A Handsome Painting.—Mr. E. A. Plummer has just had framed his masterpiece of landscape painting—in which his exceptional talent finds its greatest freedom. The piece is twenty-seven by fifty-four inches and was framed by Messrs. Patchett & Son. It attracted crowds while on exhibition in their window on Dover street. The subject is that of a sloping field with apple trees in bloom on the left and from a sleepy pool in the foreground a path meanders to the house behind the hill, with roof and gable discernible. The study is simple—the reliefs few—but the effect striking. The painting is from one of Hasbroucks celebrated works now on exhibition in New York.

W. C. T. U.

Women's Christian Temperance Union meets every Sabbath afternoon at 3.30 o'clock in its hall (second floor) corner of Washington and Dover streets; entrance on Dover St. An invitation is extended to all who wish to attend these meetings.

The White Ribbon Tea at Mrs. J. C Mullikin's Wednesday afternoon from four to six o'clock was a pleasant and novel affair. Novel, in that every member present, except the waiters and committee of arrangements who provided the refreshments, contributed twenty-five cents to the W. C. T. U. treasury, and told how she earned it, which in some instances was by hard work, and in others ministering to the pleasure of friends. All were interested in the relation of the different ways in which the quarter had been gained. Each seemed to enjoy having earned the money which they gave, by some special effort. Some of the ladies had been considerably puzzled at first to know just where they should find work to do, for which they would receive compensation, yet to each one there had a way appeared to win the coveted quarter.

There were twenty-two young ladies who gracefully served the tea and otherwise ministered to the pleasure of the company. Three members who could not be present sent their quarter. The entire donation was five dollars. [St. Michaels papers please copy.]

THE CHURCHES AND THE DRINK EVIL.

BY ALEX GUSTAFSON.

III.

In the second paper it was shown that a special abstinence bond exists between the Old and the New Testaments, and that the New Testament, so far from authorizing or tolerating any drinking of intoxicants, moderate or otherwise, commands abstinence from the drink; that Christ could not have been the Christ He claimed to be had He partaken of intoxicating drink; that to charge him with making or drinking it or advocating its use is to repudiate Him as Christ; and to drink it is defiling God's temple, and therefore sin.

THE CHURCH AND THE LORD'S SUPPER.

In the second paper we also saw that for five hundred years the Christain Churches continued to use unfermented wine in the Lord's Supper. To this day the Eastern Church has generally observed this custom, chiefly owing to the fact that facilities for supplying it were so much better in the East.

But in the Western Church a change from unfermented to fermented wine commenced during the sixth and seventh centuries, especially in Middle and Northern Europe, and the Council at Braga [Portugal], 675, formally decreed the use of fermented instead of unfermented wine, which gradually became the custom throughout the Western Church.

The change was in nowise occasioned by any belief on the part of the Western Church or of the Bragan Council that Christ had used fermented wine in the Last Supper; it was purely the result of climatic or geographical difficulties. The vine and unfermented wine were rare products in the West, and were confined almost wholly to Greece, Italy, Spain, and Southern France, whither the grape has been transplanted from the East; but the grapeless region of the whole Middle and Northern Europe depended upon import from some one of these southern countries, and considering the slow and crude conveyance of those times it is no wonder that the goods frequently arrived in a rotten, useless, and offensive condition. It was chiefly to meet this difficulty and to bring about uniformity in the sacramental rites that the council of Braga decreed the use of fermented wine. That its decree was not prompted by a belief that Christ had used fermented wine in His Last Supper is conclusively proven by another of its decisions, namely, that the grapes must be crushed before partaken of in the Supper. This decision was occasioned by the fact, that in the south the Christains were so eager to use the pure unfermented juice of the grape that they brought the clusters to the church and there at the Supper crushed them.

THE WESTERN CHURCH COMMUNION TABLE AND THE DRINK-EVIL.

