NEW YORK, Dec. 31.

The Fugitive Slave Case.—The fugitive slave, Long, was further examined today. Several persons testified and identified him as being the slave of D Smith o Virginia. The examination was continued to Thursday.

The Africa sails to-morrow with thirty seven passengers and two hundred and fifty thousand dollars in specie.

FUGITIVE SLAVE CASE IN SPRINGFIELD.—A man from Schenectady, N. Y. came into Springfield, and claimed a black woman who resided here, married and with a family, as a slave. She was taken before Geo. Bliss Esq., where the claim was established, according to the law in such cases. The woman was given up as the claimant's property, when several of our benevolent citizens, including Daniel Lombard, Esq., one of our estimable men, obtained terms, clubbed together, purchased her of her master, for the sum of $100 Mr Lombard holds the bill of sale in his possession. This is the operation of the fugitive slave law in Springfield. There was no excitement, or disturbance. The law was allowed to take its course.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican, Dec. 26.

The Southern Press says that the above case took place forty years ago!

CONFLICT WITH FUGITIVE SLAVES.—We learn from the Ledger, that on Friday last, a gentleman from Maryland, in search of a fugitive slave, accompanied by a Deputy U. States Marshal and Constable Jno. Agen, proceeded in a vehicle to the vicinity of Coatsville, on the Columbia Railroad, where it was understood the fugitive was secreted.

They arrived in the neighborhood of the house in question about 2 o' clock in the morning, and roused the inmates by asking for a light to mend the traces of their vehicle, which they pretended were broken. A colored woman came to the door, when the officer rushed into the house and commenced the search. The owner recognized his slave, put the other colored persons in the house interfered, and, arming themselves with axes and firearms, succeeded in enabling the fugitive to escape. They also assaulted the officers, who were, in self defence, forced to use their pistols and it is believed several of the colored persons were wounded. The slave owner recognized among the men in the house several that he knew to be slaves that have recently escaped from the plantations in the neighborhood of his own.

SERIOUS ASSAULT.—On Thursday afternoon last a party of disorderly characters made an attack upon the inmates of a tavern on the Washington road, a mile or two from the city, kept by a German named Frederick Stepp. After the assailants had forced their way into the house by breaking down the front door, a pistol was discharging by one of the party, wounded a young man named Michael Fambury a brother-in-law of Stepp. The ball from the pistol entered his left breast and glancing upwards lodged among the arteries of the neck, from whence it was with difficulty extracted by Drs. Gilman and Albers. A man named Wm. Cain was arrested by officers Baxter and Knott, on the charge of being the party who fired the pistol. He was taken before Justice Root, who, the physicians testifying that Fambury was injured to an extent which would probably produce his death, refused to take bail and accordingly committed him for a further examination.—American.

BRUTAL ASSAULT.—On Wednesday afternoon, during a riotous demonstration which was made by a party of young men and boys in Bond street, a young lad named Edward Kemp, about 19 years of age, was set upon by some three or four men and beaten in a most brutal and horrible manner. When rescued from his assailants he was perfectly insensible, and to all appearance dead, but on being taken into the house of Capt Myers close by, he partially revived. His face and head were shockingly mutilated, but his principal injuries were internal,—in his breast and bowels,—his assailants having jumped upon him repeatedly! Up to yesterday afternoon he had not spoken, and it was thought he could not possibly survive. Officer White yesterday morning arrested two young men, named Francis Metz and Thomas Graves, charged with being the parties who assaulted the boy. Justice Warrington committed them for a further hearing. It is said that the boy had given no offence whatever to his assailants.—Clipper of Friday.

Kemp has since died.

Shocking Accident.—A German, whose name we could not ascertain, fell into a large reservoir of still slop, at the Brewery in Holliday street, on Christmas morning, and was dreadfully scalded He was conveyed to Lombard street Infirmary, and was alive last evening.—American.

