OBSERVER PAYS HIS RESPECTS TO EDITOR HIGHLEY AGAIN.

The showing which the preacher politician the Rev. B. S. Highley makes in his paper, the Talbot Times of last Wednesday week, in reply to my faithful delineation of his political course is that of a moral and intellectual weakling. The real purpose of my strictures was not to gratify the love of controversy, so much as to administer such wholesome and much needed chastisement as would prove beneficial to him and a few of his associates. Though painfully aware of his need of a guardian, I do not aspire to a task so manifestly arduous as the training of such a ward. In addition to the pen picture previously made there remains a shadowy back ground which should be brought prominently to his notice. Abroad in his community is a rumor charging him with being a party to the use of money during the last primary to corrupt voters, and a further rumor that at a previous election on the day of election he negotiated a loan knowing it was to be used in the vile work of making cattle of some of his more ignorant fellow citizens. If the Rev. Highley was not directly or indirectly a party to the procurement or use of money for such disreputable purposes, he owes it to himself and the righteous elements of his community as well as to his associates in the alliance that he clear himself of the suspicion of approving of such accursed political practices. Too well known is it, and that to our shame, that for years the Democratic party has secured a majority in this county by the most debasing use of money. Now many in the alliance have concluded that he who gives countenance to these methods is a criminal and in no sense can he prove a trustworthy servant of the people, and we propose calmly and manfully to emphasize these opinions at the polls. Let the Rev. Highley for the sake of the church he represents, the alliance with which he is associated and the Democratic party in which he aspires to be a leader disentangle himself and pursue a course of intelligent decision and high moral connection.

St. Michaels Items.—From our regular correspondent.—Samuel Marshall and family, of Easton, spent this week in St. M.

George H. Kirby and wife, of Balto., are enjoying themselves in our pretty town.

John Valliant, our hardware man, says that two attempts have been made to break into his house and that the third attempt may be a lucky one for the undertaker—not the man that undertakes to break in, but the man that makes boxes to put dead people in.

Rev. Dr. Morris left here last Wednesday for Brandywine Summit camp, Wilmington, where he will deliver an address to Epworth League. He will fill his pulpit tomorrow as usual. Go hear him.

Peaches are plentiful and cheap. Capt. Tyler is canning this kind of fruit at his house on Tyler's wharf.

The weekly Argus makes its appearence every week on time, and is appreciated by the people at large. I see on the bulletin board of said paper several pictures of prominent democrats which causes one to fear that the editor of that paper has not been brought up in the way he should go.

Let every republican paste in his hat that one week from to-day is primary election, and not to forget to look at it the right time. Go to the polls, vote for the man you want to represent you and when they have made the ticket vote it straight. You can do this safely for you will be voting for a good man, certain.

Our town is filled with persons from the city who have come to Eden for rest and pleasure. This is the place to come. I would like to state at this moment that we have no mosquitoes, no malaria, in fact nothing that is unpleasant.

It is rumored that there will be a paper or petition circulated among the business men of this section, asking that a steamboat be put on this route. Depending on the railroad for freight is a bad thing. Sometimes two days will go by without bringing any freight to this place.

Farmers in this part of the union are greatly disheartened on account of so much rainy weather, particularly those who have not been able to thrash their wheat. Wheat standing in shocks looks green with the wheat growing or sprouting and a lawn mower would be at home.

John Barnes, Esq., will rent Long Hall farm for 1892.

J. H. Covey and family are at Atlantic City.

I have a letter before me that has come all the way from Michigan—some questions are in it that I will pass over to you, Mr. Ed.—they are too hard for me—in fact seem too hard for anyone around here to answer—but the question: "Have you no republicans in Talbot that are intelligent enough to be jurymen? If so, why is it that out of forty-eight jurymen there is only one republican—out of eight in St. Michaels district there are seven democrats and one prohibitionist. Is it for election purposes, eh?" Now, Mr. Editor, I leave it all in your hands—tell this gentleman from the far west how things are run in old Talbot under democratic administration. Oh, by the way this reminds me—some of the Easton papers say that there are only four hundred white republicans in the county—they tell a li-kely yarn—for the benefit of the world at large I will state the exact number by actual count of noses how many white republicans we have in the county—eleven hundred and seventy three—that is not counting the hundreds of democrats who swear by all that is holy and good they will vote the republican ticket this fall. Balto. and Philadelphia papers please copy.

