THE MOST POPULAR GIRL

A CHRISTMAS PRESENT GIVEN

By The Gazette to the Most Popular Girl Pupil, to be Voted Upon by Her Friends. Webster's International Dictionary, Worth Ten Dollars Given Away.

The handsome dictionary advertised below will be given away to the most popular Girl Pupil in any public school of Talbot County as a Christmas present from the GAZETTE, and decided upon by her friends who vote for her.

No vote will be counted not made in accordance with these printed

CONDITIONS.

The pupil must be in the 6th grade or higher.

The vote must be upon a coupon taken from the GAZETTE.

To prevent a person from gathering up coupons from sample papers no coupon will be counted not signed by a subscriber who has paid for his paper at least to the end of 1894. The date on the address slip shows the time to which the paper is paid.

Subscriptions will be received for 30 cents for three months or $1 per year in advance, and stopped at expiration if desired. No subscription received for less than three (3) months.

No subscriber can have counted more votes than coupons offered. The last coupon will be No. 10, and issued Dec. 22d. They may be held until the last is issued and all sent in together, or may be sent in and credited whenever ready.

No votes will be received later than Dec. 26, 1894.

Non subscribers, that is, those who do not pay cash for the GAZETTE but have it through another source, and those who are on the list but are in arrears, may vote by using coupons and paying 3 cents for each, which will be equivalent to a 3 mos. subscription. But no one person will be credited with more than 10 votes, and each coupon must be signed.

The pupils voted for will be published each week in the order of their ballots, the one standing highest appearing first.

The result of balloting will not be published until Saturday, Dec. 29, 1894.

The winner must furnish her photo. to the GAZETTE for publication and a personal sketch limited to 1000 words. Failing to do this the 2d best will be entitled to dictionary upon complying with the same conditions.

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

Entirely New. Abreast of the Times. A Grand Educator.

Successor of the "Unabridged."

Standard of the U. S. Gov't Printing Office, the U. S. Supreme Court and of nearly all the Schoolbooks.

Warmly commended by every State Superintendent of Schools, and other Educators almost without number.

A College President writes: "For "ease with which the eye finds the "word sought, for accuracy of definition, for effective methods in indicating pronunciation, for terse yet "comprehensive statements of facts, "and for practical use as a working "dictionary, 'Webster's International' "excels any other single volume."

Croup is a terror to young mothers. To post them concerning the symptoms, and treatment is the object of this item. The first indication of croup is hoarseness. In a child who is subject to croup it may be taken as a sure sign of the approach of an attack. Following this hoarseness is a peculiar, rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the rough cough has appeared it will prevent the attack. It has never been known to fail. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Harry Roberts, Easton; A. D. Harrison, St. Michaels.

UNSOLICITED testimonials by thousands like this tell why Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills secure a large sale wherever introduced.

"I was troubled for years with indigestion and gas on my stomach, affecting my heart at times. I tried many remedies, but received more genuine benefit from two months' use of Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills than from all others combined."

HE WANTED THE ANGELS.

Childhood's Fancies as Overheard by a Gazette Reporter.

A little Easton girl of four years was at the table the other evening when her elder brother was helped the second time to a dish that she especially liked, but was forbidden eating too much of. With a look of despair at the advantage he had gained, she said, "Mama, brother's got mucher than me, and I only had teenty."

A gentleman who had been appointed to appraise some furniture, who lives at present near Easton, has a youngster who thought he would imitate his papa and praise some furniture also. So he stretched his arms out over a chair in a statuary, benetictive attitude. When asked what he was doing, he innocently replied that he was doing like his papa, praising the chair. But he was reminded that that was not praising a thing. He rejoined, "Well, the buzzards praise things that way." The little fellow had been told by his companions that when the buzzard stood with outstretched wings they were praising their food, and he thought his papa praised chairs in the same manner.

Two little tots on Washington street were dividing their possessions of blocks, pictures, etc., with each other and one claimed this, the other that, until in their childish minds nearly every thing they could think of had been either claimed or given. The sun was claimed by one and the moon and stars by the other. Finally to cap the climax when generosity knew no bounds, one said, "Well, you can have the Heavenly Father for yours, but I am going to keep all the angels for mine."