DISTRESSING OCCURRENCE.—We learn from the Florida Republican of a most distressing occurrence, in Ware County, Georgia. Three children of a Mrs Brown, while she was engaged in washing, were heard to scream, and upon the mother running to ascertain the cause, she found they had all been severely bitten by a rattlesnake, from the effects of which they subsequently died. While the anxious mother was absent to their relief her fourth child, that she had left at the place where she was employed, accidentally fell into a large tub or pot of boiling water, and was so severely scalded that in this case also death ensued.

ANOTHER LOPEZ HOAX.—The people of Porto Rico have lately been terribly frightened at a report that their island was about to be invaded from Hayti, by Lopez, and heavy detachments of troops had been ordered to Mayaguez, the nearest point to Hayti. A report had been circulated at Ponce, that Lopez had effected a landing about twenty miles to the eastward of that place, from a large steamer, with five frigates; and troops were immediately ordered out at Ponce to meet the invaders.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30.

Destructive Fire—The Ledger Office Consumed.—About 7 o'clock this morning, a fire broke out in the engine room in the basement of the Ledger newspaper office, a building of six stories in height, and in a short time the whole establishment was in a blaze. The 4th, 5th and 6th stories, principally occupied as a job office, were entirely consumed, together with presses, type, and other materials. The basement and 1st, 2d and 3d stories are much damaged, principally from water, but the presses will be saved in a damaged condition. The fire at one time threatened to consume much other valuable property, but through the exertions of the firemen, it was luckily stayed in its fury.—The Bulletin office and Bain's Telegraph office were slightly damaged

The loss of the Ledger is variously estimated at from $70,000 to $150,000, and nearly covered by insurance. The Ledger will be published as usual to morrow.

SUICIDE.—Coroner Reilly on Saturday night held an inquest in a house on Wilk street near Caroline, over the body of a woman named Sarah Ann Warner, who put an end to her existence by taking a dose of opium. She purchased the opium about noon on Saturday and it is supposed took it soon after. Dr. Williams was called in but she was too far gone to render any remedies of avail and she continued in an insensible condition until 8 o'clock on Saturday evening when she died. The deceased has a husband and three children residing in one of the Eastern Shore counties. She deserted her husband and children some time ago and came to this city in company with the man who had seduced her from her home Her sad end needs no commentary.—American.

SETTING ASIDE A JURY'S VERDICT.—The Cleveland (Ohio) Democrat of the 3d ultimo says: "Judge Andrews, of the Superior Court, now in session, set aside a verdict yesterday, on the sole ground that one of the parties had held a conversation with one of the jurors touching the matter then in issue. In giving his opinion the distinguished Judge took occasion to say that he was not dissatisfied with the verdict nor did it appear that the jury has been in the least influenced by the conversation: but he put it on the distinct and sole ground that public policy and a proper administration of justice required that jurors should never in any manner be approached by parties to suits."

FATAL AFFRAY.—An affray occurred in Deerfield, Tioga county, Pa., on the 12th inst., between Thomas Stone, Jr., and Jesse Moffit, in which the former hit the latter on the head, knocking him down; in the fall he struck his head on the frozen ground and fractured his skull, from the effects of which he died next day. Moffit leaves a wife and a number of children. Stone has been arrested, and is now in jail in Wellsboro.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—A little child of Capt. Thomas Watson's was so badly scalded a few days since, that it died on Wednesday morning last. It seems that the mother stepped out and left the child at play around the fire, when it got hold of the kettle which was full of boiling water, and upset it upon itself, scalding it in a most shocking manner. Dr. J. P. Lofland was called in to administer to the little sufferer, but so great was its suffering that despite of medical skill it continued to grow worse and worse until death terminated its existence on Wednesday last.—Milford Beacon.

FUGITIVE SLAVE EXCITEMENT—Attempted Murder. At Parkersburg, Chester county Pa., on the night of the 14th inst, Hiram Maginnis, a woodsawyer on the Columbia Railroad, was shot and badly wounded by some unknown assassin, who is supposed to be a negro named Lewis. Maginnis, it appears, had threatened to inform on Lewis as a fugitive slave and have him sent back to slavery. There was and still is much excitement in the neighborhood on the subject.

