April Term 1868

What kind of pocket book did you put it in

Answer

I put it in a porte monaie. I have the frame of it home now. It was an ordinary sized porte monaie.

Ninety fifth cross interrogatory

Had you the porte monaie in your pants pocket

Answer

No the night of the fire I had taken the things out of my pantaloons pocket to get Mrs Chatterton to mend my pants, as I had previously lost a fifty dollar bill out of my pocket which I found again the fifty dollar bill was in a porte monaie, the right hand pocket of my pantaloons was torn down the sides. I took my money and counted it out before I went to bed, when I came up after having gone to see where the fire was, I took the porte monaie in my hands and my pantaloons and dressed myself as I went to Mrs Chatterton door, and I threw the porte monaie towards her and asked her to take care of it.

Ninety Sixth cross interrogatory

Had she mended the pantaloons pocket that night.

Answer

She had mended the pantaloons, and they laid at my door in the hall.

Ninety Seventh cross interrogatory

At the time of the purchase of the 11th Street house, had Robert Chatterton failed in business

Answer

He failed at the time Reesnyder sold him out in Second Street that was the only time I knew of his failing.

April Term 1868

Ninety eighth cross interrogatory

At the time the 11th Street house was purchased was it not designed to be occupied by Roberts family

Answer

It was with the understanding that he was to keep it in repair and pay all the taxes and ground rents Robert Chatterton spoke of trading some Tennessee lands with me for the 11th Street house and if he gave me a good title to them, the Deed from Brown for the house was to be taken in his wifes name but after that speculation failed, the agreement was that he and his family were to occupy the 11th Street house, and he was to keep it in repair and pay all the taxes and ground rents. If he didnt make a title to the Tennessee lands he was to go on and take the deed from Brown in my name. The arrangement about the Tennessee land with Robert was before the deed from Brown was passed. The arrangement that he and his family should occupy the house and he pay all the ground rent and taxes on it, was after the deed had passed from Brown to me.

Ninety Ninth cross interrogatory

Did not the houses purchased in Philadelphia and the money receive by you from the concern amount to more than the three thousand dollars $3000 00/100 which you allege you put in with legal interest

Answer

Yes, but I way buying continually in the Store while they were selling as this bill of fifty dollars $50.00 for one thing, shows
