You Wear a Hat!

Of course you do. Do you wear one that becomes you—feels comfortable on your head and costs you a mere song? No! Well surely you have not bought one out of the new lot we have just opened, for if you had done so you would declare that we fill all the requirements. Our hats are up to date in style, quality and price, and we can say the same in every particular

About Our Footwear.

We have this advantage in our business which others do not possess—ALL OUR GOODS ARE ENTIRELY NEW, and consequently the styles are of the newest too. Now about our SHOE Department, we have but this to say—favor us with a call and examine them, and we will prove your benefactor.

All Well Dressed Men

Are particular about their Neckwear, they can't be suited with the ordinary run of ties found in country towns. We have recognized this and have received a fine line of beautiful SCARFS, TIES, etc., which were made to order for us. The styles this Fall are very decided both in shape and color and to be appreciated must be seen. Remember that we are headquarters for Men's and Boys' Furnishings.

The Peoples Party Meeting.

Congressman Howard, of Alabama, spoke for the second time in Easton Wednesday evening at Music Hall in the interest of the Peoples party in Talbot county.

The hall was crowded with representatives of all the parties and a large number of ladies were also present. Mr. Howard is a very picturesque person standing over six feet in his stockings.

His remarks were well received, and not full of violent denunciations of the old parties that characterized some of the Peoples party speakers that have been in Easton of late, and in fact was courteous in his bearing and words towards all who were of a different political faith.

He is a typical southerner and had several good stories to tell, which he did in a truly inimitable manner. He spoke here Thursday evening of last week and so pleased his party that he was requested to speak again.

The populists filed their revised petition with the Election Supervisors on Monday. It is 21 feet long and contains 272 names.

T. H. Hollingsworth & Co. will hold their millinery opening on next Saturday, Oct. 12, and will have a large selection of fall and winter millinery. 2t

Coldest day, 26th,	45°	43° 16th.

Cost Of Marshall Price's Trial.

The annual county statement of Caroline has appeared and the figures in the trial of Marshall Price the murderer, are interesting. For petit jurors, $55.00; bailiffs, $42.00; State witnesses, $239.00; for guards at jail, detectives, chemist, post mortem, attorneys' fees and others who were called into the case a total of $1,274.55, which makes the total cost of the case paid out by the county $1,610.65.

An Interesting Letter.

In another column will be found another interesting article from our special correspondent, this time a description of the Atlanta Exposition. Senator Gibson On the Stump.

He Explains His Course In The Senate.

AND SITS ON THE SUNPAPER

The Audience Composed Largely Of Ladies.—Denies Charges Made Against Him, Etc.

United States Senator Charles H. Gibson addressed the Hurst Democratic Association in Music Hall Tuesday night. It was his first appearance as a political speaker in Talbot county for four years, and a number turned out to hear him. In the audience were many ladies Wm. R. Martin, president of the Hurst Association presided. On the rostrum were Secretary J. Harry Covington, George E. Haddaway, M. B. Nichols, Ex-Comptroller J. Frank Turner, Samuel. N. Smith, Jr., Jos. B. Harrington, James H. Willis and Col. F. H. Johnston. Senator Gibson's stenographer from Washington was also there taking down the speech.

Mr. Gibson began by referring to his fealty to the Democratic party, declaring that he has never gone out of it and never will; that he rejoices in its doctrines, and that he has never cast a vote that has not been in line with the principles of Democracy. As to the Maryland campaign, he touched first upon its national features. He excused the presence of Senators Gray and Faulkner on the stump in the state, and went on to explain that as Maryland goes this year it is sure to go in 1896. "Do you want to send representatives to the next legislature who will elect a Republican senator? Who will do what the present incumbent has never done—vote for a force bill or a McKinley tariff?" he asked. Then Senator Gibson got down to Mr. Hurst. He declared the convention which nominated him was no boss-ridden affair, and that Mr. Hurst would be the peer of any governor the state has ever had. Then he tackled the main feature of his speech, which was the refutation of the charges that had been made against him and Senator Gorman as to their course on the tariff.

