GEORGE M. RUSSUM,
OF CAROLINE COUNTY.

GRANDFATHER AND GRANDSON.

WHITTIER is dead.

WILL the Easton Star explain to its many interested readers why it and the democratic papers are so quiet on the Peck report?

PECK has proved a very "Bad Boy" this time in submitting his sworn statement that acted the worst of boomerangs ever shot forth to kill the enemy.

SOME of our exchanges devote much space to pugilistic news this week.—Such brutal exhibitions should not receive this encouragement

NOTHING is more certain than that human conduct produces its effect upon human character and determines its future weal or woe. Virtue and uprightness give the pure heart and clear conscience, whose working is an ample reward for effort and sacrifice.

VANITY can exist only on a narrow basis; broaden the foundation and it will fall to the ground. The greater a man is the smaller he feels himself to be; for he has in his mind a standard of excellence far above that which he actually reaches, ever progressing and reminding him of his own shortcomings.

THERE seems to be no end to the demand for the man who is up in his line of work, who is intelligent, vigorous and prompt. Young men on farms and everywhere will find a sharp demand for their labor if they earnestly seek to become thoroughly intelligent in whatever they undertake. It is the intelligent man to-day that we need on our farms, in our factories, offices, stores and other places.

SOBRIETY and tranquility tend to self-command, self-government, and that genuine self-respect which has in it nothing of self-worship; for it is the reverence that each man ought to feel for his nature and for the laws of that nature. It is one thing to plough and sow with the expectation of the harvest in due season when the years shall have come around: it is another to ransack the ground in the gold field, with the heated hope and craving for vast returns to-morrow or to-day.

Two strong letters have been presented to the American people this week. The letter from President Harrison, accepting the nomination for re-election and that of James Gillispie Blaine, on the political issues of the day. The records of these two statesmen shine to-day with a greater lustre than those of any other living men—and every American should read carefully the two letters above mentioned. For the President's letter see fourth page.

HON. THOMAS PERRAN, of Calvert county, was nominated as the candidate for Congress in the Fifth District by the Republican convention which met at Laurel Tuesday. Mr. Parran is one of the active young Republicans of the State. He reflected great credit upon his county in the Maryland legislature four years ago, and is at present Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue. Mr. Parran is bright, eloquent, aggressive and popular, and the GAZETTE regards his chances of election this fall very good.

THE Baltimore News says: Gen. J. B. Seth, at present commander of the State Oyster Navy, has a hard fight on hand for reappointment. He will have against him actively and not passively the section of the democratic party on the Eastern Shore led by Senator Chas. H. Gibson, who has announced his decided hostility to the reappointment of General Seth. There are other factors in the opposition to the reappointment of Gen. Seth which will make his triumph, if he should succeed, a decided victory for the principles of civil service reform as applied to the State appointments. Gen. Seth is honest and capable, and his democracy is not questioned.

HON. HENRY PAGE has accepted the appointment of Chief Judge of the First Circuit, as successor to Judge Irving, deceased, Mr. Page was the nominee on the Democratic ticket for Congress, and his retirement from the field will cause a lively fight in the counties of the First Congressional district and at the convention before his successor is nominated. Democratic leaders in other sections of the State say they would be pleased to see the nomination given to ex-Governor Jackson—but it is doubtful if they will assist him any in this direction. Col. John Walter Smith, of Worcester county, will receive strong support. Among the others who will work hard for favor at the nominating convention may be mentioned Senator John Brown, of Queen Annes; Barrison W. Vickers, of Kent; P. W. Downes, of Caroline, while Somerset will present either Joshua W. Miles, Levi L. Waters or Robt. F. Brattan, according to which one of the three is "on top" after the Somerset primaries.

Considering all things, there will be little harmony among the democrats in the First District, and this being a great republican year, it need surprise no one if Hon. George M. Russum, of Caroline, "rolls in with the tide."

ABSOLUTELY PURE

For Sale By J. S. GRIFFITH, and Leading Grocers of Easton.

THERE is no short cut to excellence. In every department of human achievement, superiority is based upon toil, and success is reached only by effort. Drudgery in some form underlies every performance that is of any worth, and he plumes himself upon his ingenuity in escaping from it like the man who congratulates himself on his shrewdness in building a house without the trouble of laying a foundation.