CHANGES IN RESIDENCES.

Numerous Eastonians Have Changed Their Place of Residence.

Leander R. Hooper has moved into his house on Dover street, which he purchased from J. R. Jarrell.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Arringdale have moved into the house on South street made vacant by Mr. Hooper.

Mr. Saml. Tucker has moved from the house on the corner of Washington and Bay sts. to the residence recently occupied by Miss Annie Rathell. His son Lee has moved into the house adjoining, formerly owned by Chas. Council.

Mrs. Susie E. Jump has moved into her new residence on Railroad Avenue, and Mr. Nickerson has also moved into his new home opposite Trinity Cathedral. Mr. and Mrs. Simon Brady, former owners of "The Villa" have moved to Easton and now reside in the old Langsdale house on North Washington Street. Mr. Brooks and family, of Cleveland, Ohio, have rented the Taylor house on north Washington, and will reside there for six months. Mrs. and Miss Taylor are now boarding at Mrs. Robinson's on Railroad Avenue. Mr. Dick Cheesum, who has lived in the Dodson house on north Washington street has moved into the house next door but one from Point road, on Washington street.

WILL SING FOR THE LIBRARY.

Little Edith May Thompson will Assist in the Library Entertainment.

Little Edith May Thompson, the five year old musical wonder, whose great ability in singing all manner of music was first described in the GAZETTE three weeks ago, will sing in the entertainment to be given in the evening of Nov. 27, for the benefit of the Mercantile Library. She sings without the least difficulty many selections from the leading operas, and at Chicago during the Fair sang by request before many prominent musicians and composers.

Miss Mary Conner of Wilmington who is well known in the musical world, will also take part in the entertainment, local talent will be liberally used. The entertainment promises to be a rare treat and even now seats are being secured for it.

Sent to House of The Good Shepherd.

The arrest of the young girl, Lillie Hillmar, in Baltimore last Thursday, of which an account appeared in the last issue of the GAZETTE, has resulted in her being sent to the House of the Good Shepherd. The case was heard before Judge Muncy who committed the young girl, as the request of her father, to the above named institution. The arrest was made at the request of Mr. Hillman who said she was beyond his management. He said his daughter left home three weeks ago and her whereabouts during that time he had no knowledge of. She is about sixteen years old.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Caillouette, Druggist, Braversville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial by J. C. Henry.

For a pain in the side or chest there is nothing as good as a piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of pain. It affords prompt and permanent relief and if used in time will often prevent a cold from resulting in pneumonia. This same treatment is a sure cure for lame back. For sale by Harry Roberts, Easton; A. D. Harrison, St. Michaels.

G. A. R.

The annual inspection of Hicks Post, No. 24 G. A. R., will be held at the Post room in Easton on Tuesday evening next, the 20th inst., at 7.30 o'clock. Comrades will appear in full uniform as far as practicable; those not uniformed will please wear dark clothes with the regular G. A. badge. Officers will wear their side arms. A full attendance is earnestly requested.

On Saturday evening, the 17th, a special meeting will be held to prepare for the above inspection, and every comrade in or near Easton will be expected to be present.

Those desiring a first class teacher in vocal music or wish to take lessons on piano, organ or violin can not do better than to consult Adolph Brandts Buys, organist of SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Easton. His pupils pronounce him a wonderfully good teacher. tf

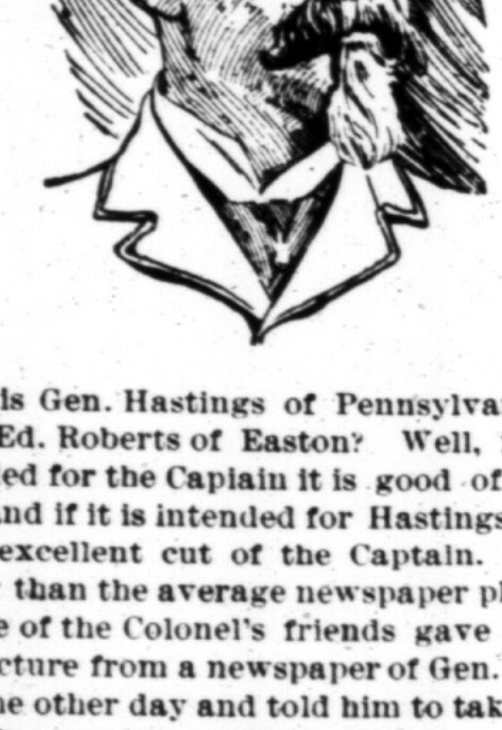
Piles! Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail for fifty cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia.