"The present law," he said, "was formulated in the Senate by as patriotic a body of Democrats as ever lived. The Wilson bill," he continued, "was not a perfected bill when it left the House. The numerous Democrats of Baltimore who will declare they will vote for Lowndes, do so," he said, "because Maryland's senators did not seek to legislate to benefit those men in their business. He ridiculed the idea that they had legislated in the interests of the sugar or any other trust, and went on to tell why it was necessary to tax iron, coal and sugar, and the benefit to labor such tax has brought. "I am not for protection which makes the poor man poorer, and the rich man richer; again, there was no time when a bill could have been passed by the Senate without a tariff on sugar. Without the tax on sugar, coal and iron, this country would be bankrupt today. We have lived up to the Chicago platform when it denounced the Sherman and the McKinley laws, and spoke for sound money and an equitable tariff."

Senator Gibson then dwelt at length on the sugar feature of the tariff, and Mr. Gorman's labor in materially reducing the tariff on sugar. This was done, he said, to meet fairly and squarely what was thought to be President Cleveland's views on the subject declaring that Mr. Cleveland had indorsed in his message to Congress the sugar schedule and the action of Maryland's senators in helping arrange it. "It was not what we should give to the sugar trust or any other trust," Mr. Gibson went on, "but what we could take from it."

Mr. Gibson was willing to stand on his record and be judged by his constituents whether or not he had been true to the confidence reposed in him.

True democracy was in favor of tariff for revenue with incidental protection, which was the opposite of republican doctrine. The sugar States had to be protected. the coal mines had to be protected, and without the protection given them by the Senate bill, no tariff legislation could have been enacted.

The speaker frequently rose to his wonted oratorical flights and received vigorous applause.

There were many of his warm republican friends in the audience who endorsed his views on the tariff, and his action as Senator.

WALKING ARSENALS.

A Heavily-Armed Colored Base-Ball Nine From Caroline Arrested In Easton.

Last Saturday morning a negro base-ball nine from Preston and Bethlehem, Caroline county, came over here to play an Easton nine, Before the time came for the game Mr. Snyder, a merchant on Market Space, complained to Constable McHale that one of the strangers had stolen a pair of shoes from him. Mr. McHale put the whole nine under arrest, and while searching them for the shoes found that six of them were walking arsenals, having on their persons, pistols, bowie knives, razors and slung shots. The shoes were also found.

In the game that followed Umpire, Justice Nicols called six "strikes" and three "outs" and imposed six months on each in the House of Correction. Sheriff Dukes and Deputy McHale carried the six players over to Jessup's Sunday night.

The same club had played in Easton before and they said that the players here had talked "sassy" to them, and this time they proposed to hold their own in any kind of argument.

The captain of the Easton nine was present at the trial and when he saw the pile of weapons his eyes grew as big as saucers and he exclaimed: "It's God's mercy dat game neber came off. Dem Caroline niggers would have wiped de yearth up with us."

County Commissioners Sued.

The suit of Mrs. Annie E. Lee vs. the county commissioners of Talbot county, removed from Easton to the Caroline county court last May, will be one of the principal cases to be tried at the present term of court, which began at Denton Monday, Mrs. Lee sues for $5,000 damages for personal injuries caused by a horse she was driving falling through a bridge on the public roads. Chas. S. Carrington and George M. Russum represent the plaintiff, and J. Frank Turner and some member of the Denton bar will defend the county's interests.

In his charge to the grand jury Judge Stump called the jury's attention to the lynching of Marshall E. Price, reminding them that it was as much their duty to investigate his death as it was the death of Sallie Dean.

Will Display Thanksgiving Day.

The Easton Fire Department has had two meetings during the past week. A committee, with President Trippe chairman, was appointed to arrange for a display on Thanksgiving Day. The Town Commissioners at their meeting on Monday decided to fix up the room in the Engine House for the accommodation of the Department. This will allow some of the plans of Chief Marshall White to materialize towards the social feature of the company, and this winter will probably be a pleasant one with the company in its headquarters. Our citizens should not fail to give the company all the support in their power.

The Darlington, Wis., Journal says editorially of a popular patent medicine: "We know from experience that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is all that is claimed for it, as on two occasions it stopped excruciating pains and possibly saved us from an untimely grave. NEW PENINSULA RAILROAD.

