REPUBLICAN TICKET

FOR GOVERNOR:

COL. WM. J. VANNORT, of Kent County.

FOR COMPTROLLER:

CAPT. JOHN McDONALD, of Montgomery.

FOR ATTORNEY-GENERAL:

GEORGE M. SHARP, of Baltimore.

For Clerk of Court of Appeals:

ENOCH B. ABELL,
of St. Mary's County.

WE place at the head of our columns to-day the Republican State Ticket made on Thursday last at Ocean City. The convention was called to order about one o'clock and Hon. Louis E. McComas made chairman. The committees on permanent organization and resolutions were speedily formed and a recess until 3 o'clock was taken. At the reassembling of the convention, Mr. McComas called for order and stated the importance of the duties resting upon the delegates. His speech touched the vital points in State and National politics and met with ringing applause and cheers. He masterly discussed the able, pure and clean administration of Benj. Harrison, the brilliant statesmanship of the Secty. of State in having placed this country far ahead of the high-water mark ever before attained among nations, the protection to American labor, which was guaranteed under the Republican flag, and notwithstanding the enormous increase in the circulating medium of sixty-millions of dollars a week, yet the world over American money was worth one hundred cents on the dollar every day in the year.

Mr. G. L. Wellington, of Alleghaney, in a well directed and eloquent address presented the name of Harry M. Clabaugh, of Carroll county, for Gubernatorial honors. The speech was rhetorical and terse and touched tenderly the responsive feelings of the delegates who felt in honor bound to stand by another. Mr. Baker, of Kent, presented the name of Col. Wm. J. Vannort, of Kent county, for Governor. The speeches which followed were all brilliant and orderly, and seconded either the one or the other of the candidates. When a motion was carried to close the nominations, Mr. McComas vacated the chair and called Dr. W. G. Tuck, of Anne Arundel to temporarily take the seat. Mr. McComas then in obedience to instructions from Mr. Clabaugh withdrew the name of that gallant young republican who drew from the convention so much enthusiasm and whom they so highly respected. At this juncture, upon a motion by one of the Vannort delegates—three rousing cheers were given to Mr. Clabaugh, and Col. Vannort was nominated Governor by acclamation.

The subsequent business of the convention was less enthusiastic, but no less interesting and after the usual complimentary speeches and proposals of candidates, the convention made the other nominations with harmony and good feeling, and adjourned about 6 P. M.

IN the good old free trade days the farmer's wife took five dozen eggs to town and got a pound of brown sugar. Now she takes one dozen and gets two pounds of white sugar.

ONE man earning good wages in an industry in this country is worth half a dozen in the same industry in Europe as costumers for the Western farmers. Do not forget it.

NOT many things in the earth, the water and the air are out of the reach of photography. A flash of lightning has frequently been photographed.—Not long ago a scientist with a camera and an electric battery got a good picture of the bottom of the Mediterranian Sea.

WHETHER the political character of Chairman Quay was justly assailed or not, it was under a cloud, and republicans demanded his resignation, and obtained it. Worse clouds are upon Chairman Brice, but he is a democrat, and does not have to maintain a good character or resign either.

THERE is a good deal of unnecessary howling about "the depreciation of farm lands." Try to buy a good farm and you will find it has value.—There is more certainty in the value of farm lands to-day than in the values of any canal, bridge or railroad property, and as a rule they pay better dividends.

WE have been interested in reading the accounts given by various editors of the Peninsula Pree Association, on their recent trip; and while we have not seen every paper containing the articles, it is to the Sussex Journal, J. B. Clark, editor, that we accord the honor of having, in our judgment, the finest written and most feelingly expressed letters.

IF the report of the Kara horror in Siberia be true, then is Russia entitled to the contempt of every civilized nation of the earth. The horror of a government authorizing a prison official to lash the bare back of a refined woman until she faints with pain, and finally dies of the shock, is so great that the wide, wide world should howl with detestation at the deed.

A CONGO native who has been taught to read and write has just sent his first letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury. It is as follows:—"Great and Good Chief of the Tribe of Christ, greeting: The humblest of your servants kisses the hem of your garment, and begs you to send to his fellow servants more gospel and less rum. In the bonds of Christ, Ugalla."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C. Aug., 24, '91.

