HON. GEO. V. MASSEY requested this week his name no longer be used in connection with the U. S. Senatorship by the contending factions in the Delaware legislature. Now if Messrs, Higgins and Addicks would follow a good example, they would do likewise. Then their faithful supporters could unite harmoniously on some other good Republican and elect him.

THE ring sympathizers complain that Mr. Rayner saw fit to be so personal in his recent arraignment of Democratic leaders and their methods of conducting party affairs in this State.

How could he be otherwise than personal in thus expressing his disapproval of the party management? To have smothered his own voice in seeking to remedy existing evils by a failure to state who is responsible for such conditions would have been unlike the man and too much like the bosses who profess so much but who give the people so little.

THE Baltimore Evening News evidently believes that in discussing Maryland politics it is better to be on the side of truth than to count favor from political bosses by assisting them to smother this priceless article. With them the truth belongs to back parlors, closed doors and secret conclaves—with the News, it belongs to the people.

THE Pennsylvania Senate on Monday passed a strong resolution expressing disapproval and disgust for President Cleveland's "un-American and un-patriotic course" in the recent Nicaraguan trouble with Great Britain. It will be remembered that the legislatures of Connecticut, New York and other states have adopted similar expressions. This is not all. Some leading democratic papers—with more patriotism than partizan prejudice, have likewise condemned the administration for its course in dealing with this matter. While Senator Morgan of Alabama, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, and a Democrat who has never been charged with the crime of "jingoism" published an interview on the Nicaragua situation in which he made a most severe arraignment of the Cleveland Administration. The Senator in the same connection paid his respects to Ambassador Bayard at London in words that could not be misunderstood. He expressed a very firm conviction that the next Congress would "do something" that might disturb the pleasant surroundings and social relations existing between the Ambassador and his royal friends in London.

THE Western Shore papers, in mentioning the names of prominent men, in connection with the Republican gubernatorial nomination, overlook the fact that the Eastern Shore is still in existence; but when the convention assembles, our friends over the Bay, will realize that the Eastern Shore does exist, and will be there in a surprisingly lively manner, and present a candidate of her own, most likely the Hon. Charles T. Wescott, of Kent.—Dorchester Standard.

The Hon. Charles T. Wescott, of Kent, would make a winning candidate for governor, but it is doubtful if he could be prevailed on to allow his name go before the nominating convention. The fight this fall will be the people against corrupt Democratic ring rule and abuse of power, and the Republican convention must name a man who will have the confidence of the people and merit their support at the polls. Mr. Westcott and others on the Eastern Shore are eminently worthy this confidence. The anti-ring Democrats have heretofore tried to reform the party within the party, but continued failure has admonished them that to succeed they must take some other course. So now they will reform it by giving the ring a thrashing from the effects of which it will not readily revive, and that is to drive it from power by voting with the opposition. It is imperative, then, that the Republican party nominates a State ticket which will of itself invite the support of every good citizen.

BROWN CHEMICAL CO. BALTIMORE, MD.

IT would appear from brother Todd's version that the term "Democrat" can only be truly applied to such individuals who are willing to stifle their voices, deafen their ears, hold their nostrils and go it "blindly". If they refuse to thus stultify their manhood and adopt any other course in pursuing their own convictions of right and wrong, they at once cease to be democrats, and all become "kickers", to be advertised as such, and otherwise ridiculed for the exercise of their own senses freely in matters pertaining to public or private affairs. If such is the price required for being a "good Democrat", we are happy to be numbered with those who have no aspirations for membership in that organization.

Democratic politics in Maryland is conducted very much on the same order and according to the same plan as the old feudal system in England—which was so well established as far back as William the Norman, and continued to flourish for several centuries after that. There is scarcely any difference—the principle being quite the same. The feudal tenure was a right to lands on the condition of performing services and rendering allegiance to a superior lord. Those who rendered this service were called vassals.

The (feudal) tenure, according to Mr. Todd, by which a citizen in Maryland to-day is given the right to be called a "democrat" is dependent entirely upon that citizens' submission to a state of vassalage which requires him to render service and allegiance to his superior lord—which in this state is more commonly called and better known as "boss." Mr. Todd makes a good vassal, and accordingly a good Democrat when representative citizens decline to keep him company in rendering service to the lord or boss—and propose to think and act for themselves, they at once become disqualified as "democrats" and are paraded in print as "the kickers." The Democrat would have these gentlemen follow blindly the bosses which dominate that party in every county in this state, who in town render homage to the great chief, or Lord, Senator Gorman.

