WE hope that the voting citizens of Easton will turn out boldly and cast their ballot for N. E. Clark on Monday next. Mr. Clark is independent of all factional interests, has no bank stock nor railroad stock nor water stock to bias him. He is preeminently the man to represent the people.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S foreign policy has been miserably weak. It is not distinguished for that broad-minded statesmanship that has adorned our history in the past, and made great the true standard of American diplomacy. From the hauling down the stars and stripes at Honolulu to giving Great Britain a precedent a few days ago for landing marines on the soil of Central American Republics—it has all been a lamentably weak and pitiable failure.

THE income tax confusion continues. A company out West that manufactured brick and tyle refused to pay the tax on the plea that their income arose from real estate, and under the recent ruling of the Supreme Court was quite as exempt from taxation as incomes derived from rents. This was held good by the tax collector. Then glass, earthenware, woodware, iron, copper, brass and many other things which came from the earth and which savour of the reality, when manufactured into articles of commerce, might be held to be exempt under the Supreme Court ruling of a few weeks ago. Next week that Court will have the subject under consideration again, and it would be a matter of much relief if a majority of the judges would declare the whole law unconstitutional.

THE Treasury report for April shows how enormous the deficit is getting to be. There is no hope for more encouraging results, and the prospect is that by the close of the fiscal year on June 30th, Uncle Sam will be over $50,000,000 behind in his accounts. This is a sad showing when the confident predictions of the Treasury department are taken into consideration immediately following the passage of the Wilson-Perfidy bill. But the present administration's financial policy will only keep company with its record in dealing with foreign affairs—a record rather humiliating to Americans if it is not distinguished by brilliant statesmanship and strong patriotic sentiment.

THE Gubernatorial boom of ex-Congressman Isaidor Rayner was launched in Baltimore Tuesday night. Mr. Rayner addressed a large audience during which he defined his position in the Democratic party, and made an eloquent appeal that the people of Maryland assert themselves on the side of freedom and against the dictates of the political bosses who have so long ridden rough shod over their wishes. He said frankly that the managers of the Democratic party were against him, but as he was on the side of the people he did not fear the result. That it was their fight and not his.

The GAZETTE does not hesitate to state that in its judgment Mr. Rayner would make a much better Governor than any of the ring candidates who are backed by the Democratic bosses.

THE currency question will undoubtedly be an important factor in settling the next Presidential contest. But it comes with poor grace for some Democratic papers that were loudest in crying for tariff reform to now desert that pet subject entirely and claim for currency the only leading issue. Are they satisfied with their party's record at reforming the tariff? Was a tariff measure the embodiment of perfidy and dishonor—and which their President was ashamed to sign, the reform for which they were in search? And now having secured that legislation with the socialistic income tax appendage and paying for it with wide-spread disaster and business depression, these Democratic editors cooly leave their work of ruin and in many cases are spending every energy in the direction of a financial policy which would be worse in its results than the miserable failure at reforming the tariff.

The Democratic party made a hopeless muddle in its effort to improve on the McKinley bill, and the country now bears witness to the distressing results. A writer once said that this party was fit for nothing but to tear down and destroy, and the record of that party since Mr. Cleveland became President a second time would rather substantiate the wisdom of the writer.

The Republicans will be required in the 54th Congress to make decent and respectable the tariff law of the land and place its provisions on that just basis which will give living wages to the laborer, replenish our warehouses and furnish sufficient revenues to meet the expenses of a Government honestly and economically administered.

CHAPTER VI.

