SENATOR HILL was in the Supreme Court chamber when the income tax decision was rendered Monday. The Senator afterwards said:

> "The law ought to be repealed at the very next session of Congress, and I shall, on the first day of the session, introduce a bill for that purpose. It ought to pass and I believe it will pass."

Mr. Hill need not give himself unnecessary anxiety in regard te the income tax law. The next Congress will repeal it and all other Democratic measures which are unjust, whether the distinguished Senator from New York favors it or not.

THE Supreme Court on Monday practically affirmed the constitutionality of the income tax, excepting the sections which taxed incomes derived from rents and from State and municipal bonds. The law relating to these was declared unconstitutional. The bench was evenly divided on the subject—four judges believing the entire law unconstitutional and four affirming it, with the exceptions noted above. It is unfortunate that Justice Jackson was sick and unable to sit in the case. Lincoln once said that nothing was ever settled until it was settled right. The conclusion follows, therefore, that this populistic feature of the Cleveland administration will continue to be assailed until the obnoxious thing is wiped entirely from the statute books.

IF some of our Democratic brethren who represent the rank and file of that party, and who neither seek office nor aspire to be linked in with the managers, but who are always expected to march loyally behind these "leaders" and vote for them and their ticket—if those who compose the great masses of honest (but often misguided) democrats throughout the State, would like to know "what took place at the Carrollton" on a recent occasion at the meeting there of the Democrotic State Central Committee, we would respectfully invite them, one and all, to read a long editorial in last Monday's Baltimore Sun under that heading. A perusal of the article in question would enlighten them very much. We regret the lack of space to publish the entire editorial. It set forth in a concise way, yet somewhat amusing style, of how the proceedings of the Central Committee were "cut and dried" before the committee met, and everything passed without discussion and without dissent. It was simply a meeting of politicians of the old board. Gorman dictated what he wanted, and immediately the line formed singing in chorus "me too." The following is the concluding part of the Sun editorial:

> That the State Central Committee should present a picture of "perfect harmony in the party" under the circumstances was the most natural thing in the world. As we have said, not even the novel feature of the creation of a managerial court of appeals, to be appointed by the chairman of the State committee, and of which he himself is to be the eleventh member, with power to hear and determine all complaints and appeals growing out of the primaries, challenged one word of objection or dissent. Of course everybody understands that this committee of ten, besides the chairman, will be, in reality, appointed by Mr. Gorman and that the disposition which it will make of all "appeals or complaints" that may come before it will be in accordance with Mr. Gorman's views. It is the most complete case of surrender on record on the part of a great political party of its own freedom of action and right to control its own affairs into the hands of one man or a very few men. The managers, through the State committee, regulate matters generally, and in case of any dispute or controversy arising, through this new sub-committee of eleven they will judge as well as act—be virtually the judges in their own case.
> The personal deference and consideration shown to Senator Gorman on the occasion of the meeting of the committee is easily explicable. The assemblage which gave him the ovation referred to with so much satisfaction by his organs was largely an office-holding or an office-seeking crowd. It was largely composed of men who have been accustomed to follow Mr. Gorman's lead in the past and cannot afford to break with him now, grateful recipients and beneficiaries, some of them, of Mr. Gorman's favor in the past, and still more grateful expectants of his support and protection in the future. We cannot cavil at the spectacle presented at the Carrollton on Wednesday last.
> There is another spectacle yet to come which is more full of practical interest to the people of Maryland, and about which it is more difficult to form an opinion. What reception will the rank and file of the party, the masses of honest Democrats throughout the State, give to the friendly overtures of the harmonious managers? Will they feel encouraged to go into the primaries, where everything is nicely arranged for them by the managers, even to a committee of eleven to hear and determine all "appeals and complaints?" If they do go into the primaries, will they, either in July or later on in November, exhibit the same picture of harmony, of unswerving personal loyalty and devotion to Senator Gorman that was witnessed last week at the Carrollton, when the Senator came over from Washington to receive the homage of the faithful? It is not long since, in many portions of this State in democratic newspapers, in public meetings and even in county conventions, Senator Gorman was soundly denounced for his course in the Senate upon vital questions of democratic principle and policy. He was regarded as anything but a Moses or a Joshua to lead the party out of the difficulties and trials. Not only in Maryland, but from one end of the Union to the other he was accused of having betrayed the party. His attempt to evade the party pledge that the Sherman silver act should be immediately repealed, which was only frustrated by Mr. Cleveland's emphatic refusal to accept anything short of an unconditional repeal; his successful juggling with the tariff law, his alliance with the Sugar Trust Senators, his boastful predictions which were never fulfilled, his insolent and defiant speeches, in which he proclaimed the Senate's indifference to and contempt for the wishes of the people, "popular impatience" and "popular clamor" he called it—it remains to be seen how far all these things have been forgotten and forgiven by the plain people of the State who were not represented upon the State committee or in the corridors and waiting-rooms of the Carrollton. With the committee and the managers Mr. Gorman appears to be "solid." He has always been so. They are of one mind in one house, for they are joined together by the ties of a common interest as well as long association. But what do the people think and feel about it? Last November's elections showed that it will not do to leave them out of account; they may leave the managers in the lurch. What has Mr. Gorman done since last November to re-establish himself in the respect and confidence of those democrats who publicly proclaimed their disapproval of him, his course and his methods then? What reason is there to suppose that the democratic masses are any better affected toward the managers now than they were then?

