THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON XI, SECOND QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JUNE 10.

Text of the Lesson, Ex. xiv, 19-29—Memory Verses, 27-29—Golden Text, Heb. xi, 29—Commentary by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

19. "And the angel of God, which went before the camp of Israel, removed and went behind them, and the pillar of the cloud went from before their face, and stood behind them." They kept the passover according to the last lesson, and that night the angel of death visited every house where there was no blood on the door, as God had said—then was Egypt glad to thrust Israel forth, nor did they send them away empty, but loaded with spoil. Nor did Israel borrow of the Egyptians, as in the A. V., but asked and received as their right (R. V., chapter xii, 30-36). No sooner had they started than the Lord went before them in a pillar of cloud and fire to guide and protect them.

20. "And it came between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel. And it was a cloud and darkness to them, but it gave light by night to these. So that the one came not near the other all that night." The same cloud was light to God's people and darkness to His enemies. He Himself was in the cloud, as He had been in the burning bush; as He is now in His word, which is a light to His people, but all darkness to those who hate Him. When Israel saw their predicament they were afraid and cried to the Lord, thinking they would surely be slain, for they knew not the Lord as yet, though they had seen something of His power in Egypt. They were as slow to learn as we are. They still walked by sight.

21. "And Moses stretched out his hand over the sea. And the Lord caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind all that night and made the sea dry land, and the waters were divided." Moses had stilled the people, saying, "Fear ye not, stand still and see the salvation of the Lord." "The Lord shall fight for you, and ye shall hold your peace" (verses 13, 14). Then the Lord had said to go forward and had told Moses to lift up his rod and divide the sea (verses 15, 16). This is the rod which Moses had in his hand when the Lord met him at the bush (Ex. iv, 2). It is not any great thing the Lord asks of us that He may use us, but just the entire surrender to Him of what we have.

22. "And the children of Israel went into the midst of the sea upon the dry ground. And the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand and on their left." The Spirit records the fact in the New Testament in these words: "By faith they passed through the Red sea as by dry land" and calls it a baptism unto Moses (Heb. xi, 29; I Cor. x, 1, 2). Thus Moses was honored as the servant of the Lord and the leader of His people, and the Lord was honored through Moses. The Bible is nothing if not supernatural, for God is over and above all nature, and He is everywhere seen in His word and ought to be seen in the lives of His people that He might be glorified. It is not natural for a sea to divide and its waters to stand as a wall, but here are the facts thrice told by the Holy Spirit.

23. "And the Egyptians pursued and went in after them to the midst of the sea, even all Pharaoh's horses, his chariots and his horsemen." When any one sets himself against God, he is yielding to the devil, and there is no telling to what lengths he may be led to his own destruction. It is even written that to those who obey not the truth shall be sent strong delusion that they may believe a lie (II Thess. ii, 10-12). The Egyptians knew not God and were bent only upon the destruction of His people.

24. "And it came to pass that in the morning watch the Lord looked unto the host of the Egyptians through the pillar of fire and of the cloud, and troubled the host of the Egyptians." The cloud that had been a guide, and a light, and a shield to Israel was now to become their avenger upon their enemies, for the Lord was in the cloud, and He is all this and more to all who put their trust in Him.

25. "And took off their chariot wheels, and they drove them heavily, so that the Egyptians said, Let us flee from the face of Israel, for the Lord fighteth for them against the Egyptians." They were convinced of the truth when too late, as many have been since and will be to the end. What a word is this, "The Lord fighteth for Israel!" See Deut. i, 30; iii, 22; xx, 4; Joshua x, 14; xxiii, 3, 10, and consider how He will yet once more fight for them when we come back with Him in power and glory (Zech. xiv, 3, 4).

26. "And the Lord said unto Moses, Stretch out thine hand over the sea that the waters may come again upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots and upon their horsemen." It is not safe to touch the people of God, for the Lord has said: "He that toucheth you toucheth the apple of His eye" (Zech. ii, 8). And when Saul of Tarsus was persecuting the Christians Jesus said to him, "Why persecutest thou me?" (Acts ix, 4, 5.) He may bear long and permit His people to endure very much, but He will in due time deliver them.