Josiah Fairbank, whom I mentioned last week as being very sick does not improve as fast as his friends hoped and wished.

A Liberal Proposition.—Who has not heard of that paragon of family papers, the enterprising and popular WEEKLY DETROIT FREE PRESS? For a generation its name has been a household word, and it has become a synonym for all that is excellent, pure and elevating in journalism. It is delightfully entertaining without resort to cheap sensationalism, instructive without being prosy or pedantic. Combining the literary qualities of the expensive magazine with the bright, breezy characteristics of the newspaper, it leaves nothing to be desired by the averace reader. It is looked upon as a welcome visitor by every family who reads it, while thousands regard it as indispensable and would on no account go without it. An enormous circulation of 125,000 copies per week attests its wonderful popularity. Recognizing the fact that there are those who are unfamiliar with its surpassing merits as a home paper, the publishers offer to send THE FREE PRESS to them for the balance of this year (over five months) for only 30 cents—a club of FOUR for $1.00 or a club of TEN for $2.00. All our readers should subscribe at once. Send for free sample copy.

—We will send you THE GAZETTE and THE DETROIT WEEKLY FREE PRESS for the rest of the year 1891, for 50 cents. Send your subscriptions to this office. tf

Among the heaviest shippers of peaches by the Wheeler line are Messrs. W. T. Simpson, George M. Jenkins, Wm. Collins and J. Lowery Martin.

Mrs. Kibbler and two sons are visiting the the family of S. A. Simpson.

Bambury M. P. Church bought a large Miller organ, and on Sunday morning Revs. Fooks and Mullineaux made addresses relative to paying for it. The amount of money collected was more than needed.

Your correspondent still insists that, while it may be convenient to have very early fruit, though small, for immediate use, yet it is a waste of time and ground to raise such a vast kind to send to the city market. When growers spend 25 cents for expenses, (box, freight, commission) and receive 25 cents a box for fruit, the less of that kind the better. The large fruit mentioned last week in Washington county, is not the earliest in market but reasonable so, of good quality and condition, and profitable when mature. Fruit growers on the Eestern Shore who know my friends J. MitchellStover and Wm. D. Hughes, will bear me out in saying that their fruit is always in demand owing to size and quality.

There is much of excellence and beauty in Chapel that this writer has not yet seen. Now if my fellow contributor there will just for once in the kindness of his heart, send me a sample of the good peaches there grown, I shall then keep quiet and lift my hat in surprise.

Talbot's Almshouse.—During the last two weeks in July, Mr. G. S. Griffith, president, and Rev. Louis F. Zinkhan, the general agent of the Maryland Prisoners' Aid Association, visited the jails and almshouses in the nine counties on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. They spent some time in each of these institutions, looking carefully into their condition and management. In a number of them where spiritual ministrations are unusual, they gathered the inmates together and held short, impressive devotional services, which seemed to be much appreciated by many, and in each institution they also distributed a number of select books, papers and tracts. They speak encouragingly of the Eastern Shore, and stated that in the matter of caring for the prisoners and paupers there was progress being made from year to year. With the more rigid enforcement of the Local Option law within the past year, there is also a perceptible improvement in the moral status of these counties. A number of the counties have been aroused from their lethargy in the matter of caring more tenderly for their paupers, and hence, substantial improvements are in progress in several counties, and in prospect in several others.

They make a special report of the almshouse and jail in each of the counties visited, which is published in full in last Monday's Baltimore American. Of our county the report says:

Talbot county is likewise forging ahead. Several years ago the great bane in Easton and vicinity was the number of social clubs, which, in violation of law, were disbursing liquor and enticing many young men into debauchery. These clubs have been rooted out mainly by the untiring energy of Christian women, and the good results are strikingly apparent in the decrease of rowdyism, and the number of arrests. We found only one prisoner in jail, charged with using obscene language. The Talbot county jail is remarkably well kept, and in point of cleanliness probably surpasses all the others.

