done so, that you had conveyed your property away, and then if he would marry you, it would be because he loved you, and did not love your property?

Ans. I have no recollection of Mr. Bannon explaining anything to me about signing that paper; I did not explain to Mr. Bannon the reasons that influenced me to sign that property away, or anything about my aunt's dying request or about marrying Mr. Goodwin; he asked me if I intended to marry Mr. Goodwin, and I told him I did not know whether I would or no; and he asked me if I wanted Mr. Goodwin to have my property; I told him I would just as lief for him to have it, as anyone else; I have no recollection of Mr. Bannon's saying anything more to me about Mr. Goodwin, or I to him; anything about my aunt's dying request was not mentioned in Mr. Bannon's office, by me; my aunt's will was made before I had ever promised her anything like that.

51. Did you promise your aunt never to marry James Goodwin?

(The complainants except to this question and answer as illegal and improper.)

Ans. I did.

52. You have broken that promise, and you have married him?

(The complainants except to this question and answer, as illegal and improper.)

Ans. I broke it, but there was nothing mentioned if I married Mr. Goodwin I would not get the property; when I made the promise to my aunt, she never said a word about the property.

53. Have you not stated, to several other parties, that your aunt would - give you her property unless you made the promise, and that the reason you conveyed the property away to your aunt was because you wanted to marry Mr. Goodwin, and felt you had gotten this property by making a promise to her?

Ans. I don't recollect having said such word to anyone; I don't think I ever said such thing; I have no recollection of saying to anyone any such a word; it was not my intention to sign away my property on that account; I signed it away for the reasons mentioned heretofore.

54. Didn't you come to Mr. Bannon's house, to employ him in this case, to set aside the deed; did he not tell you that you understood what you were doing, and unless your aunt would convey it back, of her own free will, that you could not get it; did you not tell him that your husband had been to see your aunt, and she refused, and you wanted me to try what I could do, and if I could not do it, then to try what I could do to set the deed aside?

(The complainants except to this question and answer, on the ground of professional relations.)

Ans. I came to Mr. Bannon's house, and told Mr. Bannon that my husband had been to see my aunt, and she said, that if Mr. Bannon said to give my property back, she would do it; and I asked him, if he would not tell my aunt to give it back to me; and he told me that he would try to get it back for me from my aunt, and he thought he could get my aunt Julia to sign it back to me, for he knew I did not know what I was signing; he did not tell me then, that I understood what I was doing; he asked me this, before he told me he knew he did not know what I was signing; I don't recollect whether I wished to employ
