Philosophical Research crowded out this week.

How magnanimous in Col. Tilghman to furnish horse sense to Gov. Warfield. How brilliantly scintillating some editorial writers become.

Some of our cotemporaries of the Democratic persuasion seem to be groping in the dark. They want to play with the regular organization on the one hand and tickle Gov. Warfield on the other.

The most conspicuous and influential body of Democrats in the State of Maryland is the Crescent Democratic Club of Baltimore City. It violently opposes the proposed Amendment to the Constitution, and attacks it on principle in a report which was adopted as follows:

The danger of this measure lies in its first section, in the colossal powers conferred upon registration officers. There are no limitations placed upon them. It is a discretionary power, and this power is conferred by te high act of a constitutional amendment which, if passed, would become a part of the constitution and could not be changed by subsequent legislative enactment inferior to another constitutional amendment to repeal it.

This section gives the registration officers the power to register whomsoever they deem fit and reject whomsoever they desire. To no judge of the courts of the counties nor to any of Baltimore city have the citizens of this State deemed it safe or wise to intrust the power to interpret the constitution of our State without an appeal from this interpretation to a higher court. Is it possible that they will confer this power upon the registration officers?

There are other sections which will appear just as much a Chinese puzzle as this to the layman.

The second and third sections of the amendment are undemocratic and create class distinction. It is an attempt to incorporate into our political institutions the doctrine of hereditary right. Why should one individual, though unworthy to exercise the right of franchise, be enitled to do so because he happens to have been the descendant of an ancestor who was entited to vote before a certain date, while another, although worthy in every respect, not being the descendant of such a person, must undergo an extra test of the kind laid down? The citizens of this State should recall the fact that at the time this measure was pending in the Legislature there was also another bill introduced which intended to change our system from the bipartisan election judges, two from the leading parties, to the partisan one of two judges from the dominant party and one from the minority. Such an act would be the logical conclusion and suitable companion for this amendment.

Our citizens should bear in mind what a great latitude would be given to the succeeding Legislatures to frame bills to carry out the details of the general propositions contained in this amendment. Even if this act would accomplish the result of eliminating the negro in politics, are we justified in granting powers to individuals which could be used to disfranhise us? Is not the possibility of having ourselves disfranchised too great a price to pay for the eliminating of an evil which can be removed by different legislation?

THE DEATH ROLL.

Mrs. Henrietta Dimmock Smith.

The death of Mrs. Henrietta Dimmock Smith, of Easton, last Sunday, aged 75 years, removed from our community another time honored landmark. While this release from life was not unexpected, yet there came with it a feeling of deep sadness that she was no more to mingle with those among whom she had been associated for so many years. Mrs. Smith was naturally vivacious and very intelligent, and retained her youth far into the years accounted old. Until deafness began to tell upon her, a few years ago, no more entertaining a lady could be found. She was courted by the young, and mingled freely with them in their social functions, being also rarely gifted in musical attainments and familiar with the proper courtesies of sociey. Mrs. Smith was the widow of the late Capt. Wm. H. Smith of Easton, a Civil Engineer who had distingusihed himself in many large enterprises. The only surviving members of the family are a daughter, Mrs. Reuben Tharp, of Rahway, N. J., and a son, H. Dimmock Smith, of Baltimore, both of whom were in attendance during the last illness of their mother.

Funeral services were held at Christ Church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clook. Interment was made at Spring Hill Cemetery. Those acting as pallbearers, Rev. Wm. E. Henry, J. S. Griffith, W. G. Ball, M. T. G. Earle, P. Addison Morgan and R. C. Forman. Dean Edw. R. Rich of Trinity Cathedral officiated, assisted by Rev. F. B. Adkins.

Henry G. Budd.

Mr. Henry G. Budd, for many yeais of Smyrna, but lately of Centreville, died suddenly on last Sunday at the home of his son in Centerville, after an illness of one hour. The deceased was well known in Easton, having many times visited his daughter, Mrs. James H. McNeal, of this town, and for whom much symapthy is expressed in this hour of bereavement. Besides her, Mr. Budd leaves a widow, two sons, Rev. H. G. Budd of Centreville, and Edward G. of Philadelphia, and two other daughters, Katharine and Mary, of Elkton. Interment in Smyrna on Wednesday.

Mr. Budd was in public life for many years, having been alderman of Smyrna for twenty-five years, and Justice of the Peace and Notary Public for nearly thirty years. He has always been a most consistent religious man, he was converted in the Methodist Episcopal church in Smyrna 15 years ago, and has since been a devoted member of that religious body. He married Caroline, daughter of Rev. George F. Kettell, who was a Methodist Episcopal minister of the New York East Conference.