27. "And Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea, and the sea returned to his strength when the morning appeared, and the Egyptians fled against it, and the Lord overthrew the Egyptians in the midst of the sea." As passover night was a night to be remembered, so this was a morning to be remembered. Truly Israel did not need to fight in this battle—it was Pharaoh against the Lord, and the Lord against Pharaoh. When He makes His people's cause His own, as He always does, how quiet His people should be, for who can stand before Him? "If God be for us who can be against us?" Only we must be patient till the morning.

28. "And the waters returned and covered the chariots and the horsemen and all the host of Pharaoh that came into the sea after them—there remained not so much as one of them." How thoroughly God works; just as at the deluge every living substance perished that was outside of the ark (Gen. vii, 23)! No wonder that when Israel saw that great work which the Lord did upon the Egyptians they feared the Lord and believed the Lord and His servant Moses (verse 31).

29. "But the children of Israel walked upon dry land in the midst of the sea, and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand and on their left." This is almost identical with verse 22, but the Spirit makes no needless repetition, and when He thus by doubling confirms a matter (Gen. xli, 32) it becomes us to give special heed to the fact or the message. He Himself is round about His people as the mountains and as a wall of fire (Ps. cxxv, 2; Zech. ii, 5) and will do miraculous things for His people today if there is any need for the same. Let us sing "The Lord is my strength and song, and He is become my salvation" (Ex. xv, 2).

The Sketching of the Masters.

One of the wonders of a collection of drawings of the old masters is how they worked with anything that came to hand—with crayon, chalk, charcoal, sepia, india ink or silver point. They model you a hand or arm or whole figure from the life with as much apparent ease and certainty as a baker molds a loaf, nor have they any care as to how they arrive at the result—a wash, a rub, a scratch, does the business—the light of heaven shines in smear of chalk, and the darkness of the inferno is revealed in a smudge of ink.

Probably because they served a long and hard apprenticeship, had grown up in studios and workshops, had been licked with the mahlstock and had paint pots thrown at their heads, did they acquire this easy, infallible method of theirs. Not that this explains the whole of the mystery, but it may go part of the way.—All the Year Round.

"Thought Exchanges" at the Hub.

Boston is breaking out now with conversation clubs, or "thought exchanges," as the Bostonians call them. The number is not yet large, but a Boston paper prophesies that it will be greater "with the better conception of the idea of culture." Another sort of a club is the Castilian club, which had a meeting not long ago with a paper on "Royal Chapels of Cathedrals and Convents and Burial Places of Spanish Sovereigns." This wasn't a very enlivening subject, but the spirits of the club were sustained by receiving from a member the autograph of King Ferdinand attached to an official document. The club already possessed one of Isabella's autographs.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Dead porcupines make better fuel than wood.

The British museum has 732 histories of England, covering every age of its growth.

February is the month in which the greatest number of births occur; in June the fewest.

One of the longest acrostics known was the work of Boccaccio. It was a poem of 50 cantos.

Virgil devoted 11 years to his "Æneid" and then deemed it so imperfect at his death that he ordered it to be burned.

Here is an incident for a police court novel: A Georgia bunko steerer found that his intended victim was his long lost brother.

Professor Maybridge, the pioneer investigator of animal locomotion by means of instantaneous photographs, will soon turn his attention to the flight of insects and birds.

A museum now being built at Leyden, Netherlands, will be the largest in the world next to the British museum. Within its walls space will be provided for 80,000 stuffed birds.

Chicago has a new grain elevator which dwarfs its neighbors. It cost $325,000 and has a capacity of 1,500,000 bushels. It has its own water, light and fire extinguishing system.

"Weel, friends," said a Scottish clergyman recently, "the kirk is urgently in need of siller, and as we have failed to get money honestly we will have to see what a bazaar can do for us."

Ex-President William Henry Harrison's grave at North Bend, O., is in a wretched condition. The masonry is decaying, the woodwork has almost rotted away, and the whole place bears a look of desolation.

According to recently published statistics, emanating from the grand chancellery of the Legion of Honor of France, the present number of legionaires on the pay roll is 50,895, and the total of the emoluments amounts to 9,666,000 francs.

A dog belonging to John Murray of Manchester, O., wandered away 15 years ago. Not a trace of him was found, and he had long been forgotten until a few days ago, when the animal returned with the wildest demonstrations of pleasure.

