AMONG OUR CHURCHES.

The News of the Churches.—Services for Tomorrow.

Last Sunday was the first time Harvest Home has ever been celebrated during the time of Easton. The day was as beautiful as could be, and the air filled with thanksgiving. The services were held in Trinity Cathedral which was decorated elaborately with fruit, vegetables and flowers of all kinds of the season. The always exquisite Thanksgiving service was rendered at the morning service, and was opened with "Come, Ye Thankful People, Come." The processional was led by the Home children, followed by the choristers. Prof. Harry Harms, of Baltimore, with a B flat cornet, and Wm. L. Hull with a baritone horn accompanied the organ and voices, making a very pretty effect. The services were continued at 7.30 p. m., the music being of the same character as in the morning. The congregations were large at both services and heartily joined in by all. Dean Sutton officiated at both and gave very interesting talks. As is the usual custom the vegetables and fruits were given to the Home for Friendless Children, and the offerings are to be used to purchase coal for the church this winter.

Services for tomorrow are: Holy Communion at 7.30 a. m., Morning Prayer at 11, and Evening Prayer at 7.30.

Special services at the M. P. Church tomorrow. At 11 a. m. Sermon by the pastor to the young people. At 7.30 p. m. Maryland Day C. E. Society. Services conducted by the young people, consisting of responsive reading, addresses and music. The public cordially invited to attend.

Special music by the choir every Sunday will be a feature of the services at Ebenezer M. E. Church beginning with tomorrow. The pastor's subjects are, morning, "The yoke of Christ:" evening, "The Joy of Living."

The ladies of Longwood Baptist Church will give an oyster supper and package party on the evenings of October 19 and 20. All are cordially invited.

"Many of the citizens of Rainsville, Indiana are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This remedy has proven of so much value for colds and croup in children that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale by Harry Roberts, Easton; A. D. Harrison, St. Michaels.

Strange Freak of a Needle.

Mr. J. R. Treganowan, who circulates largely over the county in persuance of his art business is responsible for the following: About three months ago the wife of Henry Mills, colored, of Oxford Neck, trod on a needle which entered her big toe and was allowed to remain there, though somewhat painful at times. Finally the pain subsided and the adjoining toe took it up, and so did each toe in rotation to the little toe, when the needle came to the surface from that member of the toe family. No harm was done to the foot but the needle suffered from discoloration. Moral—Needles should know better even if they have eyes and see not.

Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, his Stomach was disordered, his Liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflamation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. EASTON'S NEWSPAPERS

ABOUT A HALF CENTURY AGO.

Valuable Relics of Easton Journalism Way Back in the Thirties —A Review of Several old Papers Recalls a Number of Events in Easton's History, Etc.

Through the courtesy of Mr. S. R. Valliant, of Royal Oak, we have had the pleasure of reviewing three old Easton newspapers. Two of them are issues of THE GAZETTE, dated, February 2, 1833, and July 15, 1837, and the other an issue of the Easton Star, then called "The Republican Star and General Advertiser." The papers are all of four pages with five columns to the page. The pages are small and the entire sheet opened is not as large as one page of the GAZETTE of to-day. The GAZETTE was then edited by, Alexander Graham, subscription $2.50 per year. Just below the heading on the first page is this somewhat unique motto:

WHERE THE PRESS IS FREE—"Literature well or ill conducted, is the Great Engine by which all Popular States must ultimately be supported or overthrown.
RELIGION purifies the heart and teaches us our duty—Morality refines the manners—Agriculture makes us Rich, and Politics provides for the enjoyment of all.

The contents of the papers are made up largely from clippings, and in all three of the issues we cannot find one item of local news. In those days, before the national bank system came in vogue, the state exercised its authority over the banks, and at the annual election of directors the State Legislature would elect two directors on the part of the State. One of the GAZETTES in question has the following:

"Messrs. Gantt and Johns, from the joint committee of both Houses, appointed for the purpose of examining and counting the votes taken on joint ballot, for directors on the part of the State, in the several banks, wherein the State as a stockholder, is entitled to directors, and for reporting the result; accordingly reported as follows: * * For the Branch Bank of the Farmers Bank of Maryland, at Easton—James Price and Theodore R. Lockerman."

