IT is to be hoped the public school teachers who were at the Blue Mountain House this week left their autographs on the register so that the clerks could read them. When the Peninsula editors were there a glance at the page on which they scratched made it difficult to tell which end of the register was intended for top.

JEFFERSON AND JACKSON.

IT is absurd, if not ridiculous, the way in which present day Democrats in their convention platforms express devotion to the principles of Democracy as expounded by Jefferson and Jackson, and at the same time advocating measures and things which those two Americans were never known to support.

Jefferson and Jackson may have been worthy pioneers of American democracy in their day, but those who are intelligently informed as to their lives and character, are bound to admit that if living to-day Jefferson and Jackson would both be Republicans. They were firm believers in the doctrine of a protective tariff and were thoroughly American in all matters which distinguished broad-minded statesmanship from the humiliating sort as set up by the present Democratic regime.

If Democratic platforms all over this country must have a Jefferson and Jackson banner inscribed therein to call attention to those dead patriots (we don't know for what else) let the platforms have it; but when these platforms continue to enumerate or set forth matters and things which are ascribed to those two distinguished men in American history—Democratic heresies of the past and present, which neither Jefferson nor Jackson ever favored or supported, then mention of them at all is either to be a matter of humor or else stultify their memory and deceive those who are less informed.

The Colorado Democrats held their silver convention in Denver on Tuesday of last week and passed a platform which opened with a proclamation of "devotion to the principles of Democracy as expounded by Jefferson and Jackson, among which is the belief in an honest stable and sound currency, the basis of which shall be silver and gold," etc.

This Jefferson who is mentioned in this connection is the very Jefferson who, when President, determined to have a gold currency, closed the mints against silver dollar coinage in 1805, and they remained closed until 1836. The Jackson who is named is the very Jackson who, in 1834, at the time of the change of the ratio, employed the influence of the administration against silver and in the interest of gold coinage. This Jackson, who hated fiatism and deception of all sorts in finance would have fought the silverite bosses as savagely as he did Nicholas Biddle, the President of the United States Bank. Men attempting to pass 50 cents' worth of silver on the country for 100 cents' worth, as the silver Democrats of 1895 want to do, Jackson would think were as bad enemies of the country as were the South Carolina nullifiers of 1832. He would have been as strongly tempted to hang Bland and Stewart if they had been active in his time as he was to hang Calhoun.

The Jefferson and Jackson of reality were widely different persons from the creatures of their imagination. The committee which drew up the Colorado utterance and the balance of the Democratic convention which supported it, could have had no fellowship with Jefferson's party had they been at the front in Jefferson's day. And they would have taken especial pains to keep out of Jackson's reach had they been active in Jackson's time. Jackson sometimes saw monsters where none existed, as he did in the National Bank affair, but he would have quickly detected the villainy of the silver swindle as advocated by the Democratic party in many States of the Union today, and he would have assailed it bitterly.

Jefferson and Jackson have been dead many years, but the reputation of these illustrious Democrats has some rights which Democratic conventions should be compelled to respect.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Gives Nerve Strength and Bodily Health

Washington Letter.

(FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 8th, 1895.

The man who could have prevented Mr. Cleveland's nomination in '92 is determined to prevent his nomination in '96. That man is senator Gorman. It is well known that Gorman had only to say one word at the Democratic Convention of '92, and Mr. Cleveland's nomination would have been impossible. Gorman wanted that nomination himself, and when a canvass of the convention showed that while he could get votes enough pledged to defeat Cleveland, he could not get enough to be nominated himself, he declined to allow the use of his name before the convention and Mr. Cleveland was nominated. He wants that nomination now just as bad as he ever did, and is determined to keep Mr. Cleveland out of it whether he can get it himself or not. His supporters are some of the shrewdest workers in the democratic party and, like him, they all dislike Mr. Cleveland. These men are taking especial pains to inform the democratic voters—by other methods that the party papers—that it was the killing of the Wilson Tariff Bill, which was Mr. Cleveland's own measure, and the adoption of the Gorman-Brice Tariff Bill, which was publicly denounced although afterwards signed under compulsion by Mr. Cleveland, that saved the industrial and commercial interests of the country from ruin and the National Treasury from bankruptcy. The Gorman men are perfectly confident that they can control more than one-third of the Democratic Convention and defeat the nomination of Mr. Cleveland or any man named by him, even if they do not succeed in nominating Gorman. They are not doing any talking for publication, but they are out for blood, so to speak, and they are getting it, too.

One of the few democrats who is on visiting terms at Gray Gables has written to a Washington friend saying that exGovernor Campbell of Ohio, is no longer persona grata to his highness, Grover I. That jingo Fourth of July speech which Mr. Campbell made before Tammany is what did the business. It was taken as a personal insult by Mr. Cleveland, and coming from the source it did it was especially galling. Mr. Campbell, in addition to having been given the privilege of declining a place in the cabinet, has controlled to a much greater extent than any other one man the Federal appointments which have been given to Ohio men under this administration, and his loyalty to Mr. Cleveland was confidently counted upon. But that is all over now, and if Mr. Campbell gets within speaking distance of a place on the democratic National ticket he will do so without any aid from Mr. Cleveland or any member of his administration. Mr. Campbell passed through Washington on his way back home, but he declined to discuss the effect that speech had had or was likely to have upon his relations with the administration; but from the talk of some of his personal friends it is clear that his object in making the speech was not only to announce his candidacy for the presidential nomination but to discount the effect of the robust declaration in favor of the enforcement of the spirit and letter of the Monroe Doctrine which everybody expects to be made by the Republicans in Congress very early in the next session. Mr. Campbell knows, as everybody who has given the subject any attention does, that nine-tenths of the people in this country are opposed to the humble pie, surrender-everything foreign policy of the present administration; hence his indirect condemnation and repudiation of it.

Mr. Willis L. Moore, the new chief of the Weather Bureau, is a journeyman printer, a protege of the late Frank Hatton, and the manner in which he secured the appointment, although himself a republican, shows him to have the proverbial shrewdness of the craft. He has been connected with the bureau for about 20 years, having originally enlisted as a private in the Signal Service, and has for several years been chief forecaster at the Chicago office. He has used a system of his own in making weather forecasts, which have proven to be the most accurate made in the country. He claims that the system was discovered by himself, and it was his refusal to give away his secret that put him at the head of the bureau. Secretary Morton wanted the other forecasters to have the benefit of this system, but it was only when Moore was sure of being put at the head of the bureau that he agreed to part with his secret. The average printer doesn't need anybody to tell him how to work a good thing when it comes his way.

NIAGARA FALLS.

$10 Tours via Pennsylvania Railroad

In all the wide range of creation there is nothing which approaches Niagara Falls in magnificence or grandeur, nor any other object which inspires the beholder with such awe-inspiring wonder. One must see the great cataract in order to form any conception of its vastness or secure a proper appreciation of its majesty.

The series of tours arranged by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, leaving Philadelphia July 18, August 1 and 15, September 7, and October 8, and Washington and Baltimore July 25, August 8 and 22, September 7, and October 8, affords an excellent opportunity to make the trip at a remarkably small expense.

The rate for round-trip tickets, good for ten days, is $10 from Philadelphia, Washington, and Baltimore, and proportionate rates from other points.

A special train of Pullman parlor cars and day coaches will be run on each of the above named dates, and a tourist agent and chaperon will accompany each tour—in fact, everything will be done to make the trip attractive and pleasurable.

The tickets will also permit of stopoff at Watkins and Rochester in each direction, and at Buffalo on the return trip.

For specific rates and time of trains application should be made to ticket agents or to Tourist Agent, Room 411, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.