TO MEASURE HAY IN STACKS.—More than twenty years since, (says an old farmer,) I copied the following method of measuring hay, from some publication, and having verified its accuracy. I have both bought and sold by it, and I believe it may be useful to farmers, where the means of weighing are not at hand. Multiply the length, breadth, and height into each other, and if the hay is somewhat settled, ten solid yards will make a ton. Clover will take from ten to twelve yards per ton.

OHIO WINE.—A Mr Simmons is preparing a box of wine, of his manufacture, from grapes grown in Ohio, for the great London Exhibition. The peculiarity of the wine is that it is not fermented in the usual way, not adulterated with sugar or brandy, but it is the pure juice of the Catabaw grape, retaining the aroma and flavor of the fruit in a remarkable degree

THE CUBA TRIALS.—The trials of Lopez and others, concerned in the Cuba invasion, are progressing at New Orleans. Judge Pinckney Smith, of Miss., has sent word that he will be present for trial in a few days, but nothing has been heard of Gov. Quitman, and it is said a writ will be issued to compel his attendance.

POST-OFFICE ROBBERY.—John P Wellington, a clerk in the post-office at Bangor, Maine, as we learn from the Whig and Courier, has been detected in breaking open letters and stealing the money therefrom. About $1 200 which he is supposed to have stolen, was found in his trunk.

Fugitive Recovered.—A slave belonging to D. Young, of Memphis, Tenn., has been taken back from Marion county, Illinois, in spite of considerable opposition.

THE Maryland Reform Convention met at Annapolis on Tuesday last, pursuant to adjournment; present four members. The inclemency of the weather probably prevented the attendance of the members.

SNOW.—On Monday night, and Tuesday, the snow fell to the depth of about four inches, in this county. On Wednesday, all the sleighs and sleigh-runners, which could be found, were put in requisition, and were soon running over the snow behind a horse and a string of bells, and filled with people in the best possible humor. But "Old Sol." soon spoiled both the sleighing and the temper of a good many of our young ladies and gents.

ALARM OF FIRE AND ACCIDENT.—The alarm of fire on Monday last, was caused by the roof of the dwelling over the store of Messrs S Mackey & Son taking fire.—The Mechanical fire company were on the ground in a few minutes with their newly-repaired aparatus, but not until the fire had been extinguished.

As the company were returning to the engine house, a colored boy, belonging to Mr. Wm. K Rathell was accidentally knocked down, and the engine run over both his legs. Fortunately the only injuries sustained were burises and slight fractures of the skin.

A SOUTHERN CITY.—The New Orleans Courier quotes from the columns of the Balt. American, one of its weekly and monthly statements of the commerce of Baltimore and says, "It is astonishing that our merchants will go to Boston and other places and purchase very often from well known abolitionists, when they can buy the same goods at the same rates, on the same terms, five hundred miles nearer home, in a Southern city."

We believe that Southern merchants, says the American, in commenting on the above paragraph, are becoming rather tired of furnishing the abolitionists of the North with the means of carrying on warfare against Southern institutions. It is with no desire to see sectional feelings and animosities introduced into matters of business that we allude to this subject; but when a state of facts has arisen which are palpable and apparent it will hardly be deemed amiss to refer to them as facts—as facts too which must have their influence, their tendencies, their results. When aggressions are made, it is instinctive on the part of those assailed to seek to repel them by such means as they may be able to command—certainly it cannot be expected that the assailed party should furnish the adversary with weapons and appliances for further and more effective assaults.—Moreover, a systematic course of aggression must, in its natural reaction, produce a concerted and systematic line of defence

Now the Southern people generally are not inclined to confound the whole Northern community with the ultra abolitionists who are causing so much trouble throughout the country; nor do we suppose for a moment that Southern merchants would adopt a system of refusing to deal with a Northern merchant because of his residing in a non-slaveholding State. But it may be reasonably expected that merchants at the North who are known to aid and favor the labors of abolition societies will not be likely to have many dealings with Southern men acquainted with such facts. We hope the merchants on this Shore will take this matter into consideration, for we can see no reason for going to Philadelphia and New York for goods that can be purchased on as good terms in Baltimore.