MR EDITOR:—I will try to expose a little more fully the purposes of the gold bugs of Wall Street, London, Berlin and The Hague in effecting the demonetization of silver in 1873. Suppose you owned a gold dollar (but who ever sees one now?) and could buy only one bushel of wheat with it, and I were to point out to you how you could, by a certain process buy two bushels of wheat with it, would you not adopt that process? You would not be an average man if you did not. Your conscience might not allow you to create the process; but after it had been legislated into being for you, you would be likely to avail yourself of it. The gold bug in 1873 owned a $1000 bond, paying him, say $50 annually, with which amount he could buy at that time say 50 bushels of wheat. Now he wants to be able to buy 100 bushels of wheat with it. He sees that this can be done by the demonetization of silver. Now what does he do? He puts a half million dollars in the hands of Ernest Seyd, and invests him with authority to draw for a million more if he needs it and directs him, Seyd, to cross the Atlantic, go to Washington and work on Congress till a bill is passed that will effect their purpose. Whether the bill passed as we now have it or whether it was tampered with in the engrossing Committee or after the President had signed it, perhaps we shall never know. But anyhow there stands the bill, or rather the law. The moment that bill, by some sort of hocus pocus, became a law, every bondholder in Berlin, London and Wall Street, felt that the value of his bond was about doubled; because the purchasing power of his gold interest was enhanced that much by it. Now the law is believed by some to have been harmless when passed by Congress; but on it in June 1874 was founded a "revision"—whatever that may mean—saying: "The silver coins of the United States shall be a legal tender at their nominal value for any amount not exceeding $5 in any one payment." The United States Monetary Commission report, 1877, Vol. I, page 90, says: "Whoever may be responsible for this error in the Revised Statutes, the money of the country, instead of being intentionally legislated out of existence by Congress, was revised out of existence."

Anyhow, it is a part of the law of the land, and has had the inevitable effect of producing the intended effect, viz., reduction of the purchasing power of silver and enhancement of the purchasing power of gold. Gold then went up and the values of all commodities, silver included, went down.

Gold is now the standard. If the act of Feb. 25th, 1862 did not make it so, nor other legislation during and soon after the war, then the Act of 1873 did.

The following by Senator Ingalls in his speech, Feb. 15th 1878, may well be quoted here. It shows what he and Hayes and scores of the best Republicans at that time thought of gold as a standard. "No people ever found a faithful ally in gold. It is the most cowardly and treacherous of all metals. It makes no treaties, it does not break. It has no friend it does not sooner or later betary. Armies and Navies are not maintained by gold. In times of panic and calamity, shipwreck and disaster, it becomes the agent and minister of ruin. No nation ever fought a war by the aid of gold. On the contrary, in the crisis of the greatest peril, it becomes an enemy more potent than the foe in the field; but when the battle is won and peace has been secured gold reappears and claims the victory. In our own Civil war it is doubtful if the gold of New York and London did not work us greater injury than the powder, lead and iron of the South. It was the most invincible enemy of the public credit. Gold paid no soldier or sailor. It refused national obligations. It was worth most when our fortunes were lowest. Every defeat gives it increased value. It was in open alliance with our enemies the world over and all its energies were evoked for our destruction. But as usual, when danger had been averted and the victory secured, gold swaggers to the front and asserts the supremacy."

So much for gold as a standard. Now another word about England as our natural (or unnatural) enemy and the low price of grain. Mr. Spring, in a recent letter to your contemporary, claims that the low price of grain is due wholly to the over-production. For Mr. Spring's mental endowments and general good sense I have always had the highest respect. For years I had insisted that over-production had much to do with the farmer's misfortunes. To understand this subject the better we must not forget this momentous truth.

When the war broke out cotton was king. The rebellion assailed his dominions and the mills of Birmingham were closed for four long years. England at once determined no longer to be under the rule of his Southern American Majesty. Hence she has, by streneous efforts, fostered the growth of cotton in India. It is a very inferior grade, but it will answer in case of another emergency. Hence, in some part, the low price of cotton. To be more sure of cheap cotton she not only sends Ernest Seyd here to demonetize silver but she demonetizes silver, the only money the poor Hindoos ever had, in India as well. To depress the price of our grain she has fostered the cultivation of wheat in Egypt; the old home of the Pharoahs. She has encouraged the exportation of this cereal from the Argentine Country. She is a large stockholder in the great railroad running from Odessa and spreading its branches through all the old German states and into France, from whose ports wheat can be easily transferred across the channel into England. Twenty-five years ago to take wheat from Odessa to England it had to be conveyed several hundred miles along the coast of the Black Sea, through the Dardenelles and Grecian Archipelego, 3000 miles through the Mediteranean, across the Bay of Biscay, then up the English channel to Plymouth, taking six months for the entire voyage. Now this wheat can be cheaply and quickly moved by rail to all parts of Europe. Its production is by Russian labor—low grade costs 5 cents per day and high grade 7 cents per day, the laborer out of this small pittance boards and clothes himself and family and pays his own hut rent.

