lawful issue living at the time of the death of his, her or their father, the share or property given to such child or children by this my will shall go to the surviving brothers and sisters of such deceased child or children of the blood of the father and their heirs, and if any such child or children shall die in the lifetime of the father of such child or children leaving lawful issue living at the death of the father of such child or children, such issue to stand in the place of and to have the proportion that would have belonged (Wm. Patterson, page 7,) to such deceased child if such child had survived his or her father. But the limitations contained in this fifteenth paragraph of my will are not intended to apply to the bequests contained in the fourteenth paragraph or to any part of them; it being my intention to give all the property mentioned in the said fourteenth paragraph of this my will to my four sons therein named absolutely and forever, subject only to the limitations contained in that paragraph.

* * * * *

17th. Having, after the most mature deliberation and consideration, thus disposed of my estate and property as has appeared to me reasonable, just and proper, and I hope and trust generally to the satisfaction of such of my family as are or may be interested. It is, however, more than probable that I may have committed some errors or informalities in drawing up and expressing my will and intentions, and should this be the case, it is my most earnest wish and desire and request, that no advantage shall be taken by all, or by any of my heirs, of any such errors or informalities, but that they, and each of them, shall and will, nevertheless, stand to and abide by this my last will and testament; and if unfortunately any difficulty or misunderstanding should arise respecting this my will, that they and each of them will, under such circumstances, submit all matters in dispute to the arbitration, settlement and final award of three or more reasonable honest men, and on no account to apply to the law for redress, (a thing I have endeavored to keep clear of all my life, and still it has cost me a fortune,) yet should any of my heirs be so far dissatisfied and unreasonable as to attempt to break and undo this my will, then and in that case I do hereby withdraw, revoke and annul all and every my bequests and devises in favour of all or any such person or persons; and I further will and devise, that all and every the share or shares of my property here intended for him, her or them, shall be forfeited, and that the same shall be divided equally among, each of my other heirs who may be ready and willing to abide by and comply with this my last will and testament.

18th. And lastly, I do hereby constitute and appoint my three sons, Joseph, Edward and George, to be executors of this my last will and testament; and in case of the death of any of my said three sons, then and in that case I do hereby appoint my son Henry in the place of the deceased, hereby revoking and annulling all other and former wills heretofore made by me, ratifying and confirming this as my last will and testament. It is my will, intention and desire, that my said executors shall not be compelled or required to give any security whatever to the officers of the Orphans' Court for the administration, management or settlement of my estate, nor shall they be compelled or required to render any schedule or list of my estate and property, and as my executors above named are to have the reversion of my estate and property, it is unnecessary, and it cannot be presumed that they make any charge whatever for