A railroad which the Germans have built in Asia Minor, extending from Ismid, a harbor about 60 miles east of Constantinople, eastward 300 miles to Angora, has so little wood in it perhaps as any in the world. Not only the rails and bridges, but the ties and telegraph poles, are of iron.

Not everybody seems to know that Ellen Terry's first husband was Mr. George Frederic Watts, the eminent and veteran Royal academician, still living and past 70. His superb picture, "Love and Life," he has given to the American people, and it will hang in the White House at Washington.

A Further Impetus.

The woman suffrage movement received a further impetus recently in the passage by the Iowa legislature of a bill giving women the right to vote at municipal elections on questions involving an issue of bonds or increase of the tax levy. This makes three large and adjacent states in this part of the Union—Iowa, Kansas and Colorado—in which women can vote in municipal elections, while in Colorado they can also vote in all other elections. This full right seems likely to be extended to them in Kansas when the people vote on the constitutional amendment next November. The movement has also made headway in Massachusetts this year than ever before since the original agitation before the legislature began in 1867. A measure giving women the right to vote in city and town elections has been passed by the house of representatives recently—the first time that such a bill has ever got the approval of that branch—but was rejected by the senate. The discussion has shown a growing indifference and half hearted interest on the part of former opponents, remonstrances from women having nearly ceased.—New York Nation.

The Two Kittens.

The case of a cultured woman, angular, [illegible] unmarried [illegible] of the doctrines of social usages or the charms of [illegible] manner, has long since given way to a better acquaintance with our progressive women scholars, artists, poets, [illegible] physicians, architects and others, [illegible] so completely changed [illegible] primitive notion, as [illegible] would admit, that [illegible] "Les Précieuses [illegible] of any professional [illegible] has "The [illegible]" It is an open [illegible] of the women's clubs [illegible] there are two ladies who came known [illegible] of their intimates as "[illegible] two kittens." Bishop Potter's Opinion.

In a private letter Bishop Potter gives his opinion on woman's suffrage as follows:

"If women would move for a limited suffrage, based on an equitable qualification, it would be a noble undertaking, and if they got it their position as voters would be strong and influential out of all proportion to their numbers, while their very existence would be a standing rebuke to a government which, in conceding to men universally the right of suffrage, has put upon its legislation the [illegible] stamp of a cheap demagogism."

An Ingenious Boy.

Johann Meyer, 11 years old, one of the wickedest boys in Vienna, had been spanked many times for running away. Finally, to enable him to gratify his desire to escape, late at night he stole the big door key, sawed the handle through, filed the ends as sharp as a needle point, drew them through the skin of his waist and then hammered them together, and the key hung from his body like a ring from the nose of a savage. He was thus enabled, by standing on a chair, to open the door and leave the house whenever he liked. This went on for weeks until he got in a fight with other lads and was hit a heavy blow where the key was. He was taken senseless to a hospital, and the doctors were unable to remove the key till they sawed it in two. The boy's life was in danger for several days, but now it is expected that he will live to be spanked many times more.—Vienna Letter.

Swapped Offices.

All kinds of trades are on record, but it probably remained for Oklahoma to produce a case of two men trading official positions. When the Cherokee strip was opened last fall, Frank Dixon was appointed sheriff of County Q and James Lee county clerk. After serving six months each man has become convinced that he would like the other's office and so concluded to make the change. They went to Guthrie, saw the governor and gained his consent to the exchange, then each resigned, and the governor appointed Dixon clerk and Lee sheriff.—Chicago Times.

THE PUZZLER

No. 129.—Numerical Enigma.

My whole, composed of 36 letters, is a quotation from Byron.

My 16, 9, 22, 6, 20, 35, 26, 11, 30, 8, 33, 18 is one of the religious denominations.

My 24, 19, 5, 34, 12, 28, 3, 22 is a number.

My 15, 7, 2, 27, 4, 25 is an insect.

My 13, 36, 29, 23 is false hair.

My 17, 10, 31, 1, and 21, 14 are personal pronouns.

No. 130.—Where Is the Dollar?

A and B each took 30 geese to market, A selling his at three for $1, and B two for a dollar, and together they received $25. A afterward took 60 geese himself and sold them as before, five for $2. When he counted his money, he found he had but $24. What became of the other dollar?