Now while cautioning the farmer not to ignore the above facts, I would at the same time caution Mr. Spring not to ignore the truth of what the demonetization of silver in Europe and America, to say nothing of India, has had to do with the low price of grain. Now no one will deny that this wholesale demonetization lowered the price of silver, increased the purchasing power of gold, and caused that yellow-faced gentleman to hide himself behind the locks and bars of the brokers' and bankers' vaults. Is it not plain that as silver is diminished by law in value, it, as a commodity must unavoidably cause all other commodities to depreciate in sympathy with it? It is a commodity now—made so by law—and therefore must suffer as do all its fellow commodities. True, if nine tenths of it were made suddenly to disappear its value would enhance under the law of supply and demand; but it has not disappeared. We have plenty of it, but its usefulness has been largely destroyed by wholesale demonetization. Thus it is that the holder of golden bonds can compel us to take one dollar for two bushels of wheat, and silver, poor fellow, being deprived of his armor and his accoutrements by the smuggled act of 1873, cannot help us.

This will probably be the last I shall ever have to say on this subject. Doubtless your agricultural readers are by this time weary of reading so much from the pen and brain of a plain, unpretending and hard-fisted farmer. They may prefer to know what the lawyers and politicians—especially the latter who have always evidenced their deep affection for the dear people before and on election day—have to say about it. I propose therefore to leave the residue of the tournament to them with their dashing Pegasus, their brilliant armor and polished and well-rounded periods.

