Conrad Riehl and Henry Riehl vs John Walter and Catherine Walter.	In the Circuit Court of Baltimore City filed 23rd November 1871.

To the Honorable Campbell W. Pinkney Judge of the Circuit Court for Baltimore City.

The bill of Complaint of Conrad Riehl and Henry Riehl of the City of Baltimore, in the State of Maryland respectfully States:

That your orators are copartners, and dealers in flour, and as such sold to a certain John Walter of said City, a baker, a large amount of flour, which the said John Walter omitted and refused to pay for, so that on the third day of January 1870 A. D. he owed to your orators for flour aforesaid the sum of $699.00 for which sum your orators brought suit against him in the City Court of Baltimore City, and obtained judgment against him, on the thirteenth day of July 1871 A. D. in said City Court for the sum of $773.08 including interest; that at the time said debt was contracted by said John Walter to your orators, he owned a certain piece of leasehold property situated on the South side of Eastern Avenue in said City and described as follows, Beginning for the same on the South side of Eastern Avenue at the distance of seventeen feet West from the West side of Washington street, and running thence West on Eastern Avenue Twenty one feet, six inches, then South Sixty feet then East Twenty one feet, six inches, and then North to the place of beginning, which property was granted to him by a certain John George Homming and his wife by a deed dated on the first day of August A. D. 1868, and recorded among the Land Records of Baltimore City in Liber E. R. No. 386 folio 147 &c. that afterwards the said John Walter conspired with his wife Catherine
