The day is cold, and dark, and dreary,
It rains, and the wind is never weary;
The vine still clings to the mouldering wall,
But at every gust the dead leaves fall,
And the day is dark and dreary.

Wildly round our woodland quarters,
Sad-voiced Autumn grieves;
Thickly down these swelling waters
Float his fallen leaves.
Through the tall and naked timber,
Column-like and old,
Gleam the sunsets of November
From their skies of gold.

THE name of Senator Peiffer has been taken from the editorial page of the Kansas Farmer. The cause is said to be loss of subscribers, because of Peiffer's calamity speeches, misrepresenting the State's prosperity.

THIS week's issue of the Ledger is the best we have seen in four years. It uses two of the GAZETTE's editorials in full and a part of the third in its editorial column. Some editors have "hoss sense" enough to guide a pair of scissors if nothing else.

THE new fashion of having the marriage proposal come from the woman seems to work well in Kansas—for the woman. THE Birmingham Age-Herald, the leading Democratic paper of Alabama is urging capitalists to come to that city and establish tin plate works, assuring them that the industry will be profitable because of the cheapness with which sheet iron, the basis of tin plate, can be made there. The Age-Herald squarely contradicts the cry of the free trade press that tin plate cannot be manufactured in this country.

A PRIVATE letter received this week at the GAZETTE office from Sumatra, East Indies, under date of Oct. 1st, says that the trade is very much depressed there on account of the McKinley Bill in America. The chief industry at that particular section is tobacco and the best market is America. Now the natives have no industry and they have not the capacity of our modern Americans to shift about until they strike something else. Surely India's loss is America's gain.

GOV. JACKSON, it is said, will make a strong fight for the United States Senate. This he has a perfect right to do, but the House of Delegates should take care that some one else fills the seat of the late distinguished Senator, E. K. Wilson. Gov. Jackson could never do that with honor and dignity to the State, and the politicians who are "running the Jackson boom" know it.

Better elect a strong intellectual man, as none other should ever fill the exalted position of United States Senator. Judge John M. Robinson is such a person and his election to this branch of Congress would be but a fitting tribute to a moral and intellectual man, a worthy citizen, and a jurist of such deep thought, pronounced views and sentiments that he could act and vote intelligently upon all living questions of National importance.

The election of such a man by the next General Assembly of Maryland would reflect credit upon that body as well as add dignity and honor to the State.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

For Sale By J. S. GRIFFITH, and Leading Grocers of Easton.

A COMMUNICATION from Bozman this week exposes some of the election methods used there and does not reflect much credit upon certain individuals. We hold the article sub rosa for the present.

In this connection we would like our correspondents to bear in mind that personal articles which are calculated to offend certain individuals not holding offices of public trust or who do not stand conspicuously before the public are not especially desired. We were not aware that an article published two weeks ago in this paper contained that which could be considered a personal thrust or it would not have been published, and in consequence had to admit article number two last week to allow the defendant opportunity to be heard.

Friends, do not use these columns to score up personal differences.

The Montgomery Press (rep.) Rockville, says: "Tariff and silver in national affairs and dishonesty and corruption in State mal-administration had less to do with the results in Maryland than did worship of and subservience to Gorman and petty jealousies between office-seeking Republicans. Until Democrats become weaned from Gorman and Maryland Republicans think more of the principles of their party than they do of getting offices the results in the future will not greatly differ from those of Tuesday last. It is unfortunate for the reputation of the State that the well-known corruption of the party in power should be so largely indorsed at the polls. It would seem to indicate lamentable ignorance of the true condition of affairs on the part of a large number of honest voters or a condition of political slavery more demoralizing than Russian serfdom."

From the Philadelphia Press.