The Farmer's Bank alluded to was a branch of the bank at Annapolis, but was afterwards incorporated in the Easton Bank and later to the Easton National Bank of Maryland.

The story is told of a negro slave about 14 years old, who in the year 1837, was seized in Easton by John Harrington, Sheriff, and put in jail under suspicion that he was a runaway slave. The act of the sheriff caused vigorous comment, for it was claimed that the boy was born free, and in the face of the boy's proof the sheriff arrested him. The boy said he was born free in Dorchester county and was the son of Biney Ennals, a free negro woman, who had just died. Before her death she told the boy to go to Easton, and there find and live with her sister. He gave the names of several prominent men in Cambridge who knew him to be free.

In the GAZETTE loaned by Mr. Valliant is an ad signed by the Sheriff in which he makes a statement of the facts and asks for information.

Among the advertisements published in these issues are many that excite great interest and curiosity. Among the first that attracted our attention was that of the old Maryland Lottery, in the General Advertiser (Star). This lottery system in Maryland was revived by Richard France, who built "The Villa" on Miles river, near Easton.

The story of Richard France is most interesting and well worth repeating in this connection. Richard France was the lottery king of Maryland, he revived and conducted the old Maryland Lottery and waxed rich and prosperous. He built a palace on Mount Vernon Square Baltimore, and bought an estate in Talbot county, about three miles from Easton. Here he built the Ashly Villa, with its red tower overtopping the trees. In magnificence nothing in the county rivaled it. There were winding walks and fountains rich vases and marble statuary, glass houses and everything else that money could buy.—It was the wonder of all the county round about, overshadowing "The Anchorage" the seat of Commodore Lowndes, and "The Rest" the beautiful home of Admiral Buchanan, confronting one another on the river just below. It is a striking coincidence that these three rival estates have passed into the hands of strangers.

So enviable was the prosperity of Richard France that a man named Broadbent set up an illicit lottery known as the "Lottery Policy Company," which in time made such inroads into Richard France's business that he was forced to admit Broadbent into partnership with him. But the conscience of Maryland had become tender. In time the lottery license of Richard France was revoked. He and Broadbent went to Delaware, which being a small state, he with great simplicity bought up the Legislature. This was not in each case a private sale. One of the members also had a tender conscience, and for him France built a church, where his constituents worshipped for many a year.

Delaware in its turn became sensitive and revoked the license. Meanwhile Broadbent had been plundering the business with heavy hand. It became necessary to buy up other states, but in this they failed. Baffled and plundered when the lottery king came to take stock of himself and belongings, he found himself in debt everywhere and a ruined man. Going back to Delaware in the desperation of his affairs, his person was seized for debts, and he died there in prison and a pauper. "The Villa" was sold to Rich. May.

The hotel accomodations in Easton were somewhat primative. Solomon Lowe announced in the GAZETTE that he had moved from the Union Tavern to the Easton Hotel The Union Tavern spoken of is the house on Washington street, next door to the bank, now owned and occupied by Mr. Samuel E. Shannahan, Esq. The building has been but little, if any, changed in those days. The hotel spoken of as the Easton hotel is, we imagine, the old Brick Hotel which was built in 1812.

In those days Easton had a steamer to and from Baltimore twice a week. The three papers in question each contain an advertisement of the steamer Maryland, which announce that the said boat will leave her pier at the foot of Commerce street, Baltimore, every Tuesday and Friday for Annapolis, Cambridge and Easton. An issue of this paper dated 1821 contained this announcement:

"The steamboat Maryland will continue to run as heretofore until the last day of the present month, but afterwards she will take her route as follows: On Sunday the 1st of April, she leaves Easton at 8 o'clock, and will proceed to Annapolis, leaving there at 2.30 for Baltimore, and arrive at six the same day Leaves Commerce street wharf, Baltimore, on Wednesday at 8 o'clock, and returns by Annapolis to Easton by the same route and the same hour every Sunday and Thursday, and leaving Baltimore in like manner every Wednesday and Saturday. In every route she passes she will touch at Todds Point and the Mills (meaning Double Mills) and Oxford, if hailed to take and land passengers.
CLEMENT VICKERS.

