Our sainted poet, John G. Whittier has written a verse to be inscribed in Willard Hall. Miss Willard is going to have it placed in his honor. The lovely words read:

WHERE THE DRUNKARD'S MONEY GOES.

Every rag stuck in a window to keep out the cold from the drunkard's home denotes a contribution towards buying new suits for publican and his family. The more elegance and ease in the publican's family, the more poverty, degredation and despair in the families of those who patronize him. The corner grog-shop, with its large, plate glass windows and marble floors is paid for by the tenants of other landlords.

The more plate-glass windows and marble slabs there are in a saloon, the more old hats and worn out garments must be stuck in the windows of their patrons to keep out the cold air. The more silk flounces upon the dresses of the saloon-keepers wife, the cheaper the calico upon the wife and children of his patrons. The more spacious the parlor and brighter the fire of the publican, the more scantily furnished, cheerless and cold, are the abodes of those who patronize him. While the publican drives his expensive span, his customer cannot afford a five cent horse car. From the bung-hole of every barrel of liquor that is sold by the dram seller, there flows a constant stream of drunkards, criminals, lunatics, and imbeciles, to fill poor houses, houses of correction, jails, prisons, while blasted hopes, ruined homes and paupers' graves are the relics of the trade. Every shilling that the owner of the dram shop and dram-seller tenant puts into their pockets of the poor and is a dead loss as far as the public good is concerned. Worse than that, the more drink sold, the more burden there is imposed upon the honest citizen and tax payer. The richer the landlord and his rum-selling tenants grow, the poorer becomes the landlord who lets his buildings for tenements and legitimate business. It is an undisputed fact that the laboring man who has a family cannot indulge in liquor-drinking, and pay his landlord and grocer.—Cleveland and Evangelical Messenger.

The term for strong drink varies in different places. Here we give it the euphemistic name "intoxicating liquors" just as we speak of intoxicating pleasures. In Damascus the drink habit is called the "English Disease." In the Bible we have drunkenness enumerated among the "sins of the flesh." The aboriginal tribes call intoxicating liquars "fire water." That is good but the newest name for the article is the best, it comes from the Dark continent, where it is called by the natives, "shame water." And what brings more shame, more sorrow, more suffering? Shame water—let it be.—North Western Christian Advocote.

Mrs. Helen Gougar says that she has kept a record of the accounts of wife murder by drunken husbands published in the daily papers since Jan. 1, 1889. The aggregate number is 3,004.—Balto. Telegram.

—A steam engine, with which Mr. James C. Tarbutton was running a saw mill in Cleesy's Woods near town, exploded Tuesday the 17th at noon. Several workmen were sitting near by eating their dinner, and it is almost a miracle that only two colored men, John Kirby and Sam Haymen were injured. The engine was completely demolished, part of it going seventy-five yards through the woods, cutting down an oak tree eighteen inches in diameter and falling to the ground in a neighboring wheat field. The colored man, John Kirby, who was cut about the head and face is improving, Sam Haymen was not very badly hurt.—Trappe Times.

The Talbot County Fair Association.—At a regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Talbot County Fair Association, held on Thursday, May 26th, 1892, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, Many of the Ladies—friends of The Talbot County Fair Association—have so magnanimously given much thought, time, labor, ingenuity, pains and trouble (for the past two months) to the success of the 'Grand Bazaar' recently held at Music Hall for the benefit of the Treasury of said Association—and

WHEREAS, Other friends of the Association in Talbot county and elsewhere, as well as many business houses of Easton, Baltimore, Philadelphia and other cities have so generously aided the ladies by valuable contributions of every character, and

WHEREAS, The residents of, and visitors to, Talbot county have so liberally patronized every department of the Bazaar, and by their purchases and other expenditures have enabled the management to dispose of most of said contributions, and

WHEREAS, It is meet that the Fair Association should promptly acknowledge and give thanks for such kind and substantial assistance, therefore

Resolved, That the Talbot County Fair Association, through its Directors, hastens to extend sincere thanks to each and every lady connected with the management—to the contributors wherever residing and to all visitors and patrons of the Bazaar.

Resolved, That the newspapers of this county and elsewhere be requested to publish these resolutions.