Secretary Noble has returned, he is looking decidedly better than he has since he first entered the cabinet. He says that it is getting somewhat monotonous to have to say about two hundred times a day that he has not resigned and does not intend to resign as he has had to do ever since he resumed his duties. One of his first official acts was to instruct the Commissioner of Indian affairs to direct the agent at the Union Agency in Indian Territory to seize all packages of beer that may be shipped into the Indian country and turn them over to the U. S. Marshal to be libeled as provided by law. The Secretary thus takes issue with the recent decision of Judge Bryant of the Eastern Judicial District of Texas that malt liquors may be lawfully introduced and sold in the Indian country.

Secretary Foster wishes the holders of the 4½ per cent. bonds to distinctly understand that there is no foundation for the statement circulated by the Democratic newspapers that he proposed to continue to pay interest on the bonds that are not presented for continuance at 2 percent. Such of these bonds that are not presented on or before the date of their maturity Sept. 2, will draw no interest after that date and will be redeemed as fast as they are presented at the Treasury.

The Mills men are decidedly hostile to the candidacy of Representative Crisp for the Speakership and unless there is a change they will begin to make things very lively soon. One of them said to-day that he had the facts and proposed to publish them showing Crisp to be under the control of several noted lobbyists. It is stated that Crisp will get the entire New York delegation with one exception, and that has by no means added to the comfort of the Mills men. Let 'em fight it out, say the Republicans.

In accordance with Secty. Tracy's order placing all the foremen and master mechanics in the Navy Yard under the merit system, all of those positions in the Washington Navy Yard have been declared vacant on the 5th of September, and a competitive examination, open to all comers for the purpose of filling the vacancies, has been ordered for August 31.

Senator Chandler who is chairman of the Immigration Committee of the Senate, doubts the right of the Treasury Depart to permit the landing of immigrants belonging to the prohibited class upon their giving bonds to the effect that they will not become a public charge, and he has written a letter to Secretary Foster giving his views and expressing the opinion that Congress never intended to authorize such a practice. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Nettleton, who is in charge of Immigration matters, says that two Attorney Generals, Garland and Miller, have furnished written opinions taking the ground that, under existing law, bonds of this nature may properly be taken by the Secretary of the Treasury in such exceptional cases as, in the exercise of a just discrimination, he thinks entitled to such treatment.

Assistant Secretary Chandler of the Interior Department says that the proposed temporary transfer of the title to the cattle grazing on the Cherokee strip from the cattlemen to the individual Cherokee Indians, will unquestionably be considered as merely an evasion of the President's peremptory order of removal and that it will not be permitted.

One candid Ohio Democrat has hit this town in the person of Mr. George E. Fee, of Cincinnati. He said, "I should like to see Governor Campbell but I am afraid he can't make it. I am afraid that the split in Cincinnati and the German disaffection will cause Maj. McKinley to be victorious. I hate to think this, being a staunch Democrat, but a man must form conclusions from his judgment and not his feelings."

Massachusetts department of Union Veteran Union, accompanied by delegates from the department of New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont, enroute to the National Session of the Union which meets at Cleveland, O., to-morrow, passed through Washington yesterday. The Veterans spent 6 or 8 hours here and were the recipients of a very unusual courtesy at the hands of Sargent-at-Arms Holmes, of the House of Representatives, who is a member of the order. He opened the Capitol building for them and they held an informal reception in the rotunda. This was, I think, the first time it has been open on Sunday since war time. Washington has invited the Union Veterans Union to hold the 1892 meeting here at the same time the G. A. R. encampment will be held.

Secretary Foster proposes going to Ohio again about September 1st, and will remain there a couple of weeks. He isn't giving out his intentions for publication but it is fair to assume that he will give the republicans of that State the benefit of his wide experience in the politics of the State, and that his visit will be beneficial to the party. It is pleasant to take, cures Malaria, Indigestion, and Biliousness. All dealers keep it.

THE largest peach that we remember ever to have seen was shown us last Wednesday evening. It measured 11½ inches in circumference and weighed a pound heavy. It was of the "Globe" variety and was raised in the garden of Hon. James U. Dennis. This is the first fruiting year of the young tree and it only had three on it, two of which it matured. Both were of the same size—11½ inches in circumference.—Marylander.

That's nothing, hundreds of peaches in Talbot county will weigh over a pound this year.

NOT A QUAY YEAR.