This gentleman was the maternal grand father of Postmaster Leonard.

In the issue of Feb. 1833 is a notice that relates to the laying out of the public road between Easton and Centreville. It will interest the farmers to know that in Nov. 1838, a big cattle show was held in Easton, which attracted the attention of the entire shore. The following is taken from the issue of the GAZETTE of July 15, 1837:

CATTLE SHOW.

At a meeting of the Board of the Trustees of the Maryland Agricultural Society for the Eastern Shore, held on the 1st of June, on motion of Gov. Stevens it was unanimously Resolved.

That, there be a cattle show and Fair at Easton, Talbot county, in the month of November, 1838; at which premiums will be offered for the different varieties of Crops, Stock, Implements and Domestic Manufactures.

By order of the Board,
T. TILGHMAN, Secretary.
June 24, 1837.

In one of these issues the editor of the GAZETTE has a sharp editorial against the Star who, it seems, was denouncing President Pearce. Part of Mr. Graham's editorial used to express his contempt of his "bilious" contemporary, as he styled the Star man, was:

* * Independent even of the cause of anger on this score, the bilious season approaches, and we presume the miasmas of the stable yard begins to excite his bile. We therefore overlook all this, and place it to the proper account."

The three papers in question are in a good state of preservation, plainly readable, but rather yellow with age. They contain no items of local news, and made up entirely with advertisements and foreign news and Congressional doings. Their diminutive appearance and mussy print and quaint terms and expressions give them an attraction which they otherwise would not possess.

Mr. Valliant also loaned us a GAZETTE of more recent date—June 14, 1862. It contains mostly war news, and was edited by Wm. H. Councell. A number of papers of the same year are on file at this office. S. S.

A one-fourth mile slow race for members of Avon club only follows, after which are a two-mile race open for Talbot county and a one mile race open to the peninsula, the only provision of which is that the rider shall have been a resident of the peninsula for at least twelve months.

The last race will be a half-mile dash, open. The race will be held at the fair grounds to which a moderate price will be charged.

The prizes are as follows: 1st race, gent's hand satchell, donated by M. B. Nichols; 2d race, silver medal; 3d race, centre vase, donated by M. M. On Tuesday, Davis, who holds the championship 24 hour road record, will try to beat his last record. He will start from Easton and will ride to Kirkham and back for 24 hours, stopping only for meals. This event will be one of great interest to the county and the state at large.

RAN AWAY WITH THE CASH.

The Farmers Packing Association said to Have Lost Heavily.

The Farmers' Packing Association of Easton are reported to have lost between $2000 and $5000 by the running away of Mr. Percival Le Roy of the firm of Leroy & Co., Baltimore, to whom the Association had shipped their goods. The bill of complaint that has led to the appointment of C. F. Stein as receiver for the firm was filed by Wm. L'Allemand, who, with Mr. Le Roy, composed the firm. Mr. L'Allemand complains that his partner left for New York a week ago last Saturday on, the plea of ill health, and he has not heard from him since. He further complains that before he left Mr. Le Roy fraudulently converted to his own use large sums of money belonging to the firm, and thereby rendered the firm insolvent. A receiver was therefore asked for and injunction restraining Mr. Le Roy from disposing of any of the remaining assets of the firm. Both petitions were granted by Judge Wickes

LIGHT ALL NIGHT NOW.

The Electric Light Company run their Plant all Night.

The directors of the Electric Light Company decided some time ago to run their plant all night for one month so that the streets of the town may be lighted all night, and also to find out at what cost they can make a bid to the town commissioners for lighting the streets all night permanently. The new arrangement went into effect last Saturday night; this date being chosen because the nights are now quite dark. The Commissjoners of the town discussed several plans for lighting the streets, among which was by gasoline lamps, but this was strongly opposed by many citizens on the grounds that it was a step backward, when Easton always prides herself on her progressiveness. The Board will do nothing further until they know the bid of the Light Co.

A PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

Miss Lillie C. White Married to Mr. C Edward Trickle.

Last Wednesday at high noon Mr. C. Edward Trickle, of Illinois, and Miss Lillie C. White, of Easton, were united in marriage at the home of the bride by Rev. Mr. Sheridan of Calvary M. P. Church. The occasion was subdued and solemn and in the presence of but a few of the most intimate relatives and friends. The parlor and hall were tastily trimmed in evergreens and cut flowers and a lover's knot of the same entwined with tube roses overhung the contracting parties. Some choice potted plants also adorned the rooms. The bride was most gracefully attired in plain white India silk, trimmed with lace, and carried marechalnell roses. Her attendant, first friend and maid of honor was Miss Leila Rathell, of Easton, who also wore white silk and carried La France roses. The groomsman was Mr. Joseph T. White, eldest brother of the bride, who like the groom, wore the established black. The strains of Bartholdy's wedding march from an adjoining room played by Miss Lottie C. White, announced the approach of the wedding company, and Master Norman White, youngest brother of the bride, gracefully parted the portieres to admit them.

After the ceremony, and the usual congratulations, the entire company were ushered into the dining room where a handsome collation had been prepared. And amid the scenes of the wedding feast the coupe arrived at the door to convey the young couple to the depot. They left the parental roof amid many smiles and tears and benedictions.

Miss White, now Mrs. Trickle, was well known in this town from her infancy and possesses those many striking qualities that endorsed her a general favorite, and closely endeared her to many friends. The groom is in business in Sparland, Ill., and from appearances seems worthy of his Maryland bride. They were the recipients of many presents, and will make their home in Illinois after their tour which is to embrace some special points in the New England states.

Those present from a distance were Mrs. Trickle, mother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Price, of Philopolis, Md.; Miss Belle Aldrich and Miss Georgia Scott, of Audubon, N. J., and Mrs. M. Luther Wright of Baltimore.

The GAZETTE extends well wishes.

MAN DROWNED AT OXFORD.

John W. Robertson, of Wicomico county lost his life Saturday.

Two young men named Robertson and Lowery while going home to Oxford on Saturday after their day's work at oystering, in the Choptank River near Todd's Point were caught in a squall which upset their boat, and Robertson was drowned. It seemed that they thought the storm would be light, and being anxious to reach Oxford put on more sail than was safe. When the boat turned over and sank they both tried to cling to the mast which was about four feet out of water. Robertson soon was exhausted and cried to Lowery "I will have to let go, I can't hold on any longer, I am ready to go," and said good by, and sank out of sight forever. Lowery held on from six o'clock Saturday evening until seven Sunday morning, when he was seen by a passing boat and rescued. He became unconscious as soon as taken off the exposure and fatigue having prostrated him, but is all right now. Robertson was a good christian young man much respected in Oxford. His body has not been found.

Grand Millinery Opening.

Attend the Millinery Opening next Saturday. T. H. Hollingsworth & Co. will have on sale one of the handsomest lines of trimmed hats and bonnets ever displayed in Easton.

TALBOT COUNTY WINS.

The Suit of Robt Lowe Against Talbot Co. Decided in Favor of County.

The case in which Robert Lowe brought suit against the Commissioners of Talbot County for $500 has attracted considerable interest among the traveling public. The case was removed from Talbot County to Denton and was there tried on last Friday and Saturday. Mr. A. L. Tharp, of Talbot county and Mr. Todd, of Denton, represented the plaintiff, and Mr. J. Frank Turner, of Talbot, and Mr. Geo. M. Russum of Caroline, were counsel for the defendant. The case was thoroughly sifted and a verdict rendered by a Caroline jury was in favor of Talbot county. The facts in the case are these: Mr. Lowe was crossing the river on the ferry boat from Oxford with his team, and on driving off the boat his horse was injured. Mr. Lowe claims that it was caused wholy by negligence of the keeper of the ferry and so brought suit against the county for $500. The Caroline jury however did not view the matter in that light, as its verdict proves.