No. 131.—Fractions.

One-sixth of a saucer (of china or delft),
One-third next we'll take of a cup,
One-sixth of a goblet, a tall, graceful glass;
One-sixth of a napkin comes up,
One-seventh of creamer, with rich, golden store;
One-fifth of a crumb cloth so neat,
One-sixth of the waiter, one-fourth of a salt,
And now are our fractions complete.
Proceed to unite them, nor bother your head
To reduce to a common divisor,
And if you don't guess this receiver of sweets
I'll call you a stupid surmisor.

No. 132.—Exposition Puzzle.

o o x o o x o o o o o x o o o x o o o o x o x o o x o o o x o o x o o x o o
o o x o o x o o o o x o o x o o o o o

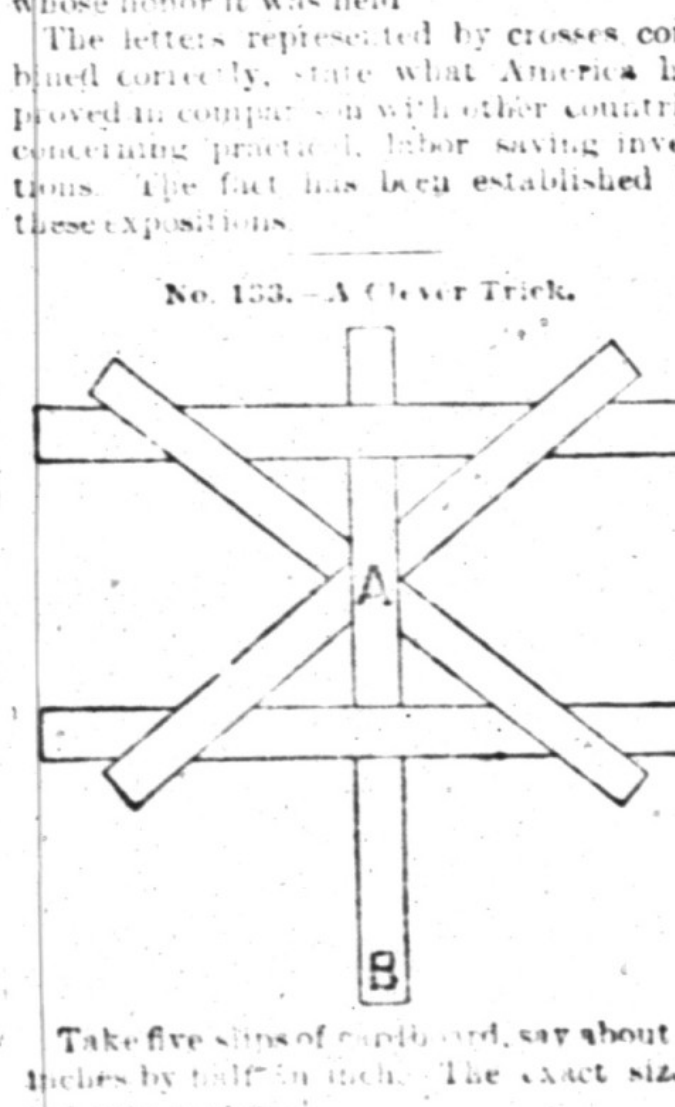
The upper horizontal represents the first great fair in America, also where held.

The second represents the next exposition and that in commemoration of which it was held.

The last represents the third of the great American expositions and intimates in whose honor it was held.

The letters represented by crosses combined correctly, state what America has proved in comparison with other countries concerning practical labor saving inventions. The fact has been established by these expositions.

No. 133.—A Clever Trick.



Take five slips of cardboard, say about 4½ inches by half an inch. The exact size is not very material.

Holding one of the slips by one end, lift them all up together and keep them lifted in the air, when held at any angle, and without touching any of them except the one originally grasped. The slips are held together by interlocking them and holding at B, as shown by the diagram.

The trick is sometimes shown with five straws.

The trick is sometimes varied by desiring that a coin should also be lifted and the slips held at any angle. It is obvious that the coin has only to be pushed under A, where three pieces of cardboard meet. By pushing the slips close together they can easily be made tight enough to sustain a coin when held at any angle.

No. 134.—Beheadings.