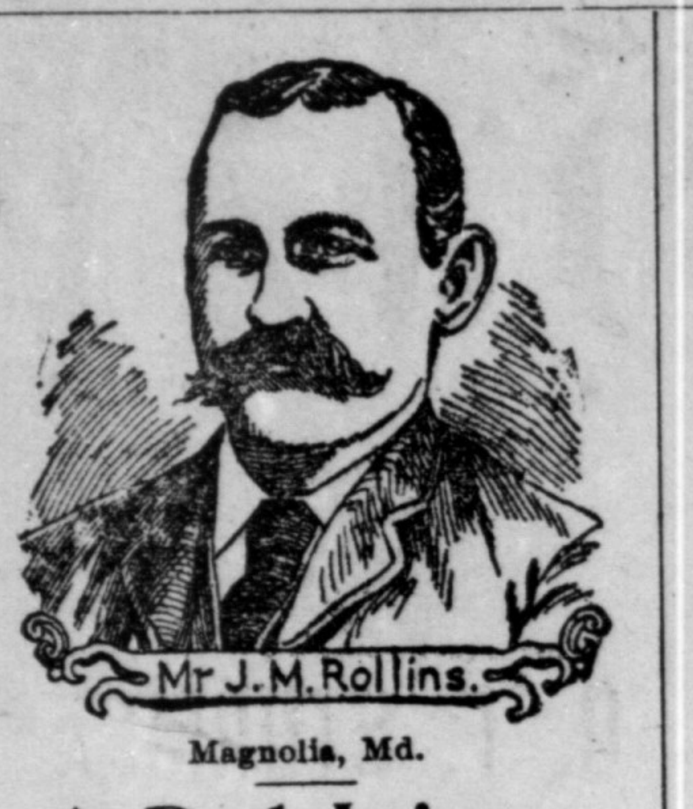

And now in conclusion, suffer me to say, that I do not insist upon it that I am right—or that Major Stewart is right and Mr. Spring is wrong. Fallible human judgment is ever liable to err. As hinted in the introductory to these Chapters, the subject is subtle and difficult of comprehension except by the Rothschilds, the Vanderbilts, Astors and Ernest Seyd of the day, who have devoted their whole lives to the study of finance and by sharp practice, the building up of Collossal fortunes without rendering to the world any adequate or appreciable services. My principal object in writing these papers has been to direct the attention of our people to some of the unhappy mistakes of the long past—the demonetization of the greenback by the act of Feb. 25th, 1862; the mistake made in the methods of the establishment of our present banking system, in 1863; (Sec'y Chase was the father of this measure and subsequently acknowledged it to be the greatest mistake of his life); also to the acts of Apr. 12th, 1866 and that hasty act of Congress, March 28th, 1869—only 16 days after president Grant's inauguration, and what seems to me to be the crowning act of the bondholders' infamy, the demonetization of silver by that mysteriously passed act of 1873, which many believe was not an act of Congress signed by the President, but an act of some member of the Engrossing Committee. When the law appeared in the revised statutes of 1874, both the President and members of Congress were surprised; and long years afterward, when the subject was further discussed in Congress, every member of both Houses then there, and the then ex-President Grant—this sometime probably during the eighties—disavowed any knowledge of any demonetization clause when they voted for or against—or signed by the President—the Act of 1873!! They should serve to show the purposes and methods of the bankers of Europe and of Wall Street and possibly of the First National Bank of New York, which at one time controlled two and a half times the entire deposits in all the other seventy banks where such deposits were held. (See Political Manuel for 1880.)

In the preparation of the foregoing chapters I perhaps ought to say, that I have relied in some large part for data in the speech of John Sherman, May 31st. 1892, and an able letter by John Davis, member of Congress from Kansas, which is a supplement to Mrs. Emery's little but invaluable work on "The Seven Conspiracies"—also a few silver periodicals. For the residue I had to rely on my own recollection of the times of which I have been writing.

Thanking you for your kindly indulgence in granting me this opportunity for an extended expression of my views, I am

Very truly and sincerely yours,
JAMES VALLIANT.

A Bad Injury

Causes a Stubborn Running Sore

Inflammation Removed and Wound Healed by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I have been a cripple for 27 years, caused by being thrown from a horse and striking on a large stone. Two years ago I received a blow on my crippled foot by fall of a large piece of timber, which cut through the flesh. It festered and and the inflammation extended to my leg. The treatment not satisfying me, I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Soon the inflammation had gone, the wound healed and I have been benefited in many ways. Hood's Sarsaparilla has purified my blood, built up my system and given me an appetite so that I relish any kind of food. I improved in flesh very rapidly, and feel

Public Enemies.

Because the Administration is in need of money, certain newspapers weak enough to follow Cleveland rather than stand by principles, are saying things like this:

"According to the latest estimate made by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the tax even in its mutilated form will produce close upon $15,000,000 of revenue. The money is badly needed and will be very welcome. Doubtless, a considerable proportion of the payments will be made under protest, but that is another story."—Boston Herald.

The Herald ought to be ashamed of itself.

"This money is badly needed and will be very welcome," said the absconding cashier as he ran away with the bank's funds.

"The cash you have hid away somewhere, is badly needed and will be very welcome," said the impoverished robber baron, as he put the screws to the thumbs of the prosperous miller.

This Government could afford to lose not merely $15,000,000 of revenue but ten times that sum, rather than have the socialistic principle of the taxation of the few for the benefit of many, fastened upon our system. For the sake of $15,000,000 the Administration is opening the door to moral and political destruction.

Newspapers which know better, but uphold the income tax, directly or indirectly, in deference to Mr. Cleveland's personal opinions, and to the supposed financial exigencies of his Administration, are helping to hasten the downfall of American institutions. Consciously or unconsciously, they are public enemies.—N. Y. Sun.

EDITOR GAZETTE:—

I beg a space in your valuable journal in order to air my opinion in the Town Commissioner question.

I am a Republican and therefore (on the score of politics) do not care one whit whether Mr. Clark or Mr. Pascault (the only two candidates now in the field to succeed Mr. Parlett, Republican) is elected.