THE LOVELIEST SEASON.

Autumn with Its Beauty and Dreaminess is Upon Us.

The soft, hazy mornings, when the blue of the sky overhead fades into purple toward the horizon, tell of autumn. From now until the end of October is undoubtedly the loveliest period of the year. The great heat of the summer has departed, and the intensely warm days and the tedious nights will be no more. There is still a certain languor in the air which will become more potent as the season draws to an end. As some one has said, the year seems to pause and cast regretful glances back over the course already run. Time is hanging evenly in the balance. Summer as she slowly vanished looked back with a wistful smile. The sunsets have a melancholy loveliness, slowly the light dies and the darkness draws on. A little later the gloom will swiftly gather and the night will spread and deepen, but as yet the twilights are lingering and tardy in movement, and there is a flush in the sky until far in the evening.

A Wonderful Conqueror.

No disease is more common among the people than scrofula. Handed down from generation to generation, and is found in nearly every family, in some form. It may make its appearance in dreadful running sores, in swellings in the neck or goitre, or in eruptions of varied forms. Attacking the mucous membrane it may be known as catarrh, or developing in the lungs it may be, and often is, the prime cause of consumption.

In whatever form scrofula may manifest itself, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the inveterate foe and conqueror. This medicine has such powerful alterative and vitalizing effects upon the blood that every trace of impurity is expelled, and the blood is made rich, pure and healthy.

Mama, Do It Ham?

A little Easton two-year old was noticing for the first time a tack-hammer her mother was using, and the following conversation ensued.

Mama, wat ish dish?
That is a hammer, darling.
Hammer?
Yes, that is a hammer, now runaway.
Is that a hammer, mama?
Yes.
Well, (reflectively) mama, what do it do, do it ham?

Piles! Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

ONLY TEN TONS OR LESS

NEW OYSTER LAW FOR TALBOT

And Dorchester.—Large Vessels Cannot Dredge in Their Waters and Their Owners Will Meet With Heavy Loss and Many Men left without employment.

An act was passed by the last Legislature making it unlawful for vessels of over ten tons measurement to dredge for oysters in the waters of Dorchester and Talbot counties. Exactly why the act was passed no one seems to know. Many thousands of dollars have been invested in sloops and schooners of over ten tons measurement and the owners are thinking seriously of testing the constitutionality of the law. They claim that the Legislature has no right to pass an act which practically wipes out their interests.

The small vessels will reap a harvest and will not be hampered in their movements in the rivers of Dorchester and Talbot by the presence of larger craft. Masters of many of the larger vessels know the exact location of the good beds and have carefully guarded their knowledge during the summer months hoping to make good catches during the fall and winter. Not only will the interests of the owners suffer, but many deck hands, dredgers and cullers will be thrown out of employment.

On a vessel of ten tons only about four or five men are employed, while on larger craft from eight to twelve men are given work. When it is taken into consideration that over 200 vessels are affected by the new law, it can be seen that nearly 2000 men who worked on the vessels last year will have to seek new employment this season.

The oystermen on Tilghman's Island will be the heaviest losers through the new law, as their catching of oysters is their principal means of earning a living.

Many of the larger vessels hail from Tilghman's Island, and while they are idle the owners will lose money. The packing houses will also suffer, because many of them have made contracts with the owners of the large vessels for the delivery of oysters. After making contracts with the oystermen, the packing-houses in turn contracted with local and out-of town concerns for large lots of canned goods. Since the oystermen will be unable to deliver the oysters and the packing houses will be compelled to cancel their contracts or make other arrangements.

The oysters of Dorchester and Talbot are of exceptionally fine quality in size and flavor, and are eagerly sought after for "raw box" trade. Several restaurants and hotels have already made agreements with Tilghman's Island oystermen for the delivery of oysters, but they will have to look elsewhere.

In an interview with a Sun reporter the owner of a Talbot county vessel said:

"This act of the Legislature has caused considerable dissatisfaction among the oystermen. We pay taxes on our vessels and do all we can to comply with the laws, and now our vessels are practically useless for dredging.