DWELLING BURNT.—We learn that on Thursday last, a fire of a destructive character occurred on Poplar Island in the Chesapeake Bay, but attached to Talbot county. About half-past nine o'clock the dwelling of Mr. Ridgaway caught fire, and with the kitchen adjoining was entirely consumed. Nearly all the furniture was destroyed, there not being time to remove it.—Sun of Monday.

THE DIFFICULY WITH AUSTRIA.—The President sent into the Senate, on Monday, copies of a correspondence between Mr. Hulsemann, the Austrian Charge d'Affairs, and Mr. Webster, Secretary of State, which correspondence was called for by the following resolution of the Senate of the 26th ult:

Resolved, That the President be requested, if not incompatible with the public interest, to communicate to the Senate copies of any correspondence, if any has taken place, between the Department of State and the Austrian Charge d'Affairs, respecting the appointment or proceedings of the agent sent out to examine and report upon the condition and prospects of the Hungarian people during their recent struggle for independence.

After the correspondence was read, a motion was made to print ten thousand extra copies of it On this motion quite an animated debate arose, and it was rejected by a vote of 18 yeas to 21 nays. All the Senators who took part in the debate bore testimony, however, to the masterly ability of the reply to Mr. Webster. We shall publish the correspondence next week, and we are sure our readers will all agree with Mr. Clay in his estimation of the letter of Mr. Webster, when he said: "With respect to the general character of the paper, and its ability, there can be no difference of opinion. It is marked with great ability, as every thing which emenate from that source generally is." It is, indeed, a mastery document, and we are pleased that the motion to print the extra copies was reconsidered and passed; for as Mr Mangum said, it "contains national doctrines, American doctrines, openly and manfully avowed in the eyes of all the world."

To the Editor of the Easton Gazette:

A letter, without name or date, reached me, yesterday, desiring a communication on the subject of Small pox, Re-vaccination, &c., to be published in the columns of your paper, at as early a period as convenient. As the writer seeks information upon a variety of topics, in relation to which grave errors exist in the public mind I feel constrained promptly and favorably to respond to the request. As, however, the discussion of the questions proposed must inevitably occupy more space than could be offered by the limits of your paper, I take this occasion to state that I will read an essay upon "Small-pox, its history, modes of prevention, &c.," in the course of a few days, of which due notice will be given hereafter. Very respectfully yours,

A PHYSICIAN.

Talbot County, Jan. 3d, 1851.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL SUNDAY SCHOOL.—On Christmas day, we had the pleasure of an invitation to attend the festival a the M. E. Sunday School room, and accordingly repaired to the place sufficiently early in the afternoon, to obtain a seat near the table upon which the good things were spread. The school room had previously been decorated with appropriate mottoes, and wreathes of evergreen, holly and cedar, by the young ladies connected with the school, and every thing was arranged in the most exquisite taste. Nothing could have been more desirable to the palate, or excelled in richness, the sweet viands that were displayed on a table which was evidently the centre of attraction. The school numbers about seventy five scholars, and, perhaps twelve or fifteen teachers. The pupils were all neatly dressed, and their cheerfulness and animation evidenced the deep interest which they felt in the occasion. The discipline of the school indicates that it is in a very prosperous condition. The services opened with singing and prayer, after which the school sang one or two very fine pieces of music, which was followed by a brief and appropriate address by Rev. Jacob Dickinson. The Superintendents then delivered to each scholar a portion of the good things that had been provided, commencing with the smallest girls, and ending with the largest boys After the scholars had all been served, the teachers and visitors were plentifully supplied with delicious cake, raisins, nuts, &c. Happiness and joy sparkled in the eyes of all present while they partook of the feast, and we are sure that both teachers and pupils can say, they spent a most delightful Christmas.—Easton Star