Work On The Line From Denton To Queenstown Rapidly Progressing.

The work on the Queen Anne's Railroad from Queenstown to Denton is fairly started and will be pushed with vigor until completed. At Queenstown ten tents are pitched on the property recently purchased, with a water front upon which a pier 500 feet long and 80 feet wide is being constucted. Two pile drivers are industriously at work driving the piling. Thus far about 30 men are employed in the work who live in the canvas tents and take their meals very much in the fashion of campmeeting boarders. The fare is excellent and each workman pays $3.50 per week for the privilege of tent life.

Twenty large horses are already on the grounds and as many scrapes for grading. There are also a number of heavy carts for hauling earth. "On Wednesday," says Contractor Merritt, "our force will be largely increased, and then we will make dirt fly until we reach Denton, which will probably be sometime in December." In conversation with Chief Engineer Isaac W. Troxell and Assistant William D. Euhler it was found out that all the right of way except in two or three cases had been granted.

The road from Queenstown to Denton which will run through one of the most fertile sections of the Eastern Shore, will be 20 miles long and will be almost a straight line. The grading through Queen Anne's county will be somewhat expensive, as the land is rolling, with several ravines to cross. In Caroline county the grading will be comparatively inexpensive, as the section through which it passes is almost level. The engineers will begin the survey from Denton to Lewes next week, and the work of the whole line is expected by the officials to be completed June 1st.

Denton is the only county seat in the Peninsula without a railroad, and so many enterprises which promised railroad facilities for the town have failed that the people viewed the present project at first with suspicion and doubt. But now everyone thinks the road will come and that in one year Denton will have a new court house and a railroad, both of which two years ago were not dreamed of. Almost every business man concedes that the proposed railroad will be a paying investment to the stockholders and will be a healthy feeder toward the development of the business interests of Baltimore.

Juries of condemnation will sit on Monday the 14th inst., on the farm of Hiram G. Dudley at Queenstown, the farm of Mrs. Orilla Holland adjoining it and the farm of Misses Martha T. and Ellen E. Willson adjoining the latter, on the same day to condemn the right of way for this great public improvement, and on Thursday, the 17th inst. on the Dr. J. C. Earle land. All other property holders have agreed with the railroad company—as a general rule conceding the right of way in view of the great benefits to result therefrom and to the public generally and to individuals in particular.

Won't Sell His Canoe.

It is reported that Mr. E. L. Woodside, of Baltimore, owner of the canoes Island Bride and Island Belle, has offered Mr. John B. Harrison, of Tilghman's Island, $600 for his canoe of that name, which has been the winner in all the canoe regattas this year, and that Mr. Harrison has refused Mr. Woodside's offer.

The name of Mr. Wm. H. Myers's new Oxford canoe, which made her trial trip in the Oxford bi-centennial regatta September 25th and came in a good second, is not Oxford, as reported in the newspaper accounts of that day, but Island Blossom. This craft is a very promising one and much will be expected from her next season.

Harvest Home Service At Trinity Cathedral.

PASTORS PRAYED FOR RAIN

The Epworth League To Inaugurate A Series Of Entertainments Tuesday Evening.

The Very Rev George C. Sutton, dean of Trinity Cathedral, Easton, celebrated the Harvest Home festival at his church Sunday morning with a beautiful and impressive service. The music was rendered by the regular vested Cathedral choir of surpliced boys and young men, assisted by Prof. Harry Harms, of Baltimore, on the cornet and Wm. Hull of Easton, on the trombone. Miss Josephine Dawson was the organist. The Te Deum was No. 332, S. B., and the benediction No. 103 S. B, The introductory was "Sing unto God," E. A. Clare, in which Harry Soulsby sang the solo part. Cruikshank's communion service was read. The text of Dr. Sutton's discourse was "Give us this day our daily bread." The altar was beautifully decorated and offering of the fruits of the earth distributed about the chancel. The service drew a very large congregation.

The Epworth League of the M. E. Church has decided upon a course of monthly entertainments to be given during the fall and winter months, the first of which will be given next Tuesday evening. Rev. L. E. Barrett, a former resident of Easton, and now presiding elder of the Wilmington District of the Wilmington M. E. Conference, will be present and deliver one of his noted lectures in the auditorium of the church, after which the congregation will be invited below to partake of refreshments. The League desires to extend a cordial invitation to everyone to attend. Do not stay away, but come and be welcomed. No charge "The opening door of the 20th century" will be the subject of the lecture.

His straight forward policy and earnest and open attacks on indifference among the professors of Christianity, and the war he wages against the rum traffic, backed by a consistent course and holy living make him friends wherever he goes. His opponents admire him and his friends love him.—Wilmington Conference Herald.

Sabbath services are now held in the Baptist Mission at 10.30 a. m. instead of 3.30 p. m. Meetings for prayer and experience are held Wednesday nights. The text for tomorrow morning is "Buy the Truth and Sell it Not."

There will be no services at SS. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church tomorrow, owing to the pastor's absence, on his monthly mission in Dorchester county.

Prayed For Rain On Sunday.

Some of the farmers who were fortunate enough to utilize the last rains by getting fallow lands in order for wheat are now seeding, notwithstanding the extreme drought. Others are still waiting for rain, fearing that if they put wheat in the ground now the grains will perish. Prayers for rain were said in all the churches Sunday.

ABOUT THE OYSTERS.

The Reason They Do Not Fatten In Dry Weather.—A Theory.

An intelligent and observant Claiborne oyster packer gives these as the reasons, in the Baltimore Sun, why the oysters are so poor at this time:

"First, the excessive droughts of the summer and fall, and second, the singular fact that this year, particularly since the beginning of summer, the Chesapeake tides have been extremely moderate, not more than eighteen inches between high and low water any time at the maximum. As the oyster is stationary and cannot go in pursuit of its food, the food must be brought to the oyster. Heavy rains sweeping down from the uplands over the oyster bottoms, bring food, so does the agitations of the waters by rains, wind-storms and currents. In our waters the tides produce the currents and it can be easily seen that when the tides rise and fall three feet a much stronger current is produced than when only eighteen inches. Two or three heavy rains, some violent wind-storms stirring up the water from surface to bottom and a succession of strong tides would soon fatten the oysters. Were the oysters fat there would be enough in our waters for the season's demand. In their present condition if it remains so, there will not be. When a packer gets an order now for 100 gallons of oysters, it will take him 175 bushels to fill it, whereas if they were in a prime condition 100 bushels would do it.

Answer To Egg Problem.

MR. EDITOR.—The question propounded last week by "Reader" is answered as follows: Find the Least Common Multiple of the numbers 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 which is 60. This must divide the number required with one as a remainder.

The number 7 must divide the number required without a remainder. The multiples of 60 (the L. C. M.) are 60, 120, 180, 240, 300, etc. These whichever they are that meet the conditions must divide by 7, with 1 added to them, i. e., 61, 121, 181 &c.

None in such series will so divide 'till we come to 301. This is partly done therefore by inspection. By examination we find that every number in a series beyond 301, adding 420 or multiples of it, also meets the conditions i. e., 721, 1141, 1561, 1981, 2401, &c. J. M. L.

We reprint the question for those who may not have seen it. EDITOR.

A man has a lot of eggs for market which if divided into parcels of 2, 3, 4, 5 or 6 each will leave one remaining. If divided by 7 there will be none remaining. Wanted, the number of eggs divided by the various figures producing the same results. Also a series of numbers of which the above is equally true. Give arithmetical method used.

Worthy Your Confidence.

The success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in conquering scrofula in whatever way it may manifest itself is vouched for by thousands who were severely afflicted by this prevalent disease, but who now rejoice over a permanent cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Scrofula may appear as a humor, or it may attack the glands of the neck, or break out in dreadful running sores on the body or limbs. Attacking the mucous membrane it may develop into catarrh, or lodging in the lungs lead to consumption. Come as it may a faithful course of treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome it, for working upon the foundation of all diseases, impure blood, the system is clarified and vitalized, and vigor, strength and health restored to the body.

Mr. Henry Holmes' Will.