"Our representative in the House, Mr. Wrightson, seems to have had no knowledge of the bill when it went through. I think some vessels will go to work, and if the masters are apprehended a test of the law will follow."

The passage of the act may cause a conflict between the oyster police officials and the customs officials. Licenses to all vessels are issued under customs measurements, but under the new law now in force the oyster police are authorized to board any vessels in Dorchester and Talbot county waters and make a remeasurement.

Should any vessel be found to be more than ten tons measurement the master and owner will be dealt with according to law. In the event of such vessel having been granted a license at the Custom house then the conflict of authority will arise.

The dredging season will open Oct. 15 and will close April 1, and with the exception of the trouble in Dorchester and Talbot, the outlook is good. Tongers have been making good catches and the oysters are generally of good quality.

Licenses to dredge for oysters in Maryland waters are granted only to persons residing in the State and anyone caught violating the law is liable to a fine of not less than $50, nor more than $300.

No firearms except one pistol and two shotguns of not more then 10 guage are allowed on board dredging vessels. The law requires that the numbers corresponding to the Custom-house license shall be painted in black on the mainsails. The business is confined to sail vessels and no licenses are issued to steamers.

SPECIAL DAY OF PRAYER.

The Sunday School Union Sets Aside a Day for Religious Observance.

Dear Fellow-Workers:

In accordance with the recommendation of the Sunday School Union of London, (England) you are asked to observe Oct. 21st and 22d, 1894, as days for special prayer in behalf of the Sunday School cause.

"Not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts." Let us earnestly pray for the Divine co-operation in our labors, without which there must be utter failure in all our efforts. We have reason for gratitude at the great advancement which has been made during the present year; but confronting us yet are many obstructions the materialistic tendencies of the age are undermining practical faith in God—firmly entrenched evils are wooing thousands of our young into channels of vice—but if God be for us, if His power be linked with human effort, who or what can stand against us?

"It is not the will of your father which is in Heaven, that one of these little ones should perish."

The following arrangements are suggested for observance as far as practicable:

That on Lord's Day morning, Oct. 21st from 7 to 8 o'clock, Private Intercessory Prayer be offered on behalf of Sunday Schools.

That the Opening engagements of the Sunday School be preceeded by a Meeting of the Teachers for Prayer, or that instead of the usual School exercises a Prayer Meeting of the Teachers, Scholars, and Congregation be held.

That ministers be asked to preach special sermons on the claims of the Sunday School, and the necessity for increased preparation and consecration on the part of teachers.

That on Monday morning, Oct. 22d, teachers again bring their scholars, one by one, in private prayer before God.

That on the evenings of one or more o fthe following days special services for young people be held where practicable.

Fraternally,

Mezzofanti Outdone by Leitner.

Dr. G. W. Leitner of Woking, editor of The Oriental Review, is surely one of the most "polyglot" of men. Of him it might be said, as of Goldsmith's parson:

And still they gazed, and still the wonder grew
That one small head could carry all he knew.

Here is a list which we have compiled from Languages of the languages or dialects in or concerning which the doctor has written works:

Arabic, Arnyia, Basque, Breton, Burishki or Khajuna, Dard languages, English, French, Gaelic, German, Greek, Hungarian, Hebrew, Irish, Icelandic, Italian, Kaffiri, Kashmiri, Latin, Magadhi, Pali (Ariano), Portuguese, Persian, Romaic, Spanish, Sindhi, Sharada, Turkish, Urdu, Wakhi, Welsh, Zingari.

In addition to these Dr. Leitner has a knowledge of Sanskrit, Dutch, Russian, Hindi, Punjabi, Pushtu and various dialects of Turki and Tibetan. Is there a language or dialect on the face of the earth that the doctor doesn't know?—Westminster Gazette.

BIG BALTIMORE SUCCESS

NOTHING SUCCEEDS LIKE SUCCESS

One More Step in Business Progress. Oehm's Acme Hall's New and Magnificent Edifice. Their Business Thirty-eight Years Old. Other Items of Interest.