Of course the Bragan Council was utterly ignorant of the ultimate consequences involved in its fateful edict—consequences that have been overwhelmingly deplorable—pollution of the communion table, poisoning of communicants, creation of the drink craze in some, revival of it in others, leading untold victims to the grave and the doom of a drunkard. Meanwhile, the Church, standing aghast at the spectacle, declaring supinely that the grace of God would shield the believer, has spread the intoxicating habit wherever Christianity has gone, and turned over the very name of Christianity to be a by word among the great heathen nations, particularly those whose religion pledged them to abstinence from drink.

Thus the sacramental cup is transformed into a Circean chalice, mocking with the draught of death, lips panting for the waters of the River of Life; and thus the communion table has been made to promote and justify the habit of so-called moderation, until it has become the chief bulwark of the drink evil throughout the Christianized world.

Until lately the Churches have remained ignorant of this terrible truth; and indeed even now they, as a whole, do not realize it. During the last fifty or sixty years congregations here and there in Sweden, England and the United States have, on their own responsibility, adopted unfermented wine, and gradually by this means thousands of churches have provided a safe sacramental cup; but the Churches have taken no combined action and, so far as I know, only two Church bodies have acted officially in this matter.

The Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States, at its eighteenth Delegated General Conference (Cincinnati, May, 1880), made a change in the Church Discipline to this effect:

"3 That the sentence in brackets immediately preceding ¶ 484 of the Discipline be so changed as follows: 'Let none but the pure unfermented juice of the grape be used in administering the Lord's Supper.'"

And the Centennial Conference of the Free-Will Baptists, in session at Weirs, N. H., carried the resolution:

"8. That fermented wine should not be used in the communion service, and the Church or minister who uses it deserves censure."

On the other hand, the Church of England commands the use of fermented wine. "The Archbishop of Canterbury," says the Union Signal Feb. 24th, 1892, "and the convocations of bishops have declared any but fermented wine to be illegal, characterizing unfermented wine as 'jam and water.'"

Dr. Normon Kerr, in his Wines, Scriptural, and Ecclesiastical, lets us know what are the components of the sacramental wine thus used; "In the Church of England," says Dr. Kerr, "comparatively few congregations adopt genuine fermented wine. Some have a mixture of port (often guiltless of the grape), with brandy or other distilled spirits, * * * Many have Tent * * * a mixture of traecle, spirits of wine, port wine dregs, and water; at its best, of unfermented grape juice, boiled with ten or twenty per cent. of proof spirit, or an equivalent quantity of brandy or whiskey."

In his tract on "Communion Wine" the Rev. Mr. Reid cites a quotation from All the Year Round regarding so-called port wine—the usual drink in the communion—which he shows to be so mixed and adulterated that in Lisbon it is regarded as a sort of liquer, and regarded with furtive suspicion.

The Continental Churches, with but few exceptions, use unfermented wine as a matter of course.

Away with the poisoned cup from the Lord's Table The most pressing and inevasible duty of the Church and Churches to-day in view of the equally overwhelming menace and danger to all is to sweep the poisoned cup from the communion table. "Away with the cup, the poisoned cup, from the Lord's Table! should be the watch-cry of the Churches until it is removed from every communion table throughout the world.

And as the great Methodist Episcopal Church has pioneered this movement it might appropriately at the now pending twenty-first Delegated General Conference take initiative for united action of the American Churches. How can a Church truly claim to be a Church of Christ which uses the poisoned cup, the fruitful mother of most sins in the world, as the symbol of His blood shed for the remission of sins?

THE CHURCH AND CHRISTIAN DRINKING HABITS.

Next to the establishment of fermented wine in the Lord's Supper as a cause of Christians' drinking habits is the fact that the Church did not understand and realize the character and importance of the New Testament teaching as regards abstinence. Had she done so she must have insisted upon abstinence as a condition of Christain fellowship. On the contrary, misconceiving Christ's teaching as a spiritual liberty, and to distinguish the Christian from the law-bound Jew, indulgence in intoxicants became regarded as a sign of Christian liberty; hence spirituality and spirits, Bible and beer, have come down to our days like twin allies. But now this error is dispelled. No Church leaders in this country can plead ignorance and on them rests the responsibility for the action of the lay members. As was well pointed out in the New York Herald leader on Dr. Brigg's trial (Oct. 6, 1891), "The layman is not an original investigator. He simply accepts standards without question. They are the sacred traditions of his life, though he may not be able to defend them on logical, philosophical, or even biblical grounds, he still defends them because they are component parts of his religion."

