers any name that has either a cardinal or freckled turn to it, and appears satisfied with any of them.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Please bear in mind that orders for all classes of engraving may be left at the Gazette office with the assurance that the work done, whether it be a Tiffany or Wright, will be just as high class and as cheap as elsewhere. Wedding outfits a specialty. tf