IS IT COLONEL ROBERTS

OR IS IT GENERAL HASTINGS

It's a Good Picture of Both.—The Col. Shows the Picture to His Wife and Said he was Being Boomed for President, But She Had Met The General—Other News.



Is this Gen. Hastings of Pennsylvania or Capt. Ed. Roberts of Easton? Well, if it is intended for the Captain it is good of Hastings, and if it is intended for Hastings it is a most excellent cut of the Captain. Much better than the average newspaper photo.

Some of the Colonel's friends gave him a fine picture from a newspaper of Gen. Hastings the other day and told him to take it to his wife as a picture of himself.

He did so with as much gravity as he could command saying to her that the newspapers were booming him for President and that was a picture of him from one of the leading dailies of the country.

Mrs. Roberts looked at it a moment and said she had met Gen. Hastings in person and that her husband need not try to pass himself off as the original of that picture, for he could never approach Hastings for good looks and the papers would see the difference if they attempted te illustrate him.

The Captain who is full of mirth and twinkle and has a smile for everyone is satisfied that the result of the election will be good for the democrats of 1896. For, says he, it is like a man getting over a drunk he does not realize the situation until the next morning. The Captain thinks the democrats will realize the situation and do so no more, but if he carries out the simile of the man on a drunk they will embrace the next chance to do likewise.

AFFAIRS OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

Proceedings of the Orphans' Court and County Commissioners.

Two Stamps to be Disposed of.

It has been decided by the Postoffice Department to dispose of all the 30-cent and 90-cent stamps now on hand and to replace them with 50-cent and $1 ones. It has been found that the 30-cent and 90-cent issues are not much used, and it is thought that the two other denominations will fill the same place to better advantage. For the purpose of retiring them, the whole stock on hand at Washington has been distributed among the half dozen largest offices. It is thought that, as by the action of the department these two issues will become extinct, and as they are stamps of which there were at no time a large number in circulation, the demand from collectors will be great. It is expected that the 50-cent and $1 stamps, to take the place of the two other denominations, will be placed on sale in two or three weeks.

Body Found Near Ocean City.

A ghastly discovery was made Wednesday afternoon about one mile from Ocean City. Joel Coffin was walking through the woods not far from his farm gate when he discovered the badly decomposed body of a colored man hanging from the limb of a tree. The body has since been identified as one "Henry." The legs had fallen off and the flesh left was a mass of decomposition. The remains were only recognizable by the clothing.

Oyster Supper at Peach Blossom.

The teacher and patrons of the Peach Blossom School will hold an oyster supper in the school house on Friday night, Nov. 23.

Oysters and everything pertaining to an oyster supper will be served, and ice cream and cake.

The proceeds are for a dictionary and other books for the school.

Interesting Lectures.

Rev. F. Burgette Short, of Wilmington, will deliver two of his lectures in Wye Mills M. E. Church on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings Nov. 20 and 21. Topic for Tuesday eve, "Youthful Romance," or "A Boy's First Sweetheart." For Wednesday evening, "A Trip to the World's Fair." Both of these lectures are exceedingly popular, and none of our friends should afford to miss such a rare treat. It is one of the few occasions in which we have the opportunity to listen to this talented young lecturer, who is received everywhere with increased attention.

Single admission 20 cents, or 30 cents for both nights. By order COMMITTEE.

THE BAR OF JUSTICE.

Appearances Before Squire Nicols for disorderly conduct, etc.

Simon Daveitobe, an Italian tin peddler, was arrested in Easton and brought before Squire Nichols, charged with selling goods without a license. He said he did not know that he had to take out a license, and had no idea he was violating the law. The squire read him the law and fined him $25 and cost. The peddler was released, however, on the payment of costs which amounted to $12.25, and immediately left town for Baltimore.