Blood Poisoned

A Running Sore on the Ankle

Yields to the Blood-Purifying Powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I want to tell what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I am an old sea trader, some years since retired, 73 years of age. A little sore broke out on my ankle, and after some effort to cure it, grew considerably worse. Home doctors failed and different medicines and ointments did not give me any help. I endured untold suffering for four years, when I was persuaded by my friends to go to the hospital for treatment. I did so, but the surgeon in charge said they could do nothing for my case. The breaking out spread over my limb, ulcerating the flesh almost to the bone.

Mr. John Hurley, Fairmount, Md.

and I could scarcely sleep on account of the severe pain. It was during the fifth year of my suffering that I decided to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial. I took two bottles and could see improvement. I continued with the medicine, and shortly the sores entirely healed, and

I am Now Perfectly Well.

I owe all to Hood's Sarsaparilla, the wonderful blood purifying medicine. If it had not been for Hood's Sarsaparilla I do not think I would now be alive. Today I am a well and hearty man for one of my age, and shall always speak highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla." JOHN HURLEY, Fairmount, Maryland. Remember, Hood's Cures.

STRENGTHENING NATIONAL CREDIT.

CHAPTER IV.

MR. EDITOR:—In my last I tried to give your readers some conception of the effects of rapid contraction of our legal tenders down to the close of 1876. I now have to ask the reader to go back with me a very few years in our country's history. If I am followed closely I think I can help the GAZETTE reader to form some notion as to how far our national legislation has been controlled by those great Jewish gold bugs, of Germany, France and England—the Rothchilds—and the bankers of London, as well as the gold bugs and bondholders of Wall Street and the leading bankers of New York City.

The subject under discussion is now, and I trust ever will be, purely non-partisan. To discuss it fairly, candidly, and in a word honestly, we must not have any respect for parties or persons. I have always been a Republican, am now and wish that I may die a Republican—this for four cardinal reasons, viz; the Republican party saved the Union, abolished slavery, has always protected American industry, and prior to the last accession of Mr. Cleveland, had reduced the national debt to a minimum. But to serve the party I would not conceal any of its mistakes, nor those of any of its real, or would be, leaders or bosses. I do not think the party has made many mistakes to the manifest injury of the country. (It made three mistakes—at least Congress did—in 1890, which I may take occasion to point out at some time hereafter.) Any mistake that the party or any of its leaders may make, I would fully expose in order to keep the grand old party as pure as possible and on a higher plane of existence. Professional politicians would conceal the errors of their leaders and bosses; but in doing this I am unwilling to admit that they are good party men, and certainly their patriotism and regard for truth must be of a very questionable character indeed. Now with this little exordium let us proceed.

In 1868 the miserable administration of Andrew Johnson was nearing its close. The Republican and the then so called Conservative (really Democratic) parties were preparing for a vigorous Presidential canvass in the autumn of that year. Grant was elected by the loyal patriotism of the country. Neither party, not even a large majority of the members on either side who were that year elected to Congress, had any conception of any special interest that Wall St., the Rothchilds or the London bankers, had in the result.

Grant was elected by a grateful people by an overwhelming majority. Now Grant was entitled to and received the warmest gratitude of his country and the highest admiration of the world. He was a good man, but after all he was only a man. His consummate generalship, neither future historians nor the world will ever question. His loyalty and patriotism were unalloyed. But though the first General of his day no one ever accused him of being a statesman. He was a good judge of a horse, a cigar and probably of a bottle of wine. His modesty (and this was one of his prominent virtues) led him to place himself in the hands of others—the Conklins and Cresswells of that day.

Now stick a pin in the above paragraph.

It will be remembered that the 5-20 bonds issued by the Act of April 12, 1866 to contract the currency were sold to Wall Street in exchange for greenbacks. The 5-20s paid 6 per cent in gold while the legal tender—except the 7 30s and 3 per cents—paid no interest whatevesr; and both greenbacks and 7-30 were a long way below gold in the market value. Thus the Wall Street sharks procured their gold-interest bearing bonds at from 40 to 60 per cent discount. This was shown in the preceding chapter. A splendid speculation for them certainly, and ought to have satisfied—even satiated—their greed for pelf. But it did neither. Let us see.

