17 answer. Yes, sir.

Eighteenth interrogatory. Did you go to lawyer Willson office the same day that he met you at the corner of Greenmount avenue and Eager street?

18 answer Yes sir; that evening.

Cross-Examined for Defendant.

First cross-interrogatory. How long had you been home from the country, where you had gone the day after leaving the Refuge, when you went to Willson's office and signed this deed?

1 answer. It must have been about a week afterwards, to my remembrance.

Second cross-interrogatory. How far is the corner of Greenmount avenue and Eager street, from Mr. Willson's office?

2 answer. Seven or eight squares — eight squares at least.

Third cross-interrogatory. Isn't it more than a mile?

3 answer. No, sir; I wouldn't take it to be more than half a mile.

Fourth cross-interrogatory. And you say that Mr. Willson got you to come to his office from the corner of Greenmount avenue and Eager street, saying he had something he wanted you to carry home for him, and then sent you to a shoemaker's on Fayette street, above St. Paul, to get a pair of gaiters to carry to his mother's house for him?

4 answer. We went from his office to the Magistrate's office first; he sent me from the Magistrate's office to the shoe store.

Fifth cross-interrogatory. Did Willson tell you how the signature of that paper would keep your mother from sending you to the House of Refuge again?

5 answer. No, sir, he didn't tell me.

Sixth cross-interrogatory. Did you ask him to read the paper to you?

6 answer. No, sir.

Seventh cross-interrogatory. As you signed the paper and can write, I take it for granted you can read, can you not?

7 answer. Yes, sir.

Examination for Complainants Resumed.

Nineteenth interrogatory. How near to the corner of Greenmount avenue and Eager street, did Willson and his mother live at the time you speak of?

19 answer. Second door above.

Twentieth interrogatory. How near to that corner were you and your mother then living?

20 answer. About a quarter of a square.

Daniel J. Hubbard, a witness of lawful age, produced on behalf of the complainants, being by me first duly sworn on the Holy Evangely of Almighty God, being examined on the following interrogatories to him propounded in that behalf, makes oath, deposeth and saith as follows, that is to say:

First interrogatory. Are you a son of Mrs. Elizabeth Hubbard, now present, who is a party to this suit?

1 answer Yes, sir.

Second interrogatory. Look at the paper now shown you, marked "Complainants' Exhibit Commission No. 1," and state whether the signature of Daniel J. Hubbard on said paper was made by you?

2 answer. No, sir; I wasn't in town when that was signed, and don't know anything about it.