The Republicans of Pennsylvania have every reason to congratulate themselves on the spirit displayed and results achieved at the State Convention on Wednesday. A cut and dried programme, prepared outside of the convention and often by men who were not members of it, has been imposed upon the convention so often that a free expression of the Republican sentiment of Pennsylvania has become in recent years the exception, not the rule. Last year this method of procedure was pushed to the extreme. Mr. Delamater was nominated because he was the choice of Senator Quay, and not because he was preferred by the convention. The platform contained many things which were soon forgotten, but one plank was never lost sight of during the entire canvass, and that was the attempted vindication of Senator Quay. The result was that Pennsylvania's magnificent Republican majority of 80,000 was converted into a majority of 16,554 for Governor Pattison.

It was hoped that this lesson would be taken to heart, and that Senator Quay would be at pains to avoid making himself in any degree an issue in this year's State campaign. For a time it seemed as if he intended to keep himself in the background. He was reported as saying that this "is not a Republican year," and his friends claimed for him that he expected the party to be beaten, and intended to keep his hands off in the belief that the defeat would be attributed to the wait of his leadership and counsel, and that a chastened party would insist upon placing him more firmly than ever in the saddle for the critical work of 1892.—Whether it was that he began to doubt that defeat was the Republican portion this year, or because he began to dream dreams, or because he finds it impossible to keep quiet—having disencumbered himself of the National Committee Chairmanship—and having taken counsel with Mr. Cameron as Donegal, Mr. Quay undertook to run his machine again this year in the old fashion.

But the machine would not work. The wreck of last year seemed to have dislocated some of its joints and it failed to do what was expected of it. The platform published in most of the afternoon papers Wednesday shows what was intended that the Convention should declare, but the platform as adopted and published in the Press of yesterday shows how far the will of Messrs. Cameron and Quay failed to impress itself on the Convention. It was decreed at Donegal that a slight should be put upon President Harrison by an ostentatious and unseasonable nomination of Mr. Blaine for Presidency. This the Convention refused to do. It was ordered that the Convention should declare for the free coinage of American silver. Mr. Cameron had voted for free silver; had speculated on his vote, and is understood to be interested in silver mines. The Convention refused, however, to aid his speculations, and endorsed the silver bill passed by the last Congress.

It was arranged that there should be no endorsement of the elections bill, which Mr. Quay moved to lay aside at a most critical stage in its progress and Mr. G. Cameron voted against at every stage. But the Convention saw the omission and inserted a ringing declaration for honest elections. Chairman Andrews, who did Mr. Quay's bidding last year was relegated to the ranks and a man in whom the Republicans have confidence and for whom they can feel respect was put in his place. Last year the platform contained a cordial indorsement of Senators Quay and Cameron. This year the existence of those distinguished statesmen receives no recognition. Capt. Morrison the nominee of the Convention for State Treasurer, obtained his place in spite of Mr. Quay's opposition, and, while Gen. Gregg's nomination had the doubtful honor of Mr. Quay's approval, Gen. Gregg is a little responsible for this as is Mr. Blaine for the super-serviceable efforts of Quay and Cameron to place the President and his Secretary of State in antagonism.

Mr. Quay should dream again, and perhaps he will see signs in the heavens which will lead him to revise his apothegm, "Not a Republican year." The indications increased and multiply that it is going to be a very good Republican year, and all the more surely here in Pennsylvania because it is emphatically not a Quay year.—Philadelphia Press.

GIVE GEORGE A CHANCE.

HE WAS A BIG MAN IN HIS DAY EVEN IF HE IS FORGOTTEN.

An Incident in a Building Which Was Once the Headquarters of the Father of His Country—An Example of the Changes That Time Makes.

Away down on Broad street there is a building in which great men used to meet, but which they keep away from now.

In it met stately George Clinton, the no less stately General Knox, and there General Hamilton drank wine or coffee with Burr long before they met on the fields above Weehawken. Thomas Jefferson sat and discussed politics in that very house with Robert Morris and Edmund Randolph, and if they did not always agree it did not matter for the moment.

In the same days at odd times a great, dignified figure would sometimes appear in an upper room of this very house. This man had a large head, not all swelled, and large feet, too, for that matter. He stood head and shoulders above the rest, and in stateliness surpassed them all. He drank his rum and water with relish or else he took wine that was really good with that enjoyment that is felt by the man who knows the worth of good vintage. A dark looking man was near to attend to every desire of this stately man.

The other habitues of the house treated the dark man with familiarity. They addressed him as "Sam," and called on him from time to time to hotly pursue his boys from the taproom below to the room above with the tankards and the crackers and cheese that were ordered. The stately man was treated with reverence. Hats were off and tongues were still when he spoke, which was seldom. They called him "General," and in his presence contentious minds forgot to dispute.