The poor of the county have reason to rejoice, for while they are subjected to some inconvenience at present on account of the thorough overhauling of the old almshouse, they will be properly cared for a month hence. The county is at present expending over $3000 in reconstructing the old building used for so many years as an almshouse, and also has two new wings under root and approaching completion. The smaller wing will be for the use of the matron, and the larger one will accommodate the colored inmates. A few departments are also being provided for harmless insane persons, and several of this class belonging to Talbot county will soon be transferred thither from Spring Grove Asylum.

The following figures give the number of inmates in the nine county jails and almshouses.

Counties.	Jails.	Almshouses.
Kent,	4	28
Queen Anne's,	5	27
Talbot,	1	19
Caroline,	2	16
Dorchester,	9	21
Somerset,	8	9
Wicomico,	4	8
Worcester,	3	28
Cecil,	16	41
Total,	52	196

Of the 52 inmates in the jails, 15 are white and 37 colored. Of the whites, 13 are men and 2 women. Of the colored, 33 are men, 3 women and 1 boy. Of the 196 inmates in the nine almshouses, 113 are white and 83 colored. Of the whites, 55 are men and 56 are women and 2 children. Of the colored, 44 are men, 32 are women and 7 children.

A Real Balsam is Kemp's Balsam.

Prohibition Party Platform.

The Prohibition Party of Maryland, in convention assembled, recognizing Almighty God as the true source of all power in government and reaffirming its allegiance to the National Prohibition Party, submits to the citizens of Maryland, the following declaration of its purposes:

1. That the manufacture, importation, exportation, transportation and sale of alcoholic beverages, is a public nuisance, a producer of crime, poverty and political corruption, and should therefore be prohibited by appropriate National and State Legislation, thoroughly enforced by officials in harmony with such laws.

2. That tax and license legislation by legalizing the traffic in alcoholic beverages only intensify its evil results and augment the difficulties of its overthrow, and should therefore be opposed by all good citizens who acknowledge it to be hurtful to good government.

3. That the increasing extreme poverty, the accumulation of the Nation's wealth in the hands of the few, the oppression of the poor, the grinding down of wages and the depression of agricultural and industrial interests have become matters of great moral and political importance. These evils are mainly the result of the liquor traffic, special or class legislation, unjust taxation, despotic combinations, dishonest speculation and unrestricted immigration. We pledge ourselves to remedy these evils through legislation that will secure to every citizen, rich or poor, equal rights and equal opportunities.

4. That all unearned grants of land to railroad companies or other corporations should be reclaimed, and no further portion of the National domain should be thus granted.

5. That tariff should be levied as a revenue measure, and only to an amount sufficient to provide for the expenses of the Government economically administered; and when so levied should be applied as far as possible to imports from such countries as levy tariff upon or prohibit exports from this country.

6. That we favor a graduated and equitably arranged income tax for the collection of both State and National revenue, as being the best method, by which each citizen can bear his proper proportion of the expenses of Government.

7. That the circulating medium of the country may rightly consist of gold, silver, paper. It should all be of full legal tender, and sufficient in quantity to meet the demands of business and give full opportunity for the employment of labor.

8. That the portion of the Internal Revenue system of the Government which collects a tax on intoxicating liquors, and thereby makes the Government a partner in the business, should be abolished.

9. That we condemn the action of the State Department of the Government in its efforts to extend the liquor products of this country into foreign countries, and the United States Senate for its failure to ratify the Brussels treaty relating to the importation of intoxicating liquors into the Congo free State.

10. That unrestricted immigration is one of the conspicuous perils of the day. We demand the strict enforcement of existing laws, and while welcoming all immigrants of good character, who come to us with the purpose of becoming law-abiding industrious American Citizens, we favor the enactment of such additional legislation as shall exclude from our shores all diseased, criminal and pauper classes.

11. We also favor the extension of the required time of residence for naturalization, and that no naturalized person should vote within one year after naturalization papers are issued, to the end that all citizens of foreign birth, before acquiring or exercising the rights of full citizenship, shall have an intelligent apprehension of our system of government and its institutions.

12. That we extend our sympathy to the Agricultural interests of the State and country in their struggle for relief from the results of legislation enacted under Democratic and Republican administration, and claim that in order to realize and make that relief in any wise practical or permanent, it is their first duty to destroy the legalized liquor traffic of the country which is the conceded source of "fully one-half of all the State, County and Municipal taxation." That until this is done the unequal, unjust and discriminating conditions under which the farming interests are now languishing and perishing, will continue, and the startling fact remain that the farmer, while owning only about one-fourth of the wealth of the country, pays nearly three-fourths of its taxes.

