Two wrongs never made a right. If law is order—lynch-law is disorder. If the one is the safeguard of a people the other is the reverse. In proportion that the majesty of the law is maintained and respected by the masses, in the same ratio will the ignoring of it be discountenanced; if the one conduces to a higher civilization and better citizenship, the other belittles all that may be said or done by the representatives of a commonwealth, chosen on account of their wisdom and ability to frame and pass such measures that will be the greatest benefit to the greatest number—irrespective of class or condition.

Revenge is not justice and in no way restores that which a villian has taken from family—friends or society.

Neither does the death of such a person bring back the equilibrium that existed prior to the perpetration of a foul deed. If it did, then the sooner the death the better, but—

Since neither law nor riot can restore the lost nor give tranquility of mind to the aggrieved, then the course of that which is the better able to provide against future recurrences should be followed. Some will argue that the lynchers' noose is more effective than the hangman's knot, but the argument is without tenable support. The demoralization to those who aid or witness such scenes as even the "quiet and orderly" hanging of Marshall Price at Denton on Tuesday night, is a menace to the perpetration of crime which brought the villian to justice. The lynching school is one that engenders a thirst for blood—a disrespect for law—and educates in the direction of playing loose hands with the cardinal principles of our government—life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. This is plain, for by it a gang of outlaws—villains themselves, way really think by the use of the mask upon a dozen men their deeds of violence rise superior to law.

Caroline county has not crowned herself with glory, neither are her citizens made one whit better by the summary dealings with Price. Now where is the remedy? In the law itself. It is not so much the fault of the people for acting as they did, as it is the fault of the law in leaving it possible for them to do it. Again, Price should not have been respited in a public way but the Governor's message should have been kept a profound secret, allowing the usual preparations to take place, and in the mean time the victim should have been secretly conveyed to a place of security under the custody of the law without arousing the suspicions of the populace. Such a thing was possible. Hence the deficiency of law and precaution is responsible for the illegal murder of Price and not entirely are the people of Caroline county to be held blamable.

As matters now stand there have been two illegal murders in Caroline within three months, involving great expense and anguish of mind—and the majestic code has failed to even command respect in either case. Let the next legislature promptly act on Governor Brown's wise suggestion for the protection of criminals, or anarchy will supplant law and life and property will in time be held as belonging exclusively to the disciples of this school instituted by Judge Lynch.

A STORY is told of how a preacher tested the effects of hard times upon his congregation. He requested all who were paying their debts to arise in their seats. Every man, woman and child, except one instantly arose. After they were again seated he requested any who were not paying their debts to arise and remain standing until counted. The lone individual with a careworn face and moth eaten suit, slowly assumed a perpendicular position. The minister asked: "How is it, my friend, that you are the only man in my congregation that is unable to meet his obligations?" "I run a newspaper; my brethern here who have just stood up are my subscribers, and—" "Let us close," interrupted the minister. Brethren please attend to that little bill you will get this month from the GAZETTE.

OUR free trade friends will be checking our exports of wool by the fact that free wool is in its influence upon the community than the perpetration of the crime which brought the villian to justice. March we shipped abroad only 38,263 yards as compared with 50,690 yards exported in March, 1894. A further effect of free wool is shown in our imports of foreign carpetings, which reached 81,499 square yards last March as against imports of only 14,442 square yards in March, 1894. How do the free traders account for this?

Spring Medicine

Is a necessity because the tonic of winter air is gone, and milder weather, increased moisture, accumulated impurities in the blood and debilitated condition of the body, open the way for that tired feeling, nervous troubles, and other ills. The skin, mucous membrane and the various organs strive in vain to relieve the impure current of life. They all welcome

boassist Nature at this time when she most needs help, to purify the blood, tone and strengthen the laboring organs and build up the nerves.

"Last spring my little girl's face broke out with sores. Having used Hood's Sarsaparilla before with success I gave her some and at first her face seemed to get worse, but in two weeks it was well. We continued giving her the medicine and now her face is as smooth as anyone could wish. My husband was all run down. He had no appetite and was almost a complete wreck. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it gave him health." MRS. JOSEPH A. PARKER, Cooksville, Maryland.

Raspberry Receipts.