These 5-20 bonds issued by authority of the Act of April 12, 1866, were gold interest bearing, but the principal had not been made payable in gold. After Wall street and some foreign bankers, notably the Rothchilds, had purchased and paid for hundreds of millions of dollars worth of these bonds, they wanted Congress to pass a law making the principal payable in gold only, as was the interest. The whole matter may be better illustrated by the following. I bought a house the other day from McA. for which I paid $1000. After he gave me the deed for it and the whole transaction ended in both law and good morals, I went to him and insisted that he send a carpenter to my new house and put a two story porch all around it for nothing, although the value of the house would be thereby enhanced in value at least $500. By some hocus pocus I actually made the fool consent to do it.

In the session of 1867 and 1868 a bill was brought in providing for the payment of these 5-20s in gold, but it failed to pass. John Sherman was opposed to the bill—much to his credit.

Feb. 27, 1867 in a speech he said: "I say that equality and justice are amply satisfied if we redeem these bonds at the end of five years in the same kind of money, of the same intrinsic value it bore at the time they were issued. Senators sometimes say that this is repudiation. Why, sirs, every citizen of the U. S. has conformed his business to the legal tender clause. He has collected and paid his debt accordingly." In a letter dated Feb. 20, 1868, he said: The bond-holder can demand only the kind of money and is an extortioner to demand money more valuable than he gave." Oliver P. Morton in a speech said: "We would do foul injustice to the government and people after we have sold these bonds at not more than 60 cents on the dollar, now to make a new contract for the benefit of the bond-holder." Thaddeus Stevens said: We were foolish enough to grant them gold interest, and they unblushingly demand further advantages; the truth is, we can never satisfy their (the bondholder's) appetite for money." John Sherman in his great speech on Finance, May 31, 1892, said: "There was a stipulation in those bonds—5-20s Act of April 12, 1866—that the interest should be paid in gold, but there was no stipulation that the principal should be paid in coin—none whatever." When that question arose, I contended as I do today and always have done, etc., that we had the right to pay them in greenbacks, etc.

In 1868 August Belmont was chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and was at the same time Agent for the United States of the Jewish German gold bugs—the Rothschilds—who owned hundreds of millions of the 5-20s, and of course was deeply interested in the credit-strengthening act of March, 1869. As early as March 13th, 1868, Baron James Rothschild wrote to Belmont saying that unless the Democratic party favored the paying of the 5-20 bonds (principal) in gold, it must be defeated! How long are we Americans to stand this sort of dictation of the foreign, as well as the domestic money power? Seymour was nominated July 4th, 1868 for the Presidency in spite of Belmont. Belmont then owned a large interest in the N. Y. World, (the then leading Democratic paper of the country) and controlled it. Grant in the meantime was nominated, and it is another significant fact that forty N. Y. capitalists petitioned for his nomination.

Then the canvass went on. More than three months after Seymour's nomination a double-leaded editorial appeared in the New York World denouncing Seymour as unavailable and unfit for President and advised his withdrawal—this editorial appearing as late as Oct. 15th, 1868. The effect of course was to throw a wet blanket on the last hope of the Democracy. Thus August Belmont at the instigation of a foreign Jewish capitalist was led to betray, at the same time, both his party and his country. How long, O Lord, how long is American legislation to be controlled by the foreign moneyed power?

Grant was elected and an extra session of Congress was called to meet almost immediately. In his inaugural he said what meant that any man who was opposed to the redemption of the 5-20s—principal—12 in gold could find no place in his favor. Of course somebody wrote this for him. Congress met. Now was there ever such haste in passing an act of so much importance? In just two weeks from inauguration day—March 18th, 1869—the credit-strengthening act was passed and approved by the President. By this act the 5-20s issued under the act of April 12th, 1866 were made payable in gold in obedience to the wishes of the gold bugs of Wall Street and especially of our foreign creditors, and this too, in spite of the most earnest opposition of some of the best men of the Republican party and of many of the Democrats as well.

At this late day the passage of this odious law may be a matter apparently of trifling interest, but it is of the greatest consequence as it serves to show how our Congress is under the domination of the moneyed power both at home and abroad. It was passed to gratify the moneyed power against the best interests of the country. The eyes of the people are only being slowly opened to this startling fact.

My next will be a review of the demonetization of silver in 1873, in which will appear a more fearful dictation by a foreigner than that of Baron James Rothschild to August Belmont in 1868.

A PLEA FOR GOOD ROADS.