13. That Municipal Governments, the public school system and the oyster industry should be speedily and absolutely removed from partisan politics.

14. That all men should be protected by law in their right to one day of rest in seven.

15. That all official fees should be covered into the public treasury and officials be paid reasonable salaries.

16. That the right of suffrage rests on no mere circumstance of race, color, sex or nationality, and where from any cause, it has been withheld from citizens of suitable age, and mentally and morally qualified for the exercise of an intelligent ballot, it should be restored by the people through the legislatures of the several States, on such educational basis as they may deem wise.

17. That we heartily endorse the Australian system of voting as a helpful measure towards protecting the weak and venal voter from the direct influence of the professional corruptionist, and insist that its provisions be applied to the whole State, including all primary meetings.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD'S

Double Lines to Atlantic City.

The Pennsylvania Railroad's twin lines to Atlantic City—the West Jersey and Camden and Atlantic Railroads—now operated as a double-track line, and famed far and wide as the Pennsylvania's Double Lines to the Sea, have long been known as the old and reliable route to Atlantic City. The Camden and Atlantic Railroad was the pioneer, and for a long time the only route, to what has now become one of the most popular and attractive seaside cities of the world. Many Philadelphians well remember how in the earlier years of the first railroad they traveled slowly and in inferior cars to Atlantic City, when one or two trains a day more than sufficed to accommodate the entire volume of traffic, and many of them may also recall the ill-success of the railroad venture, which was so pronounced, that at a meeting of the directors the proposition to take up the rails and sell them for scrap iron was gravely discussed. Wiser counsel prevailed, however, and from this humble origin sprung what is to-day the most complete and best-appointed system of railway leading to any seaside resort in this country.

The West Jersey and Atlantic from Newfield to Atlantic City was built and inaugurated with conspicuous success under Pennsylvania management, the Camden and Atlantic was acquired, and the two lines consolidated into the Pennsylvania's Double Lines to the Sea. These lines are now operated with that skill and vigor for which the Pennsylvania Railroad is celebrated. The roadway of each line is in excellent condition. Laid with steel rails, stone ballasted, fitted with that greatest of time-savers—the track tank—protected by the block-signal system, its physical condition can only be compared to those blue-ribbon sections of the main line track that attract the admiration of the chance traveler and provoke the instituted praise of the railway expert.

For the complete equipment of this splendid road-bed the great resources of the Pennsylvania System are freely drawn upon. The choicest passenger coaches, parlor cars constructed expressly for this service, and stalwart hard-coal burning locomotives, designated as the Pennsylvania Standard, are provided. The speed of such trains on such a road-bed is whatever the management chooses to make it, but in the exercise of a wise and conservative judgment the maximum of seventy-five minutes for the run from city to sea has been adopted. This is as fast as the fastest trains in regular service in this country or abroad, and is quick enough to meet the wishes of the average traveler. These trains speed down to the sea over one track and up on the other, with no obstruction, but with a clear clean sweep of track always ahead. Safety is the prime essence of this plan, and comfort is assured by reason of substantial equipment, a clean well ballasted, firmly established road-bed without dust, and locomotives without cinders. These characteristics, briefly outlined, form the basis of the wide and well earned popularity of this the first-class route to Atlantic City.

The high favor in which this route is held is by no means local, but extends to all sections of the land where the influence of the Pennsylvania Railroad is felt. A large number of trains from the south, east, west, northwest and southwest deliver their passengers in Philadelphia at varying hours each day and all of them may find a convenient connection at the foot of Market street (the central seashore station of Philadelphia) for prompt conveyance to Philadelphia's great seaside suburb. By the provisions of these unsurpassed facilities of travel, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has not only developed in greater measure than any other agency this city by the sea, but has nationalized it.

Blood Poison

Is very liable to follow contact of the hands or face with what is known as poison ivy, especially in hot weather or if the body is perspiring freely. The trouble may subside for a time, only to appear in aggravated form when opportunity offers. The great purifying powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla throughly eradicate every trace of poison from the blood, as the cures it has accomplished conclusively show. It also cures scrofula, salt rheum and all other affections arising from impure or poisoned blood.