On Wednesday of this week Edward Floyd, colored, was arrested and brought before Squire Nicols, charged with stealing corn from George T. Robinson. The justice sentenced Floyd to the House of Correction for two months. Mr. Robinson had been missing corn for some time and having reasons to suspect the negro he kept a sharp look out and caught him and immediately had him arrested.

On last Wednesday, Lena Spry, colored, was brought before Squire Nichols charged with using profane and obscene language in the streets of Easton. The Squire fined her one dollar and costs which were paid.

A reference to the files of this paper will show quite a large number of similar charges as above and in almost every case it is a colored woman who is fined. This fact would lead to the natural conclusion that the negro women are more depraved than the men.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Interesting Little News Notes of Easton and immediate Vicinity.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Town Commissioners it was decided to lay a sewer on West Street, immediately behind the Market House. Officer Grace has had a force of men at work this week and has laid about fifty feet of two foot terra cotta pipe, about ten inches under ground. This will give a proper drainage to that part of the street which has so sadly needed it.

Mr. George Wilson, proprietor of the roller flouring mill on North Washington Street, is having an addition built on the north side of the mill. It will be a new boiler house, and will give him the room for some contemplated improvements in his plant.

Mr. William R. Martin is having his handsome residence on Aurora street repainted. When completed it will be all the more attractive in its coat of bright new colors. W. Davidson is doing the painting.

During muddy weather many complaints are heard about the condition of the streets around Washington and Dover streets. It has been suggested that a board crossing be placed across Washington street so as to connect Market Space. Persons desiring to cross the street at this point must first cross Dover and then Washington street or walk in the mud.

The Talbot Savings Bank.

This institution, one of the most meritorious in Talbot county, advertises a general synopsis of its business plans, and a list of the gentlemen connected with it, in today's issue. An institution of this character cannot be otherwise than beneficial to a community, inasmuch as it is a place where persons of means can lay away in safety a small sum weekly or otherwise, for a rainy day, and receive interest on it. The same applies to persons of larger means, societies, lodges, associations, etc., all of which cannot help finding this an excellent place to deposit their funds and receive interest on them. The gentlemen connected with the Talbot Savings Bank are among Easton's leading citizens and business men, which undoubtedly should be an assurance that its business is conducted in a safe and conservative manner. We gladly and earnestly commend it to our readers.

Runaway

Lady Hannis, owned by Mr. Ed. H. Roe, went through Washington Street yesterday afternoon attached to a light top wagon. The wheels, fortunately collided with a farm wagon thus relieving the horse from the shafts and she escaped unhurt. The buggy was badly damaged and wheels demolished. Had not the wagon interfered it is probable that the damage to other buggies and horses hitched along the street, would have been considerable, for the rear wheels of the standing vehicles were in direct path of the runaway.

THE COUNTY CONVENTION

Of the Talbot Christian Endeavor Society at St. Michaels.

The first annual convention of the Talbot County Christian Endeavor Society was held on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week in Methodist Protestant Church at St. Michaels. The convention was quite largely attended and great enthusiasm shown in its proceedings. The convention sermon was preached Tuesday evening by Rev. F. T. Tagg, of Baltimore. His text was from Deuteronomy, 2:3 "Ye have compassed this mountain long enough; turn ye northward." It was an able discourse and greatly enjoyed by the large congregation.

Three sessions were held during Wednesday. The following persons participated in the discussions: Rev. W. S. Phillips, Miss Susie Parsons, Rev. G. W. Hines, Miss M. L. Longfield, Mr. Howard Gorsuch, Miss Lelia G. Rathell, Miss Nellie Weston, Miss Addie Thompson, Mr. J. L. Nichols, Rev. C. K. Millican, Mrs. L. E. Baker, Miss Alice McDaniel, Mr. J. T. Radcliffe, Mr. Archie Thomas.

At the evening service there were three special addresses. "The promotion of Interdenominationalism" by Rev. W. M. Poisal. "Missionary Extension," by Rev. J. M. Sheridan, and "Good Citizenship" by Rev. Mr. Otis. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Mr. Howard Gorsuch............President.
Mr. Claud D. Lee..........Vice President.
Mr. P. M. Pastorfield......Rec. Secretary.
Mrs. E. L. Phillips.........Cor. Secretary.
Mr. G. F. Mullikin..............Treasurer.

The exercises were greatly enjoyed by all present, and this, the first annual convention was voted a great success.

Next year's convention will be held in Oxford.

Henry Wilson, the postmaster at Welshton Florida, says he cured a case of diarrhoea of long standing in six hours, with one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. What a pleasant surprise that must have been to the sufferer. Such cures are not unusual with this remedy. In many instances only one or two doses are required to give permanent relief. It can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take. For sale by Harry Roberts, Easton; A. D. Harrison, St. Michaels.

Axle grease, blankets, whips, oils, and harness soap, sponges, and all kinds of harness fittings at Jos. Miller's.

OYSTER SUPPER.

Preparations Are Being Made for an Oyster Supper at Wye Mills.

The teachers and pupils of Wye Mills school are making extensive preparations for an oyster supper to be held in the school room on Saturday evening, Nov. 17. A cordial invitation is hereby extended to all. An abundance of ice cream, cake, fruit and confectionery will be found in quantities sufficient to satisfy the demands of all our friends. A special feature will be the fancy table which promises to be laden with articles, useful as well as ornamental. Come one and all and assist in the promotion of the noble cause of education. Proceeds for benefit of the school. It is expected that the Wye Mills band, whose excellency of production needs no criticism, will be present and enliven the occassion.

By order COMMITTEE.

W. A. McGuire, a well-known citizen of McKay, Ohio, is of the opinion that there is nothing as good for children troubled with colds or croup as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He has used it in his family for several years with the best results and always keeps a bottle of it in the house. After having la grippe he was himself troubled with a severe cough. He used other remedies without benefit and then concluded to try the children's medicine and to his delight it soon effected a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Harry Roberts, Easton; A. D. Harrison, St. Michaels.

To get the best glass, china, lamps, and all kinds of ware except hardware, Griffith, the popular grocer, leads in novelties of patterns and low prices. tf

Attention is called to the new advertisement of S. B. Sexton & Son, of Baltimore. Their heaters are pronounced par excellence and can be found in many Easton homes.

A BETTER PLAN OF TEACHING.

Higher Branches Are Not Necessarily Difficult.

In a recent number of the Boston Transcript a correspondent directs attention to the fact that school methods and school curricula are still very poorly adjusted to the needs of pupils. The educational system, considered as a body of teachers organized under superintendents, trustees, commissioners, &c., with tax laws, fine school buildings, books, apparatus and the like, has had in the last half century a magnificent developement. There has been money to spend, and it has purchased a large equipment. But the large development of the machinery of education under state administration, has tended very naturally to crystallize the crude methods of former times—methods suitable enough, perhaps, for adults, according to the ideas of those times, but clearly not suited to all ages and classes of students for all time. Progress in pedagogy has accordingly been slow, and people wonder why their children go to school so long and learn so little. Private schools as well as public schools have in many cases been slow to adapt ways and means to the varying needs of the different classes.

The correspondent of the Transcript shows that the "higher branches" taught in the high schools are not necessarily more difficult than the subjects taught in the grammar schools. Parts of arithmetic, for example, are harder than the elements of algebra or geometry. Geography, as commonly taught in the grammar schools, and difficult as the elements of botany and physics. Latin, which was not too much for the Roman boy of six, is not inherently too difficult for young children—certainly not more difficult than the English grammar in the higher grades. "We shall find," says the writer, "that Latin does not present embarrassing difficulties, if we do not require of our grammar-school pupils more technical Latin grammar than Cicero knew." Of course, a teacher may by his method make Latin a "dead language," as he does German, French and even English, but that is not the fault of the Latin. The point, however, to be kept in view is that some subject now taught in the high schools could be taught as well in the grammar schools—it is a mere question of curriculum making. The Boston school committee is accordingly commended for introducing Latin, modern languages and algebra in the grammar grades.

