question, but I think if I saw the paper it would refresh my memory in regard to the matter.

One hundred and first cross interrogatory. I did not ask you whether Mrs. Hubbard's name appears next to that of Willson or not; what I did ask you was, and now ask you again, how the paper, which has no record of the controversy about who should sign Mrs. Hubbard's name, can refresh your recollection as to what that controversy was, and who took part in it?

101 answer. I have already answered in regard to the controversy, and I understood you to say what was done when I was called up to the table.

One hundred and second cross-interrogatory. Was, I ask you again, then, to give the substance of the controversy as to who should sign Mrs. Hubbard's name, and who were the parties to the controversy?

102 answer. I have already answered to the best of my ability and knowledge and recollection of the matter.

One hundred and third cross-interrogatory. You have said that the first thing that took place after you were called up to the table was the controversy as to who should sign Mrs. Hubbard's name; how was this controversy settled?

103 answer. It was settled by the party, whoever's name appears on the paper in question, being written.

One hundred and fourth cross-interrogatory. I don't understand that answer, please explain it.

104 answer. The only explanation that I can give, is that the party that wrote Mrs. Hubbard's name settled that controversy; as I said before, I am unable to say without reference to the paper who that party is.

One hundred and fifth cross-interrogatory. Can you say how that party settled the controversy - what steps did that party take to settle the controversy?

105 answer. As I understand it, by writing Mrs. Hubbard's name.

One hundred and sixth cross-interrogatory. As you were at the table and heard the controversy, how is it you cannot tell which of the parties present signed that name, and so settled that controversy?

106 answer. The time being so long ago, that it would be impossible for me to recollect all the facts and circumstances in the matter.

One hundred and seventh cross-interrogatory. Did Willson sign it?

107 answer. I think not, although he might have done so.

One hundred and eighth cross-interrogatory. Did the only other lady besides Mrs. Elizabeth Hubbard, who you have mentioned as being present, sign it?

108 answer. I have stated that I didn't know which one of the parties present signed Mrs. Hubbard's name.

One hundred and ninth cross-interrogatory. Did the only other man who you have mentioned as being present, sign Mrs. Elizabeth Hubbard's name?

109 answer. I have already stated that the time has been so long that it would be impossible for me to say.

The commission was then adjourned to the twelfth day of June, in the same year, at quarter past four o'clock in the afternoon, and the same place; at which last mentioned time and place the commission met pursuant to notice, for the examination of witnesses on behalf of the defendant, and I proceeded in the presence of the solicitors of the respective parties, to take the following depositions, that is to say:
