THE case of Thomas McCreary, of Elkton, charged with abducting a free colored girl from Pennsylvania, and the suicide of Joseph E. Miller, who made the charge, is creating considerable excitement, both in Pennsylvania and Maryland. The circumstances of the case are these: McCreary having a power of attorney from Mr. A. L. Schoolfield, of Baltimore, to arrest a runaway slave called Eliza Crocus, proceeded to Pennsylvania, arrested her, and brought her to Baltimore, without any other legal process than his power of attorney. Miller, at whose house the girl lived, followed him, preferred the charge of kidnapping, and swore that the girl was born in the town where he resided, and had lived with him for several years. Upon his return to Pennsylvania, Miller got off the cars at Stemmer's Run, in Baltimore county, and hung himself. The Pennsylvanians charged that he was murdered,—his body was brought back to Baltimore county and a second inquest held, but nothing was elicited after a searching examination, to prove that he had met with foul play, and the jury again returned a verdict that he died by his own hand. Upon an examination of McCreary before a magistrate, several Pennsylvanians swore positively that the girl was named Rachel Parker, and they had known her since she was an infant. Some four or five Baltimoreans swore equally positively that the girl was named Eliza Crocus, and they knew her as the property of Mr. Schoolfield's mother-in-law.—John Merritt of Elkton, testified that Miller told him that Mr. Schoolfield's slave was at his house, and asked him how much he would give him, if he, (Miller,) would let him come and take her? that if he was home he would have to make a "great fuss," or the people would not think much of him, but he would try to be away. After getting this information McCreary went and arrested the girl and the above proceedings followed the act. The case had not been decided on Tuesday.

Gov. Johnston has sent on a requisition for McCreary, and although we do not often approve of any act subversive of law and order, we trust that Gov. Lowe will refuse to give him up. Two citizens of Maryland have been murdered in Pennsylvania, while in pursuit of their property under the laws of the United States, and it is but an act of self-defence to take fugitives clandestinely and without the form of law—in this way only, it appears, can it be done with security to both life and property.—In disregarding the laws of Pennsylvania we do no more than their example warrants—they have not only set at defiance the laws of the United States, but have murdered our citizens while acting under those laws. The constitution guarantees to us the surrender of our fugitive slaves, and if the people in the free States will not give them up, we must take them without their consent. But in this case there is evidently a conspiracy to get McCreary into the clutches of the unjust and oppressive laws of Pennsylvania, and Gov. Lowe would certainly be sustained in refusing to give him up.

THE BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS, consisting of Messrs. Gittings and Pouder, democrats, and and Messrs. Franklin and Stewart, whigs, we learn from the Baltimore county Jacksonian, had a meeting a few days ago, to determine by lot their term of service, when the two whigs drew out the long term of four years, and the two democrats the short term of two years

DREADFUL SUICIDE.—We regret to record the melancholy suicide of H. W. Bool, the well known auctioneer. He went up into a room over his store about 12 o'clock to-day, and blew his brains out with a pistol, loaded with large shot, the entire charge entering the roof of the mouth and lodging in the upper portion of the brain, producing instant death. He has been laboring under an abberration of mind for some time past, and had an apprehension of becoming reduced to poverty, and had frequently asked the opinion of persons as to the easiest mode of dying—He leaves a wife, but no children.—Balt. Patriot of Friday.

ARREST ON A CHARGE OF COUNTERFEITING.—A man named George W. Brown, a Citizen of Baltimore, and very well known here, was arrested on Friday on a charge of counterfeiting. It will be recollected that we a day or two since chronicled the arrest of an individual named Irvin in our city, on the charge of passing counterfeit money in some of the Northern cities. He started for Philadelphia on Friday in custody of officer Walton of that city. The officer had a requisition for Brown, who it appears was an accomplice with Irvin, but he succeeded in eluding his vigilance, and he was compelled to start without him. The cars stopped at the Magnolia House, and on the officer walking into the bar-room, Brown was discovered sitting there. He was immediately arrested, and taken on to Philadelphia along with Irvin. They are charged with passing counterfeit bills to the amount of about $2,000, purporting to be on the Lancaster Bank, Pa. Brown has a wife and children now living on Fell's Point. —Balt. Clipper.

EVERETT'S CARRIAGE COUPLING.

PATENTED, Dec. 17th, 1850.

THIS improvement permits the use of large four wheels, with all the advantages derived from them in saving of fraerection and surmounting obstacles with facility, and at the same time obviating the disadvantages which have hitherto attended their employment, as with this improvement a carriage can be turned in as small a space as those that have small fore-wheels, which run under the body; and besides the wheels never touch the body, and the parts are so arranged as to give a greater degree of strength than the old method of coupling.

The undersigned having purchased from the patentees their entire interest in their invention and patent for Talbot county, beg leave to call public attention to the same. The improvement is now being generally adopted by Carriage Makers in the principal cities of the United States. To say the patented coupling will ultimately be universally adopted in the construction of fore-wheeled carriages, would only be repeating the generally expressed opinions of all who have used or seen them. It is believed by many that the additional strength and simplicity of the construction alone would insure its general use; but when the convenience of turning in one third of the space required for the old plan, together with the fact that either fore wheel can be so easily removed by one step of the horse as to be entirely out of the way of getting in or out;—the advantages are self evident, as the wheels never touch the body of the carriage, it will be found the danger of turning over is much lessened.

The undersigned are now prepared either to manufacture new, or alter old Cariages with Everett's Patent Carriage Coupling, at short notice, and solicit the patronage of the public. This coupling can be used with great advantage and convenience on wagons; and persons wishing to have new wagons made, or old ones altered, can obtain individual rights for its use by applying to
