We give especial prominence to the Douglass memorial services held here this week; first, because Douglass was one of the world's great men, and so recognized. He helped to make history and influenced the course of a nation. This, while acknowledged throughout the world, finds less appreciation perhaps, in Talbot, his native county, than most anywhere else, and we do not hesitate to say that we ought to be proud of a Douglass now, for future generations will certainly read and weigh true merit regardless of race prejudice. Second, this is the State, county and town in which many eventful things in the life of Douglass happened. One of our late lamented and honorable citizens taught him his letters when a a boy, and there are many still living can recall the early struggle he had for manhood, independence and education. His life is one of the best examples of what can be accomplished by earnest effort and singleness of purpose through the most adverse circumstances. Third, the GAZETTE is now the only Easton paper which was published at the time the boy was born, and only antedates him a few weeks, so it is with especial pleasure and pride we give him prominence in this issue.

In this connection we wish to acknowledge the kindness and courtesy of Messrs. Harper & Bro., Publishers, New York, who not only give us permission to use considerable matter, which appeared in Harpers Weekly of March 9, but also made for us, and for the use of the GAZETTE only, the elegant photograph of Mr. Douglass herewith presented.

We can accommodate those desiring a limited number of this issue of the GAZETTE. Please send early before the supply is exhausted. The price is 5 cents for single copies.

Owing to the great demand for space this week, much editorial matter, as well as the school column has been omitted.

The GAZETTE is greatly indebted to the enterprising Conference Herald for the loan of the cuts published in this issue, of Bishop Hurst and the four Presiding Elders, and herewith extends sincere thanks.

Peninsula Journalism.

Our esteemed contemporary, The Peninsula Methodist issued a special conference number containing forty-eight pages of Biographical and Historical matter, largely and beautifully illustrated with handsome half tone plates of the Bishop, former pastors of the Smyrna Church, and many scenes in that enterprising town. This journal is always interesting, but this number is especially attractive and is a credit to the enterprising spirit of the management of the paper.

The Conference Herald issued a special souvenir number in honor of the Wilmington Conference. It contained the portraits of all the leading ministers of the conference, with the Bishop and Presiding Elders. This paper has made wonderful strides towards improvement and is now one of the ablest edited and neatest printed papers that comes to our sanctum. The management deserves credit.

With its last issue the Havre de Grace Republican, one of our most valued exchanges, entered upon its twenty-seventh year. This paper is deserving of the great prosperity it comes each week after week the same bright, spicy and newsy paper and the GAZETTE takes pleasure in wishing it a renewed growth and influence.

The Opinion of One Who Knows.

Mr. Theodore Presser, editor of "The Etude," an educational Magazine of Music for Teachers, Pupils and Musical People has purchased a Weaver Organ for his own personal use, and as he is considered one of the most able critics in the country, his opinion and compliment are particularly valuable to the reputation of these Organs. Here is what he says:

"The Weaver Organs stand among the best manufactured. The voicing of the reeds is particularly smooth and even. The design of the case is tasteful and altogether I take great pleasure in adding my testimony to the genuine worth of the instrument."

ANOTHER EASTON INDUSTRY.

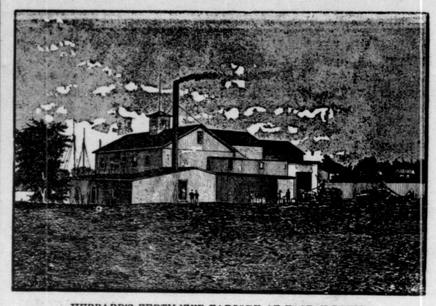

Hubbard & Bro's. Factory to Be Opened Again.

WILL BEGIN NEXT SEASON.

Preparations Are To Be Made For Pushing The Business —The Factory Will Be Greatly Improved —Will Employ A Large Force Of Men.—A Short Sketch Of The Business, Etc.

The large fertilizer plant of Hubbard & Bro., located at Easton Point, which has been shut down for a number of years, will be again started next season.

This will be good news to the public in general as it will increase the industries of Easton, and bring a large amount of trade to this centre, as well as giving employment to a large force of men.

HUBBARD'S FERTILIZER FACTORY AT EASTON POINT.