The "barrenness" of the ordinary grammar school curriculum is criticised. For six long years the pupil is kept at little else than arithmetic, geography, history of the United States, physiology and grammar. This monotony of intellectual diet is exceedingly tiresome and deadens interest. "The present curriculum is overcrowded," says the defender of present arrangements, "and there is no room for more studies." Very true, if the list is not to be overhauled and reformed. But a better conception of the amount of time a pupil should give to his various studies and better ways of teaching will make the required room. To begin with, much is now taught in arithmetic and geography that is of little practical value. The time given to these subjects can be cut down. Technical grammar may be omitted except in the two highest grades. In the lower grades training in speech and writing may be given in actual practice in speaking and writing in the schoolroom. Good English is not learned by children from books on grammar. As for the study of English grammar in the higher grades, "the study of Latin," says the Transcript's correspondent, "would throw light on English grammar and English grammar on Latin grammar to an extent to make both more interesting and shorten the time otherwise necessary for both. In like manner algebra would give the pupil a new point of view from which to study a number of topics in arithmetic."

A much needed reform is to dispense with "readers" altogether, and stop teaching separately subjects that can be taught together. Says the writer, very forcibly: "Reading, composition, spelling and penmanship should not be taught as separate branches, but largely, if not wholly, in connection with what may be called the 'thought studies' of the curriculum—geography, history, arithmetic, science, literature, &c. There is no need of a regular special hour in school for reading, nor is there any need of the traditional school reader. A pupil learns to read better and with vastly greater interest by reading about the same topics which he is studying in the 'thought studies' than by reading 'school readers.' He ought to read on history, on geography, on natural history and on literature. He ought not only to 'learn to read,' but he ought at the same time 'read to learn.' In this way the reading would 'help him along' in there other studies to an extent which would save most, if not all, the time now devoted to aimless reading, disconnected from the other school studies. In like manner pupils ought to be trained to write with facility and ease as well as with grammatical accuracy by writing compositions, not on subjects which have no connection with their other studies, but on topics in geography, history, science and literature. Much of drawing can, in like manner, be taught in a way to have a direct and helpful bearing on other studies."

The problem of learning more in a shorter time is to be solved, it is clear, not by merely adding or subtracting, but by coordinating and directing all the various lines of work in the schoolroom to the accomplishment of the objects the educator has in view. —Balto. Sun, Nov. 13.

Trappe News.

TRAPPE, MD., Nov., 16, 1894.

We were so busy last week hunting stray Democrats that we did not have time to write our usual letter. They were scarce as snow-birds in August and so "blue" that we really hadn't the heart to crow over them. As a member of their Central Committee said, we didn't even leave a hole for them to crawl into. The loss of the railroad appropriation was a great disappointment to our people, and they are vowing vengeance on those who fought it. A number of Democrats have sworn that in the future they will cut from their ticket the name of any man from the lower districts. It was there that the Democratic leaders had promised to support the measure and the result shows how well that promise was kept.

Mr. L. A. Lathrop, of Camden, Del., is here this week putting in a drive well for the town. He struck a fine flow of pure water at a depth of twenty-three feet. A force pump will be put in and supplied with a quantity of hose as a protection against fire.

For the past week Editor Highley has been engaged in the exciting pastime of moving a house. Some time since he purchased the old house which stood at the site of Mr. E. A. Powell's new house. He then began a search for a piece of real estate on which to place it. He succeeded in securing a lot in the business part of the town from Mr. G. M. Jenkins. Election day was the time appointed to connect the two pieces of property, which were situated about three hundred yards apart. As the house was the smaller of the two it was deemed best to move it to the lot, but the results show that it would have been almost as easy to have reversed the proceedings. Election day a crowd gathered and succeeded in moving it about fifty yards when night came on. There it remained in the street till Saturday when it was moved again about the same distance. A third attempt on Tuesday landed it in the proper place. It will be occupied as an office for the "Talbot Times". An addition will be built on the front in which the Parson will dispense justice to all offenders against the law. The next time you have a house to move, Parson, try a jug. It is said to be a powerful lever on such ocsasions.

Mr. James F. Clark and a party of friends from Baltimore will spend Thanksgiving day here. They will bring over their horses and a pack of hounds and engage in an all day fox hunt.