This condition of "going it blindly" and following the bosses at the expense of one's own individuality, is like unto that unfortunate farmer who was driving his bull to market and had tied the rope which secured the vicious animal to his own waist. Pretty soon the brute was bounding across a vacant field and as the farmer bounced along behind—only touching high places in the ground, a neighbor was passed who shouted: "Where are you going, farmer Jones?" and got for an answer, "How in the —— do I know—ask the bull!" So Mr. Todd should not expect such gentlemen as Gen. Hardcastle, Preston B. Spring and others to tie themselves to any bull—or political management that is not run primarily in the interest of the people. The following are the "kickers" mentioned in last Saturday's Democrat, and Talbot could well be proud of more just such "kickers":

Edward Lloyd, Gen. E. L. F. Hardcastle, Col. F. C. Goldsborough, Capt. W. H. Haddaway, W. D. J. Morris, Ira K. Caulk, Preston B. Spring, John M. Elliott, M. T. G. Earle, Capt. J. G. Morris, William Goldsborough Wm. H. Adkins and John S. Sullivan.

EDITOR EASTON GAZETTE:

Dear Sir.—After reading Mr. Jas. Valliant's papers on "Free Coinage," I feel, while fully appreciating his kindly reference to me, and recognizing that his native good sense makes him distrust the vagaries of his own imagination, that it is unfair to our community which is being surfeited of late with the writings of the silver mono-metalists to let his fairy tales of what happened in 1873, with the awful plots of poor, old much abused England, with the diabolical schemes to ruin the farmer by stopping the coinage of a mere handful of silver dollars, which never were seen in circulation, and which were exported as soon as coined; pass as facts, when in reality they are without the shadow of foundation, and the argument founded on them are worthless.

For 80 years previous to 1873 the United States while having "free coinage" practically coined no amount of silver dollars, for an average of $100,000 (one hundred thousand dollars) yearly, was nothing in the quantity of money circulating, and the act of 1873 merely recognized an existing condition and had no effect one way or the other on the prosperity of the country. From 1865 to 1879 I was in a business amounting to 6 or 7 millions in annual sales, involving the giving of credit to merchants from Maine to Texas and of course watched carefully every change in the currency that could affect the prosperity of the country, and can state on my own knowledge that the Silver Legislation in 1873 was as open and public as any legislation could be, that any story of English influence or the purchase of congress and our President by the Rothchild's is pure, fable and that if anybody at the time had made such a charge they would have been thought insane.

I am at a loss to understand how man, with ordinary means of information (unless they are office seeking politicians) can make such statements A word here in regard to the constant denunciation of England as our "national enemy." There is to me something peculiarly wicked in the spirit that would stir up strife between the two great christian countries of the world: Englishmen are the ancestors of the best stock in the United States: English traditions of liberty inspired our Revolutionary Forefathers to fight for their freedom. English Capital has been asked for and obtained to develop our national resourses: At one time or another English creditors have been (shame to us:) swindled by State or individual dishonesty.

England today takes more of our wheat, cotton and similar products, than all the nations of the world combined, and any war between these two great nations would be a calamity too great for description, involving not only immense losses on both sides, but putting back the civilization of the world as no other event could do. Then in the name of all that is manly and decent let us stop this talk about England being our natural enemy. It is shameful to feel it; still more so to try to spread the feeling! England and the United States represent the best civilization of the world of today. We may be competitors but there is no reason we should not be fair and honest ones despite our noisy politicians or bellicose Senators, who now, as in the past, for a petty office, or a cheap popularity, would pluage two great nations with war. England has had a good sound currency for nearly a century; her only interest in our having the same is the interest that all honest men have in the honests of their neighbors, or all clean men have in the absence of filth from the adjoining premises. She, with France and Germany and Italy and Austria, in short with the civilized world, has found that without a safe, sound currency business prosperity is impossible and that the enormous increase in the production of silver has made it impossible to preserve the old ratio between it and gold, and therefore she and all Europe use only so much silver as can be redeemed when needed, in gold. Why all the ignorant nonsense that is talked about England is not talked about France (with nearly five hundred million dollars of gold in the banks of France) or about Germany with nearly half as much, or Austria which has just discarded silver for gold, I cannot imagine, except that our politicians (the country's curse) think abuse of England an easy road to popularity.

But to return to the (so-called) crime of 1873. What was it? It was stopping the coinage of a few silver dollars yearly, and following it under the pressure of the silver-lobby with the coinage of nearly five hundred millions of silver dollars which nobody wants, and which are costing the government much trouble and expense for storage.