Ex-President Cleveland can hardly look upon the result in New York State as a personal endorsement. He presided at two Democratic meetings in New York city, and his party's vote in that locality was far below what was expected. It fell almost 23,000 short of Democratic estimates and came near defeating his party.—But Mr. Cleveland refused to go into the interior to make speeches or preside at meetings, and the consequence is that the Democratic majorities are increased in most of the counties above Harlem Bridge. Mr. Flower was really elected in neighborhoods from which Mr. Cleveland remained away and he is under no obligations to the ex-President. So after having offered himself as a sacrifice to the Tammany Juggernaut Mr. Cleveland, will probably find that he has lost the respect of many intelligent people and has not strengthened himself any with his old-time foe.

Send Senator Sherman Back Without Delay or Question.

If John Sherman is compelled to enter upon a contest for re-election as United States Senator from Ohio the announcement of it will not be grateful news to the ears of Republicans whether in or out of that State. The present condition of politics, the position in which the United States Senate finds itself, the fact that the need for strong men in that body is now greater than ever—all these things emphasize the necessity that John Sherman should not only succeed himself but that he should be returned without a contest, that there should be among the Republicans of Ohio a unanimity as substantial on this question as that which exists in other States.

Whatever may be the public estimation of other leaders in Ohio, Senator Sherman is first. However desirable it may be that there should be another Republican Senator from Ohio, so long as the party can only have one, and so long as the present Senator lives and will consent to hold the seat, no other man ought to be thought of, however pushing or able or ambitious he may be. This fact does not in the least derogate from the services or discourage the aspirations of new and younger men. But in spite of pessimists or phrase makers there is such a thing as gratitude in politics as well as in republics, and no better chance for showing it was ever given to the people of a State than the Republicans of Ohio now have.

The questions still to be settled—those of vital importance to the country—are related to the great issues with which John Sherman in all his public career has had to deal. These are purely fiscal in character.—To him more than any other half dozen men is due the success of the resumption policy. To him more than any dozen men must be attributed the fact that the finances of the country were not brought to a greenback basis. And it is to the efforts he has made and those he still will make that the shadow of free silver can be made to pass away.

In view of these considerations and the importance of putting none but the best and bravest on guard in the Senate at this time, the country almost without regard to partisan affiliation—expects every Republican legislator in Ohio to do his duty, and that is to help in the task of sending John Sherman back to the United States Senate.—New York Press.

A WORD TO FARMERS AND HORSE OWNERS.

MESSRS EDITORS:—It was not my intention, neither was it my desire to get up any controversy in regard to the treatment of horses when I wrote the article two weeks ago. I only did it for the protection of all horse owners, and to warn them against the use of such medicine which only a quack or a non-compos-mentis would prescribe. I am not alone in pointing to this particular treatment as being dangerous, for the very best horsemen and veterinary surgeons in America will testify that they also have too often seen the fatal results from the use of what your correspondent so appropriately signs as his nom de plume. Mr. B. speaks of my various vocations. Were they not all honorable and did I not deal honestly? deny this and I will make public the very best reference from every firm with whom I ever was associated. Mr. B. has something in his communication mixed worse than his medicine, though not as fatal. He says he gave nitre which resulted satisfactorily and that the horse could get up and walk with as much ease and comfort apparently as when well. Now, if this be true, it is very strange that he should immediately send for some one else when the horse was so rapidly improving. But the owner of the horse did not talk this way. He told me that the horse had been sick for twenty-four hours and was getting worse all the time, that when he left home he was lying upon his back with all of his legs stiffened. This he told me in the presence of one of the most popular county officials of Easton, he also stated that he himself had given the horse laudanum and coffee, and that Mr. Barber had given nitre, soap, melted lard, vinegar and bread soda. Mr. B. said that he was not a traveling drug store, but the supposition is, that he was trying to make a traveling grocery store of the horse but failed.