Mrs. R. S. Mullikin and daughter, Miss Effie, returned Thursday from a visit to Baltimore.

Mrs. Emily S. Maddex of Bloomington, Ill., is the guest of Mrs. Clark. Mrs. Maddex was for many years the popular teacher of the primary school here.

Rev. Geo. W. Hines, Mr. G. F. Mullikin and Miss Mattie Wise were the delegates from Bambury Society of Christian Endeavor to the county convention in St. Michael's this week.

Rev. F. M. Totten, of the M. E. Church, South, began a revival meeting this week. He is assisted by Rev. J. W. Grubb, a former pastor.

A party of sportsmen are planning a trip to Sharp's Island. They will spend two or three days, and as game is said to be abundant there, they will doubtless come back with game bags loaded.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, and in this way positively cures catarrh.

TEACHER'S MEETING

COMPETE OUTLINE OF WORK

For the Meeting Nov. 30—Some Interesting Problems.—Carefully Selected Educational Notes.—New Department Devoted to Our Scholars and Teachers.

I.—ATTRIBUTES OF RELATION.

Definition. Illustrations. Distinguish attributes of relation and proprieties.

I.—Purpose and Means.
1. Purpose is both first cause and final cause. Illustrations.
2. The idea as creator. The thing created promotes the realization of the idea.
3. Method of study.
4. Unity of mind and object.
5. The true. The beautiful. The good Origin. By what interpreted. All are relations of the idea to its embodiment.

II.—Cause and Effect.
1. An object exists in purpose before it exists as effect. Illustrations.
2. Dynamical relations in statical object.
3. Thinking a mental state. What figure of Rhetoric originates in the relation of cause and effect?
4. Time and place.

II.—PROPRIETIES.

I.—Primary properties. Kinds.
1. Physical properties are predicated of the spirit in the moral world.
2. The power of resistance rising to self-activity makes the scale of being.

II.—Secondary Properties.
1. The senses in their relation to secondary properties.
2. The gradation of attributes.
3. The ascending order of attributes in its relation to an ascending order of activities.
4. Observation; thorough, methodical. Language.
5. The imagination.
6. An exercise of the higher activisies furnishes a ground of unity between the object thought and the thinking mind

Conclusion.
1. Cultivate the emotions.
2. Exhaust the pupil, not the subject, not the teacher.
3. What important truth is suggested?

WM. S. CROUSE, Leader.

Contributed by a Teacher.

A Teacher's Soliloquy.

To teach or not to teach, that's the question:
Whether 'twere better for a man to suffer
The tricks and mischief of tormenting pupils,
Or to take a pen against his daily troubles,
And, by resigning, end them? To quit—to change—
That's all; and, by that change, to think we end
The worries and the million petty aches
That man falls heir to! 'Tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wisht. To quit—to change—
To change! Perhaps, to practice law, or crowd his
Drastic pills adown another's throat, or tread
The dreary round of him who knowledge sells
By sample. Perchance, to preach, or break
The insensible rock, or crush the rude clay
Which the swain turns with his plough, and
Treads upon. Perchance, to tramp. Aye! there's the rub;
For, in that change of toil, what work may come
When he has shuffled off this coil pedantic,
Must give him pause. There's the respect
That makes his calamities of so long life;
For, who would bear the prods and growls of men,
The reporter's wrong, the justice-court's subpoena,
The pangs for pay postponed, discounted warrants,
The idleness of pupils, and the spurns
The weary teacher from the public takes,
When he himself might his quietus make
With a resignation? Who would teach a school,
To groan and labour 'neath a dreary life,
But for the love of something more than gold
The undetermined payment, of whose worth
The teacher only knows? The opening of the mind,
The brightening of the eye, the steady growth
Of intellectual power, the controlling spirit.
Which grinds the soul immortal, checks the hand,
And makes him rather hold the goods he has
Than fly to other ills he knows not of.
Thus, nature has made teachers of us all;
And, thus, our several lines of occupation
Are scattered o'er with many a chance for good,
And influences of great weight and moment:
With this regard, their currents move aright,
And gain the force of action.

—SHAKSPERE.

HINTS ON COMPOSITION.

Avoid the use of slang terms.

