IT is very gratifying to have such a wide-spread interest taken in our educational column.

WE are overcrowded for space this week, and editorial thunder is set aside.

ATTENTION is called to our business Directory column. Persons wishing their names, business and address inserted therein during 1895, may be accommodated free of cost on application.

WHAT is the matter with the Hon. William T. Malster, of Baltimore, for Maryland's next Governor? It is only a matter of time before this State has a Republican Governer, and with Mr. Malstea at the head of the new chapter, it would be a most promising beginning. Mr. Malster is president of the Columbian Iron Works, Baltimore, and was the Republican candidate for Mayor in '93. It was fortunate for Mayor Latrobe that this contest was settled then instead of the election a year later.

DEMOCRATS FAVOR FOREIGNERS.

Secretary Carlisle Stretches the Law to Squelch American Interests.

The attitude of our secretary of the treasury, Mr. Carlisle, in desiring to accommodate the foreign manufacturers and the importers of foreign goods is quite in keeping with the free trade policy of his party. Were it otherwise we should be surprised at reading the following extract from a recent Washington dispatch:

"Secretary Carlisle is especially anxious to find some law of construction by which he can admit goods which under the present law are dutiable and are now in bond, but which become free under the new tariff law, into the United States free of duty without subjecting the owners to the expense of exporting them and then reimporting them."

It is very evident that the Gorman tariff bill did not authorize what Secretary Carlisle has since permitted. Had the new law been explicit in so doing there would have been no occasion for the secretary of the treasury to be "especially anxious" to oblige his foreign friends. An honest man would not have sought a quibble or a subterfuge to evade the law. A true American would have executed the law as he found it and would have been glad of the opportunity that served to benefit Americans by prolonging the chance for the employment of American labor in the manufacture of American goods.

The public prominence that has so repeatedly been given to this Democratic official's inordinate desire to save a few dollars for foreign manufacturers, while at the same time wresting a few dollars from the unfortunate American wage earners, is inferential proof that the exact reading of the law has not been put into execution. It was undoubtedly the original intention of the free traders to grant to foreign manufacturers the special privilege that the treasury official has gone out of his way to yield. But through one of its many "inconsistencies and crudities" the original intention of the bill was defeated, and a meddlesome official has transacted a very dirty piece of business. His action should be tested in a court of law.

A beggar, who for many years had subsisted on charity died a few days ago in Auxerre, France. In a trunk he left bonds to the value of 1,000,000 francs, and in his cellar were found bottles of wine of the vintage of 1790.