1. Behead to run away and leave a resting place.
2. Behead to look and leave part of a [illegible].
3. Behead to dispose of weapons and leave part of the body.
4. Behead to provoke and leave violent anger.
5. Behead to unpack and leave a burden.
6. [illegible] and leave a planet.
7. Behead to attack and leave part of a vessel.

The initials left after beheading give a boy's name.

No. 135.—Diamonds.

1. A letter. 2. Carriage. 3. To blush. 4. An English statesman. 5. To drink to excess. 6. A bitter plant. 7. A letter.

1. A letter. 2. A vegetable. 3. Rank. 4. Meter. 5. Keen. 6. An adverb. 7. A letter.

No. 136.—Hidden Birds.

1. Rich sot. 2. One pig. 3. In place. 4. A glee. 5. Sara bets. 6. Pines. 7. Trip. dear G. 8. Hasty Nap.

Something to Figure On.

A [illegible] at San Francisco to New [illegible] New York to San Francisco, the journey lasting seven days. How many trains will a traveler [illegible] from San Francisco to New York?

It [illegible] at the first glance that [illegible] seven trains, and that is the answer that will be given by nine [illegible] out of [illegible] to whom the question is new. The fact is overlooked that [illegible] a fresh train [illegible] from the other end, while there [illegible] with. The [illegible] therefore meet seven [illegible].

A Patriotic Rule.

There is [illegible] the navy department [illegible] as picturesque as it is patriotic. [illegible] government vessel on its way up or down the dirty Potomac passes by Mount Vernon the bell on the vessel is tolled, the sailors and officers form in line, doff their caps and salute the home of Washington. No matter what the crew are doing, all work is stopped while the ceremony is gone through. Sailors will stop in their labor [illegible] the deck, drop their [illegible] and rush to get into line. There has always been a kind of desultory practice of this kind, and the home of the Father of His Country has generally been honored in an informal way by government vessels in passing, but now this tribute of respect is compulsory, and the vessels vie with each other in the promptness with which this salute is performed.—Boston Advertiser.

Columbian $1 Stamps Cornered.

Stamp collectors have learned with surprise that a New York firm has bought up all the $1 stamps of the Columbian issue and raised the price to $3.50 apiece. It is said the speculators learned that only about 10,000 of the $1 stamps remained unsold and purchased them in small lots from postmasters all over the country. The full issue of Columbian stamps at their face value is worth $16.24, and it is estimated that there is a demand for 20,000 full sets. No set will be complete without the $1 stamp. The only way to break the corner is for the government to print a new issue of the $1 stamps if the plates have not been destroyed.—New York World.

ATTENTION YOUNG MAN!

A Bicycle is better than a team for the following reasons:

1ST.—It will never die, but even a Nancy Hanks is liable to do so at any time.

2ND.—It costs nothing to keep, as is the case with a horse.

3RD.—It does not require over five minutes to clean. How long would it take you to curry a horse?

4TH.—You travel twice as fast as you do with a team, make no dust and when you stop there is no danger of a runaway.

5TH.—There is no kind of exercise more highly recommended by physicians for the Minister, Lawyer or Student, than Bicycle riding.

It will be to your interest not to buy a bicycle until you have at least seen the large stock we carry. We are one of the largest firms in Baltimore. Read the following:

UNION, RAMBLER, and STERLING BICYCLES $125.00

CRESCENT BICYCLES $80, to $40,

The advantages of the Demorest machine are: The materials and workmanship are of the highest order, it is noiseless and easy running, has a high arm, the driving wheel is self belting, the shuttle is self-threading, the needle self setting, the machine is self-threading loose wheel for winding the bobbins, and all the bearings are of hardened steel. There are also full attachments with each machine including five hemmers, quilter, tucker, ruffler, binder, braider, and in addition twelve needles, six bobbins, oil can and book of full and complete instructions, and in order to secure entire confidence, a guarantee to refund the money if not satisfactory. We are thus offering at an unparalleled low price, a sewing machine with decided improvements over all others, and free from all objections.

We guarantee the "DEMOREST" to be equal to any high-priced machine in the market, and the purchaser shall be the judge.

Call on some of the many that have purchased these machines through the GAZETTE during the past eight years and hear what they have got to say. If there has been one word of complaint, we are not aware of it.