RASPBERRY SPONGE.—Take a half box of gelatine and cover it with a half cup of cold water and soak a half hour; pour over it one pint of boiling water, then add half cup of sugar, and stir until all is dissolved, then add half pint of raspberry juice and strain into a basin; put the basin in a pan of ice or water, or a cool place to stand until cold and thick. Then beat to a froth the whites of four eggs until very smooth; turn in a mould or deep dish to harden. Serve with a sauce. Flavor to taste.

RASPBERRY VINEGAR.—Put two quarts of ripe berries into a stone jar, pour one quart of vinegar over them. Cover and set aside two days, then drain off the liquid without mashing the berries; pour it over a quart of fresh berries and stand, as before. Then strain through a muslin bag. Now add one pound of sugar to every pint of liquid. Boil slowly five minutes, skim, let stand twenty minutes, bottle and seal. Strawberry, currant and blackberry vinegar are made in the same manner. This is one of the most pleasant drinks in warm weather and for the sick.

RASPBERRY JELLY.—Put the berries in a porcelain-lined kettle, let them boil until quite soft, then put a small quantity at a time into your jelly-bag, and squeeze all the juice. Measure the juice; to each pint allow one pound of granulated sugar. Turn the juice into a kettle and stand over a brisk fire. Boil the juice rapidly for twenty minutes, then pour in the sugar, stirring all the time until the sugar is dissolved. Fill your tumblers with hot water quickly, watch the liquid, let it come once again to a boil, take it from the fire and fill the tumblers. Any other fruits, such as blackberries, cherries, grapes, plums, peaches, etc., make the same way. If your fruit is too ripe the jelly will never be firm, no matter how long you boil it.

$10 Tours via Pennsylvania Railroad

In all the wide range of creation there is nothing which approaches Niagara Falls in magnificence or grandeur, nor any other object which inspires the beholder with such awe-inspiring wonder. TRAIN WRECKER CAUGHT.

John Ellis Arrested For Wrecking A Freight Train On The B. C. & A. R. R.

The readers of the GAZETTE will remember having read an account of a freight train being wrecked a month ago on the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railroad. Since that time detective Pruitt and another detective, both of Philadelphia, have been in the county working up the case, in which they have been successful.

One of the detectives played the role of a tramp with plenty of money and after a few weeks' investigation made friends with John Ellis, a young man whom he suspected, and who resided with a Mrs. Lewis at Poplartown. Ellis' friendship grew apace with the detective's good treatment, and on Tuesday of last week they went to Salisbury for a good time.

After imbibing freely, and before starting home, the subject of railroad accidents was opened, and the accident which befel the company a month ago was referred to, when Ellis told his companion just what he wanted to know, namely: that the wreck was not an accident; but the result of his own work. He was at once placed under arrest and taken to Snow Hill where he now awaits his fate.

After his arrest Ellis implicated Sam. Ridling and Mrs. Ella Lewis, both of near Berlin, in the affair. They were arrested and brought to jail. Since their arrest, however, Ellis has confessed the crime to have been done by himself without outside influences, and as the two parties implicated deny all knowledge of the affair and are not even acquainted with each other, this confession is probably the correct one.

Mr. Ridings is a young man, the son of Mr. Frederick Ridings, one of the most respectable citizens in Berlin. Mrs. Lewis is also a highly respected lady. Both formerly lived in Worcester, Mr. Ridings residing in Snow Hill for many years, and Mrs. Lewis with her husband on a farm near the bay. Their friends feel sorry for their unfortunate position and none believe them in any way connected with the affair. They were both released on bail and Ellis alone languishes in jail to pay the penalty of his crime.

The is not the first attempt that has been made to wreck trains on the B. C. & A. road, and it is thought that Ellis will be implicated in the other attempts.

It is said that the action of Ellis was prompted by jealousy; that he and an engineer on the road were paying court to the same lady, and the engineer meeting with more favor, the rejected suitor sought to get rid of his rival, by wrecking the train hoping he would be killed in the wreck.

Ellis in his last confession relieving Mrs. Lewis and Mr. Ridings of any collusion in dastardly act gives no reason for the deed He says he was drunk when he implicated them, and has no recollection of having made any such confession as the detectives claim.