Talbot County Colored Teachers' Association.—The Sixth Meeting of the Talbot County Colored Teachers' Association was held in the M. E. Church, at Claiborne, Md., on Friday, May 13, 1892. Officers present—president, Chas. R. Ross; vice president, Mrs. Helen G Turner; secretary, J. Edgar Friend; treasurer, Miss Maggie H. Henry; organist, Robt. H. Gibson. Other teachers present—Mrs. Susie D. Wright, Misses Ella T. Moore, Annie E. Jones, Lulu V. Tilghman; Messrs. Malachi Rasin and T. R. Dennis. Honorary members—Revs. A. R. Shockly, J. Emory Webb, Martin Wells, Mr. J. W. Aldridge, Rev. Mrs. J. Emory Webb and Mrs. Emily Roberts.

Professor Alexander Chaplain, our worthy School Examiner, was unable to be present, having been called away on important business. The building was well filled with the citizens of Claiborne, including a number of visitors from Easton and St. Michaels. At 10:30 A. M. the president called the association to order. Rev. A. R. Shockly conducted the devotional exercises. At the close of these, appropriate quotations, naming the various authors, were given by the members of the association. By a suggestion of the president, the officers for the ensuing year were elected, after which the "Query Box," containing some interesting questions, to the delight of all, was carefully and logically disposed of. This concluded the morning session. The members then proceeded to the lunch table, which was so well prepared by a committee of ladies and gentlemen, under the supervision of the principal of the public school, that too much cannot be said in behalf of Mr. Ross and the many friends that so generously provided for the association one of the best lunches served at any of the meetings. The afternoon session was opened at 2:30. Having occasion to withhold the address of welcome until the afternoon session, the association was honored with the following from the president:

"LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—I am glad to be the medium through which the greetings of this community are to be conveyed to you. In behalf of the people of this community, I extend to you a hearty welcome in our midst. This is the first time in the history of your association, that you have deigned to honor us with your presence, but we have heard of your successes in other parts of the county, and we are truly glad that the chance is ours to exemplify the interest we feel in the aims and objects of your association. The organization of your association marked a progressive era in the educational history of the county, at least that part to which we are attached, and its maintenance, we trust, will be successful in arousing deep and unbounded interest, throughout the county, in all that pertains to education and moral culture; for it is only through the medium of education and moral culture, that we can hope to play our part upon the stage of life with honor to ourselves and with benefit to our country, which is truly "The land of the free and the home of the brave." We regard you as a body of brave men and women, who are seizing every opportunity, and making every reasonable sacrifice, to prepare yourselves to better instruct the growing generation, over whom you are placed; and this grand progressive idea has awakened a response in our bosoms, and we bid you God-speed in your noble aim. We shall watch your sessions with interest and attention, and trust that your visit here will be pleasant and profitable, and when your deliberations shall have closed, we trust that you will return to your homes and your work, with a substantial remembrance of our efforts to serve you with our hospitality, and with renewed zeal to press forward to the mark of a higher calling in your profession. Again, I bid you a hearty welcome, and trust that this may be one of the very best and most instructive sessions you have ever held."

I. M. Turner being absent, R. H. Gibson responded in a few brief, but well selected remarks. Discussion, 'Which affords the better discipline of the mind the study of classics or mathematics?' open by J. Edgar Friend, followed by Mrs. Helen G. Turner, Mrs. Susie D. Wright, Malachi Rasin, R. H. Gibson and Rev. A. R. Shockly. The discussion was lively from beginning to end, and many important facts both classical and mathematical were presented by the participants. Quartette by Misses Lulu V. and Hattie E. Tilghman, Rev. A. R. Shockly, J. Edgar Friend. Miss Ella T. Moore recited a fine selection on 'Temperance.' Rev. J. Emory Webb delivered an able and instructive address to the association, taking for his subject the three great factors that characterize humanity, viz.:—"Home, Sunday school and public school training." He made a good impression on all present, and at the close was loudly applauded. Select reading by Miss Lulu V. Tilghman. Music was the next in order, after which an admirable paper on 'How to Teach History,' was read by Mrs. Susie D. Wright. Malachi Rasin, Mrs. Helen G. Turner and T. R. Dennis joined in the discussion and many good methods for teaching history were presented. The two Misses Tilghman rendered a beautiful duet. Third subject for discussion, 'The efficiency of the Teacher,' was opened by R. H. Gibson; Miss Annie E. Jones, Mrs. Susie D. Wright, J. Edgar Friend and the president spoke on the subject. Music by the association. Afterwards resolutions were offered expressing thanks to the citizens of Claiborne for the hospitality shown to the association. The meeting was in every way the most pleasant, bright and instructive that has ever been held; and, as space prevents further comment on the programme, suffice to say, it was a decided success. J. EDGAR FRIEND, Sec'y.