Much and noble work has been done already in this respect, as was briefly pointed out in my first paper, but more remains to be done; and for effective action it is necessary that in this, as in the matter of the Lord's Supper, the Churches should take united and systematic action.

And as in our day science has such fame and force, the same Federated Church Council which appointed The Bible Temperance Commission might be empowered to secure the services of the best and truest scientific experts on the drink question, particularly as regards its physiological and psychological aspects, in the preparation of popular treastises, especially such as would emphasize the mischiefs of so-called moderate drinking, for on this matter science has reached absolute data. It has proven, and that indisputably, that the whole man—spirit, soul and body—is peculiarly injured, and yet more those of his helpless descendants, by so-called moderate drinking. It has established by most varied, exhaustive and conclusive experiments that even doses much smaller than so called strictly moderate ones injure spirit and mind, dulling and weakening judgment, will, and aspiration; for the injury produced by drink progresses from the finest to the coarsest faculties of man attacking first his spiritual, next his moral, and lastly his physical nature, so that the physical wreck of the drunkard represents in itself not the greatest, but the least part of his utter ruin. As moderate drinking therefore degenerates and despoils the spiritual powers and defiles the whole temple of the living God science as well as religion proves that moderate drinking is a sin.

Meanwhile the various churches should authoritively declare that abstinence from intoxicants is most desirable, and that they regard it sinful to drink. There is justice in the criticism which Frank Bullard passed on the temperance debate at the Methodist Ecumenical Council, when he says: "In insisting so much that the State shall prohibit, no one saw or seemed to see how inconsistent an expectation it was so long as the Church herself does not do so for either ministers or members Ecclesiastical prohibition must logically precede legal prohibition." (New York Herald, Oct. 16, 1891).

Presiding Elder Adams.—In our issue of the 9th inst., we gave a sketch of our other "New Presiding Elder," Rev. L. E. Barrett. We now complete that article.

Richard Hughlett Adams, who was appointed to the presiding eldership of Dover district, by Bishop Andrews, at the recent session of Wilmington Conference, is a native of Queen Anne's county, Md., and received his academical training in the Classical Institute of R. G. Chaney, at West River, Md., an institute of high grade, and of large patronage; its Principal being an alumnus of Dickinson College of the class of 1849, and a most faithful and efficient teacher.

Being the happy subject of converting grace when about 16 years old, the subject of our sketch was soon after impressed with the conviction, that it was his duty to preach the Gospel; and advancing through the successive grades of official promotion, he was in due time licensed to preach.

At the 4th session of the Wilmington Conference, held in Laurel, Del., Feb. 21-27, 1872, Bishop E. R. Ames presiding, Brother Adams was received on trial in a class of seven, of whom only two are still in the effective ranks, John D. Kemp, now pastor of our church in Still Pond, Md, and D. W. C. McIntyre, transferred to the New Jersey Conference in 1880, and now pastor of our church in Penn's Grove, just across the Delaware from our city.

Brother Adams was admitted into full connection and ordained deacon, at the session of the Conference held in Salisbury, Md., March 4-11, 1874, the late Bishop Isaac W. Wiley presiding; and two years later, at the session in Union, Wilmington, the late Bishop Levi Scott presiding, was ordained elder.

His appointments in the last 20 years have been as follows: '72-3, Denton ct., with the late Samuel T. Gardner, preacher in charge; '73-5, Church Hill; '75-8, Trappe; '78-'81, St. Michaels; '81-2, Millington; '83-6, St. Paul's Wil.; '89-'90, Middletown, and '90-2, Easton.

Brother Adams' ministry has been both effective and popular; his appointments being uniformly made in accordance with official invitations.

He is prudent and careful in his administration; and is very generously recognized among his brethren, as a safe man, impartial and free from partisan affiliations.