I think that the Republicans of Easton pay sufficient taxes to entitle them to representation on the Board, but as that seems to be denied by some who pay no taxes, but who vote as much and as a rule talk more than those who do, I suppose we must submit to the inevitable and choose between Mr. Pascault and Mr. Clark.

With politics out of the way I think myself unbiased and able to select between the two according to their respective merits, especially if the points made or intimated in the Ledger of yesterday be true, viz: "That Mr. Clark is likely to become the tool or champion of any of the monopolistic institutions which have their grip upon this community", all controlled, when sifted, by the same dictator or dictators. If this be true that Mr. Clark by previous or present servitude has pledged, by word or deed, that he will oppose legislation that would authorize the Town to own and control its water works, if the people desire it, and I believe they do, then he should and will be beaten beyond redemption, and believing that he has, I shall vote against him. It it be true that the Easton National Bank through any of its Directors as Directors or any disappointed and disgruntled opponent of the Farmers and Merchants Bank, acting for the aforesaid Easton National Bank, are working for Mr. Clark because of any pledges implied or expressed that he may have made to remove the Bank account of the Town from the New to the Old Bank, that is another good reason why Mr. Clark should be defeated. I believe that some such promises implied or expressed have been made, and I shall for this, if not for the other reason, vote against Mr. Clark. While saying this I am at the same time a thorough friend and depositor of the Easton National Bank, but not to the extent of their squeezing or driving out legitimate opposition which has proven of great value to this community. I do not wish to be understood as opposed to the existence of the Water Company, far from it, I not only am not, but I think that the introduction of the water system was one of the most needed advancements, and that its projectors are entitled to and should receive a liberal percentage upon their investment, and its full value if purchased by the town; but I do not think that this Company should presume to defeat, as is reported they did defeat, legislation which would have enabled the Town authorities by and with the approval first obtained, of a majority of qualified voters of the town to buy their plant at its value, (not estimated by the percentage it may be paying, but by actual cost, less proper depreciation for wear and tear), or failing to agree upon a price, to putting in a new plant. If I am not improperly informed the Town would originally have issued Bonds and built its own water works but for the intervention and political influence of a few fossils who claimed the right, and some of them still living still claim the right, to tell the people "they shall or they shall not." Some of these aforesaid "fossils" and "dictators" are, if I am not again misinformed, intimately connected with the control of one or the other or both of the aforesaid corporations, which in their legitimate functions are valuable to the community, but which become very pernicious when they presume to dictate to the people who sustain them by their patronage. Believing therefore that Mr. Clark is or will become the easier tool in the hands of the corporations and moneyed dictators than his opponent, and there being no Republican for whom to cast my vote, I shall vote for Pascault and beg all liberty loving Republicans to do the same.

A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY!

The times are hard, but here is a good show. In the last month I have made $175 selling Climax Dish Washers. I never saw anything take like they do. When any women see me wash the dinner dishes, clean and dry them in one minute, they buy one right away. Anyone can make $6 a day right at home easy. I have not canvassed, so anxious are the people for the Climax they send for them. Write to the Climax Mfg. Co., Columbus, Ohio, and they will send you circulars. It is easy selling what everybody wants to buy. I will make $3,000 this year easy.

Something More to be Considered

A good article is paramount to all else. You do not study your best interests in bringing a portrait because it is "dirt cheap." There are two other essential points, namely a first class likeness—and a No. 1 finish. You say these two features added make a higher figure. True, but in the end the best is the very cheapest. Once done right needs no repetition. If you will take the pains to enquire my prices for Crayon Portraits, and examine the Superior quality of them and latest designs in frames, I am confident you will leave your small pictures with me. I can't afford to ask for "money in advance." First because I am sure my work is correct. Second, I am bound to trust to your integrity from the fact that you trust your valuable pictures in my hands. Now then shall I have your order for a Crayon, Oil Water Color or an India Ink Portrait? Hope so. Come see or write me for prices.
