Thirty-fifth interrogatory. Look at the paper now shown you, marked "Complainants' Exhibit Commission No. 1," and state whether the name of Daniel J. Hubbard was in the same place on the agreement which you signed, as it is on the said exhibit?

35 answer. No, sir, it was not.

The commission was then adjourned to the twenty-seventh day of April, in the same year, at half past four O'clock in the afternoon, and the same place; at which last mentioned time and place the commission met, pursuant to notice, for the examination of witness on behalf of the complainants, and I proceeded, in the presence of the solicitors of the respective parties, to take the following depositions, that is to say:

Mary Joseph Hubbard, a complainant in this cause, heretofore appearing, sworn and examined on behalf of the complainants, being now cross-examined on the following cross-interrogatories to her propounded on behalf of the defendant makes oath, deposeth and saith as follows, that is to say:

First cross-interrogatory. You have fixed the time of Daniel's leaving, March eighteen hundred and eighty, and you say you think he returned to the latter part of September in that year; how do you fix the time of his return?

1 answer. Well, his mother had bought a place up in the county and had sold, and he had to stay up there to attend to some business, but what, I don't know.

Second-cross-interrogatory. About what time did she sell this place?

2 answer. Well, I don't know exactly; I won't say for fear I would be wrong.

Third cross-interrogatory. Did he go to work anywhere as soon as he returned?

3 ans. Not to my knowledge he didn't.

Fourth cross-interrogatory. Were you aware that Daniel had sold his interest in this ground-rent to Willson some years before?

4 answer. No, sir; not until Mr. Dunnington and his agent brought the deed in January, eighteen hundred and eighty-two; that was the first time we knew anything of his signing his interest.

Fifth cross-interrogatory. I understand you to say, that before the paper was executed, which you say was executed, your mother-in-law asked the Magistrate to read it, and that he did read it, and she asked him to read it again, and he did read it again; did you hear the Magistrate as he read the paper both times?

5 answer. Yes, sir.

Sixth cross-interrogatory. Had you read the paper before the Magistrate came with Mr. Willson, during the time it had been at the house?

6 answer. No, sir; not until I was called up to sign it.

Seventh cross-interrogatory. Did you see your mother-in-law and husband sign the paper that the Magistrate read?

7 answer. I saw Squire Loand sign Mrs. Hubbard's name; she made her mark; I also saw my husband sign his name.

Eighth cross-interrogatory. If you had the paper read, not once, but twice, immediately before signing it, why did you think it necessary to read it again yourself before signing?

8 answer. I never sign no paper without reading it myself.

Ninth cross-interrogatory. What did the rest that were in the room do, while you were reading the paper?

9 answer. They sat looking on listening.