THE HEADQUARTERS TODAY.

For this was General Washington, and the dark attendant was "Black Sam" Fraunces, and the house was "Fraunces' tavern."

The other day a newspaper man who still finds something to admire in Washington visited this old tavern that, until a little over a year ago, still bore on its wall a sign that designated it as "Washington's Headquarters." The sign is not there now. The old wainscoting is gone from the taproom on the lower floor. The stairs that Washington and Jefferson, John Adams, Hamilton and the rest of them used in their day are torn down, and a bar, over which schooners of beer are sold by a stolid German gentleman, stands where it did.

You approach the "long room," sacred to Washington and his officers, by an entrance, on one side of which is a cheap barber shop, on the other signs to the effect that you can get "lodgings for gentlemen only;" also liver and bacon, sauerkraut, kidney stew and other dishes of the kind for practically nothing.

These delicacies are served in what was known as the "Long Room," where Washington and his generals met in their day. If Washington and some of the stately men of his day could now visit this room at that hour of the day when kidney stew is most rampant they might be a trifle shocked.

In one corner of this "Long Room," where the lodgers eat, a bust of George Washington still stands. It shows up his big head and nose in a very fair way. But when you see it in a room filled with the odor of kidneys, sauerkraut and corned beef the effect is a little spoiled.

SHABBY TREATMENT.

Tradition has it that a man went into the "Long Room" not many months ago and saw this bust. It was in the morning, and the cooks had some cabbages piled about the bust of the Father of his Country. Perched upon the top of the head, so to speak, of the figure was the battered derby hat of some person unknown. This man was a big man, so he kicked a few of the cabbages away and threw the hat out of the window. To a German waiter who then appeared on the scene he expressed himself frankly and freely.

"How dare you treat a figure of George Washington that way?" he demanded.

"Vot George Vashington?" said the waiter. Then the American walked out of the place in a dazed sort of way and went up Broad street. Right in front of the sub-treasury he noted the big statue of Washington that stands there. He looked at the brightness of the shoes and stockings as they are represented as compared with the general dinginess of the rest of the figure. He did not know that a crank came along some time ago and brightened up the statue from the buckled shoe to the knee, for he exclaimed in anger:

"Then you haven't blacked his feet and legs with stove blackin'! No wonder New York didn't git the World's fair if she's too mean to give George a fair show."

Then he drifted sadly away. His remarks were hardly fair. Still the "Society of the Cincinnati" has had its headquarters in Fraunces' for more than 100 years, and in that particular locality at least, to use the expression of the rural patriot quoted above, "George is not getting a fair show."—New York Recorder.

Vienna University Library.

For the establishment of the rich and rare collection the city peculiarly honored, as well as the world at large, are indebted to Maria Theresa. The reading room is free to all, and library doors are open much longer than is customary elsewhere. Mr. Preston, in a letter to Dr. Hertz, the famous discoverer of electrical waves, points out that if the lines of force remain stationary while the magnet rotates, the magnet, being a conductor rotating in the field of its own lines, will become electrified and show positive electricity at one end and negative at the other. If, on the other hand, the lines move with the magnet, no such effect will take place. Dr. Hertz admits the force of this reasoning.

France is probably the only European country enlightened enough to allow the post of stenographers to the chamber of deputies to be open to women. For their services in the chamber they are paid 3,500 to 6,000 francs a year. Stenographers who report lectures, congresses or conferences are paid sixty francs an hour, each hour implying eight hours of transcribing.

"All persons who prior to the passage of this act shall have vacated or removed from or have gone with their parents from the place of their actual abode, domicile, dwelling place or habitation within this State, and shall have taken a domicile, dwelling-place abode or habitation out of this State, shall be conclusively presumed to have thereby intended to abandon their legal residence in this State, and to have surrendered their right to registration as legal voters in the State unless within thirty days after the passage of this act they shall go in person before the clerk of the circuit court for the county from which they shall have so removed or before the clerk of the superior court of Baltimore city, if their removal shall have been from said city and make and acknowledge before such clerk an affidavit that when they so removed they did not intend to change their legal residence within the State but that they had a fixed purpose to return at a definite time, and that they intend to return to this State and to take up their actual domicile and habitation therein, on or before six months next preceding the Tuesday after the first Monday of November, eighteen hundred and ninety-one;