The factory, an illustration of which herewith appears, is a large one and was built in 1880. The building is of a most substantial character, containing 14,400 square feet of flooring, and has a most complete outfit of machinery, driven by a 75 horse power engine. It has a capacity of 75 tons a day.

Improvements will be made in the building and much new machinery put in it, and the capacity of the factory increased.

It was first started up in 1880. Easton enjoyed the benefit of this enterprise for seven years, when Mr. Hubbard saw disadvantages under which he was laboring, and which prevented him from competing with city manufacturers, being compelled to freight all raw materials, which after manipulation suffered additional cost in transportation to the consumer. Realizing Baltimore city to be the great centre of the fertilizer trade, where all raw material could be purchased from first hands at short notice and delivered without freight charges, he moved his centre to the city, where he purchased the well equipped factory then occupied by the Park Guano Company and formed a company under the name and style of Hubbard & Company.

Each year has shown a larger volume of business, and the firm of Hubbard & Co., enjoys the reputation of having one of the largest and best fertilizer trades in the city of Baltimore, and closes the present fiscal year with the enormous output of 16,000 tons of its superior fertilizers.

The need of a new and large factory was felt and a little over a year ago they moved into their new factory, which has a water front of 150 feet, every facility for shipping and a capacity of 200 tons per day. Mr. Hubbard still makes his residence in Easton and looks after the peninsula trade, making weekly visits to the Baltimore office, which is under the management of his Baltimore partner, Mr. Robinson, assisted by his son, Howard Hubbard, who entered the firm as a partner on January 1st.

The factory at Easton will be opened by next season and run without intermission.

The GAZETTE will publish in a few weeks an illustrated sketch of the works of the Nickerson Fertilizer Company.

FREE COINAGE.

EDITOR EASTON GAZETTE.—Your contemporary and neighbor has opened the columns of his paper, the Ledger, to a free and untrameled discussion of the silver question, and it is to be hoped that all the editors, not only of our state, but of the whole country would follow his example. I freely confess that after having read a vast amount of silver and anti-silver, greenback, Populist and Farmers' Alliance literature, besides speeches made, pro and con, both in and out of Congress, I was still unable to comprehend even so much as the a, b, c, of the discussion. I have sough' information from scores and hundreds of individuals, and with not more than two or three exceptions, have found them all as ignorant as myself. I now begin to darkly suspect that the gold bugs of Wall street and such of our law makers as they have corrupted, have kept the truth concealed from the people especially in the Southern, Middle and Northern States.

But the eyes of a long suffering are being gradually opened, though the masses even now know nothing about it. The plain farmer never studies political economy, and especially is he ignorant of national and international finance and the nature and object of certain great financial operations.

Sometimes a boy at school will devote his best energies to the solution of an arithmatical problem, and this he may do for days together without any success whatever, when suddenly, and when he was least looking for it, the whole truth flashes on his overwrought mind, and he can exclaim with Pythagoras, the great Greecian philosopher and mathematician on the occasion of his discovery of the true demonstration of the 47th proposition of the first book of Euclid's elements—something about the square of the hypothenuse—"Eureka!" I have found it.

Now I cannot boast of the happiness of the school boy or of Pythagoras: but I think a little light has recently dawned on my own mind, and if I can make myself intelligible, I propose to furnish your readers with the recital of a few startling facts that have but recently come to my knowledge, in regard, first, to the depreciation of our currency; secondly, its unnecessary contractions, and thirdly, the demonetization of silver in 1873.

I have often heard it said that the West wanted free silver only for the benefit of a few silver miners; yet I knew that in the West there was not more than one silver miner to every 20,000 of western population. Yet I, in common with millions of others, was persuaded to believe this monstrously and ridiculously absurd statement to be true.

Another statement equally absurd, the people of both the North and South have long been persuaded to believe was also equally true, and that is that the cause of the depreciation of the value of silver was its overproduction.

Another statement made thirty-three years ago, which, in common with millions, both of the loyal and disloyal of that day, was persuaded to believe as being all true. "In 1862, February 25th, Congress authorized the issue—if my memory is not at fault—of some $300,000,000 in greenbacks as legal tender for all debts, public and private, except duties on imports and interest on the public debts. Millions of this kind of paper was subsequently issued by the government and it all rapidly depreciated in value. But as the war progressed a Union victory checked for a day only its downward progress till finally it required $2.80 of this paper to purchase $1.00 in gold. Now I was told that the uncertainty as to how the war would terminate was the cause of this depreciation. In another chapter I propose to show this statement was untrue, and that its only purpose was to delude the people.