Henry Holmes, the wealthy citizen of Bethlehem, Caroline county, who died a few days ago, was buried in Spring Hill Cemetery, Easton. Several years ago Mr. Holmes bought a large lot in Spring Hill, had it handsomely inclosed, and the finest monument there in the cemetery erected on it. Mr. Holmes' will leaves all his large estate to his wife during her lifetime; at her death a portion of it goes to the Barrows, his grandchildren, and a larger portion to Norman Taylor, a grandson. Should the Barrows die without issue their interest goes to Mrs. T. Dawson Larrimore, and should Taylor die without issue his share is to be divided between Mrs. Larrimore and the Burnites, grandchildren.

The "Little Folks," have not been forgotten at the "Millinery Reception" of Annie E. Rathell & Co. Limt'd., Today, for they have selected choice styles in Tam O' Shanters, Silk Bonnets and Caps for them.

THE ATLANTA EXPOSITION FAIRLY SHOWN.

Grand Beyond The Conception of Its Beginning, And Exceeds The Thought of All Visitors.

Special Cor. for GAZETTE.

Atlanta, the capital of Georgia, has been named the "Gate City" because it is where the great railways of the Southern States converge and diverge. The name is most appropriate now in connection with the resplendent Exposition, displaying national and international industries, for today Atlanta is the "gateway" to which the great American thought is directed; Atlanta gives entrance and exit to the thousands and ten-thousands that have done and will in the next three months "do" the great fair that has converted Piedmont Park into one of the finest fair grounds ever known.

The first incorporation gave it the conservative and modest name of "The Cotton States Exposition." Then the conceptions of the incorporators began to widen as the possibilities grew on them, and they supplemented the original purpose by making it "International," and sending out invitations to all the South American States, and the transcontinental world to make exhibits.

As I sit in the editorial room of the "Official Daily Exposition Programme" on the grounds tonight and look out upon the glare of the electric lights that like coronets bejewel the imposing buildings which encircle the hillsides, and as I watch the brilliant searchlights on top of Machinery Hall that throw their ever-changing glare hither and yon over the grounds, I can fancy to some degree what may be the pardonable pride of the originators and executors of this really wonderful fair. Indeed, I believe it has really widened out into a reality not dreamed of at the beginning.

It is not an exhibit of the industries of the "Cotton States" alone; but the countries of Europe and Asia, of South America and the islands of the sea, are bringing their manufactures, displaying their inventions, presenting their skill in the fine arts for commendation or criticism, and the commerce of the world is here sampled in textures, jewelry, cutlery, etc., showing the varied conceptions of brains as influenced in part by national life and social environments.

And this last of the Expositions, not to be outdone by Chicago, or the Mid-Winter Fair at San Francisco, has a Midway, galore, with all its blaze and blare, the howling of spielers and the beating of drums, blowing of horns and pounding of tom-toms. Here are the "Streets of Cairo" with camels and asses with Turks and their lasses, with tinsel and glamour, with uproar and clamor. Here are Indians painted and tatued and feathered, showing their war dances and scalping. Here are Chinese by scores and Japs in equal numbering. Here is the noisy Mexican village, without however, the disgraceful bull-fighting, which has been forbidden by the directors. Here is a colony of natives from Dahomey, whose decolette costumes outrival the uncoverdness of the fairest beauty at the charity ball, and who ought these cool nights to feel chilly down to the waists and well up above the knees. Here are the Shoot the Chutes, the Scenic Railway, the big Phoenix wheel, the California mining camp, Pain's brilliant pyrotechnics, and other varied sights.

In writing a detailed series of letters, picking up threads, as it were, and weaving a continued fabric of the Exposition, it will be best for me to take one objective point, and from that carry the readers of my series of letters, by pen portriatures, through the several special Exposition buildings; then take up the State buildings, and later on gather up the scattering threads.

If I may then act as guide, let us enter the grounds at the main entrance, through a turnstile that numbers each person as he goes in. On each side are the wings of the Administration Building, containing the several rooms of the officers and their clerical assistants. The structure is an imitation of the old baronial castle, with the corner towers suggestive of the Tower of London. We turn to the right and walk southward, after first taking in from this elevated point a sweep of the whole grounds. The first impression is one of surprise, and has been so admitted by the governors of New York, New Jersey and other States, who have already visited the Fair.