When I first saw the horse he had the following symptoms, and the gentleman that was with me will testify to the same: There was a fullness and tension of the stomach, deep and oppressed breathing, with dullness and stupor; his neck was arched and pulse imperceptible. The following was the treatment, (though I told the gentleman that there was nothing encouraging and the horse could live but a short time unless he was relieved from the bowels, and that I could save the horse if I had seen him four hours sooner.) I gave one oz. of Tr. of opium, 1 oz. of either, then I gave a warm water injection and followed up with four drs. of the Tr. of aloes, and under the circumstances that is just what any other intelligent horseman or veterinary surgeon would have done. I did not give quick silver nor the contents of a country grocery. Mr. B. also spoke in his article of my treating a horse for him. I did, but it was after he had worked on him for several days first, and had given him up, then sent for me. This is too often the case with the ignorant class, they begin with heroic treatment and when the last chance of recovery is gone will send for some one just in time to put the blame on, and if Mr. B. will acknowledge now what he said in his own house and in the presence of his own family he will say that he does not blame me in the least for the death of his horse. Now, in regard to my knowledge of the horse, his diseases, the symptoms and remedies: He says, "according to the testimony of men," well, testimony is what you shall have. Thirteen years ago I commenced the study of veterinary science and descriptive anatomy of the domestic animal. With two years' instruction and several years' experience I am willing to go before any State veterinary or professor and be examined. The death record, he says, will tell my success. During the past twelve months I have treated 111 horses. To-day 105 of that number are alive and well, 4 out the 6 that died were over 15 years old and almost worthless at best, the other 2 died from diseases that were incurable.—The poor farmer, he says, was easily imposed upon. Where is the imposition in his opinion? He says that I know but little of the diseases and treatment of horses. Let us see the difference in his opinion and the opinion of intelligent gentlemen whose character and veracity is unquestionable. But just here I would like to speak a word to my friends and patrons generally. I will acknowledge that I did solicit two or three testimonials, but found it unnecessary to proceed further in that direction, as they came pouring in upon me voluntarily from all quarters, and while I feel very thankful for the kindness and thoughtfulness and realize that my services have been much appreciated, it will be impossible to get them all in print, as they would occupy almost one page of the GAZETTE. I condense those that I do give:

Cordova, Md., Nov. 9th, 1891.

Mr. S. C. Cubbage, Dear Sir: I am in receipt of yours of this day, asking an immediate response as to my opinion with reference to your veterinary skill in the management of sick horses. I have employed you and very frankly state you gave me entire satisfaction, you faithfully discharged your duty and such is your record in our community.

In my judgment complaints are often made based only on prejudice without any knowledge of facts. Very respectfully yours,
JAS. M. WOOTERS.

Cordov, Md., Nov. 10th, 1891.

My knowledge of Mr. S. C. Cubbage as a skillful and practical veterinary is very satisfactory both as to the reputation he bears in our community and my own personal experience. One year ago last spring I had a yearling colt badly kicked and bitten by a stallion owned by Messrs. Roe and Dudley. He was not expected by anyone that saw him at the time to get over the hurt. He was so badly bruised and crushed that I said at the time to get over the hurt, he was not worth a five dollar bill. But happily through the course of treatment that was adopted by Mr. Cubbage, the colt was thoroughly restored and to-day being 3 years old in the spring, is one of the the finest in the neighborhood and is without a scar or blemish. J. F. SISK.

Mr. S. C. Cubbage two years ago took from one of my horses' shoulder a tumor as large as a quart jar, and left the shoulder without a scar or blemish. He has also treated horses for me with inflammation of the bowels and various other diseases, and his treatment has always been entirely satisfactory.
WM. T. PERRY, Cordova.

Mr. S. C Cubbage has been treating my horse for the last 3 years, he has cured cases of lung fever, congestion of the liver and various other diseases, his treatment has always been entirely satisfactory, I consider him fully qualified to treat any disease of the horse.
W. E. AYERS, Liveryman, Cordova, Md.

Mr. S. C. Cubbage has been treating my horses for 3 or 4 years, he has successfully cured two of the worst fistulas I ever saw, also 4 cases of abdominal dropsy and various other diseases, his treatment has always been entirely satisfactory, I don't wish to employ any one else. W. B. STEVENS, Woodland.

I consider Mr. S. C. Cubbage a skillful veterinary, he cured for me the worst case of acute gastric indigestion I ever saw, he has treated other diseases for me and always with the best of success, his treatment has always been entirely satisfactory.
A. W. WOOLEY, Longwoods.