Before the rebellion the extremes of poverty and riches were slowly becoming greater as the tide of time rolled along; but while the rich were becoming richer the condition of the poor and the middle classes—if such we may call them was being bettered rather than otherwise. Certainly the poor were not getting any poorer. But now a railroad king or a broker on Wall street, and certain great bankers, are accumulating incalculable millions representing the hard labor of the masses of our population. The elastic band that ought to bind the rich and poor together has been more and more stretched till now it has reached its powers of tension While the gold bugs of England, Berlin and Wall street are rolling in wealth and luxury, our farmers, notably in the West, but to some extent also in Maryland, are feeding their wheat crops to their cattle, and when disposing of it at all they do so at a ruinous loss to themselves.

That free coinage will in some large part remedy these evils I have now not the ghost or a doubt. We cannot undo all the mistakes of the past, but we can prevent the mischief from getting worse, and can to a very great extent better our condition.

Do what we may to protect American labor from the machinations of foreign influences, England always gets the best of us. We are today more under the dominations of English capitalists than is Canada or India. She, England, holds our bonds, gold interest at from 4 to 6 per cent.; she owns thousands of acres of our farms, and heavy interests in our railroads and coal mines, and even in our various manufacturing industries, iron, cotton, wool and silk. $300,000,000 of our gold go yearly into her lap, without including what she gets from our tourists. We pay her good prices for her tin and other manufactures, and in part pay she takes a little of our wheat at less than half its value.

These are grave questions, and unless the people determine to break all party shackles and decide them for themselves, the future must continue to be dark and gloomy. Both the great political organizations of the country, Republican and Democratic, must amend their platforms. The laity of these organizations must shake off the shackles of their old bosses, or at least to demand of them the fullest restoration of their rights.

In one or more succeeding chapters I propose to try to open the eyes of your readers. The money questions of the day must no longer be ignored by our people, no matter to what party they may belong. If our Republican and Democratic leaders continue blind to the truth, then the Populist party will soon have entire control of the destinies of the country. Every year that party increases the number of its voters. The Republican party has been too long traveling in old ruts. That grand old party has much to boast of. It preserved the Union, abolished slavery, and before Cleveland's last accession to the Presidency had reduced the national debt to a minimum. But it is now at a "stand still." The people are tired of old graveyard issues. The party was once progressive and it must again become so. It must again put on its old armor of progress and looking the financial question in the face, we must take the matter in our own hands, and with the aid of non partisan Democrats and Populists we can settle it. If we fail in this the Populist party will do it for us.

If I can find time to do so I propose to suggest other issues which the Republican party must take in hand, or go to the wall. We must not think our work is done, or that our only mission is to beat other political organizations. True, the silver is not a party question and never may be; but I can see no objection to any effort the party may make, as a party, to place silver where it properly belongs, and to place values in their normal condition. Leading Democrats all over the country are becoming alive to the situation. We must get rid of our lethargy. We must amend our platform, and commence the education of the people at once. We must fight the Rothchilds of Europe, the bankers of London aad the brokers of Wall street, to the bitter end. Patriots, and not simply professional and office-seeking politicians, must conduct the fight. Farmers especially, but merchants, mechanics, and all others depending directly or indirectly on agricultural success in this country, will unite with us in the struggle.

Something More to be Considered

A good article is paramount to all else. You do not study your back interests in bringing a portrait because it is "dirt cheap." There are two other essential points, namely a first class likeness—and a No. 1 finish. You say these two features added make a higher figure. True, but in the end the best is the very cheapest. Once done right needs no repetition. If you will take the pains to enquire in prices for Crayon Portraits, and examine the Superior quality of pain and latest designs in frames, I am confident you will leave your small pictures with me. I can't afford to ask for "no money in advance." First because I am sure my work is correct. Second, I am bound to trust to your integrity from the fact that you trust your valuable pictures in my hands. Now then shall I have your order for a Crayon, Oil Water Color or an India Ink Portrait? Hope so. Come see or write me for prices.