IN their very zealous pursuit of knowledge some of the philologists are losing good manners. Following Prof. Garnier's studies of the language of the ape, a Frenchman has been listening at the keyhole of a hen-house when the family was at home, and placing a phonograph there to gather in the cackle and catch all the gossip or plain home talk going on within. If he got anything there that was said about himself it probably was not complimentary.

Peck's Startling Figures.

Peck's bad boy never created more dire confusion and disaster by any of his pranks than has Peck himself in the ranks of the democrats by his report on the industries of New York. We have often heard of a peck of trouble, but this Peck has suddenly magnified himself into a puncheon, and a large-sized one at that, and all in the line of duty. He is a democratic labor statistician, and issued an outline of his report on the industries of New York, showing the effect of the McKinley bill on those industries.

There was nothing astonishing about this, and under ordinary circumstances Peck's preliminary report would scarcely have occasioned a ripple of comment; but the democratic speakers and newspapers had been endeavoring to produce the impression that the McKinley bill was a curse to all industries and a millstone about the necks of the people, and here comes along one of their own chosen officials, and in his simple-mindedness tells what a good work has has been wrought upon the industries of New York by this Republican abomination. They ought not to abuse Peck for doing his duty. It has only been a short while since they were praising him as loudly, and it is not his fault that the effects of the McKinley bill do not tally with their imaginative criticism of that measure.

It is true that Peck has probably bowled over the hypothetical Democratic majority in New York state.—He was not appointed, however, to make majorities, but to collect correct statistics of the industries of New York State. The suppression of the truth by him for political reasons would have been quite as dishonorable as open falsehood, and a party must be in bad plight that would have its member who are in official position do that sort of thing. But this Peck episode shows the desirability of sticking to the truth, even though it may hurt. Had the democracy dealt fairly by the new tariff, such a portentous peck of trouble could not have fallen on them, and there would be no occasion for damning the blunt honesty of the labor statistician.

Intelligent democrats must know just as well as the Republicans that the new tariff, so far as it has gone, has been wholly beneficial to the country. They can see this in the current business and in the daily lives of the people. The necessaries of life are cheaper, labor is abundant, wages high, new enterprises of vast magnitude, and utility constantly springing up, and a spirit of contentment and hope pervades generally the avenues of trade and the more quiet atmosphere of domestic life. How absurd, therefore to expect to convince the public that things are otherwise! The Peck incident must be regarded as a sharp stroke of retributive justice. The blow would have come anyhow, for exposure is sure to follow an attempt to deceive the people; but it is better, for many reasons that it should come unconsciously, as it were, from a democratic official.—American.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5, '92.

The President's formal letter accepting the Presidential nomination, is just what every Republican had a right to expect from so good a republican as Benjamin Harrison. Like all the rest of the President's public utterances it is written in plain, understandable English; it contains no line nor word that needs any explanation, or that any patriotic republican would care to have changed: it stands square-toed and flat-footed upon the principles of the Republican party as set forth by the National platform adopted at the Minneapolis convention, without dragging in any frills or side issues of any kind; it adds another proof to those already existing that Benjamin Harrison belongs to the class of men who can always be depended upon to do the right thing in the right way and at the right time. It is worthy of a high place among the State papers of the President whose work in that line has never been surpassed, and notwithstanding its unusual length it is bound to be generally read.

So well and so systematically has the work of the citizen's committee been done that the preparations for the reception of visitors to the coming National Encampment of the G. A. R. are practically completed, and nothing has been left undone that can add to the pleasure of those who will attend, either as members or as visitors. Washington will, during the encampment, be decorated and illuminated as no other city in which encampments have been held ever was, and many of the features which have been devised for the entertainment of the veterans would be worth crossing a continent to see, while there is a general disposition on the part of Washingtonians to give the freedom of the city to the veterans who fought for it so bravely.