Of him, as we said of Presiding-Elder Barrett, we can say with equal confidence, "we are sure Bishop Andrews made no mistake," in appointing him presiding-elder of Dover District.

At the recent session of the Conference, Brother Adams received 41 votes for delegate to the General Conference on the first ballot, 52 on the second, 64 on the third, and was elected on the fourth ballot by 85 votes out of a total of 143; thus completing the delegation with Dr. W. L. S. Murray and Presiding-Elder Alfred Smith, who had been elected on the second ballot.—Peninsula Methodist.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Receipes were:

W. T. H. Lee, collector, 1890,	$400 00
W. J. Jackson, " "	175 00
Total,	$275 00

Disbursements were $497.

The Board gave Daniel Bently, colored, of Royal Oak, a permit to the Maryland General Hospital.

W. J. Jackson declined to accept the appointment of collector of taxes for Bay Hundred.

The Board contracted with Wm. Callahan to build the Newtown road in Chapel district for $118.

The Board is very anxious that the holders of the Bonds of the loan of 1872 should present the same for payment. Interest on these bonds ceased April 1st.

The road supervisors were instructed to confine themselves in the work now done on the roads, strictly to filling up holes in the roads and repairing bridges; and that no extensive repairs or improvements should be undertaken by them, without obtaining the consent of the commissioners, or one of them.

Peach Prospect.—J. B. Brown, Esq., says a number of his tenants report the prospects for peaches in Queen Anne's most excellent, the smock varieties especially being plentiful. The general impression in Kent among growers is that the crop at the best will be small, not from any recent injury or winter weather but from a lack of live wood and buds. The Smock variety alone promises well. In Caroline the prospects is for one-third of a crop. 174 Canal St., PAILADELPHIA.

No. 115.—A Puzzle in Figures.

In stocking the fish pond I have just made and filled with water I put in six times as much roach as carp, and the carp were a third as many as the tench. Now the tench were fewer than the bream by two, and were just half as many as the roach. I counted the fish as they were put in and found them 197. How many of each sort were there?

No. 116.—Illustrated Rebus.

No. 117.—Numerical Enigma.

The answer, composed of 61 letters, is a familiar Biblical proverb.

The 1, 42, 8, 17, 15, 16 is a common tree.

The 5, 2, 7, 45, 3, 31, 4, 50 is an embassador.

The 12, 6, 19, 9, 14, 24 is one who makes a vain display of learning.

The 41, 11, 57, 13, 10 is successful by chance.

The 36, 37, 49, 54, 44, 18, 55 is a kind of shrub.

The 61, 23, 51, 20, 21 is a gentle push.

The 60, 22, 40, 52 is a musical instrument.

The 38, 29, 28, 27, 47, 25 is to encourage.

The 26, 56, 43, 32 is to silence.

The 35, 33, 30, 46, 48 is to pull and haul.

The 34, 39, 59, 53, 58 is to insert wrongfully.

No. 118.—Crossword.

My first is in pear, but not in fig;
My second in horse, but not in pig;
My third is in owl and also in sparrow;
My fourth is in target, but not in arrow;
My fifth is in orange, but not in grape;
My sixth is in goat, but not in ape;
My seventh in numbers, but not in sum;
My eighth is in apple, but not in plum;
My ninth is in pleasant, but not in nice;
My tenth is in hot, but not in ice;
My eleventh is in yellow, but not in green;
My WHOLE is a science you often have seen.

No. 119.—Anagram.

Oh, what is solitude? I stand upon the city's street,
And watch the hurrying faces crowding by,
All strange to me.
No well remembered features there to greet,
No smiling glance, no light of kindling eye
Is turned on me.

'Mid that great throng, deep flushed with living's wine,
I hold no being, press no greeting hand;
Their fates are all wrought out apart from mine,
I "SIT ALONE, SIRS," in a stranger land.

No. 120.—Words Within a Word.

From a word of eleven letters meaning copious make (without transposition) the following: 1. An exclamation. 2. Above. 3. Superabundance. 4. Current. 5. Moving as a liquid. 6. Behold. 7. Poor. 8. The roar of a ruminating animal. 9. Due. 10. To gain. 11. A pronoun. 12. Within. 13. The limb of a bird.