No needless word should be used.

No necessary word should be omitted.

Be cautious in the use of he, she, it and they.

In the use of words great care should be taken to select the most appropriate.

All the parts of a sentence should be so arranged as to make it correct, clear and elegant.

The principal words of a sentence should be placed where they will make the most impression.

Care should be taken not to follow a strong assertion or argument by a weaker one.

Place all modifying adjuncts as near as possible the words which they limit.

Short sentences are easier to write than long ones, hence more suitable for correspondence.

Express very distinct thought or fact in a distinct sentence, and be sparing in the use of ands and buts.

"One of the greatest of all faults in writing and speaking is this: the using of many words to say little.

"Avoid the repetition of the same or similar sounds except for some special purpose."

"As a rule the student will do well to banish for the present all thought of ornament or elegance, and to aim only at expressing himself plainly and clearly. The best ornament is always that which comes unsought. Let him not beat about the bush, but go straight to the point. Let him remember that what is written is meant to be read; that time is short; and that other things being equal, the fewer words the better."

"Be simple, be unaffected, be honest in your speaking and writing. Never use a long word where a short one will do. Call a spade a spade, not a well-known oblong instrument of manual husbandry; let home be home, not a residence; a place a place, not a locality; and so of the rest. Where a short word will do, you always lose by using a long one. You lose in clearness; you lose in honest expression of your meaning; and, in the estimation of all men who are qualified to judge, you lose in reputation for ability. The only true way to shine, even in this false world, is to be modest and unassuming. Falsehood may be a very thick crust, but in course of time truth will find a place to break through. Elegance of language may not be in the power of all of us; but simplicity and straightforwardness are. Write much as you would speak: speak as you think. If with your inferiors, speak no coarser than usual; if with your superiors, no finer. Be what you say; and, within the rules of prudence, say what you are."—Dean Alford.

GEOGRAPHICAL RECREATIONS.

8. What capital lies near the equator?
9. Why does not the moon rise at the same time each evening?
10. Locate the Iron Gate, the Golden Gate, and the Golden Horn.
11. Which is the longer, a meridian circle or the equator—and why?
12. There is much more twilight in Winnipeg than in New Orleans; explain why.

1. When New York bells are ringing 12 noon what time is it in Leadville?
2. When San Francisco bells announce 6 in the evening, what time is it in St. John's, Newfoundland?
3. At Herkimer, New York, the local and standard time agree; what is its longitude?
4. The sun is over the 75th meridian at exactly 12 o'clock on a certain day; it is over the meridian of Columbus on the same day 31 minutes and 56 seconds later. What is the longitude of Columbus?
5. In what direction, and at what rate, would a person on the equator, with the sun on his meridian, have to travel that he might always have noon?

LANGUAGE STUDY.

The direct or grammatical order of words is their ordinary prose arrangement.

The indirect or rhetorical order of words is an inverted arrangement of words adopted to make a statement more impressive.

In the sentence, "I shall neither attempt to palliate nor deny the atrocious crime of being a young man," the words are arranged in the grammatical order,—subject, verb, object; but in the form, "The atracious crime of being a young man, I shall neither attempt to palliate nor deny," the words are arranged in the indirect or rhetorical order.

A period is a sentence in which, by using an inverted order of words, the meaning is suspended till the close or near the close.

A loose sentence is one which may be brought to a grammatical close at one or more points before the end.

PERIOD.—On the rich and the eloquent, on nobles and priests, the Puritans looked down with contempt.

LOOSE SENTENCE.—The Puritans looked down with contempt on the rich | and the eloquent, | on nobles and priests.

Description is the representation of things observed at any one point of time.

Narration is the report of a succession of events observed in the order of time.

Exposition is the discussion of principles.

Poetry, in its mechanism, is that kind of composition in which words are arranged in lines (verses) containing a definite number and succession of accented and unaccented syllables.

Rhyme is that species of verse in which is found concord of sound in words at the end of lines.

Blank Verse consists of unrhymed lines containing five feet of two syllables each, with the accent on the second syllable.

A refrain is a phrase or verse which occurs at the end of each of the stanzas of a poem.

Style is the peculiar manner in which thought is expressed in language.