John R. Hughlett.

John R. Hughlett died at his residence in Trappe early Thursday morning of last week, after having been confined to his home with kidney trouble. He was a son of the late Col. Wm. R. Hughlett, of this county. Mr. Hughlett was twice married. His first wife was Miss Jeannette Orndorf of Trappe, by whom he leaves one daughter, Mrs. Mary A. Richardson of Baltimore. His second wife was Miss Clara Kemp, daughter of the late Robert Kemp. Three sons survive this union, John R., Campbell and Robert Kemp Hughlett, all of Trappe, and one daughter, Mrs. Tamsey Marden, of Baltimore. Funeral services were held in St. Paul's P. E. Church, Trappe, Friday afternoon. Rev. C. K. P. Cogswell officiated.

John C. Carmine.

John C. Carmine, aged 72, died after a long illness, at his home in Easton on Thursday last. Mr. Carmine was a highly respected citizen and has been a resident of Easton for many years, but was formerly of Caroline county. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Wm. J. H. Wooters, and two brothers, S. Carmine, of Cambridge, and Thomas Carmine, of Ridgely, also two sisters, Mrs. Wm. Stevens, of Hurlock, and Mrs. N. Perry, of Cordova.

Interment will be from his late residence this (Saturday) morning, at 10 o'clock, Rev. W. R. Graham officiating.

Fiendish Suffering is often caused by sores, ulcers and cancers, that eat away your skin. Wm. Bedell, of Flat Rock, Mich., says: "I have used Bucklen's Arnica Salve, for Ulcers, Sores and Cancers. It is the best healing dressing I ever found." Soothes and heals cuts, burns and scalds. 25c at Smithers' Moreland Pharmacy; guaranteed.

Every man owes it to himself and his family to master a trade or profession. Read the display advertisement of the six Morse Schools of Telegraphy, in this issue and learn how easily a young man or lady may learn telegraphy and be assured a position.

W. J. Laird of Dorchester, while under the influence of liquor stepped off the excursion train returning from Reboth last Tuesday night, into Polk's Mill pond and was drowned. He was 43 years of age and leaves a widow with three children.

Wills of Mr. Henry and Mr. Mullikin.

The will of the late John C. Henry bequeathes all his estate to his widow. It was written December 19, 1895, witnessed by Dr. Lloyd H. Smith and C. Russell Higgins.

The will of the late John F. Mullikin provides as follows:

That his executor, Theodore Mullikin, his son, sell his real estate and pay his widow one-ninth of the proceeds instead of dower, if she consent; otherwise to sell said real estate subject to dower.

After payment of all debts, to pay to his widow one-third of his personalty, the balance to be equally divided among his children Charles F., John R., Levin Hill and W. Theodore Mullikin, and the children of his deceased daughters, Margaret Mullikin and Sallie R. Cook, said grandchildren to have their mothers' shares.

Charles F. Mullikin charged with advance of $500, John R. with $700.

The will was made November 12, 1900, witnessed by Wm. S. Merrick and R. T. Mullikin.

A codicil was added Sept. 12, 1904, changing second item to read as follows:

"I devise the portion that would come to my granddaughter, Minnie M. Mullikin, to her brother, Addison E. Mullikin, in trust to pay any expenses incurred for her benefit at any time, and invest the balance, if any, at his discretion, and use the income for her benefit, or pay it over to her, as he may deem best. In case of necessity he is authorized to expend a part or the whole of the funds invested for her benefit."

The codicil was witnessed by Col. J. C. and Clayland Mullikin.

MRS. E. J. KIRBY'S PICNIC

For the Benefit of the Talbot Home for the Aged.

Mrs. E. J. Kirby, of Ridley, Trappe district, of her gracious charity will throw open her grounds for a picnic on Wednesday, 16th of August, for the benefit of the Talbot Home for the Aged. None of the participants in Mrs. Kirby's picnic for the same good cause last summer need urging to insure their presence on this auspicious occasion, but the uninitiated, those misguided absentees, who having irrevocably lost one jolly good time, are hereby enjoined to "take occasion by the hairs" on Wednesday, August 16th, next, (and their luncheon baskets) and appear to test the varied charm of Mrs. Kirby's midsummer picnic.

Among manifold attractions without money and without price must be noted an excellent bathing beach with all bathing accessories, as also little voyages up and down, or across the blue Choptank to Cambridge in naphtha launches, etc., etc.

Admission fee, 25 cts.