Entertaining Reflections.

Many people who never saw a fire escape have seen one break out.

Beauty is only skin deep, but that means a great deal in the case of the rhinoceros.

No wonder the swine ran down into the sea. Is there anything more rash than a rasher of bacon?

The man who goes into the bee culture business may not naturally be energetic, but he is bound to keep things humming.

The smallest boy frequently gets the biggest spanking.

A tombstone is about the only place where the average man really doesn't care to have his name in print.

A Pretty Enigma.

There's a word composed of three letters alone,
Which reads backward and forward the same;
It expresses the sentiments warm from the heart,
And to beauty lays principal claim!
EYE.

Rhubarb Culture.

Of all garden plants raised in the open ground rhubarb is the first to come into use in the early spring. Half a dozen of well established plants if properly cared for will furnish stalks enough for a family. Thus any lot holder in a town who has a small space to spare may keep his family supplied with the best cooking substitute for apples that we have. But it will not do to set out a few rhubarb plants in poor soil and leave the ground to pack down around them without any cultivation. They need high manuring, and the earth around them should be kept in a loose, friable condition. For several years, writes a correspondent in the New York World, I have had the opportunity of observing the great difference in the quantity and quality of the product where they were well cared for and where they were neglected. When open headed barrels have been set over the plants the stalks have grown long and spindling and were very brittle and tender, and the flavor seemed improved. But I don't think the quantity is increased, and if it is continued long I believe it will enfeeble the plants. I have noticed also that there is a wide difference in the value of different varieties. I have two, one of which is much superior to the other both in yield and quality, but I do not know the name of either. Seedsmen quote the Linneas as one of the best. It takes so long to get producing plants from the seed that the best way is to propagate by roots set deep enough to have the crowns well covered. As the plants increase in size the roots may be subdivided to make other hills. Plants from the seed will not always prove the same variety as the parent stalk.

Some asparagus growers claim that an improvement of 50 per cent. can be made in the asparagus bed by selecting two-year-old plants that bear no seed. These are males, and the shoots from them will be earlier and larger.

WONDERFUL

The cures which are being effected by Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1529 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa., in Consumption, Catarrh, Neuralgia, Bronchitis, Rheumatism, and all chronic diseases, by their Compound Oxygen Treatment, are indeed marvelous. ***

If you are a sufferer from any disease which your physician has failed to cure, write for information about this treatment, and their book of 200 pages, giving a history of Compound Oxygen, its nature and effects, with numerous testimonials from patients, to whom you may refer for still further information, will be promptly sent, without charge.

This book, aside from its great merit as a medical work, giving, as it does, the result of years of study and experience, you will find a very interesting one.

HE Missed his Opportunity! DON'T Miss Yours, Reader. The majority neglect their opportunities, and from that cause live in poverty and die in obscurity! Harrowing despair is the lot of many, as they look back on lost, forever lost, opportunity. Life is passing! Reach out. Be up and doing. Improve your opportunity, and secure prosperity, prominence, peace. It was said by a philosopher, that "the Goddess of Fortune offers a golden opportunity to each person at some period of life; embrace the chance, and she pours out her riches; fail to do so and she departs, never to return." How shall you find the GOLDEN opportunity? Investigate every chance that appears worthy, and of fair promise; that is what all successful men do. Here is an opportunity, such as is not often within the reach of laboring people. Improved, it will give, at least, a grand start in life. The GOLDEN opportunity for many is here. Money to be made rapidly and honorably by any industrious person of either sex. All ages. You can do the work and live at home, wherever you are. Even beginners are easily earning from $5 to $10 per day. You can do as well if you will work, not too hard, but industriously; and you can increase your income as you go on. You can give spare time only, or all your time to the work. Easy to learn. Capital not required. We start you. All is comparatively new and really wonderful. We instruct and show you how, free. Failure unknown among our workers. No room to explain here. Write and learn all free, by return mail. Unwise to delay. Address at once, H. Hallett & Co., Box 880, Portland, Maine.