The Agricultural Building is the first in our path. The general style of the structure is Romanesque. Entering at the north end, on our right we come to the conspicuous exhibit of Louisiana's agricultural products, and other evidences of the growing wealth of the State, especially the commercial and manufacturing enrichment of the great southern metropolis of New Orleans. Whether by accident or intention it serves the purpose well to have the Louisiana exhibits so placed, for this State is the diverging angle of the several Cotton States, and there could be no better point at which to begin my descriptive letters.

The varied agricultural products of Louisiana today, as compared with what was cultivated on its rich alluvian plantations before the war, are of themselves the proof of change in character of population, and that the old plantations have been converted into farm lands. This is due largely to the fact that the Southern Pacific Railroad has been offering special inducements for settlers, and it is said that about ten thousand residents have come from the North and West and North-west and bought these lands that before grew only rice, cotton and sugar-cane, and have suborned nature to give them two and three vegetable crops from the same field in a single season. The same railroad that induced this migration has given all these settlers from the Sabine river across the State to the Mississippi at New Orleans, the best facilities for transportation and trans-shipment. The evidences of these results are shown most distinctly and distinctively in the agricultural exhibits which are placed in this corner.

And here it may be well to drop the thread of my letter as of sufficient length. and reserve the specific and statistical detail of the general products and commercial wealth of Louisiana and its chief city of New Orleans for my next letter.

PIEDMONT.

Kind Words For Easton.

A Kent county lady expresses her opinion of the three days Temperance convention in the Chestertown Transcript in these words. "It was a charming success in every particular, and all who attended are loud in its praises, not only of their organization, but of the crowning hospitality of the citizens of Easton. No trouble or sacrifice stood in the way of an ever-ready consideration for the pleasure of their guests."

Sick Headache.

"I regard your pills as a godsend to me. . . . I could not make a business engagement without the proviso, "unless I have sick headache." Now my health is excellent, and all from the use of Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills." So writes Hon. W. H. Beveridge, one of Richmond, Va.'s, prominent lawyers.

Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills.

Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills are a sure cure for sick headache and indigestion. Why not try them? At druggists', 25c. and 50c.

The Library Literary Society

An Attractive Meeting On Thursday Afternoon.

RICH PROGRAM RENDERED.

Dr. Avery Reads A Paper On Tennyson's "May Queen." Numerous Other Papers Read.

Mrs. Betts presided at the Library Literary on Thursday afternoon last. The hour had been changed from the evening to 4 o'clock in the afternoon and, as a consequence, there were fewer in attendance. However, those present were handsomely rewarded as their intense interest and delight in the exercises testified.

Dr. Avery opened the program with his charming lecture on Tennyson's May Queen. This was one of his master pieces and glowed with fervor and beauty. He pictured the life of the charming maiden, her ambitions, her impulses, her awakening to a relization of the true end of existance. He beautifully showed how the poet had struck the chord of inspiration and made that young life plainly see that the invisible world was far more realistic than the tangible one. The lecture closed with appropriate comparisons of encouragement in general for the young people.

Miss Eugie Cooke dramatically and gracefully recited McClain's Child.

Mr. Owen Norris read from Mark Twain's Innocence abroad to the delight of all, while Mrs. Haddaway read a paper on Yes'm and Yes'r ably showing the changes of language and how it becomes an historical monument pointing to the rise, progress and alliances of nations. This paper would grace any modern magazine.

The program for next Thursday will be announced later.

SHOT A MAN DEAD.

Dr. Carroll Kills a Man Near Queenstown.—Lodged In Jail.

Dr. W. K. Carroll, a wealthy physician living near Queenstown, shot a colored man dead at about 9 o'clock on Monday night. So far as can be learned the man had become objectionable, and was put out of Dr. Carroll's kitchen. The man then tried to force an entrance into the main part of the residence. The physician ordered him to leave, threatening to shoot. In the meantime the cook came in and removed the pistol to keep her employer from shooting. He then secured a Winchester rifle and the man continued to try to force the door, after giving warning, Dr. Carroll fired from the inside of the house, and the man fell dead, the ball having passed in one temple and out the other. A man was at once dispatched to Queenstown, the officers informed of what had occurred, and on Wednesday morning the physician was placed under arrest.

