April Term 1868

& which are herewith returned & said witness being thereunto interrogated, deposeth and saith

First cross interrogatory

What was the size and number of rooms of the store in Second Street

Answer

It was four stories high. On the first floor there was one room, on the second one. Stop, I am not positive about that fourth story. The upper story was divided off in two apartments but whether that was done previous to Mr Chatterton taken the store for after I aint positive I am not positive whether there were three or four stories. The upper back room was used as a room for upholstering

Second cross interrogatory

For what purpose was that upper story room divided into two apartments

Answer

The front part of the room was used as a varnishing room and the back part for upholstering

Third cross interrogatory

Do you know Frederick Klink was he not employed in this store while Mr Chatterton had it & if so what was his occupation what is his trade or profession

Answer

Yes Sir he is my brother. That is a question I cant answer positive. I was studying over it & couldnt bring to memory whether he was occupied or not in that business. He is an upholsterer.

Fourth cross interrogatory

Do you remember what your brother Frederick was doing the summer of 1856

Answer

I cant answer.

Fifth cross interrogatory

When did you enter the store under Mr Chatterton and When did you leave it.

Answer

I entered the store I think it was two weeks or a month after it was purchased & when I left I cant give the date

Sixth cross interrogatory

During the time you were there were there any sales of furniture by auction at that store

Answer

None to my memory. I remember something of Marking goods for an auction, but whether it was in this store or in Second above Market. I cant say, it has been too long

Seventh cross interrogatory

Might it not have been an auction at the store of Klink & Malone you refer to

Answer

I was at that auction I cant remember

Eighth Cross Interrogatory

In whose handwriting is the schedule or list of articles appended to Exhibit B referred to in your examination in chief

Answer

That resembles my writing very much. To the best of my knowledge it is my handwriting but Mr Robert Chatterton and I write very —
