Mrs. Caroline Phillips died Feb. 27th, 1906. in the home of her daughter Mrs. Susan Hamilton, Oxford, Md., in the 84th year of her age. Mrs. Phillips suffered through many weeks, but the end was peaceful when she 'fell on sleep.' She was twice married. One daughter, Mrs. Susan Hamilton, of Oxford, and two sons, Mr. Frank Page, of Tilghman's Island, and Mr. Daniel Phillips, of Philadelphia, are her surviving children. Her favorite hymn, number 760 in the Methodist Episcopal Hymnal, 'I need thee every hour,' was sung as the closing funeral hymn. Services were held in the home of Mrs. Hamilton at 2 p. m. on Thursday, conducted by Rev. W. T. Lewis, D D., assisted by the Rev. G. Croft Williams. The body was laid to rest in the Oxford cemetery.

'Rest for the toiling hand,
Rest for the anxious brow,
Rest for the weary, way-sore feet,
Rest from all labor now.'

SIWEL.

The Tenth Grade of the Oxford High School, assisted by the Ninth Grade and some lower classmen, gave a most enjoyable entertainment in their Assembly Hall, Friday evening, February 23. The following programme was rendered:

Music by Orchestra,
Play—The Brotherhood of Veterans,
Music—Orchestra,
Play—The Rag Doll Party,
Music—Orchestra,

From the first note by the Orchestra until the very last everyone was well pleased; and at the end came the sigh, 'Would that it were longer.' But the burden of the teachers' sigh was, 'Glad that is over and that the audience was large and appreciative.'

The music by the Orchestra charmed all. As for the Veterans, from Uncle Sam to Little Uncle Sam; well they looked well in their uniforms, and their enthusiasm was contagions. The stage was artistically draped with flags; and when Old Glory, borne by Sergeant Jasper, Master Bringman, was saluted we were thrilled. I shall not forget to mention Captain Molly Pitcher, the only heroine in the meeting; she was arrayed in true Monmouth style. The Orchestra music then soothed the audience, so that it was scarcely able to stand the shock that the Rag Dolls produced. They were the most expressionless, yet fascinating beings ever seen. Misses Caroline Willis and Eunice Parsons took very cleverly the part of the Mothers of the Dolls. And the Dolls; they were of all descriptions, infants, little girls, big girls, ladies. Jack, the sailor boy, and Little Boy Blue with his horn. Miss Eason as Dinah, Master Valliant as Chinaman brought forth applause from the audience. Every player did his part well.

The programme was repeated Saturday evening to a smaller, but an attentive audience, many being unable to get in the hall the previous evening.

The result, financially, was very gratifying to teachers and pupils.

Trappe,

Eggs are plentiful, but price low!

Trappe was full of carriages on Saturday.

The high winds caused the snow to bank in the roads.

Some of Easton's influential citizens were in town on Sunday.

The young ladies and gentlemen of St. Paul's P. E. Church are preparing for an entertainment to be given after Easter. The church and rectory need painting and repairs. The gleaners have put a new stove in the rectory.

Mr. Corkran, of Beaver Dam, met with quite an accident to one of his mules. Mr. Corkran is preparing a fish pond; the mule fell down an embankment with a load of sand. After strenuous efforts the mule was gotten out and from last accounts improving.

The school in Ferry Neck which was closed by Miss Martin being appointed to Trappe High School, has been opened, much to the satisfaction of the community. This school has served as a school for many years for both Ferry and Little Neck. Miss Reta Kemp has been appointed teacher.

George W. Dexter, one of Trappe district's prosperous farmers, was on a visit to Annapolis and Washington. He tells us he was most graciously entertained by our delegate from Trappe district and received a cordial greeting from our Senator from Easton. During his visit to Washington he stood under the chandelier where Miss Alice was married.

News has been received that Dr. and Mrs. Chaplain are having a fine time on their Southern trip. The Dr. is anxious to eat some fresh Southern strawberries. The Dr. intended to take this trip last winter but the cold weather interfered. He went from Baltimore to Savannah, thence to Florida. Later—Dr. and Mrs. Chaplain arrived home Wednesday morning. They received a cold reception (caused by the weather) but a warm one by their many friends who were glad to see them back again.

Watch-dog That Wouldn't Watch

Pay more for Devoe; be glad to. It is full-measure and honest.

Paint is a watch-dog. How would you like a watch-dog that would't watch from two to five o'clock in the morning? That's short-measure.

How would you like a watch-dog that had a way of wagging his tail at a burglar? That's false paint. The burglar is rain and snow.

Go by the name: Devoe lead-and-zinc.