"Nothing succeeds like success!" An old saying and a good one—exemplified in Baltimore by the business career of Oehm's Acme Hall.

Thirty-eight years ago Messrs. Oehm & Co., opened to the public their clothing and furnishing store, on Light St., near Barre. Nineteen years afterwards they removed to Pratt and Hanover streets, and at the same time opened an uptown store on Baltimore street, between Charles and St. Paul, one square from where they now are. Then again in '87 their business had increased to such proportions that their move to the present location was made necessary, and the two stores were soon brought together under one roof.

There, through strict integrity and careful devotion to the outfitting interests of the men and boys of our city, the career of the firm has been a succession of business triumphs. To-day the 60,000 square feet of floor space, necessary to the proper conduct of the business, are literally loaded down with everything to make mankind comfortable and attractive from head to foot, and from the skin out. Heretofore Messrs. Oehm & Co. have sold everything for these purposes except shoes. But in view of the invariably satisfactory treatment and service they have accorded the public, the gentlemen conducting this model establishment have been forced, through popular demand, to complete their facilities and add their shoe department. More room was needed—the old Hennegan-Bates corner became vacant—and Oehm's Acme Hall spread out until it now monopolizes the entire south-west corner of Baltimore and Charles streets, extending from the corner a distance of 80 feet on Baltimore street and 150 on Charles.

Over 18,000 people visited Oehm's Acme Hall on Monday and Tuesday evenings, the occasion being their Fall and Winter opening to the public of the addition to their stores. The entire stock was beautifully decorated with palms and potted flowers. Around the walls were draped numerous flags. A full orchestra rendered an attractive musical program while the visitors, walked about and admired the fine display of every article from head to foot that men and boys need in their wardrobe. When you go to the city make this store your headquarters. Commodious sitting rooms, toilet rooms, places to check packages, all are freely placed at convenience of visitors to the store. No one is importuned to buy, but invited to feel perfectly at home.

A NEW PAPER.

To be Started in Baltimore the First of Next Month. A Monthly.

The American Packer, a monthly journal devoted to the interests of the canned goods trade of America, will be published in Baltimore, Md., about November 1st next. There has long been a need for a bright paper which would cover the canning field and promote the industry, and the publishers propose to devote their energies to giving the canner, the broker, the machinery manufacturer, and all others interested in the canning industry, a paper which will furnish them with facts which they cannot afford to let slip by, and which otherwise they would have to do without.

Every branch of the industry will be covered in a careful manner; quotations of the ruling prices of canned goods in all markets of the country; bright, gossipy letters on social affairs, and prospects and condition of trade; special articles of vital interest by well known writers, illustrations; practical suggestions about canning; in short everything relating to the business will be given.

In addition to the monthly paper, a weekly price-current giving a review of the market, prevailing prices in all trade centres, crop reports, etc., will also be published. The subscription price for both the monthly paper and the weekly price-current will be $2.00 per year, payable in advance.

The American Packer will not be published for any individual or set of individuals, but will be issued solely in the interest of the canned goods trade.

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptoms of true croup are hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Harry Roberts, Easton; A. His Fortieth Milestone.

George W. Dexter, one of our prosperous farmers, residing on the "Moneymake Farm" celebrated his fortieth anniversary on Sept. 25th. Among those present were Silas Sullivan and family, Joshua B. Dexter and wife, Chas. W. Sullivan and family, and Dr. Ziegler and W. D. Meek of Baltimore. A sumptuous dinner, such as Mrs. Dexter knows how to prepare, followed by an abundance of ice cream, was served. While his friends are not specially anxious for our esteemed citizen, Mr. Dexter, to grow old, they would not object to such occasions coming around a little more frequently than once a year.—Trappe Times.

Mrs. Ida S. Hollingsworth, Easton's latest milliner, will display next Saturday her immense and beautiful stock. The ladies are cordially invited.

Death of John McKenney.

Mr. McKenney was thirty-two years of age, and had been ill of Consumption for a long time. He had recently returned from the Adirondack mountains, where he had gone hoping to be benefited by the air, but since his return his strength gradually failed.