Mr. S. C. Cubbage has cured two cases of lung fever in the last ten weeks, both horses are well and able to work, his treatment has always been entirely satisfactory.
SAML. INNES, Willoughby, Q. A. Co.

In addition to this I will refer Mr. B. to a few more of my patrons for reference. Mr. Levi Voshell, Mr H. Warner, Mr. J. B. Ross, Mr. Spencer Calloway, Mr. P. J. Cortelyou, Mr. "One" Wilson, Mr. John Jackson and hundreds of others. I will take great pleasure in showing the large number of voluntarily written and signed testimonials in my possession to any one doubting. S. C. CUBBAGE.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C. Nov. 9, '91.

The President is now devoting all his spare time to work upon his annual message to Congress, much of which he has already roughly prepared. The financial part of the message, which will be largely based upon the annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury, upon which Secretary Foster is hard at work, will probably be the last that will be finished. It may be mentioned, upon good authority, that the portion of the message treating of the several foreign complications which have recently occurred will fairly bristle with Americanism of the stalwart sort, the sort which is calculated to make Americans residing or traveling abroad proud of the flag which protects them wherever they go, and which has gained for that flag greater respect among the strong nations of the world than it has ever before enjoyed.

Now that the smoke has entirely cleared away from the recent State elections and a calm observation of the causes which brought about certain effects may be taken, no member of the national administration sees anything to darken the bright prospect of the Republican success next year. They all recognize that in the one State—Ohio—where the fight was squarely made upon the issue that the national campaign is to be fought upon—protection and honest money—there is a magnificent Republican victory, and in that victory they see the forerunner of another and greater victory next year. The election of Maj. McKinley, although fully expected from the start, gives the greatest satisfaction in Washington, where the sterling honesty and integrity of the man have made him as wide a circle of personal friends and well wishers as any man in public life has. He is one of the few men who never get the "big head."

This week the date for holding the G. A. R. National Encampment next year will be determined upon. At first it was thought that it would be in October, but so many have objected to that month that it is now thought probable that September will be selected. The objection to October is its cool nights, which it is feared might have a bad effect upon the several thousand veterans that will be provided with free quarters in tents during the encampment.

Senator Plumb is in Washington receiving the congratulations of his friends on the result of the Kansas campaign in which he took a leading part. He says that the result shows that the Kansas farmers will not be led by the nose by ignorant demagogues whose only aim in life is to feather their own nests; they have a way of doing their own thinking, which in the end brings them in the near neighborhood of what is right and proper.

It is generally supposed that the men who are fighting to make Mills Speaker of the House are also working to make Cleveland the nominee of his party next year, but it is not true of all of them, for one of the ablest and shrewdest of the men engaged in the management of the Mills campaign said on the subject: "No sir, the election of Mills does not mean the nomination of Clevelad. If it did I should be working against instead of for Mills. You know that I am very much opposed to the election of Crisp as Speaker, and yet, I assure you, that I would a thousand times rather see Crisp elected Speaker than to see Cleveland nominated for President."

Senator Mitchell, of Oregon, says he intends to re-introduce his joint resolution for a constitutional amendment providing for the election of U. S. Senators by direct vote of the people, just as soon as Congress meets, and that he proposed, if possible, to get a vote on it during the session.

One notable effect of the State election returns is that the officials of the National Farmers' Alliance who make this city their headquarters have stopped "claiming the earth," which they were doing right along before the election Now they have nothing to say for publication further than that the "Alliance isn't in politics this year any way." In plain words the trick by which it was hoped that several of the North-West States would throw away their electoral votes while the South would remain solidly Democratic has been effectually shown up and will cut no figure in the Presidential campaign. As one Senator puts it: "If the Farmers' Alliance in the South wants to organize a third party let them start the ball by cutting loose from the Democratic party in the several Southern States which they now control."

Vice President Morton and his family are now occupying their residence here. Mr. Morton is looking remarkably well. H.

THE TYPEWRITER IN SCHOOL.