Our trouble is "too much silver" with the accompanying threat of dishonest repudiation which the silver crowd keep hanging over the country retarding the prosperity which was started by Cleveland's brave stand for honest money a few months ago, and which is now showing itself in those slow but sure signs of approaching good times such as improving wages, better prices for all products, mills starting on full time, banks ready to loan money on any good security. The only cloud on the financial horizon is that made by the shriekers for silver, who with all the vituperation at their command, pile false statement on false statement, ignore every well known historical fact, appeal to every selfish dishonest sentiment, strive to stir class against class, to foster anarchy and contempt for property rights, preaching that debts should only be paid in such currency and to such extent as may be convenient, ignoring the fact that all loans made in the last twenty years have been made in good, honest money, and should be paid in the same, circulating such a collection of falsehoods as "Coin's financial school" giving as real conversation with leading citizens, which never took place, in short striving in the interest of a few owners of silver mines to drive out of circulation the 5 or 600 million dollars in gold now used in the country to cause the calling in of every loan now running to reduce the wages of the frugal one half by making them accept a debased currency and to stamp the American nation with the folly and crime of repudiation. Let those who think this picture too highly colored apply the following test. Imagine both gold and silver to be demonetized and that we could make our contracts and purchases in either metal. Does not every sane man know that the gold dollar would pass as it does at present, while the silver dollar (not being redeemable in gold) would fall to its bullion value from 50 to 60 cents during 1894. No more gigantic fraud has ever been attempted by scheming politicians and interested producers than the plan for the free coinage of silver now being worked up through the country.

What may be the meaning of the epidemic of silver legislation in this country I cannot say. It is to be especially noticed that neither Messrs. Turner nor Stewart speak of the dollar which they possess as having too great purchasing power, nor that any salaries drawn by them should be diminished, though were their arguments carried to a logical conclusion all those having a fixed income are defrauding their friend, "the dear farmer" through what they term the "appreciation of currency." Possibly this view has not struck them, and I recommend it to their consideration. The year of an election in Talbot county brings many surprises and whatever else is missing the farmer may be sure of plenty of humbug between now and next November.

Respectfully yours,
PRESTON B. SPRING.

Spring Medicine

Is a necessity because the tonic of winter air is gone, and milder weather, increased moisture, accumulated impurities in the blood and debilitated condition of the body, open the way for that tired feeling, nervous troubles, and other ills. The skin, mucous membrane and the various organs strive in vain to relieve the impure current of life. They all welcome to assist Nature at this time when she most needs help, to purify the blood, tone and strengthen the laboring organs and build up the nerves.

"Last spring my little girl's face broke out with sores. Having used Hood's Sarsaparilla before with success I gave her some and at first her face seemed to get worse, but in two weeks it was well. We continued giving her the medicine and now her face is as smooth as anyone could wish. My husband was all run down. He had no appetite and was almost a complete wreck. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it gave him health." MRS. JOSEPH A. PARKER, Cooksville, Maryland.

THE GAZETTE would call to the notice of several brother editors that their valuable journals have not been received at this office for some weeks.

Eczema Isn't A Nice Disease.

It is painful, irritating, disgusting—offensive alike to the sufferer and his friends. The little watery, blistery eruptions itch and tingle. Scratching doesn't help. You may scratch to the bone and only make it worse, but it can be cured by using

Foster's German Army and Navy Cure

Eczema shows itself in other ways, but when little blisters, or scaly, watery patches appear, this ointment should be used at once. It cures quickly and permanently. It cures other skin diseases, too—tetter, ring worm, itch, salt rheum, dandruff, pimples, blotches and scald head. Numerous cases of itching piles, which are caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the rectum, have been permanently cured by this potent and soothing emollient.

Something More to be Considered

A good article is paramount to all else. You do not study your best interests in bringing a portrait because it is "dirt cheap." There are two other essential points, namely a first class likeness—and a No. 1 finish. You say these two features added make a higher figure. True, but in the end the best is the very cheapest. Once done right needs no repetition. If you will take the pains to enquire my prices for Crayon Portraits, and examine the Superior quality of them and latest designs in frames, I am confident you will leave your small pictures with me. I can't afford to ask for "money in advance." First because I am sure my work is correct. Second, I am bound to trust to your integrity from the fact that you trust your valuable pictures in my hands. Now then shall I have your order for a Crayon, Oil Water Color or an India Ink Portrait? Hope so. Come see or write me for prices.
