Where snow and ice would block his onward way;

Such odors tempt him, and he must obey.
Schoolboys and matrons, grandsires, maidens gay,
Forgive him if he warms his fingers cold
While waiting. Arrows from his mystic pack—
Wise fellow, see him choose! "These (from my bows)
With shaft of silver, tipped with jewel rare,
Aimed with the skill which love alone imparts,
Shall strike the center of the coyest hearts.
Lest Santa Claus be slighted, then beware!"

No. 386.—Something Nice.

Johnnie enjoyed his Christmas dinner greatly. Oh, yes; but there was something lacking, in his opinion, so he set about supplying the deficiency. First, he took a quarter of a mince pie, then a very small piece of chocolate, next a crumb of bread, and to these he added a bit of cranberry sauce and the last of the turkey. After combining these he had something so white and so deliciously crisp that he knew at once that the missing article of food had been supplied.

A Literary Curiosity.

A western paper is responsible for the following: A few days ago a supposed dead bull was seen lying by the side of the track on the Northern Pacific. The matter was promptly reported to the superintendent's office, and he in turn sent out an order instructing the section foreman to remove the dead animal. Shortly afterward a reply was received which distinguishes the foreman as a man of superior tact, although his rhetorical powers have doubtless been sadly neglected. The epistle runs thus:

"The Supt. Sir. The bull that was killed by the train, was not killed, but she died from eating too much buckeyes and ain't ded yet, but will bury him tomorrow. Answer if I shall skined him. Thos. O'Flaherty, Sec. Forman."

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON XIII, FOURTH QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, DEC. 24.

Text of the Lesson, Rev. xxii, 8-21 (A Missionary Lesson)—Memory Verses, 16, 17. Golden Text, Rev. xxii, 17—Commentary by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Impressed with the fact that in this so called missionary lesson we have also a grand Christmas lesson, bringing before us His coming again, which draweth near, we make choice of this.

8. "And I, John, saw these things and heard them." Then he tells us that he fell down to worship before the feet of the angel. He actually saw these wondrous sights and heard these faithful and true words. It was probably before this that he wrote, "That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us" (I John i, 3). How do the things of God which we see and hear affect us?

9. "Then saith he unto me, See thou do it not, for I am thy fellow servant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book—worship God." Compare xix, 10. Only satan of all creatures seeks to be worshiped (Luke iv, 7). Let us remember it when tempted to desire applause, and may it be our whole aim to honor God. See how this book is honored in heaven.

10. "And he saith unto me, Seal not the sayings of the prophecy of this book, for the time is at hand." Contrast Dan. viii, 26; xii, 9. In view of the command of this verse, how great must be the sin of those who virtually seal up this book by never reading it or preaching from it, but even going so far as to advise people not to read it. This I know ministers to be guilty of. The Lord will see to it.

11. "He that is unjust let him be unjust still, and so with the filthy or the righteous or the holy." When the end of this stage of our life comes, whether it be death or the coming of Christ, as we are then found so shall we continue, whether unjust or holy. This verse, however, may teach that we are to proclaim the truths of this book whether it make people more holy or more unholy.

12. "And behold, I come quickly, and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be." Compare verses 7, 20, and chapters i, 7; ii, 25; iii, 11, and note the oft repeated "I come" and the admonitions. Salvation is all of grace, but reward is according to work. See I Cor. iii, 8, 9; Luke xix, 16-19. These rewards are not given at death, but at resurrection, when Jesus shall come (Luke, xiv, 14; I Pet. v, 4; II Tim. iv, 8).

13. "I am alpha and omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last." When our souls can say, Lord, Thou art all this to me, first and last in everything, beginning and end of everything, then all is well.

14. "Blessed are they that do His commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life and may enter in through the gates into the city." The R. V. says, "Blessed are they that wash their robes." Well, we cannot keep His commandments till we have washed in His blood and received the new heart which only can do His will. If we, like Abram, are looking for the city (Heb. xi, 10), we will delight to be found doing His will.

15. "For without are dogs," etc. Compare chapter xxi, 8, 27. And if you are glad that your name is in the book of life, and that by His grace you are neither fearful nor untruthful, then seek those without.

16. "I, Jesus, have sent Mine angel to testify unto you these things in the churches. I am the root and the offspring of David and the bright and morning star." The first clause of this verse, taken in connection with verse 6, seems to me one of the clearest proofs that the Lord God of the holy prophets and Jesus are one and the same. The root and offspring of David, taken with Isa. xi, 1, 10, show Him to be both God and man, David's Lord and David's Son. As the bright and morning star He promises himself to the overcomer in chapter ii, 28. The watchers all this dark night will see and meet Him as the morning star and come back with Him as the sun of righteousness (Mal. iv, 2) when He appears for Israel.

17. "And the Spirit and the bride say come, and let him that heareth say come. And let him that is athirst come, and whosoever will let him take the water of life freely." The first clause seems to be the cry of the church to her Lord to come in response to his "Behold, I come quickly." The others, or at least the last two, are invitations to the sinner to take the water of life freely. They remind us of Isa. lv, 1; John vii, 37; Rom. iii, 24. There is nothing to hinder those who hear but their own will.

18, 19. "If any man shall add. If any man shall take away." Now comes a most solemn warning to any one who would dare to add to or take from the words of this book. Read the same warning in Deut. iv, 2; xii, 32; Prov. xxx, 6; Jer. xxvi, 2; xxiii, 28, 36, and say how it is that men dare in these days, in spite of these warnings, to commit both of these sins. Is it because, turning from the truth, God has sent them delusion (II Thess. ii; 10, 11).

20. "He which testifieth these things saith: Surely I come quickly. Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus." How could He say "quickly" when He knew that almost 2,000 years must pass first? One thousand years is with the Lord as one day (I Pet. iii, 8), and according to that reckoning He has been gone scarcely two days yet. We must look at things from His standpoint. Do our hearts say, "Come, Lord Jesus?" If we understand that things will grow worse and worse both in the world and in the professing church till He come; that we cannot have our glorified bodies till He come; that we are to occupy and show forth His death till He come; that satan and antichrist and Babylon will rage till He come, then we will surely pray, "Come, Lord Jesus." Otherwise not.

21. "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen." What a precious ending to a most precious book—yea, to the whole book of books—for we are saved by grace, we stand in grace, and there is more grace to be revealed (Eph. ii, 8; Rom. v, 1, 2; I Pet. 1-13). It is favor for the undeserving from first to last.

A Wise Answer.

A shah once asked a group of his courtiers whom they thought the greater man—himself or his father? At first he could get no reply to so dangerous a question, the answer to which might cost the courtiers their heads. At last a wily old courtier said, "Your father, sire, for though you are equal to your father in all other respects, in this he is superior to you—that he had a greater son than you have."

A western geologist says that Kansas can raise wheat for another 1,000 years before exhausting the necessary properties of the soil.