"A No. 2 Remington Standard Typewriter, the most perfect and durable writing machine in the world, has just been placed in the school, to be used for educational purposes. This machine was chosen after a long and severe trial on various kinds of work by the side of other machines.

"The ability to use the Typewriter is coming to be looked upon as a necessary part of a practical education, and in thousands of cases this knowledge is the means of earning a living. But valuable as a knowledge of this machine is to a person seeking a clerical position, the general use of it as an educational means is destined to make it of far greater value to the public schools. There is no doubt but that these machines will be used in the near future for their educational value alone in all High Schools and Grammar grades in the country. It is the testimony of educators who have tried it, that no other device in the hands of the pupil contributes so much towards a knowledge of correct business English. Its use calls immediate attention to business forms, to the correct use of capitals, to correct spelling, to neatness, to accuracy of expression—in short, to everything that should characterize English composition. But is such knowledge worth anything? A gentleman from a distant city, who often finds business situations for young people, recently told the writer that he could secure desirable places for any number of young men and young women at $15 per week, if, having other qualifications, they could write good English and spell correctly."

"The habits of care, neatness, accuracy, and skill necessary to a successful manipulation of the Typewriter enter into the intellectual make up of the pupil, and reappear in whatever he may undertake to do. One of the most obvious advantages is a more perfect mastery of the English language. If he uses the Typewriter, the student must give attention not only to spelling, capitalizing, punctuating, sentence-making, and paragraphing, but also to the weightier matters—thought and style. Poverty of idea and infelicities of style are more apparent on a printed page than when disguised in poor chirography or veneered with elegant penmanship."—Education, January, 1887.

A CONSCIENTIOUS VERDICT.

The Opinion of a Live Baltimorean on an Important Subject.

While paying a business visit a day or so ago at the offices of Matthew Robson's Son & Co., the well known shipping agents on Baltimore St., a reporter of the BALTIMORE METHODIST found Mr. Arthur W. Robson, the active head of the firm, engaged in talking to one of the never-to-be repulsed typewriters representatives.

"The Remington! Yes, sir, this is a No. 2 Remington Machine, which I have in my private office for personal use; you will find another just on the outside of the partition, used by my assistants. . . . What do I think of the Remington? Why, my good friend, there is no other typ writer. I have gone through the experimental period; tried them all; and spent dollars and dollars upon these much 'vaunted' typewriters; but a few months of this sort of nonsense convinced me of the folly of experimenting for the benefit of typewriter manufacturers, so I simply sold these 'most perfect' and 'improved' typewriters, bought two Remingtons with their cabinets and now nothing but a Remington 'goes' in this office.

Our young man ventured to refer to the accredited improvements made by the other typewriter companies.

"My friend," Mr. Robson exclaimed. "Do you think that the Remington people are going to stand to one side, and allow their well merited success to wane? No, sir, they are live men and every practical improvement, after being thoroughly tested, is added to the Remington, so that it is ever the most modern machine. Why, look around you, to confirm what I say. And as to the durability of the Remington, it was only recently that I met the manager of the business here, who allowed me to read a letter received from the Ellicott Machine Co., one of the largest firms manufacturing machinery in the State. In the course of the letter they said: 'One of our Remingtons has been in constant use for perhaps five years, and we as machinists cannot understand why it does not wear out' You may consider me somewhat a crank on the typewriter question, but I have had enough costly experience to entitle me to rank as a connoisseur, and I would strongly advise, if you desire to economise your time, and keep yourself in perfect good humor, whether in writing your letters yourself, or dictating to an amanuensis, profit by experience and invest in a Remington Standard Typewriter."

Pondering over these words of wisdom, the "Methodist" young man left Mr. Robson's office, in company with the typewriter representative, the latter remarking: "This is the way we are repulsed at every turn. I tell you it is hard work selling typewriters, when in the face of evidence, such as we have just heard, you have to practically admit that the Remington is head and shoulders over the machine we competitors try to sell."—Methodist, Sept. 24th, 1891.