GRAND JURY'S REPORT.

On Tuesday the Grand Jury came into Court and made the following report and were discharged with the thanks of the Court.

To the honorable; The Judges of the Circuit Court of Talbot County.

The Grand Jury for the May term, 1892, having finished their deliberations, beg leave to tender their report.

The session of the grand inquest, has been slightly prolonged, by reason of a larger amount of business before them than has been the case for several terms. Our time and attention has been closely given to the thorough investigation of 79 cases of various grades of crimes that have been before us. Much of the time has been consumed in minor cases coming to this body from the magistrates under the act of 1893. We have examined 206 witnesses, and made 38 presentiments.

In our visit to the county jail we found it kept in excellent condition and the prisoners kindly cared for. Contained therein were 21 prisoners, of whom 3 were white and 18 colored. Of the whole number 9 were awaiting trial, 2 awaiting sentence, 2 awaiting removal to House of Correction, 5 serving out sentences 1 on trial and 2 weak minded. These last named we would recommend their removal to the county almshouse, where under the care of the county physician their condition may be improved.

We would also recommend that the county commissioners be instructed to extend the iron railing in the jail corridors, in order that the apartment for the women may be made private. Complaint has been made by good citizens of persons congregating in groups on the street near the jail using profane language with the prisoners,—this we recommend be stopped.

In the course of our examination we have learned that the public roads are in fair condition only, and in some localities they might be improved.

The grand jury desires to return thanks to your Honors, as well as to the State's Attorney, clerk and other officers of the court for courtesies received, and kind attention given us in the discharge of our duties.

Out labors being now concluded we respectfully ask to be discharged.

Very Respectfully.
CHARLES H. DENNY.
Foreman.

State vs. E. T. Miller, larceny; before court Stewart for State, Gibson & Carrington for traverser; guilty; four months in county jail.

State vs. Wm. Penn; selling whiskey; before court, Stewart for State, Gibson & Carrington for traverser; guilty; $50 and costs and 4 months in House of Correction.

State vs. Wm. Penn; before court; same consel; guilty, $50 and costs and 4 months in House of Correction.

State vs. John Gibson; stealing oysters; before court. Stewart for State, Martin for traverser; not guilty.

State vs. James Gibson; same offense; not guilty.

State vs. R. C. Cohee; forgery; Stewart for State, Gibson & Carrington for traverser; before jury; not guilty.

THE PUZZLER

No. 146.—Numerical Enigma.

An old lady who did not like the works of a certain author (but mostly from prejudice on account of his life) exclaimed: "I cannot see whatever induced 1 2 3 to 4 5 6 writing 1 2 3 4 5 6. He was no sort of a 1 2 3 4." She would listen to no remonstrances from her grandchildren on the subject, but would silence them with this unanswerable argument: "Children, I knew him when he was a boy."

Model Locomotive Engines.—The B. & O. R. R. has just placed in service on its Chicago Division three new passenger engines built at the Baldwin Locomotive Works, after new designs furnished by the Gen'l Superintendent of the motive power of the B. & O. Company. The engines 113,000 pounds, have driving wheels six feet six inches in diameter, cylinder 19x24 inches, and are without doubt the finest passenger locomotives running to the city of Chicago to-day. Companions of these new engines have devolved wonderful power and speed in hauling the famous Royal Blue Line trains, which run between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington over the Philedelphia Devision of the B. & O. Railroad. The B. & O. has added over forty, new high class engines, to its motive power equippment within the last sixty days, and others are under construction. While constantly adding engines of approved designs and of highest grades to its motive power, and passenger coaches of Pullman standard to its rolling stock. The B. & O. is also expending large amounts for second and third tracks and sidings, and improved facilities at terminal points. By the time the World's Fair is open for the reception of visitors the B. & O. will be well equipped to handle expeditiously, the large volume of passenger trafic which will naturally seek this picturesque route from the Atlantic sea-board to Chicago. 2t