Dr. Carroll owns a handsome estate near Queenstown, is wealthy and a prominent citizen. It is claimed that the shooting was in self defense. After hearing the testimony the jury rendered a verdict of felonious killing and Justice Aker committed Dr. Carroll to jail without bail until the November term of court.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

For The Cotton States And International Exposition, Atlanta, Ga.

The Southern Railway operates nearly five thousand miles of road in eight of the Southern States and its lines enter Atlanta Ga., from five different points of the compass. Washington D. C., is the Northern or Eastern terminus of one of its lines, which is operated in connection with the Pennsylvania Railroad "the standard railroad of America," between New York through Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, D. C., Lynchburg and Danville, Va., Greensboro and Charlotte N. C., Spartanburg and Greenville. S. C., Atlanta, Ga., Montgomery and Mobile, Ala., and New Orleans, with connection at Salisbury for Asheville, Hot Springs; Knoxville and Chattanooga, at Charlotte for Columbia, Augusta, Savannah and Jacksonville, and at Atlanta for Birmingham, Memphis, Macon and Southern Georgia. Solid vestibuled limited trains, with through day coaches, Pullman Drawing-room Sleepers and Dining-cars. Time between Washington and Atlanta, eighteen hours, without change of cars of any class.

The Southern Railway is the only line which enters and lands passengers in the Exposition Grounds, and no effort or expense has been spared by the management in the improvement of its roadbed, increasing the number of its coaches and inaugurating its own dining car service preparatory to handling expeditiously and comfortably the heavy travel to and from Atlanta during the Cotton States and International Exposition, which opens September 18 and closes December 31, 1895.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays, from September 17 to December 24, inclusive, excursion tickets will be sold from Washington, D. C., to Atlanta, Ga., at $14, good for return 10 days from date of sale.

Excursion tickets will be sold every day from September 16 until December 15, inclusive, from Washington at $19.25, good for return 20 days from date of sale, and excursion tickets for the entire Exposition season with final limit of January 7th, 1896, will be sold from September 16 until December 15, inclusive, $26.25.

Didn't Call Here

Some homely philosopher has remarked that "all the good things of life seem to be on the other side of a barbed wire fence," meaning that the price was bigger than the pocketbook.

That philosopher ought to come to our Establishment. He won't find any barbed wire fence in the way there.

We are in the business to make money. It is our desire to put prices as near cost as any merchant can. We want every buyer to be pleased. It is a part of our policy to please patrons so well that we can almost count on their trade with certainty.

IT'S GOING TO BE COLD

This winter. All weather prophets agree on that point. So the wise woman will begin to look around for

CAPES, CLOAKS and WRAPS,

The right time to buy such things is before you need them. This gives plenty of time to compare prices and qualities, and plenty of time to think the matter over and make up your mind. Being sure before buying is a good deal better than buying first and finding out afterwards. To simply say our new lines of the latest are pretty is not doing them justice. They are more than pretty—dainty and sensible novelties that combine style and wear and satisfaction. Prices the lowest.

TOUGH CLOTHES FOR BOYS

to wear to school this winter. Strong Clothes to stand the wear and tear of sleigh riding and snowballing and out-of-doors fun in cold weather. Clothes with the seams well sewed and the buttons tightly fastened on. We have just such things for the youngsters. Besides being full of wear, they are neat and shapely. Six to seven dollars will buy a suit.

IT'S A LONG REACH.

The way to make money reach a long way is to invest it right. The first cost is the point where a short-sighted man stumbles on the road to economy. He thinks it extravagant to pay $12 for a suit of our clothes when $10 might buy one elsewhere. He forgets that $10 suits won't last very long or look very well. Price and quality ought always to be considered together. Price alone means nothing.

Dry Goods, Trimmings, Shoes, Carpets, Gent's Furnishings,