The second requisite to cheap roads in Talbot county, I believe, is the intelligent use of the road machine, or road scraper, which should be followed at all times by a roller, and should be used in the Spring as soon as the roads are settled, to give the road the proper form: high in the middle, and gradually rounded or sloped to the sides, and so made that all water would be shed immediately into the side ditches, and promptly be carried off by them.

Then as holes and ruts appear through the summer season, the road machine must be used to keep all indentations filled with dirt, ruts eradicated, and followed by the roller to keep the road bed hard and smooth.

It has been found that an ordinary traction action engine can be used profitably for this kind of work. One instance is cited, (Newcomb county, Illinois) where the total cost, including fuel, water, and the attendance of two men, was about $8.00 per day, which was very much less cost than that of a sufficient number of men and teams to do the same amount of work in the ordinary way. It would seem that there are enough engines of this character standing idle a large portion of the year, in Talbot county, to permit of one or more being hired through the proper season, and being devoted to the road work of each election district, if that were deemed about the proper area for each division of the road system.

These engines could be fitted with tires somewhat wider than is usual, and with the axles of such lengths that the wheels did not track, this machine would serve the double purpose of a motor and of a road roller in one implement, and would have ample weight for all the requirements of our roads, if indeed such a roller were needed at all.

The greatest influence on the improvement of the roads of our county would be the use of wide tires and non-tracking vehicles. If this practice could be generally adopted, not in an extreme way, nor a radical manner, but to adopt, say, a three inch tire for farm wagons, with a difference of five inches between the lengths of the two axles and require that all new wagons for farm purposes and heavy hauling should be made to conform to that standard, and give a rebate of a portion of the road tax to all who should change their old wagons to conform to the proper requirements, within a reasonable time, after which add a penalty, and a slight increase in the width of buggy and carriage tires, and sufficient difference in the lengths of their axles, to prevent tracking, we would bring into play the most potent factor possible in road improvement In fact I am almost inclined to think that if the general ues of wide tires was practiced in Talbot county, that almost all other means of road improvement might be dispensed with.

If you will please notice any short turn in one of our roads, where the direction taken by the vehicles is such that it is impossible for them to track, you will find that you will find that you have a good road, because it is rolled hard, and instead of digging a small hole a little deeper with each passage of a vehicle, and the rim of the wheel carrying the dirt out of the bottom of the hole, you will perceive that the wear is distributed, and the tendency is to fill instead of to enlarge the hole. With wide tires, and non-tracking wheels, each vehicle is immediately transformed from a rut-maker into a road-maker. Hon. W. A. Sweet of Syracuse, President of the New York State Roads Improvement Association, says on the subject of roads: "The first thing is to construct the vehicle so it will not destroy the road."

However, this subject has been so frequently and thoroughly presented, that it is unnecessary to discuss it further here.

With a re-organization of the road system, and one competent and responsible officer at its head, Talbot county's roads would soon surpass those of any country it has ever been my fortune to visit, provided the above conditions were complied with; and she would reap largely the benefits which have come to Union county, New Jersey, with practically a tithe of cost. Improved roads would stimulate immigration, render communication with all parts of the county easy and rapid, increase real estate values, be a direct benefit to every inhabitant, render every acre of land within her boundaries more valuable and capable of producing crops more cheaply.

Our merchants can readily realize what advantages would insure to them from such improvements, and the amount of money yearly expended on our roads would be amply sufficient to meet all immediate requirements if intelligently applied in the use of labor-saving machinery in systematic drainage.

Something More to be Considered

A good article is paramount to all else. You do not study your best interests in bringing a portrait because it is "dirt cheap." There are two other essential points, namely a first class likeness—and a No. 1 finish. You say these two features added make a higher figure. True, but in the end the best is the very cheapest. Once done right needs no repetition. If you will take the pains to enquire my prices for Crayon Portraits, and examine the Superior quality of them and latest designs in frames, I am confident you will leave your small pictures with me. I can't afford to ask for "money in advance." First because I am sure my work is correct. Second, I am bound to trust to your integrity from the fact that you trust your valuable pictures in my hands. Now then shall I have your order for a Crayon, Oil Water Color or an India Ink Portrait? Hope so. Come see or write me for prices.

A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY!

The times are hard, but here is a good show. In the last month I have made $175 selling Climax Dish Washers. I never saw anything take like they do. When any women see me wash the dinner dishes, clean and dry them in one minute, they buy one right away. Anyone can make $6 a day right at home easy. I have not canvassed, so anxious are the people for the Climax they send for them. Write to the Climax Mfg. Co., Columbus, Ohio, and they will send you circulars. It is easy selling what everybody wants to buy. I will make $3,000 this year easy.
