Court of Appeals of Maryland.
October Term, 1866.

The controversy in this case arises upon the construction of the will of the late David Barnum, of Baltimore, the founder and proprietor of the City Hotel, of that City. It was executed on the 29th August 1843, with a codicil made on the 2d day of September following. They were admitted to probate on the 13th day of May, 1844, after a careful examination of these papers, as spread out in the record, we can present the following as an analysis of them, by which