The President was not so busy during his hurried visit to Washington last week, to see that everything possible had been done by the National Government to keep out the cholera, that he forgot his old comrades and the arrangements that are being made for their reception and entertainment during the week of the encampment. He sent for the chairman of the citizen's committee and spent several hours going over the details of the programme for the week and suggesting improvements therein. He also decided officially upon taking the following part in the programme himself—unofficially his latch string will hang out during the entire encampment: Monday, Sept. 19, he will take part in the dedication of the "White lot," as Grand Army Place—there all the reunions are to be held; Tuesday he will review the largest G. A. R. parade ever on the march, from his stand in front of the White House; Wednesday evening he will hold a reception, assisted by every member of the Cabinet and their wives, in honor of the veterans, and the Executive Mansion will be illuminated from top to bottom, while the Marine band furnishes its sweetest music; Thursday evening he will attend the reception to be given by the citizen's committee in the Pension Office and will deliver an address of welcome.

While on the subject of the Encampment, let me say that there is not the slightest foundation for the reports of insufficient accomodations and a disposition to charge exhorbitant prices, which have been sent from here by parties anxious to make a sensation, or to get even with some committee which has not done every thing to suit them. Let no man, be he a member of the G. A. R. or not, stay away from Washington encampment week for fear of not getting a comfortable place to sleep and plenty to eat, or of being over charged for such. It will not be advisable to bring ladies without first engaging quarters, because of the difficulty of securing proper sleeping accomodations for them after getting here; but thousands of rooms, in private dwellings, are still on the books of the committee and can be secured by mail or telegraph at moderate prices. The citizens of Washington have contributed more money to this encampment than was ever before contributed by the citizens of any other city for a similar purpose, and they wish it understood that a warm welcome and proper treatment awaits all who will attend.

Secretary Charles Foster has gone to New York to meet his wife and Miss Rusk, "Uncle Jerry's" daughter, who are on one of the European steamers due in that city this week. If the vessel they are on fails under the new quarantine regulations the presence of the Secretary's family will not prevent its being detained at the quarantine station just as the other vessels are. Officials here do not anticipate any trouble with the Health Officer at New York over the President's quarantine proclamation.

Judge Crounse has resigned his position as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, and will this week go to Nebraska to start his campaign for Governor of that State. H.

Don't be Frightened.

It is reassuring to know that Secretary Foster, of the Treasury Department, who is in this city making a study of the cholera situation, is of the opinion that exaggerated fear of cholera is unwarranted. He recalls the summer of 1887, when there was more cholera in this port than now, and many deaths, yet the pestilence was averted from the land.

Encouraging, too, is the opinion of Ex-Surgeon-General Hamilton that the act of March 27, 1890, gives the authorities at Washington very complowers in such an emergency as this. It provides that "Whenever it shall be made to appear satisfactory to the President" that cholera or other pestilence shall be rampant, he is authorized to cause the Secretary of the Treasury to promulgate such rules and regulations as may be necessary to prevent the spread of the disease."

The people, in the event of a clash between the local authorities and the government as to jurisdiction in quarantine matters, will rejoice that the latter has supreme authority, and may be assured the government will exercise it. As Dr. Hamilton himself drew the act referred to, he may be assumed to know what powers its provisions were designed to confer.—Mail and Express.

Important Typewriter Decision.

Judge Lacombe, sitting in the U. S. Circuit Court, has, on the motion of the Remington Typewriter Company, granted an injunction against the agents of the Franklin, restraining the sale of that machine on account of infringement of Remington patents. The decision is an important one, as it proves the control of the fundamental patents, and may affect other makers of typewriters. The Remington people have heretofore been quite passive, but it is stated on good authority that they are now likely to proceed against all other typewriter manufacturing companies. In some cases purchasers of machines which infringe Remington patents may also be proceeded against for infringement.—N. Y. Tribune. tf

☞ The Sitting on Monday, October 17th, will be only for revision and for hearing applications for reinstatement—by persons whose names have been stricken off.

EASTON DISTRICT.

The Officer of Registration for the First Election District will sit at the Court House for the FIRST and SECOND PRECINCTS of said district on Monday and Tuesday, September 19th and 20th; and on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 3rd, 4th and 5th; and also at the same place on Monday, October 17th, for revision and hearing applications for reinstatement.
